Barclays announces the sale of its Russian retail and commercial banking operations

Barclays Bank PLC ('Barclays') announces the sale of Barclays Bank LLC to investors including Igor Kim, one of Russia's leading bankers. The transaction follows Barclays announcement on 15 February 2011 of its intention to sell Barclays retail and commercial banking operations in Russia.

Barclays Capital will continue to operate in Russia through its existing broker dealer subsidiary Barclays Capital LLC. Barclays Wealth, the private wealth management division of Barclays, will continue to offer offshore wealth management services to individuals in Russia.

Barclays Bank LLC had gross assets of £513m as at 30 September 2011. The transaction is not expected to have a material impact on Barclays earnings per share or capital ratios.

Under the terms of the sale, the purchasers will have the right to continue to use the Barclays name in connection with the acquired business for a transitional period of up to nine months.
