Toyota Motor Corporation

Offer to Exchange Shares of Common Stock of Daihatsu Motor Co., Ltd. for Shares of Common Stock of Toyota Motor Corporation

The boards of directors of Toyota Motor Corporation, or Toyota, and Daihatsu Motor Co., Ltd., or Daihatsu, have agreed to a statutory share exchange (kabushiki kokan) between the two companies under the Companies Act of Japan. On January 29, 2016, Toyota and Daihatsu entered into a share exchange agreement that sets forth the share exchange ratio and the other terms of the share exchange. In the share exchange, each shareholder of Daihatsu will receive 0.26 shares of Toyota common stock for each share of Daihatsu common stock that such shareholder holds.

Based on the number of shares of Daihatsu common stock issued as of March 31, 2016, Toyota expects to allocate _____ shares of its common stock in connection with the share exchange. Approximately _____ % of those shares will be offered to holders of Daihatsu common stock who are resident in the United States. Shares of Toyota common stock that will be used in the share exchange are currently expected to consist of treasury stock of Toyota.

The share exchange is subject to the approval of the share exchange agreement by the shareholders of Daihatsu. See The Share Exchange for a further discussion of the terms and conditions of the share exchange. Under the current schedule, if the shareholders of Daihatsu approve the share exchange agreement, unless the share exchange agreement otherwise ceases to have effect, which is expected only under certain specified circumstances, the share exchange is expected to become effective on August 1, 2016.

This document has been prepared for the holders of Daihatsu common stock who are resident in the United States to provide them with detailed information of the share exchange and the shares of Toyota common stock to be delivered in connection with the share exchange. You are encouraged to read this prospectus in its entirety.

The annual general meeting of shareholders of Daihatsu, at which holders of Daihatsu common stock will vote on the share exchange agreement, is currently scheduled to be held on _____, 2016 at _____, in _____. Holders of Daihatsu common stock of record as of the close of business on March 31, 2016 will be entitled to vote at this meeting. To attend and vote at the annual general meeting of shareholders, Daihatsu shareholders must follow the procedures outlined in the convocation notice and the mail-in voting card and other voting and reference materials that will be distributed by Daihatsu.

Shares of Toyota common stock are traded on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, the Nagoya Stock Exchange and two other regional stock exchanges in Japan and on the London Stock Exchange. Toyota's American Depositary Shares, or ADSs, each representing two shares of Toyota common stock, are listed on the New York Stock Exchange, or NYSE, under the ticker symbol TM. On February 4, 2016, the last reported sale price of shares of Toyota common stock on the Tokyo Stock Exchange was ¥6,752 per share, and the last reported sale price of the ADSs on the NYSE was $114.29 per ADS.

CAUTIONARY STATEMENT CONCERNING FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

This prospectus and documents incorporated by reference contain forward-looking statements. The U.S. Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 provides a safe harbor for forward-looking information to encourage companies to provide prospective information about themselves without fear of litigation so long as the information is identified as forward-looking and is accompanied by meaningful cautionary statements identifying important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those projected in the information.

Forward-looking statements appear in a number of places in this prospectus and include statements regarding the current intent, belief, targets or expectations of Toyota and Daihatsu or those of their respective management. In many, but not all, cases, words such as aim, anticipate, believe, estimate, expect, hope, intend, may, probability, risk, should, will, would, and similar expressions, are used as they relate to Toyota and Daihatsu or their respective management, to identify forward-looking statements. These statements reflect the current views of Toyota and Daihatsu or their respective management with respect to future events and are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions. Should one or more of these risks or uncertainties materialize or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, actual results may vary materially from those which are anticipated, aimed at, believed, estimated, expected, intended or planned.

Forward-looking statements are not guarantees of future performance and involve risks and uncertainties. Actual results may differ from those in forward-looking statements as a result of various factors. Important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from estimates or forecasts contained in the forward-looking statements are identified in Risk Factors and elsewhere in this prospectus, and include, among others:

- (i) changes in economic conditions, market demand, and the competitive environment affecting the automotive markets in Japan, North America, Europe, Asia and other markets in which Toyota operates;
- (ii) fluctuations in currency exchange rates, particularly with respect to the value of the Japanese yen, the U.S. dollar, the euro, the Australian dollar, the Russian ruble, the Canadian dollar and the British pound, and interest rates fluctuations;
- (iii) changes in funding environment in financial markets and increased competition in the financial services industry;
- (iv) Toyota's ability to market and distribute effectively;
- (v) Toyota's ability to realize production efficiencies and to implement capital expenditures at the levels and times planned by management;
- (vi) changes in the laws, regulations and government policies in the markets in which Toyota operates that affect Toyota's automotive operations, particularly laws, regulations and government policies relating to vehicle safety including remedial measures such as recalls, trade, environmental protection, vehicle emissions and vehicle fuel economy, as well as changes in laws, regulations and government policies that affect Toyota's other operations, including the outcome of current and future litigation and other legal proceedings, government proceedings and investigations;
- (xii) the parties being unable to complete the proposed share exchange due to failure to obtain the necessary shareholder approval or any governmental approval for the proposed transactions or for other reasons; and
- (xiii) difficulties in realizing the anticipated benefits of the share exchange.

Table of Contents

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE SHARE EXCHANGE

Q. What are Toyota and Daihatsu proposing?

- A. Toyota and Daihatsu are proposing to conduct a statutory share exchange (kabushiki kokan) under the Companies Act of Japan, or the Companies Act, pursuant to which shareholders of Daihatsu will become shareholders of Toyota, and Daihatsu will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

Q. Why are Toyota and Daihatsu proposing the share exchange?

- A. The boards of directors of Toyota and Daihatsu have agreed to the share exchange in order to promote Daihatsu to a more active and substantial role in the development and manufacturing of light and compact vehicles within the Toyota group and to streamline certain decision-making within the Toyota group. If the share exchange is approved by Daihatsu's shareholders, Daihatsu would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

Following the share exchange, Daihatsu's role within the Toyota group will change substantially from the one in which it mainly operates its own business while also supporting Toyota's compact car business to a leading role in which it will play a principal part in the light vehicle and compact car business of the entire Toyota group. The share exchange is expected to enable Daihatsu to become the core of the Toyota group's management strategy for compact vehicles and will enable the Toyota group to streamline its business structure. As a result, even as Toyota and Daihatsu will continue to maintain their management independence in order to maximize their own strength, the share exchange will strengthen the alliance of shared values, visions and strategies between the two companies, which will result in the increase in corporate values of both companies.

Specifically, the share exchange will enable the Toyota group to clearly demarcate the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand. Currently, product, technology and business strategies are being developed separately for the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand, which has raised issues in the compact vehicle business within the Toyota group in areas such as offering product lineups that satisfy diversified customer needs, speedy business development and brand management. Following the share exchange, Toyota and Daihatsu will be able to mutually utilize the two companies' strengths and drastically reduce cost as a group, as well as to plan and implement comprehensive strategies to facilitate the two companies' technological combination and joint development of next-generation technologies in the areas of compact car technology, electrified units, weight reduction, automated driving, infrastructures for EVs (Electronic Vehicles) and FCVs (Fuel Cell Vehicle), connected car technology and integrated control. The share exchange will enable Toyota and Daihatsu to globally enhance product lineups under a global brand strategy, but they will differentiate their own brand by making the most of the distinctiveness of both the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand in order to offer attractive and globally-competitive products that satisfy diverse customer needs.

Q. What will Daihatsu shareholders receive in the share exchange?

- A. Daihatsu shareholders as of the time immediately preceding the share exchange will receive 0.26 shares of Toyota common stock for each share of Daihatsu common stock which they hold. Holders of Daihatsu common stock who have duly exercised their dissenters' appraisal rights will not receive shares of Toyota common stock for shares of Daihatsu common stock.

Q. How did Toyota and Daihatsu determine the share exchange ratio?

- A. Toyota and Daihatsu conducted thorough negotiations and discussions on the share exchange ratio, each taking into account the results of its due diligence on the other, the analyses of its financial advisor, the financial position, assets and future prospects of each party and other factors. As a result of these negotiations and discussions concerning the share exchange ratio, on January 29, 2016, the board of directors of Daihatsu determined that the share exchange ratio is fair to the non-controlling shareholders of Daihatsu, and Toyota and Daihatsu agreed upon the share exchange ratio on the same day.

Table of Contents

Q. Does the board of directors of Daihatsu recommend the share exchange?

A. Yes. The board of directors of Daihatsu (except for three members who did not attend the meeting in order to avoid possible conflicts of interest) unanimously recommends that shareholders vote for the share exchange.

