VODAFONE INDIA SECURES SPECTRUM TO ENHANCE MOBILE SERVICES FOR CUSTOMERS

Vodafone India has been awarded spectrum licences in 14 telecom circles in the Indian government's 1800 MHz spectrum auction, enabling the company to provide customers with enhanced mobile services across the country, including in rural areas.

Vodafone India bid successfully for 2.5MHz of spectrum in Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh West, Haryana, Orissa, North East, Bihar, Jammu & Kashmir, Assam and West Bengal and 1.25MHz in Punjab, Himachal Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh East, Maharashtra and Kerala. Vodafone's total bid in the auction was £138million (INR11.28bn<sup>1</sup>). The spectrum secured is available for use immediately.

Vodafone's decision to participate in the 2G auction was to secure additional spectrum in circles where it has not received new 2G spectrum since 2008. Since then, Vodafone's customer base in India has grown from 60 million to over 150 million today. The additional spectrum and continued network investments will enable Vodafone India to build on its success in delivering superior mobile services to its customers throughout India.

VODAFONE IRELAND SECURES SPECTRUM TO DELIVER ENHANCED SERVICES FOR CUSTOMERS

Vodafone Ireland has secured a significant amount of spectrum in the Irish government's auction, enabling the company to provide its customers with enhanced mobile internet services across the country.

The spectrum award will support Vodafone Ireland's plans to develop the next generation of wireless data services, known as Long Term Evolution (LTE) technology. LTE transforms the customer experience of the mobile internet, offering high-speed data access and rich multimedia services.

Vodafone Ireland acquired 2x10MHz in the 800MHz band, 2x10MHz in the 900MHz band, and 2x15 MHz in the 1800MHz band valid from 2013 until 2015. Vodafone Ireland also acquired 2x10MHz in the 800MHz band, 2x10MHz in the 900MHz band, and 2x25MHz in the 1800MHz band valid from 2015 until 2030. The total amount paid is 160.85million.

VODAFONE AND THE LONDON BUSINESS SCHOOL BRING MOBILE FOR GOOD SUMMIT TO TANKS, TATE MODERN

The Mobile for Good Summit will be held in London on 10 December, 2012, hosted by Vittorio Colao, CEO of Vodafone Group, and Sir Andrew Likierman, Dean of London Business School.

The event will focus on the transformational impact mobile technology is having on global health, education, agriculture, financial services and the lives of women. The Summit is being funded by the Vodafone Foundation as part of its Mobile for Good programme.

Speakers will include Justine Greening MP, Secretary of State for International Development; Professor Jeffrey Sachs, Director of The Earth Institute at Columbia University; Cherie Blair, Founder, the Cherie Blair Foundation for Women; Dr Mike Lynch, founder of Autonomy; Yafang Sun, Chairwoman of the Board, Huawei; Sir Andrew Witty, CEO of GlaxoSmithKline; Professor Dean Karlan, Professor of Economics at Yale University; Dame Helen Alexander, Chairman, UBM plc; Justin Forsyth, CEO of Save the Children; Lord Mark Malloch-Brown, formerly Minister of State in the Foreign Office and a former Deputy Secretary-General and Chief of Staff at the UN; Sir Mark Walport, Director of the Wellcome Trust; and Seth Berkley, CEO of GAVI Alliance. The event will be chaired by Becky Anderson, the anchor of CNN International's flagship news programme Connect the World.

The Mobile for Good Summit will be a platform for announcing new research and partnerships, showcasing innovative solutions using mobile technology and discussing how businesses, NGOs and governments across the world can work together to implement high impact solutions at scale for public benefit.

Event partners include Editorial Intelligence and CNN International.

Vittorio Colao, CEO of Vodafone Group, said: Mobiles are radically improving lives in emerging and developed countries. This is one of the most transformative technologies in human history, leading people in emerging markets out of poverty and changing the way businesses operate everywhere.

Sir Andrew Likierman, Dean, London Business School, said: Over the last three decades, mobile telephony has emerged from being technologically possible to globally used in countless previously unimagined ways. The impact of mobile telephony has been far reaching. It touches how we communicate, how we work, how we receive information and how we manage our lives.

Edgar Filing: VODAFONE GROUP PUBLIC LTD CO - Form 6-K

At London Business School, our vision is to have a profound impact on the way the world does business and, to that end, we've been exploring what it is that inhibits and enables entrepreneurial projects in this field to evolve from pilot to scale. We're excited to be part of the discussion around this area and very much looking forward to the Summit in December.

Note to Editors

Vodafone Group and the Vodafone Foundation are involved in numerous initiatives aimed at improving lives, including the following:

- In February 2011, the Vodafone Egypt Foundation launched the Illiteracy Eradication Initiative with the aim of helping millions of illiterate adults in Egypt learn to read and write. The aim was to help eradicate adult illiteracy in Egypt within five years and the project was launched in association with UNESCO. The Vodafone Egypt Foundation developed and launched a smartphone application to help users learn how to read and write in Arabic. The application aids learning through a talkback function and picture associated learning. Sixty thousand people have graduated and 100,000 people have enrolled in the programme.
- Every year, an estimated 3,000 women in Tanzania are left without treatment for obstetric fistula. When a frontline health worker in a rural village refers a patient to a specialist hospital, money is sent from the hospital to the local doctor using Vodafone's M-Pesa mobile text payment system. The doctor books the treatment and arranges travel for the patient.
- The TecSOS handset is an innovative mobile phone designed for use by women at risk of domestic violence. Developed by the Vodafone Spain Foundation in collaboration with the Spanish Red Cross and the TecSOS Foundation, the handset enables a user to push a central button and activate immediate contact with the emergency services, providing instant details of location and enabling an immediate recording of all activity in the immediate vicinity of the handset. The handsets have been used by 20,543 women in 5 European countries.

