On October 20, 2014, Cleco Corporation posted the following fact sheets on its external website.

Cleco: Preserving our heritage and securing our future

For nearly 80 years, Cleco has grown and adapted with the electric utility industry. Its proposed acquisition by a North American investor group led by Macquarie Infrastructure and Real Assets (MIRA) and British Columbia Investment Management Corporation (bcIMC) together with John Hancock Financial and other infrastructure investors will continue Cleco's growth into the future.

With this transaction, Cleco's current investors will receive an exceptional value for their shares to top off a superior total shareholder return over the past few years, while Cleco's customers and employees can expect the company to retain its strong commitment to service and reliability. The transaction is subject to approval by Cleco shareholders, as well as state and federal regulators.

Why is this transaction good for Louisiana?

Cleco has proudly served residents and businesses in Louisiana for nearly 80 years, and the company's commitment to its communities is as strong as ever. This transaction enables Cleco to partner with a group of experienced, long-term infrastructure investors who understand and are committed to preserving Cleco's Louisiana heritage, while also supporting the company's continued growth and success.

Following the close of the transaction, Cleco will remain a Louisiana utility. It will continue to operate as a stand-alone company with its headquarters and customer call center in Pineville, and it will maintain locally based operations and support functions. Cleco will be managed locally and will have Louisiana residents on its board of directors as we have had in the past. The agreement provides for at least four directors from Louisiana including the chair. The local focus of Cleco's operations and leadership will help preserve Cleco's strong culture.

Cleco employs approximately 1,200 people and has many retirees who continue to live locally. Following the close of the transaction, Cleco is committed to maintaining current staffing levels, with employee salaries and benefits remaining substantially consistent with or better than current levels, in the aggregate, across the company for two years. In addition, there will be no material changes to Cleco's pension plan, pension plan design, or to current benefits for retiree medical plan participants for two years.

Further, following the close of the transaction, Cleco will retain its current level of economic development support for state and local agencies, and annual charitable contributions in the future are expected to meet or exceed current levels.

Why is this transaction good for Cleco's customers?

This transaction enables Cleco to partner with a group of investors who understand and are committed to Cleco's strategy as a safe, reliable, competitively priced electricity provider positioned to meet its customers' long-term power needs.

The transaction will not affect residential or commercial rates for electricity.

Customers will continue to receive reliable power and responsive customer service from the same experienced Cleco workers who have assisted them in the past. Cleco Power's existing customer service office locations and service centers will continue to provide customers with prompt responses to billing, installation and service matters. In addition, following the close of the transaction, Cleco will remain independently operated by local management, and Cleco is committed to maintaining current staffing levels. Customers can continue to count on the same people they know and trust.

Cleco expects the ownership transition from public to private company to be completely seamless from the point of view of its customers. The company will continue to operate under the “Cleco” brand and name.

Why is this transaction good for employees and retirees?

Cleco’s new owners understand the relationship between Cleco and its employees, retirees, and communities. They believe in the company’s long-term strategy and are committed to helping Cleco achieve continued growth.

As part of the transaction, the new owner group has made broad commitments to preserve employment levels, employee pay and benefits levels, and retiree benefits.

Specifically, the new owner group has committed to maintain employee headcount, salaries and benefits substantially consistent with or better than current levels, in the aggregate, across the company for two years. Furthermore, there will be no material changes to Cleco’s pension plan, pension plan design, or to current benefits for retiree medical plan participants for two years.

The new owners are also committed to preserving Cleco’s Louisiana heritage, with local management and local operations. For example, in addition to maintaining current employment levels, Cleco will be managed locally and will have Louisiana residents on its board of directors as we have had in the past. The agreement provides for at least four directors from Louisiana including the chair. Further, Cleco will remain a Louisiana utility, will continue to operate as a stand-alone company, and its headquarters will remain in Pineville. Cleco will also maintain its customer service and support functions in Louisiana, including its call center in Pineville as well as management of generation operations, distribution, transmission and storm restoration.

Why is this transaction good for communities?

The company will continue to invest corporate resources and employee volunteer hours to help strengthen its communities. As a part of its public service effort, following the close of the transaction, Cleco will establish a charitable foundation that will support community-based programs, consistent with Cleco’s current practices. Annual charitable contributions from the new Cleco foundation will meet or exceed current charitable contributions. Current levels of funding will also be maintained for state and local economic development organizations. By supporting educational programs, health and wellness initiatives, youth organizations and other charitable organizations, Cleco is helping to improve the state, cities, towns and communities it serves.

Forward-Looking Statements

Statements in this communication include “forward-looking statements” about future events, circumstances and results within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, both as amended by the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. All statements other than statements of historical fact included in this press release, including, without limitation, statements containing the words “may,” “might,” “will,” “should,” “could,” “anticipate,” “estimate,” “expect,” “predict,” “project,” “future”, “potential,” “intend,” “seek to,” “plan,” “assume,” “believe,” “goal,” “objective,” “continue” or the negative of such terms or other variations thereof and similar expressions, are statements that could be deemed forward-looking statements. These statements are based on the current expectations of Cleco’s management.

Although Cleco believes that the expectations reflected in such forward-looking statements are reasonable, such forward-looking statements are based on numerous assumptions (some of which may prove to be incorrect) and are subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause the actual results and events in future periods to differ materially from Cleco’s expectations and those expressed or implied by these forward-looking statements because of a number of risks, uncertainties and other factors. Risks, uncertainties and other factors include, but are not limited to: (i) the occurrence of any event, change or other circumstances that could give rise to the termination of the merger agreement; or could otherwise cause the failure of the merger to close, including the failure to obtain shareholder approval for the proposed merger; (ii) the failure to obtain regulatory approvals required for the merger, or required regulatory approvals delaying the merger or causing the parties to abandon the merger; (iii) the failure to obtain any financing necessary to complete the merger; (iv) risks related to disruption of management's attention from Cleco's ongoing business operations due to the transaction; (v) the outcome of any legal proceedings, regulatory proceedings or enforcement matters that may be instituted against Cleco and others relating to the merger agreement; (vi) the risk that the pendency of the proposed merger disrupts current plans and operations and the potential difficulties in employee retention as a result of the pendency of the proposed merger; (vii) the fact that actual or expected credit ratings of Cleco or any of its affiliates, or otherwise relating to the merger, may be different from what the parties expect; (viii) the effect of the announcement of the proposed merger on Cleco's relationships with its customers, operating results and business generally; (ix) the amount of the costs, fees, expenses and charges related to the proposed merger; (x) the receipt of an unsolicited offer from another party to acquire assets or capital stock of Cleco that could interfere with the proposed merger; (xi) future regulatory or legislative actions that could adversely affect Cleco; and (xii) other economic, business and/or competitive factors. Other unknown or unpredictable factors could also have material adverse effects on future results, performance or achievements of Cleco. Therefore, forward-looking statements are not guarantees or assurances of future performance, and actual results could differ materially from those indicated by the forward-looking statements. Given these risks and uncertainties, investors should not place undue reliance on any forward-looking statements.

Additional factors that may cause results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements are set forth in Cleco's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2013, which was filed with the SEC on February 25, 2014, under the headings Part I, Item 1A, "Risk Factors" and Part II, Item 7, "Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations," and in subsequently filed Forms 10-Q and 8-K. All subsequent written and oral forward-looking statements attributable to Cleco or persons acting on its behalf are expressly qualified in their entirety by the factors identified above. The forward-looking statements represent Cleco's views as of the date on which such statements were made and Cleco undertakes no obligation to update any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of changes in actual results, change in assumptions, or other factors affecting such statements.