Q. What are the interests of Toyota and directors and executive officers of Daihatsu in the share exchange?

A. As of March 31, 2016, Toyota held % of the outstanding shares of Daihatsu common stock. Toyota and Daihatsu have a long standing relationship that began in 1967 when Toyota and Daihatsu entered into a business alliance, and Daihatsu has been a consolidated subsidiary of Toyota under U.S. GAAP since 1998. As of March 31, 2016, the directors, executive officers and audit & supervisory board members of Daihatsu owned approximately % of the outstanding shares of Daihatsu common stock. One current director of Daihatsu concurrently serves as a member of the board of directors of Toyota, and a number of other directors and executive officers of Daihatsu have been previously employed by Toyota.

In proposing the share exchange, in order to ensure that the share exchange ratio was determined appropriately and to avoid possible conflicts of interest, Daihatsu retained SMBC Nikko Securities Inc., or SMBC Nikko Securities, as its financial advisor and a third-party valuation institution to provide analyses of the share exchange ratio. SMBC Nikko Securities also delivered a valuation report. Daihatsu also established a third-party committee in order to prevent circumstances in which the share exchange is consummated under terms and conditions that are disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu and referred to the third-party committee the questions of whether: (a) the purpose of the share exchange was reasonable (including whether the share exchange will contribute to the improvement of the corporate value of Daihatsu), (b) the fairness of the terms and conditions (including the share exchange ratio) of the share exchange was ensured, (c) the interests of the minority shareholders of Daihatsu were fully considered in the share exchange through fair procedures, and (d) based on (a), (b) and (c) above, the resolution by the board of directors of Daihatsu to consummate the share exchange would not be disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu. The third-party committee submitted a response to referrals (toshinsho) on January 28, 2016 to the board of directors of Daihatsu to the effect that it can be said that the resolution by the board of directors of Daihatsu to consummate the share exchange is not disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu, on the basis of the explanations, valuation results and other materials it reviewed. Finally, certain of Daihatsu's directors and audit & supervisory members did not participate in the board meeting to approve the share exchange to avoid possible conflicts of interest.

Toyota retained Nomura Securities Co., Ltd., or Nomura, as its financial advisor and a third-party valuation institution to provide analyses of the share exchange ratio which were used in negotiating the share exchange ratio.

Toyota and Daihatsu believe that adequate measures were taken to ensure the fairness and appropriateness of the share exchange. Nonetheless, when you consider the recommendation of the board of directors of Daihatsu, you should keep in mind that Toyota, as the controlling shareholder, and the directors and executive officers of Daihatsu may have interests in the share exchange that are in addition to, or different from, the interests of the non-controlling shareholders of Daihatsu.

See The Share Exchange for a more detailed discussion of the process of determining the share exchange.

Q. What vote of Daihatsu s shareholders is required to approve the share exchange agreement?

- A. The affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the voting rights of Daihatsu present or represented at its annual general meeting of shareholders, at which shareholders holding at least a majority of the total voting rights of Daihatsu are present or represented, is required to approve the share exchange agreement. One hundred (100) shares of Daihatsu common stock constitute one voting right, or unit.

Table of Contents

Q. How will fractional shares be treated in the share exchange?

- A. Daihatsu shareholders will not receive any fractional shares of Toyota common stock in the share exchange. Instead, the shares representing the aggregate of all such fractions (in cases where such aggregated shares include any fractional shares, such fraction will be rounded down) will be sold to Toyota at the market price and the net cash proceeds from the sale will be distributed to the former holders of Daihatsu shares on a proportionate basis in accordance with their respective fractions.

Q. How will shareholders with less than one unit of Toyota shares be treated after the share exchange?

- A. The articles of incorporation of Toyota provide that 100 shares of its common stock constitute one unit, which will have one voting right. If the share exchange is approved, 385 shares of Daihatsu common stock will be exchanged for 100 shares of Toyota common stock, which constitute one unit, as well as cash in lieu of fractional shares. Holders of Daihatsu common stock who hold less than 385 shares will receive less than one unit of Toyota common stock in the share exchange. Holders of less than one unit of shares will be registered in Toyota's register of shareholders, but shares held by a holder constituting less than one unit will not carry voting rights. A holder of shares constituting less than one unit of Toyota shares may request Toyota to purchase those shares at their market value in accordance with the Companies Act, Toyota's articles of incorporation and its share handling regulations.

Q. How do the legal rights of Toyota shares differ from those of Daihatsu shares?

- A. There are no material differences between the legal rights of shareholders of Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock.

Q. When is the share exchange expected to be completed?

- A. The share exchange is expected to be completed on August 1, 2016.

Q. How will trading in Daihatsu shares be affected in connection with the completion of the share exchange?

- A. Daihatsu expects that the last day of trading in its shares on the Tokyo Stock Exchange will be July 26, 2016, four trading days prior to the effective date of the share exchange, and that its shares will be delisted the following day.

Q. Can the number of shares of Toyota common stock for which the shares of Daihatsu common stock are exchanged change between the time of the shareholders' meeting and when the share exchange is completed?

- A. No. The exchange ratio is fixed, and unless the share exchange agreement is amended, it will not change even if the trading prices of either Toyota common stock or Daihatsu common stock change between the time of the shareholders meeting and when the share exchange is completed, which is currently expected on August 1, 2016. See Risk Factors beginning on page 6.

Q. What is the record date for voting at the annual general shareholders meeting of Daihatsu?

- A. Holders of Daihatsu shares as of March 31, 2016 will be eligible to vote at the annual general shareholders meeting expected to be held on _____, 2016.

Table of Contents

Q. How do I vote at the annual general shareholders meeting of Daihatsu?

A. You may exercise voting rights by submitting a mail-in voting card, attending the meeting in person or through another shareholder with voting rights whom you have appointed as your attorney-in-fact or through a standing proxy in the case of shareholders who are non-residents of Japan. Daihatsu will distribute a mail-in voting card and other voting and reference materials to shareholders eligible to vote who are residents of Japan that will enable them to exercise their voting rights. Completed mail-in voting cards must be received by Daihatsu by p.m. (Japan time) one business day prior to the annual general shareholders meeting.

For shareholders eligible to vote who are non-residents of Japan and who have appointed a standing proxy in Japan, Daihatsu will distribute voting and reference materials to their standing proxy in Japan, who may then transmit those materials to the shareholders according to the terms of the respective proxy agreements. For shareholders eligible to vote who are non-residents of Japan and who have purchased shares of Daihatsu through a securities broker located outside of Japan, Daihatsu will distribute voting and reference materials to the broker's standing proxy in Japan, who is expected to transmit those materials according to the terms of the arrangement with the broker. Daihatsu shareholders who are non-residents of Japan are encouraged to contact their standing proxy in Japan, or broker, to obtain the voting and reference materials and confirm the necessary procedures to exercise their voting rights. For shareholders eligible to vote who are non-residents of Japan and who have designated a mailing address in Japan, Daihatsu will send voting and reference materials to that mailing address.

In addition to the exercise of voting rights via the Internet as described above, institutional investors may use the Electronic Voting Platform for Institutional Investors which is operated by ICJ, Inc. to exercise their voting rights at the annual general meeting of shareholders.

Q. How will shares represented at the annual general shareholders meeting by mail-in voting cards be treated?

A. The mail-in voting cards used for the annual general shareholders meeting of Daihatsu will describe the proposals to be voted on by shareholders at the meeting, including the approval of the share exchange agreement. The mail-in voting cards will allow shareholders to indicate his or her approval or disapproval with respect to each proposal. In accordance with Japanese law and practice, Daihatsu intends to count toward the quorum for its shareholders meeting any shares represented by mail-in voting cards that are returned without indicating the approval or disapproval of any of the proposals, and count these mail-in voting cards as votes in favor of the share exchange agreement and other proposals referred to in the mail-in voting cards. Any mail-in voting cards will become void if the shareholder who voted by mail attends the meeting in person or through another shareholder with voting rights whom the shareholder appointed as his or her attorney-in-fact.

Q. May I change my vote after I submit a mail-in voting card?

A. Yes. To change your vote after submitting a mail-in voting card, you must attend the meeting in person, or through another shareholder with voting rights whom you have appointed as your attorney-in-fact or through a standing proxy in the case of shareholders who are non-residents of Japan, or send another mail-in voting card dated a later date than the previous mail-in voting card if Daihatsu redistributes mail-in voting cards. By attending the meeting in person, you automatically revoke your mail-in voting card.

Q. If my shares are held in street name by my broker, will my broker vote them for me without instructions?

- A. Whether your broker will vote your shares without your instructions depends on the terms of the agreement entered into by you and your broker. Therefore, you are encouraged to contact your broker directly to confirm the applicable voting procedure.

