Item 7.01 Regulation FD Disclosure

On February 5, 2008, Collectors Universe, Inc. reported that on February 1, 2008 the Appellate Court issued its second decision in the William Miller case - after considering Miller's petition for rehearing - again ruling that, contrary to Miller's assertions, he is not entitled to statutory damages of $10.5 million.

As previously reported, Miller argued that he was entitled, under California law, to statutorily prescribed damages of $750 for each alleged use of his name made by Collectors Universe without his consent and that, since Miller claims that his name appeared on 14,060 authentication certificates issued by Collectors Universe, he was entitled to statutory damages of $750.00 times 14,060, or approximately $10.5 million in total. The Appellate Court ruled, instead, that the use of his name constituted, at most, a single violation of the statute in question and, therefore, Miller is not entitled to multiply $750.00 by the number of times his name was used. The Appellate Court also ruled that Miller has the right to seek a retrial - in which he may attempt to prove that Collectors Universe violated the statute at issue or common law, and if so, how, if at all, he was damaged by Collectors Universe - but that in any such retrial he cannot seek to multiply $750.00 by the number of times, if any, that Collectors Universe used his name without his consent. The Company cannot predict whether Miller will pursue a new trial.

The Appellate Court's decision becomes final in 30 days. During that period, Miller could petition the Appellate Court to reconsider its decision. At the end of the 30-day period, Miller will have a period of 10 days within which to file a petition for review by the California Supreme Court.

In accordance with General Instruction B . 2 of Form 8-K, the information in this Current Report, including Exhibit 99.1 hereto, is being furnished and shall not be deemed "filed" for purposes of Section 18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, or otherwise subject to the liabilities of that Section, nor shall such information be deemed incorporated by reference in any filing under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.
