Petrobras announces agreement with Halliburton on Barracuda-Caratinga Project

(Rio de Janeiro, April 19, 2004). - PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A - PETROBRAS, [Bovespa: PETR3/PETR4, NYSE: PBR/PBRA, Latibex: XPBR/XPBRA], a Brazilian international energy company, announces that it has reached a preliminary and non-binding agreement (the Agreement) with Halliburton and its KBR subsidiary that will resolve the pending issues between them regarding the Barracuda and Caratinga project (the Project).

As announced on June 20, 2003, and subsequently signed on October 31, 2003, after all necessary approvals had been obtained, Petrobras, on behalf of the special purpose company, created to develop the Project - Barracuda and Caratinga Leasing Company BV (BCLC) - entered into an amendment to the existing construction contracts that partially solved the pending issues between itself, BCLC, Halliburton and its KBR subsidiary (the Parties) and directed that those not settled to be solved under arbitration according to the United Nations Commission on International Trade Law (UNCITRAL) rules.

After further extensive negotiations, the Parties have reached the Agreement with the purpose of solving all still remaining outstanding issues. The terms and conditions of the Agreement are subject to the project lenders approval and final agreement. Negotiations amongst all parties are already under way, aiming to amend existing documents in the coming months.

The Agreement covers compensation for KBR, for some additional work, and sets new milestones and liquidated damages, aiming at creating the best and most certain conditions for the conclusion of the works to allow the vessels to sail-away on August 1, 2004 (Barracuda) and September 28, 2004 (Caratinga), so that the first oils may flow by Oct 10/2004 and December 6, 2004 for Barracuda and Caratinga, respectively.

Both production units are already in Brazil being converted at the Mauá-Jurong Shipyard in Niteroi (P-43) and at the BrasFELS Shipyard in Angra dos Reis (P-48), and are in an advanced stage of completion (approximately 90%).

Successful implementation of the Agreement will mean that the anticipated arbitration for solving the pending issues will no longer be required. Nevertheless if the Agreement for any reason cannot be implemented, the arbitration procedures will have to take place. In this case Petrobras understands it will be a long process until final resolution is achieved of all pending issues, but is strongly confident in its arguments to defend its interests.