Table of Contents

Q. Do I have dissenters appraisal rights in connection with the share exchange?

- A. Under the Companies Act, you are entitled to dissenters appraisal rights in connection with the share exchange if you comply with the procedures set forth in the Companies Act and related laws and regulations and share handling regulations of Daihatsu. Any Daihatsu shareholder (i) who notifies Daihatsu prior to the annual general meeting of shareholders of his or her intention to oppose the share exchange, and who votes against the approval of the share exchange agreement at the shareholders meeting; or (ii) who is not entitled to vote at such annual general meeting of shareholders; and complies with the other relevant procedures set forth in the Companies Act and related laws and regulations and share handling regulations of Daihatsu, may demand that Daihatsu purchase his or her shares of Daihatsu common stock at the fair value. If you vote against the share exchange by submitting a mail-in voting card, such submission will satisfy all requirements mentioned in (i) above. Such demand must be made within the period from the day 20 days prior to the effective date of the share exchange to the day immediately preceding the effective date of the share exchange.

The failure of a Daihatsu shareholder who is entitled to vote at such annual general meeting of shareholders to provide such notice prior to the shareholders meeting or to vote against the approval of the share exchange agreement at the shareholders meeting will in effect constitute a waiver of the shareholder's right to demand that Daihatsu purchase his or her shares of Daihatsu common stock at the fair value.

There are other procedural issues that you may wish to consider when deciding whether to exercise your dissenters appraisal rights. See The Share Exchange Dissenters Appraisal Rights for a more detailed discussion of dissenters appraisal rights. In addition, dissenters appraisal rights for shareholders of a company becoming a wholly-owned subsidiary through a share exchange are set forth in Articles 785 and 786 of the Companies Act. An English translation of these articles is included in this prospectus as Appendix D.

Q. What are the Japanese tax consequences of the share exchange to non-resident holders of Daihatsu shares?

- A. Non-resident holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock will generally not be subject to Japanese taxation with respect to the share exchange, except with respect to cash payments of the sale price from Daihatsu as a result of their exercise of dissenters appraisal rights. See Taxation Japanese Tax Consequences.

Q. What are the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the share exchange to U.S. Holders of Daihatsu shares?

- A. The share exchange has not been structured to achieve a particular treatment for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and Toyota and Daihatsu have no obligation to structure the share exchange in a manner that is tax-free to U.S. Holders. As structured, however, the share exchange is expected to qualify as a tax-deferred reorganization under the provisions of Section 368(a) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, or the Code, but such qualification depends on the resolution of issues and facts that will not be known until the date of the share exchange. Neither Toyota nor Daihatsu has obtained or will obtain a ruling from the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, or the IRS, or an opinion of U.S. counsel that the share exchange will qualify as a reorganization. If the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization, no gain or loss generally will be recognized by a U.S. Holder on the exchange of shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange, except with respect to any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and unless Daihatsu has been a passive foreign investment company, or PFIC, at any time during the holding period of the U.S. Holder. If the share exchange does not qualify as a reorganization, a U.S. Holder that exchanges its shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the sum of (a) the fair market value of the shares of Toyota common stock received and (b) any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and (ii) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged. The Share Exchange

The boards of directors of Toyota and Daihatsu have agreed to a statutory share exchange (kabushiki kokan) under the Companies Act, pursuant to which shares of Daihatsu will be exchanged for shares of Toyota, and Daihatsu will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota. On January 29, 2016, Toyota and Daihatsu entered into a share exchange agreement setting forth the terms of the share exchange.

Table of Contents

As of March 31, 2016, Toyota held _____ % of the outstanding shares of Daihatsu common stock. Upon the share exchange, each shareholder of Daihatsu (excluding Toyota) as of the time immediately preceding the share exchange will receive 0.26 shares of Toyota common stock in exchange for each share of Daihatsu common stock that such shareholder holds. The resulting number of shares of Toyota common stock to which Daihatsu shareholders are entitled will be recorded in Toyota's register of shareholders. The shares representing the aggregate of all fractional shares (in cases where such aggregated shares include any fractional shares, such fraction will be rounded down) will be sold to Toyota at the market price and the net cash proceeds from the sale will be distributed to the former holders of Daihatsu shares on a proportionate basis in accordance with their respective fractions.

The share exchange is subject to the approval of the share exchange agreement by the shareholders of Daihatsu. If the share exchange agreement is approved by the shareholders of Daihatsu, unless the share exchange agreement otherwise ceases to have effect, which is expected only under certain specified circumstances, the share exchange is expected to become effective on August 1, 2016. For a further discussion of the termination of the share exchange agreement, see The Share Exchange Material Terms of the Share Exchange Agreement Modification, Termination and Effectiveness of the Share Exchange Agreement.

The Annual General Shareholders Meeting of Daihatsu

Shareholders' approval of the share exchange agreement and certain related matters will be sought at an annual general meeting of shareholders of Daihatsu. Under Japanese law and the articles of incorporation of Daihatsu, the notice of an annual general meeting of shareholders must be dispatched at least two weeks in advance to all shareholders of record who have voting rights.

The date, time and place of the meeting is expected to be _____, 2016, at _____ (Japan Time), at _____, Japan.

Shareholders may exercise voting rights by submitting a mail-in voting card, attending the meeting in person or through another shareholder with voting rights whom you have appointed as your attorney-in-fact or through a standing proxy in the case of shareholders who are non-residents of Japan. Daihatsu will distribute a mail-in voting card and other voting and reference materials to shareholders eligible to vote who are residents of Japan that will enable them to exercise their voting rights. For shareholders eligible to vote who are non-residents of Japan and who have appointed a standing proxy in Japan, Daihatsu will distribute voting and reference materials to their standing proxy in Japan, who may then transmit those materials to the shareholders according to the terms of the respective proxy agreements. For shareholders eligible to vote who are non-residents of Japan and who have purchased shares of Daihatsu through a securities broker located outside of Japan, Daihatsu will distribute voting and reference materials to the broker's standing proxy in Japan, who is expected to transmit those materials according to the terms of the arrangement with the broker. Daihatsu shareholders who are non-residents of Japan are encouraged to contact their standing proxy in Japan, or broker, to obtain the voting and reference materials and confirm the necessary procedures to exercise their voting rights. For shareholders eligible to vote who are non-residents of Japan and who have designated a mailing address in Japan, Daihatsu will send voting and reference materials to that mailing address. In addition to the exercise of voting rights via the Internet as described above, institutional investors may use the Electronic Voting Platform for Institutional Investors which is operated by ICJ, Inc. to exercise their voting rights at the annual general meeting of shareholders.

The affirmative vote of the holders of at least two-thirds of the voting rights of Daihatsu present or represented at its annual general meeting of shareholders, at which shareholders holding at least a majority of the total voting rights of Daihatsu shareholders who are entitled to exercise their voting rights are present or represented, is required to approve the share exchange agreement. One hundred (100) shares of Daihatsu common stock constitute one voting right, or unit.

Table of Contents

As of March 31, 2016, of the _____ shares of Daihatsu common stock outstanding, the directors, executive officers and audit & supervisory board members of Daihatsu owned an aggregate of _____ shares, representing approximately _____ % of the outstanding shares of Daihatsu common stock. As of March 31, 2016, directors, executive officers and audit & supervisory board members of Toyota owned approximately _____ % of the outstanding shares of Daihatsu common stock.

Reasons for the Share Exchange

The boards of directors of Toyota and Daihatsu have agreed to the share exchange in order to promote Daihatsu to a more active and substantial role in the development and manufacturing of light and compact vehicles within the Toyota group and to streamline certain decision-making within the Toyota group. If the share exchange is approved by Daihatsu's shareholders, Daihatsu would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

Following the share exchange, Daihatsu's role within the Toyota group will change substantially from the one in which it mainly operates its own business while also supporting Toyota's compact car business to a leading role in which it will play a principal part in the light vehicle and compact car business of the entire Toyota group. The share exchange is expected to enable Daihatsu to become the core of the Toyota group's management strategy for compact vehicles and will enable the Toyota group to streamline its business structure. As a result, even as Toyota and Daihatsu will continue to maintain their management independence in order to maximize their own strength, the share exchange will strengthen the alliance of shared values, visions and strategies between the two companies, which will result in the increase in corporate values of both companies.

Specifically, the share exchange will enable the Toyota group to clearly demarcate the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand. Currently, product, technology and business strategies are being developed separately for the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand, which has raised issues in the compact vehicle business within the Toyota group in areas such as offering product lineups that satisfy diversified customer needs, speedy business development and brand management. Following the share exchange, Toyota and Daihatsu will be able to mutually utilize the two companies' strengths and drastically reduce cost as a group, as well as to plan and implement comprehensive strategies to facilitate the two companies' technological combination and joint development of next-generation technologies in the areas of compact car technology, electrified units, weight reduction, automated driving, infrastructures for EVs (Electronic Vehicles) and FCVs (Fuel Cell Vehicle), connected car technology and integrated control. The share exchange will enable Toyota and Daihatsu to globally enhance product lineups under a global brand strategy, but they will differentiate their own brand by making the most of the distinctiveness of both the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand in order to offer attractive and globally-competitive products that satisfy diverse customer needs.