- In 2009, the Vodafone Foundation announced an agreement with the Rockefeller Foundation and the United Nations Foundation to form the Mobile Health Alliance. The mHealth Alliance seeks to encourage the development of healthcare solutions that utilise mobile technology.
- In Kenya, mobile money transfer service M-Pesa is helping farmers access low cost insurance against crop failure. The Kilimo Salama partnership between the Syngenta Sustainable Agriculture Foundation and UAP Insurance provided 22,000 farmers with micro-insurance in 2011, this service helped farmers protect their investment in seeds, fertilisers and chemicals against crop failure due to drought.
- In Turkey, Vodafone Farmers Club offers special rates and a range of information services to farmers in Turkey using mobile technology. The service improves farming incomes, as well as increasing efficiency and sustainability. Vodafone launched this initiative with the Turkish Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs.

SAFARICOM LAUNCHES M-SHWARI OFFERING INTEREST AND LOANS ON M-PESA

From today, M-Pesa customers in Kenya will have access to interest bearing saving accounts and have the ability to take out small loans through a new service, called M-Shwari. This is the next step in the M-Pesa story of increasing further access to a wider range of financial services and is the result of a new strategic cooperation between Vodafone, Safaricom and the Commercial Bank of Africa (CBA).

Safaricom customers can sign up to the M-Shwari interest bearing savings account, provided by CBA, directly through the M-Pesa menu on their phone. There are no forms to complete and no need to visit a bank branch. M-Pesa customers can also apply to CBA for a mini-loan, again directly from their phone. Based on the individual customer's M-Pesa transactions and savings history, CBA determines the customer's eligibility. The loan money is sent by CBA to the customer's M-Pesa account immediately, again emphasising the convenience and simplicity of M-Shwari.

Working alongside Safaricom and CBA, Vodafone has provided the functionality of M-Shwari and designed the best user experience.

Michael Joseph, Director for M-Pesa within Vodafone Group, says: M-Shwari is a transformational service: saving is no longer the privilege of an elite; all Kenyans can now save, even the smallest amounts and at their own pace. M-Shwari creates a safe environment for customers to borrow small amounts and links the amounts of credit available to the ability to save. Through their M-Shwari savings account, M-Pesa customers are empowered to manage their financial lives .

He adds: Working with CBA meant having access to banking expertise in savings and loans and allowing M-Pesa customers to earn interest from their savings. This is an important step forward for millions of M-Pesa customers in Kenya.

M-Shwari is a truly mobile proposition, which leverages the power of mobile communications to provide simple and valuable access to banking services. Michael Joseph explains: Based on our experience in Kenya, we will look to take this innovation to other markets .

GROUP ENTERPRISE ORGANISATION ANNOUNCEMENT AND CABLE & WIRELESS WORLDWIDE INTEGRATION UPDATE

Vodafone Group Plc ( Vodafone ) today announces the creation of a new Group Enterprise unit, effective from 1 January 2013. Nick Jeffery, currently CEO of Cable & Wireless Worldwide ( CWW ), will be appointed Group Enterprise Director responsible for the new unit, and will report to Vittorio Colao, Group CEO. The new unit will have four vertical teams reporting into Nick as follows:

Vodafone Global Enterprise

Vodafone Carrier Services

Machine-to-Machine solutions

Hosting and Cloud Services

The above teams will be full worldwide business units with presence in 50 countries. In addition, these teams will be supported by dedicated Enterprise Channels and Sales Operations, as well as Enterprise Products and Marketing teams to provide standardised processes, tools, platforms and products across the Enterprise unit.

Following our acquisition of CWW in July 2012, it has become clear that there is strong customer demand for combined products and services. To realise this growth opportunity, we have decided to accelerate the CWW integration process ahead of our original schedule.

As a consequence of this acceleration, from 1 January 2013 we will start the merger process of the following activities:

CWW s UK-based enterprise businesses with Vodafone s UK-based enterprise businesses

CWW s international businesses, Carrier Services, Hosting and Cloud Services, and product activity with our newly created Group Enterprise unit

CWW s Customer Service with Vodafone UK s Customer Operations

CWW's Finance, Human Resources, and Legal and Regulatory activity with those of Vodafone UK

CWW Technology with Group Technology

The creation of a Group Enterprise unit and acceleration of CWW's integration will allow us to build on our strength in the Enterprise segment. As announced in September 2012, we expect to incur cumulative integration costs of approximately £500 million by March 2016. This is expected to deliver cash flow synergies of £150 million to £200 million per annum by March 2016, resulting in operating free cash flow for the Group in that year of £250 million to £300 million from the acquisition.
