GlaxoSmithKline confirms Pronova BioPharma reaches agreement with Apotex regarding Lovaza™ U.S. patent litigation

Litigation continues between Pronova BioPharma and two other generic challengers

GlaxoSmithKline (GSK), which has the marketing rights for LOVAZA in the US and Puerto Rico, confirmed today that Pronova BioPharma Norge AS, which owns the patents for LOVAZA, has entered into an agreement with Apotex Corp. and Apotex Inc. (collectively "Apotex"), to settle their patent litigation in the United States related to LOVAZA.

The settlement grants Apotex a license to enter the US market with a generic version of LOVAZA in the first quarter of 2015, or earlier depending on certain circumstances. Other terms of the settlement are confidential.

Pronova BioPharma is currently still involved in lawsuits with Teva Pharmaceuticals USA, Inc., and Par Pharmaceutical, Inc., regarding its patents relating to LOVAZA.

In 2010, GSK reported LOVAZA turnover of £530 million ($822 million). All GSK sales of LOVAZA were generated in the US and Puerto Rico.