No Solicitation of Proxies, Consents or Authorizations

Daihatsu's management is not soliciting proxies, consents or authorizations with respect to the share exchange prior to the annual general meeting of shareholders.

Termination of the Share Exchange Agreement

The share exchange agreement shall cease to have effect if, among other things, (i) the share exchange agreement is not approved at the annual general meeting of shareholders of Daihatsu, (ii) any of the approvals from the relevant regulatory authorities are not obtained or (iii) due to an act of god or other events, a material change occurs or a material impediment arises in the implementation of the share exchange and the share exchange is canceled or the share exchange agreement is terminated by Toyota and Daihatsu, upon their mutual consultation. See The Share Exchange Material Terms of the Share Exchange Agreement Modification, Termination and Effectiveness of the Share Exchange Agreement for a more detailed discussion of the terms of the share exchange.

Under the Companies Act, the share exchange is not subject to approval at a shareholders' meeting of Toyota, except under limited circumstances.

Toyota and Daihatsu currently do not expect any regulatory requirements, other than the U.S. federal securities laws, that must be complied with or approvals that must be obtained in connection with the share exchange.

Dissenters' Appraisal Rights

Under Japanese law, you may have dissenters' appraisal rights in connection with the share exchange. See The Share Exchange Dissenters' Appraisal Rights for a more detailed discussion of dissenters' appraisal rights.

Material Tax Consequences

Japanese Taxation

Non-resident holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock will generally not be subject to Japanese taxation with respect to the share exchange, except with respect to cash payments of the sale price from Daihatsu as a result of their exercise of dissenters' appraisal rights. See Taxation Japanese Tax Consequences.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences

The share exchange has not been structured to achieve a particular treatment for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and Toyota and Daihatsu have no obligation to structure the share exchange in a manner that is tax-free to U.S. Holders. As structured, however, the share exchange is expected to qualify as a tax-deferred reorganization under the provisions of Section 368(a) of the Code, but such qualification depends on the resolution of issues and facts that will not be known until the date of the share exchange. Neither Toyota nor Daihatsu has obtained or will obtain a ruling from the IRS or an opinion of U.S. counsel that the share exchange will qualify as a reorganization. If the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization, no gain or loss generally will be recognized by a U.S. Holder on the exchange of shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange, except with respect to any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and unless Daihatsu has been a PFIC at any time during the holding period of the U.S. Holder. If the share exchange does not qualify as a reorganization, a U.S. Holder that exchanges its shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the sum of (a) the fair market value of the shares of Toyota common stock received and (b) any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and (ii) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged. See Taxation U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences.

Accounting Treatment of the Share Exchange

The share exchange will be accounted for by Toyota as an equity transaction in accordance with U.S. GAAP. See The Share Exchange Accounting Treatment.

Table of ContentsRISK FACTORS

Prior to making a decision on the share exchange, you should carefully consider the risks described below and the risk factors included in Toyota's annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended March 31, 2015, along with other information presented, or incorporated by reference, in this prospectus. This prospectus also contains forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties. Actual results could differ materially from those anticipated in these forward-looking statements as a result of various factors, including the risks described below and the risk factors included in Toyota's annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended March 31, 2015, incorporated herein by reference. See Cautionary Statement Concerning Forward-Looking Statements.

Risks Relating to the Share Exchange

The exchange ratio for the share exchange is fixed and will not be adjusted to reflect changes in the market values of Toyota and Daihatsu common stock. As a result, the value of Toyota common stock you receive in the share exchange may be less than the value of your shares when you vote on the share exchange

Upon the effectiveness of the share exchange, currently expected to take place on August 1, 2016, each share of Daihatsu common stock will be exchanged for 0.26 shares of Toyota common stock. The ratio at which Daihatsu common stock will be exchanged for Toyota common stock is fixed, and will not be adjusted for changes in the market prices of either company's common stock. Therefore, even if the relative market values of Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock change, there will be no change in the number of shares of Toyota common stock which shareholders of Daihatsu will receive in the share exchange.

Any change in the prices of either company's common stock occurring prior to the effective date of the share exchange will affect the value that holders of Daihatsu common stock receive in the share exchange. The value of Toyota common stock to be received in the share exchange may be higher or lower than the indicative value as of the date of this prospectus and/or as of the date of the annual general meeting of Daihatsu shareholders, depending on the prevailing market prices of Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock.

The share prices of Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock are subject to the general price fluctuations in the market for publicly traded equity securities and have experienced volatility in the past. Stock price changes may result from a variety of factors that are beyond the control of Toyota and Daihatsu, including actual changes in, or investor perception of, Toyota's and Daihatsu's businesses, operations and prospects. Regulatory developments, as well as current or potential legal proceedings, and changes in general market and economic conditions may also affect the stock price of Toyota or Daihatsu.

You should obtain and review recent market quotations for Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock before voting on the share exchange agreement. There can be no assurances as to the future market prices of Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock before the effectiveness of the share exchange, nor as to the market price of Toyota common stock at any time after the effectiveness of the share exchange.

Significant expenses have been and are being incurred in the course of the share exchange

Significant transaction-related expenses have been and are being incurred related to the share exchange in making Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota, which are estimated to be approximately ¥ million. These transaction-related expenses include financial advisory, legal fees and expenses, filing fees, printing expenses and other related charges. In addition, there may be significant costs in compensating dissenting shareholders who exercise their appraisal rights. See The Share Exchange for a more detailed discussion of the share exchange.

Making Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary may not produce the benefits anticipated by Toyota

By making Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary through the share exchange, Toyota aims to promote Daihatsu to a more active and substantial role within the Toyota group in the development and manufacturing of light and compact vehicles and to streamline certain decision-making within the Toyota group. Toyota's ability to realize these anticipated benefits will depend in part on the extent to which the planned share exchange can be successfully implemented. The Toyota group may not be able to fully realize, or it may take longer than expected to realize, the anticipated benefits of the share exchange.

Risks Relating to Owning Toyota Common Stock or ADSsInvestors holding less than a unit of shares will have limited rights as shareholders

Pursuant to the Companies Act and other related legislation, Toyota's articles of incorporation provide that 100 shares of common stock constitute one unit. If the share exchange is approved, 385 shares of Daihatsu common stock will be exchanged for 100 shares of Toyota common stock, which constitute one unit, as well as cash in lieu of fractional shares. The Companies Act imposes significant restrictions and limitations on holdings of shares that do not constitute whole units. In general, holders of shares constituting less than one unit do not have the right to vote or to examine Toyota's accounting books and records. The transferability of shares of Toyota common stock constituting less than one unit is significantly limited. For a more complete description of the unit share system and its effect on the rights of holders of Toyota shares, see Memorandum and Articles of Association Japanese Unit Share System of Toyota's annual report on Form 20-F for the year ended March 31, 2015 incorporated herein by reference.

Because of daily price range limitations under Japanese stock exchange rules, you may not be able to sell your shares at a particular price on any particular trading day, or at all

Stock prices on Japanese stock exchanges are determined on a real-time basis by the equilibrium between bids and offers. These exchanges are order-driven markets without specialists or market makers to guide price formation. To prevent excessive volatility, Japanese stock exchanges set daily upward and downward price range limitations for each stock, based on the previous day's closing price. Although transactions may continue at the upward or downward limit price if the limit price is reached on a particular trading day, no transactions may take place outside the limits. Consequently, an investor wishing to sell at a price above or below the relevant daily limit may not be able to effect a sale at such price on a particular trading day, or at all.

Rights of shareholders under Japanese law may be more limited than under the laws of other jurisdictions

Toyota's corporate affairs are governed in accordance with its articles of incorporation, regulations of board of directors, share handling regulations and the Companies Act. Legal principles relating to Toyota's corporate affairs, including legality of corporate procedures, directors' and officers' fiduciary duties and shareholders' rights may be different from, or less clearly defined than, those that would apply if Toyota were incorporated in another jurisdiction. For example, under the Companies Act, only holders of 3% or more of the total voting rights or total issued shares (excluding treasury stock) are entitled to examine Toyota's accounting books and records. Shareholders' rights under Japanese law may not be as extensive as shareholders' rights under the laws of other countries.

