Other Events

On February 1, 2010, Applied Energetics, Inc. (the “Registrant”) received notice that NewOak Capital Markets LLC (“NewOak”), formerly known as J. Giordano Securities LLC, the placement agent for the Registrant’s October 2005 private placement of preferred stock, had commenced an arbitration proceeding against the Registrant with Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (“FINRA”). NewOak alleges that the Registrant made material misrepresentations between May 2005 and May 10, 2006 concerning the status of its products.

The Registrant previously settled class action and derivative lawsuits relating to the alleged misrepresentations. NewOak, however, opted out of the class action and alleges that the alleged misrepresentations constituted breaches of its agreement with the Registrant and that the Registrant breached warranties it made to NewOak in connection with the 2005 private placement. NewOak seeks indemnification and recovery for alleged breach of contract, unjust enrichment, quantum meruit, fraudulent misrepresentation, tortious interference with prospective economic relations and violation of Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act and Rule 10b-5 promulgated thereunder, and seeks an award of monetary damages in excess of $10 million, plus punitive damages and attorney’s fees and costs.

The Registrant intends to defend itself vigorously in any arbitration or legal proceedings and believes it has substantial defenses to the claims.