It may not be possible for investors to effect service of process within the United States upon Toyota or its directors, executive officers or audit & supervisory board members, or to enforce against Toyota or those persons judgments obtained in U.S. courts predicated upon the civil liability provisions of the federal securities laws of the United States

Toyota is a joint-stock corporation with limited liability incorporated under the laws of Japan. Almost all of Toyota's directors and audit & supervisory board members reside in Japan. Many of Toyota's assets and the assets of these persons are located in Japan and elsewhere outside the United States. It may not be possible, therefore, for investors to effect service of process within the United States upon Toyota or these persons or to enforce against it or these persons judgments obtained in United States courts predicated upon the civil liability provisions of the federal securities laws of the United States. Toyota believes that there is doubt as to the enforceability in Japan, in original actions or in actions for enforcement of judgments of United States courts, of liabilities predicated solely upon the federal securities laws of the United States.

Table of Contents

If you become a holder of ADSs, you will have fewer rights than a shareholder has, and you must act through the depositary to exercise those rights

The rights of shareholders under Japanese law to take actions, including voting their shares, receiving dividends, bringing derivative actions, examining Toyota's accounting books and records, and exercising appraisal rights, are available only to shareholders of record. Because the depositary, through its custodian agents, is the registered holder of the shares underlying the ADSs, only the depositary can exercise those rights in connection with the deposited shares. The depositary will make efforts to vote the shares underlying a holder's ADSs as instructed by the holder and will pay to the holder the dividends collected from Toyota. However, if you become an ADS holder, in such capacity, you will not be able to bring a derivative action, examine Toyota's accounting books and records, or exercise appraisal rights except through the depositary.

There are restrictions on the withdrawal of shares from Toyota's depositary receipt facility

Toyota's articles of incorporation provide that 100 shares constitute one unit. Under Toyota's ADS program, each ADS represents the right to receive two shares. As a result of the unit share system, American Depositary Receipt, or ADR, holders will only be permitted to surrender ADRs and withdraw underlying shares constituting whole units. If a holder surrenders an ADR representing shares that do not constitute an integral number of whole units, the depositary will deliver to that holder only those shares which constitute a whole unit. The depositary will then issue to the holder a new ADR representing the remaining shares. Holders of an ADR that represents less than a whole unit of underlying shares will be unable to withdraw the underlying shares. As a result, while holders of common stock whose shares constitute less than one whole unit may require Toyota to purchase such shares under its articles of incorporation, those ADR holders will be unable to require Toyota to purchase their underlying shares to the extent those shares constitute less than one whole unit.

THE SHARE EXCHANGE

This section of the prospectus describes material aspects of the share exchange, including the material provisions of the share exchange agreement. The full text of an English translation of the share exchange agreement, the original of which is written in Japanese, is incorporated herein by reference in its entirety and is included in this prospectus as Appendix A.

General

The boards of directors of Toyota and Daihatsu have agreed to the share exchange, to be approved by Daihatsu's shareholders at the shareholders' meeting of Daihatsu. Pursuant to the share exchange, each shareholder of Daihatsu will receive 0.26 shares of Toyota common stock for each share of Daihatsu common stock that such shareholder holds. If the share exchange agreement is approved by the shareholders of Daihatsu, unless the share exchange agreement otherwise ceases to have effect, which is expected only under certain specified circumstances, the share exchange is expected to become effective on August 1, 2016. For a further discussion of the termination of the share exchange agreement, see Material Terms of the Share Exchange Agreement Modification, Termination and Effectiveness of the Share Exchange Agreement.

Background to the Share Exchange

Daihatsu was incorporated as Hatsudoki Seizo Co., Ltd. in 1907 and is the oldest mass vehicle manufacturer in Japan. Daihatsu formed a business alliance with Toyota in 1967, since which time the two companies have broadened cooperation in the development and production of vehicles such as the Consorte, the first vehicle launched under the alliance in 1969, as well as deepening their cooperation in the global market. Since becoming a subsidiary of Toyota in 1998, Daihatsu has been focusing on the development and manufacturing of light and compact vehicles.

Daihatsu has developed its business under its own brand, mostly in Japan, Indonesia and Malaysia, through the development of low-cost and fuel-efficient technologies. It has also supported Toyota's compact vehicle business by jointly developing vehicles, including the Avanza and Passo, with Toyota, and supplementing Toyota's product lineups by supplying vehicles such as AGYA, Wigo and the light vehicle PIXIS series in Asia.

Daihatsu faces two challenges to realize sustainable growth going forward. One is to swiftly adopt the increasingly advanced and complex automobile technologies such as those related to the environment, safety and information. The other is business expansion into emerging countries which are expected to grow significantly.

To overcome these issues, Daihatsu must invest a considerable amount of resources quickly, but there is a limit to Daihatsu's doing this independently as before. Accordingly, Daihatsu believes it is essential for the future development of the Daihatsu brand as well as for the company's growth and higher corporate value to further collaborate with Toyota so that it can quickly utilize Toyota's advanced technology and global business foundation.

In addition, the growing market of compact vehicles is becoming increasingly important because the entry-level car market is expanding in emerging countries due to economic development and vehicles are being made smaller due to environmental concerns in advanced countries. Furthermore, due to the drastic changes in the environment surrounding the automobile industry in recent years such as the global popularization of environmentally-friendly vehicles, initiatives for increased safety performance and information technology, and a global trend toward smaller cars' technologies required for automobile development are becoming more advanced, complicated and diversified. Moreover, although in emerging countries entry-level cars in particular are becoming more popular, even where Japanese automobile manufacturers have high market share such as ASEAN countries, competition is expected to intensify due to the liberalization of the market, full-fledged entry of overseas automobile manufacturers and the rise of new manufacturers.

Table of Contents

In order for the Toyota group to address these challenges with greater speed, and not only to maintain and expand its market share but also to contribute to realizing sustainable growth of the automobile industry through the production of ever better cars, the Toyota group needs to work to implement integrated global strategies. More specifically, even while improving the products and services under their own brand, Toyota and Daihatsu must go beyond the existing frameworks and utilize the technology and knowhow in the production of quality and affordable cars in which Daihatsu specializes, as well as further strengthen their mutually complementary relationship.

In order to realize Daihatsu's expanded role within the Toyota group, it became necessary for Daihatsu to become closely integrated with Toyota, such as in combining their technology, knowhow and business infrastructure and carrying out a common strategy as well as clarifying responsibilities and streamlining decision-making between the two companies' business strategies, including marketing, product planning, and overseas and supply strategies. Under these circumstances, Toyota and Daihatsu have been discussing and examining the framework of their collaboration.

On October 2, 2015, Mr. Koichi Ina and Mr. Masanori Mitsui, the chairman and the president of Daihatsu, respectively, visited Mr. Takeshi Uchiyamada, Mr. Akio Toyoda and Mr. Shigeki Terashi, the chairman, the president and an executive vice president of Toyota, respectively, at Toyota's offices. They discussed how the two companies might further strengthen their collaboration in areas such as brand strategy, compact car strategy and addressing next-generation technologies. The executives from Toyota expressed their desire to advance the companies' cooperative relationship and have Daihatsu play a more significant role within the Toyota group, and they proposed that Toyota increase its stake in Daihatsu, including possibly making Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota. On the same day, both parties formed internal working groups to handle this manner.

On November 10, 2015, Mr. Ina, Mr. Mitsui and Mr. Hiroyuki Yokoyama, the executive vice president of Daihatsu, visited Mr. Uchiyamada, Mr. Toyoda and Mr. Terashi at Toyota's offices in order to provide Daihatsu's response to Toyota's proposal described above, and based on that, the parties agreed to discuss the ways in which the companies will strengthen their collaboration as well as the possibility of Toyota making Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary.

On the same day, Daihatsu retained SMBC Nikko Securities as its financial advisor and a third-party valuation institution to provide analyses of the share exchange ratio and retained Mori Hamada & Matsumoto as its Japanese legal counsel.

On November 11, 2015, Toyota retained Nomura as its financial advisor and a third-party valuation institution to provide analyses of the share exchange ratio.

On November 18, 2015, Daihatsu established a third-party committee in order to prevent circumstances in which the share exchange is consummated under terms and conditions that are disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu, and referred to it the questions of whether (a) the purpose of the share exchange was reasonable (including whether the share exchange will contribute to the improvement of the corporate value of Daihatsu), (b) the fairness of the terms and conditions of the share exchange (including the share exchange ratio) was ensured, (c) the interests of the minority shareholders of Daihatsu were fully considered in the share exchange through fair procedures, and (d) based on (a), (b) and (c) above, the resolution by the board of directors of Daihatsu to consummate the share exchange would not be disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu. From November 18, 2015 to January 28, 2016, the third-party committee carefully reviewed the matters referred to it by holding eight meetings in total, as well as by gathering information and consulting with each other as necessary.

On November 27, 2015, Toyota retained TMI Associates as its Japanese legal counsel, and on November 30, 2015, it retained Shearman & Sterling LLP as its U.S. legal counsel.

On December 2, 2015, Mr. Ina and Mr. Mitsui again visited Mr. Uchiyamada, Mr. Toyoda and Mr. Terashi at Toyota's offices to discuss the status of deliberations and next steps.

Table of Contents

On December 4, 2015, Toyota retained PricewaterhouseCoopers Aarata as its accounting advisor.

On December 7, 2015, Daihatsu retained KPMG AZSA LLC as its accounting advisor.

From mid-December 2015 through mid-January 2016, the parties conducted legal and financial due diligence with the assistance of its advisors.

From December 21, 2015 through January 14, 2016, the working groups of Toyota and Daihatsu met a total of four times to negotiate the share exchange ratio while considering factors such as past market prices of their stock, the existence of Daihatsu minority shareholders, business plans and anticipated benefits from a stronger alliance, such as an increase in brand value of both companies.

On January 19, 2016, Mr. Ina and Mr. Mitsui again visited Mr. Uchiyamada, Mr. Toyoda and Mr. Terashi at Toyota's offices and agreed on the general terms of the share exchange including the share exchange ratio, as well as on the strengthening of their business alliance.

On January 29, 2016, Toyota and Daihatsu executed the share exchange agreement and announced the details of the share exchange, including the share exchange ratio. If the share exchange agreement is approved by the shareholders of Daihatsu, unless the share exchange agreement otherwise ceases to have effect, which is expected only under certain specified circumstances, the share exchange is expected to become effective on August 1, 2016. For a further discussion of the termination of the share exchange agreement, see Material Terms of the Share Exchange Agreement Modification, Termination and Effectiveness of the Share Exchange Agreement.

The boards of directors of Toyota and Daihatsu have agreed to the share exchange in order to promote Daihatsu to a more active and substantial role in the development and manufacturing of light and compact vehicles within the Toyota group and to streamline certain decision-making within the Toyota group. If the share exchange is approved by Daihatsu's shareholders, Daihatsu would become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

Following the share exchange, Daihatsu's role within the Toyota group will change substantially from the one in which it mainly operates its own business while also supporting Toyota's compact car business to a leading role in which it will play a principal part in the light vehicle and compact car business of the entire Toyota group. The share exchange is expected to enable Daihatsu to become the core of the Toyota group's management strategy for compact vehicles and will enable the Toyota group to streamline its business structure. As a result, even as Toyota and Daihatsu will continue to maintain their management independence in order to maximize their own strength, the share exchange will strengthen the alliance of shared values, visions and strategies between the two companies, which will result in the increase in corporate values of both companies.

Specifically, the share exchange will enable the Toyota group to clearly demarcate the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand. Currently, product, technology and business strategies are being developed separately for the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand, which has raised issues in the compact vehicle business within the Toyota group in areas such as offering product lineups that satisfy diversified customer needs, speedy business development and brand management. Following the share exchange, Toyota and Daihatsu will be able to mutually utilize the two companies' strengths and drastically reduce cost as a group, as well as to plan and implement comprehensive strategies to facilitate the two companies' technological combination and joint development of next-generation technologies in the areas of compact car technology, electrified units, weight reduction, automated driving, infrastructures for EVs (Electric Vehicles) and FCVs (Fuel Cell Vehicle), connected car technology and integrated control. The share exchange will enable

Toyota and Daihatsu to globally enhance product lineups under a global brand strategy, but they will differentiate their own brand by making the most of the distinctiveness of both the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand in order to offer attractive and globally-competitive products that satisfy diverse customer needs.

Table of Contents

Toyota and Daihatsu will focus on the following strategies going forward to further strengthen their ties in order to achieve sustainable global growth for the light and compact vehicle business of the Toyota group:

- 1) Compact car strategy: Providing globally competitive compact cars based on technology Daihatsu accumulated with light vehicles

The Toyota group will work to expand customers who patronize the Lexus brand, the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand by improving the value of each brand and optimizing brand portfolios that will endure. Daihatsu intends to evolve the Daihatsu brand into a global brand with a unique value that draws on Daihatsu's strength in providing customer-desired products and services quickly and at an affordable price.

To this end, Daihatsu will take the initiative in product development under both the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand in the compact car field by further evolving its product planning and technological development knowhow and processes that were cultivated from light vehicles. It will also enhance its ability to manufacture cars from the perspective of local customers that Daihatsu has developed. With these efforts, the Toyota group will aim to enhance both cost competitiveness, based on economies of scale, and product competitiveness, based on a broad product lineup range.

- 2) Technological strategy: Combining Toyota's cutting-edge technology and Daihatsu's low-cost technology

Going forward, Toyota and Daihatsu will share their strategies regarding technology from initial conception and create a corporate group structure that simultaneously realizes the development of cutting-edge technology and cost reduction. More specifically, Toyota will develop technologies such as electrified powertrain technology and information technology that will enhance cars in the areas of environment, safety, security, and comfort technology while Daihatsu will further explore its current advantages such as space-efficient packaging ability, low-cost technology and fuel-efficient technology such as weight reduction and conventional technologies. Daihatsu will also seek to realize cost reduction and miniaturization of Toyota's advanced technologies and incorporate such technologies into the compact cars that it offers. Furthermore, Daihatsu will share its unique car manufacturing knowhow within the Toyota group in order to contribute to increased cost competitiveness for upper class models.

- 3) Business strategy: Daihatsu to play a central role in car production in emerging markets

In the emerging markets where the entry-level car market is expected to expand due to increasing population, economic growth and urbanization, Daihatsu will play the main role in manufacturing activities, including development, procurement and production. This will allow Toyota to supplement products with competitiveness and effectively shift resources while allowing Daihatsu to enter and operate more expeditiously and efficiently in new regions where it had been difficult for Daihatsu to enter due to the business risks involved. In the regions where both companies operate, they will seek to further collaborate in ways such that Daihatsu will eventually lead the car manufacturing activities, including production and procurement.

Determination of Daihatsu's Board of Directors

On January 29, 2016, the meeting of the board of directors of Daihatsu was convened to resolve the share exchange agreement. Of the eleven members of the board, eight members were in attendance and unanimously resolved that the share exchange ratio is fair to the non-controlling shareholders of Daihatsu and approved the share exchange. Of the three remaining directors, Mr. Mitsuhsa Kato, who also serves as a director of Toyota, did not attend the board meeting nor participate in the discussions and negotiations with Toyota regarding the share exchange on behalf of Daihatsu in order to avoid possible conflicts of interest. In addition, Mr. Hiroyuki Yokoyama, who was Senior Managing Officer of Toyota until March 2015, and Mr. Ichiro Yoshitake, who was an employee of Toyota until March 2013, also did not attend the board meeting nor participate in the discussions and negotiations with Toyota regarding the share exchange on behalf of Daihatsu in order to avoid possible conflicts of interest. Of the four audit & supervisory board members of Daihatsu, three audit & supervisory board members (including two outside audit & supervisory board members) participated in the deliberation of the board meeting and opined that they had no objections to the consummation of the share exchange. The remaining audit & supervisory board member of Daihatsu, Mr. Kosuke Ikebuchi, who serves as Senior Advisor to the Board and Senior Technical Executive of Toyota, did not attend the board meeting in order to avoid conflicts of interest.

In making its determination to approve the share exchange agreement with advice from Daihatsu's financial and legal advisors, the board of directors of Daihatsu considered a number of factors, including the following:

the board's knowledge of the businesses, operations, financial condition, earnings and future prospects of both Daihatsu and Toyota;

the board's knowledge of the current and prospective economic, market and industry environment in which Daihatsu and Toyota operate;

the results of the legal and financial due diligence of Toyota's operations conducted by Daihatsu and its legal and accounting advisor;

the results of analyses of the share exchange ratio, prepared by SMBC Nikko Securities, which included market price analysis and discounted cash flow analysis;

the original signed version of the valuation report of SMBC Nikko Securities dated January 28, 2016, which was delivered to the board of directors of Daihatsu;

the original response to the referrals of the third-party committee dated January 28, 2016, which was delivered to Daihatsu's board of directors;

the fact that the outside audit & supervisory board members who did not have conflicts of interest expressed no objections to Daihatsu's execution of the share exchange agreement; and the terms of the share exchange agreement and its effects, including, without limitation, the fact that Toyota would become the sole shareholder of Daihatsu upon consummation of the share exchange.

The foregoing discussion of the information considered by the board of directors of Daihatsu is not exhaustive, but includes the material factors that the board of directors of Daihatsu considered in approving the share exchange. In view of the wide variety of factors considered in connection with its evaluation of the share exchange and the complexity of these matters, the board of directors of Daihatsu did not find it useful, and did not attempt, to quantify, rank or otherwise assign relative weights to these factors. The board of directors of Daihatsu conducted an overall analysis of the factors described above, including discussions with Daihatsu's financial and legal advisors, and considered the factors overall to be favorable to, and to support, its determination.

The above description contains forward-looking statements and, therefore, should be read in light of the factors discussed under Cautionary Statement Concerning Forward-Looking Statements.

Valuation report of Daihatsu's Financial Advisor

SMBC Nikko Securities delivered its valuation report, or the valuation report, in Japanese to Daihatsu's board of directors on January 29, 2016. The English translation of the valuation report of SMBC Nikko Securities is attached as Appendix B. The valuation report was prepared for the sole use of the board of directors of Daihatsu to provide it with useful information in relation to the share exchange ratio. As such, no opinion or evaluation was provided in the valuation report, nor is such opinion or evaluation indirectly suggested or implied, in relation to the fairness of the share exchange ratio to any parties, entities or individuals, including Daihatsu and its shareholders. In addition, the valuation report is not intended for the shareholders of Daihatsu nor does it intend to provide them with any assistance or recommendations on voting at the annual general meeting of shareholders where Daihatsu shareholders will decide upon the approval of the share exchange.

SMBC Nikko Securities has consented to the inclusion of its valuation report as Appendix B to this prospectus. By giving such consent, SMBC Nikko Securities does not thereby admit that it comes within the category of persons whose consent is required under Section 7 of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission thereunder, nor does it thereby admit that it is an expert with respect to any part of this Registration Statement on Form F-4 of which this prospectus forms a part within the meaning of the term experts as used in the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission thereunder.

In connection with preparing the valuation report, SMBC Nikko Securities used the following materials and information sources:

financial disclosures such as securities reports (yukashoken hokokusyo), quarterly reports (shihanki hokokusyo) and financial reports summaries (kessan tanshin) of Daihatsu and Toyota;

documents and information provided by Daihatsu and Toyota related to their respective business policies, business plans and financial information;

due diligence reports on Toyota from the viewpoint of finance, taxation and legal matters provided by Daihatsu;

information obtained through interviews with representatives of Daihatsu and Toyota;

stock price information and stock trading information of Daihatsu and Toyota; and other disclosed or public information.

SMBC Nikko Securities did not take into consideration any synergy effect resulting from the share exchange, as Daihatsu and Toyota had prepared their current business plans separately, on a stand-alone basis. Since the business plan provided by Toyota contained only limited information, SMBC Nikko Securities referred to public information and made partial adjustments based on certain assumptions to conduct the analysis.

SMBC Nikko Securities assumed that the materials, information and data used for the valuation report were accurate and complete in all respects. SMBC Nikko Securities did not conduct any verification or validation concerning the accuracy or completeness of such information or data. Furthermore, SMBC Nikko Securities did not undertake any examination of the assets and liabilities belonging to Daihatsu, Toyota or their subsidiaries and affiliates, whether independently or by outsourcing to external professional contractors. The result of such valuation may be affected considerably should any deficiencies be found in the accuracy, completeness or integrity of such information.

SMBC Nikko Securities assumed that Daihatsu, Toyota and their subsidiaries and affiliates did not have any undisclosed off-the-book liabilities or undisclosed contingent liabilities that may result from lawsuits, conflicts, environmental issues, taxation or otherwise, which may significantly influence the result of the valuation report.

The valuation report was prepared on the assumption that the data and the information contained in the business plans and other materials used in the business plans and other materials used for the valuation report are correct and complete, based on the most accurate estimation and prudent judgment possible of the providers, by following proper procedures.

In addition, SMBC Nikko Securities may have conducted analyses in the process of preparing the valuation report pursuant to certain prepositions or hypotheses based upon such data and information provided by external parties, assuming that they were accurate and reasonable. SMBC Nikko Securities did not conduct, nor shall assume any responsibility or obligation for not having conducted, any verification or validation regarding the accuracy, validity and the feasibility of such prepositions and hypotheses.

Financial Analyses of Daihatsu's Financial Advisor

The following is a summary of the material financial analyses contained in the valuation report. The following summary, however, does not purport to be a complete description of the financial analyses performed by SMBC Nikko Securities, and is qualified in its entirety by Appendix B. In addition, the order of analyses described below does not purport to represent the relative importance or weight given to those analyses by SMBC Nikko Securities. The financial analyses summarized below include information presented in tabular format, which must be read together with the full text of the summary. Analyses based upon forecasts of future results are not necessarily indicative of actual future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by these analyses. Except as otherwise noted, the following quantitative information, to the extent that it is based on market data, is based on market data as it existed on or before January 26, 2016 and is not necessarily indicative of current market conditions. With Daihatsu's consent, SMBC Nikko Securities used the market price analysis and the discounted cash flow analysis to evaluate Toyota shares and Daihatsu shares.

Market Price Analysis

In conducting the market price analysis, SMBC Nikko Securities set January 26, 2016, which was the business day immediately prior to the date of the first media coverage regarding the share exchange, as the reference date in order to eliminate from the stock price the impact of such media coverage and used the closing share price of Daihatsu and Toyota on the reference date and the simple average closing share prices of Daihatsu and Toyota during the following three periods, in each case ending with the reference date: (i) the most recent one month, (ii) the most recent three months and (iii) the most recent six months.

The results of the analysis were as follows:

	Exchange ratio per Daihatsu share
Closing Share Price as of Reference Date	0.22
1 Month	0.22
3 Months	0.21
6 Months	0.21

As a result of this analysis, the range of implied exchange ratios per share of Daihatsu was calculated to be 0.21 to 0.22.

Discounted Cash Flow Analysis

In conducting the discounted cash flow analysis, SMBC Nikko Securities evaluated the Daihatsu shares and the Toyota shares by discounting cash flows based on each company's financial forecasts for the fiscal years ending March 31, 2016 and March 31, 2021, which SMBC Nikko Securities received from each company, to their present value at the discount rates ranging from 7.40% to 7.90% for Daihatsu shares and from 4.45% to 4.95% for Toyota shares. SMBC Nikko Securities adopted the perpetual growth rate method to calculate the terminal value. The perpetual growth rate method is based on the assumption that the income or cash in-flow in the final year of the projection period will be sustained in perpetuity. For the perpetual growth rate method, SMBC Nikko Securities applied perpetual growth rates ranging from -0.25% to 0.25% for each company.

Table of Contents

The results of the analysis were as follows:

	Exchange ratio per Daihatsu share
Perpetual Growth Rate Method	0.20-0.28

The discounted cash flow analysis resulted in a range of implied exchange ratios per Daihatsu share of 0.20 to 0.28.

Although the financial forecast of Toyota that SMBC Nikko Securities used in performing the discount cash flow analysis did not reflect a substantial increase or decrease in earnings, the financial forecast of Daihatsu reflected a substantial increase in earnings for the fiscal year ending March 31, 2017, mainly as a result of taking into account, to the maximum extent possible, a temporary last-minute increase in demand expected before the consumption tax increase that may take effect in April 2017, in addition to the introduction of new products. Such financial forecast of Daihatsu also assumed that the operating income of Daihatsu will recover in the fiscal year ending March 31, 2017 to a level that is higher than the operating income of 110.6 billion yen in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2015. The financial forecasts of both companies did not assume the consummation of the share exchange.

Miscellaneous

As a part of its investment banking business, SMBC Nikko Securities is engaged in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, negotiated underwritings, secondary distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements and valuations for corporate and other purposes. SMBC Nikko Securities was selected to act as Daihatsu's financial advisor with respect to the share exchange on the basis of such experience and its familiarity with Daihatsu.

SMBC Nikko Securities has prepared the valuation report and provided other services in connection with the share exchange pursuant to the advisory services agreement entered into between Daihatsu and SMBC Nikko Securities in order to provide valuation services, in consideration of which SMBC Nikko Securities will receive fees. In addition, SMBC Nikko Securities is a member of the Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group, or SMFG, and SMBC Nikko Securities and other group companies of SMFG may provide various financial services such as banking services, securities trading or brokerage services, corporate and investment banking services to Daihatsu and to other parties/entities that may be involved in the share exchange, as well as their shareholders, subsidiaries and affiliates, for which SMBC Nikko Securities and other group companies of SMFG may receive fees.

Response to Referral to the Third-party Committee

On November 18, 2015, Daihatsu established a third-party committee consisting of three members: Mr. Kenji Yamamoto, an outside board member and an independent director of Daihatsu, as well as Mr. Nobumichi Hattori (a Visiting Professor at Graduate School of Finance, Accounting and Law, Waseda University) and Mr. Takeshi Nakao (a certified public accountant and licensed tax accountant at Partners Inc.), both of whom are experts and are independent of and have no material relationship with Toyota in order to prevent circumstances in which the share exchange is consummated under terms and conditions that are disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu. In considering the share exchange, Daihatsu referred to the third-party committee the questions of whether (a) the purpose of the share exchange was reasonable (including whether the share exchange will contribute to the improvement of the corporate value of Daihatsu), (b) the fairness of the terms and conditions of the share exchange (including the share exchange ratio) was ensured, (c) the interests of the minority shareholders of Daihatsu were fully considered in the share exchange through fair procedures, and (d) based on (a), (b) and (c) above, the resolution by the board of directors of Daihatsu to consummate the share exchange would not be disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu.

Table of Contents

From November 18, 2015 to January 28, 2016, the third-party committee carefully reviewed the matters referred to it by holding eight meetings in total, as well as by gathering information and consulting with each other as necessary. In conducting the examination, the third-party committee received an explanation from Daihatsu concerning the purpose of the share exchange, background leading to the share exchange, views of Daihatsu and Toyota on the share exchange, terms and conditions of the share exchange and the decision-making process thereof, and other related matters, and an explanation from SMBC Nikko Securities concerning the valuation of the share exchange ratio in the share exchange. In addition, the third-party committee received an explanation from Mori Hamada & Matsumoto, legal advisor to Daihatsu, concerning the details of the measures to ensure fairness of the procedures of the share exchange and the measures to avoid conflicts of interest, such as the decision-making method and procedures of the board of directors of Daihatsu with respect to the share exchange. Subsequently, the third-party committee submitted a response to referrals (toshinsho) on January 28, 2016 to the board of directors of Daihatsu to the effect that it can be said that the resolution by the board of directors of Daihatsu to consummate the share exchange is not disadvantageous to the minority shareholders of Daihatsu on the basis of the explanations, valuation results and other materials it reviewed.

The English Translation of the Response to the Referral to the Third-Party Committee is attached as Appendix C.

Material Terms of the Share Exchange Agreement

On January 29, 2016, Toyota and Daihatsu entered into a share exchange agreement setting forth the terms of the share exchange. The following is a summary of material provisions of the share exchange agreement. This summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the share exchange agreement, an English translation of which is incorporated by reference in its entirety and attached to this prospectus as Appendix A.

Structure of the Share Exchange

Upon the effectiveness of the share exchange, the following events will occur:

Toyota will deliver to shareholders of Daihatsu common stock, excluding Toyota and Daihatsu, in exchange for Daihatsu common stock, the number of shares of Toyota common stock calculated by multiplying the total number of shares of Daihatsu common stock held by shareholders of Daihatsu common stock as of the time immediately preceding the share exchange by 0.26.

shareholders of Daihatsu common stock (other than Daihatsu, with respect to its treasury shares, which will be cancelled, and Toyota, with respect to shares of Daihatsu owned by it) as of the time immediately preceding the share exchange will be allotted a number of shares of Toyota common stock based on the ratio of 0.26 Toyota shares for one Daihatsu share, such amount (excluding any fractional shares) to be reflected in Toyota's register of shareholders; and in lieu of any fractional shares of Toyota common stock that would otherwise be allotted to former shareholders of Daihatsu, the former shareholders of Daihatsu will receive cash as described in more detail in Holders of Fractional Shares.

Effect of the Share Exchange

As a result of the share exchange, Toyota will acquire all outstanding shares of Daihatsu common stock (excluding shares of Daihatsu common stock already owned by Toyota). Toyota will become the sole shareholder of Daihatsu, and Daihatsu will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

Toyota's Stated Capital and Reserves

The stated capital and retained earnings reserves of Toyota will not increase as a result of the share exchange. The amount of increase in Toyota's capital reserves will be the minimum amount required to be increased pursuant to applicable laws and regulations.

Table of Contents

Effective Date of the Share Exchange

The share exchange will become effective on August 1, 2016, subject to changes in certain circumstances.

Annual General Meeting of Shareholders of Daihatsu

Daihatsu will seek the approval of its shareholders for the terms of the share exchange agreement at the annual general meeting of shareholders of Daihatsu scheduled to be held on _____, 2016.

Modification, Termination and Effectiveness of the Share Exchange Agreement

Toyota and Daihatsu may, upon mutual consultation, modify the share exchange agreement, including terms and conditions of the share exchange, cancel the share exchange or terminate the share exchange agreement, if, during the period commencing from the execution date of the share exchange agreement until the effective date of the share exchange, due to an act of god or other events, (i) a material change occurs to the assets or results of operations of Toyota or Daihatsu, (ii) a material impediment arises in the implementation of the share exchange or (iii) it otherwise becomes difficult to achieve the purpose of the share exchange agreement.

The share exchange agreement shall cease to have effect if (i) shareholders of Toyota holding more than one-ninth of shares with votes entitled to be exercised at the shareholders' meeting submit a notification to Toyota to the effect that such shareholders dissent to the share exchange within two weeks after the day of the individual notification or the public notification to shareholders under Article 797 (3) and (4) of Companies Act, and the share exchange agreement is not approved at a shareholders' meeting of Toyota, (ii) the share exchange agreement is not approved at the annual general meeting of shareholders of Daihatsu, (iii) any of the approvals from the relevant regulatory authorities are not obtained or (iv) the share exchange has been canceled or the share exchange agreement has been terminated pursuant to the preceding paragraph.

Holders of Fractional Shares

In accordance with the Companies Act, Daihatsu shareholders will not receive any fractional shares of Toyota common stock in the share exchange. Instead, the shares representing the aggregate of all such fractions (in case where such aggregated shares include any fractional shares, such fraction will be rounded down) will be sold to Toyota at the market price and the net cash proceeds from the sale will be distributed to the former holders of Daihatsu shares on a proportionate basis in accordance with their respective fractions.

Daihatsu Voting Matters

The close of business on March 31, 2016 is the record date for determination of the holders of Daihatsu common stock entitled to exercise shareholders' rights at Daihatsu's shareholders' meeting. As of March 31, 2016, there were _____ shares of Daihatsu common stock issued and outstanding. See _____ Annual General Meeting of Daihatsu Shareholders for a more detailed description of the vote required, and the use and revocation of mail-in voting cards, at the annual general meeting of shareholders.

Dissenters' Appraisal Rights

Any Daihatsu shareholder (i) who notifies Daihatsu prior to the annual general meeting of shareholders of his or her intention to oppose the share exchange, and who votes against approval of the share exchange at the annual general meeting of shareholders, or (ii) who is not entitled to vote at such annual general meeting of shareholders; and complies with the other relevant procedures set forth in the Companies Act and related laws and regulations and share handling regulations of Daihatsu (a dissenting shareholder) may demand that Daihatsu purchase his or her shares of Daihatsu common stock at the fair value. If a shareholder votes against the share exchange by submitting a mail-in voting card, such submission will satisfy all requirements mentioned in

(i) above. The failure of a shareholder who is entitled to vote at such annual general meeting of shareholders to provide such notice prior to the annual general meeting or to vote against approval of the share exchange agreement at the annual general meeting will in effect constitute a waiver of the shareholder's right to demand that Daihatsu purchase his or her shares of common stock at the fair value. The dissenting shareholder who has made such demand may withdraw such demand only if Daihatsu approves such withdrawal.

Daihatsu will give public notice to its shareholders announcing that Daihatsu intends to execute the share exchange and provide the name and address of Toyota, no later than 20 days prior to the effective date of the share exchange (such public notice may be made prior to the date of the annual general meeting of shareholders). The demand referred to in the preceding paragraph must be made within the period from the day 20 days prior to the effective date of the share exchange to the date immediately preceding the effective date of the share exchange.

The demand must state the number of shares relating to such demand. The Companies Act does not require any other statement in the demand. Accordingly, the demand is legally valid regardless of whether the demand includes the dissenting holder's estimate of the fair value of shares. The dissenting shareholder must also request an individual shareholder notification (kobetsu kabunushi tsuchi) through its standing proxy in Japan from Japan Securities Depository Center, Inc., or JASDEC, and submit a receipt of the individual shareholder notification and identity verification documents to Daihatsu upon the request from Daihatsu.

If the value of such shares is agreed upon between the dissenting shareholder and Daihatsu, then Daihatsu is required to make payment to such dissenting shareholder of the agreed value within 60 days of the effective date of the share exchange. If the dissenting shareholder and Daihatsu do not agree on the value of such shares within 30 days from the effective date of the share exchange, the shareholder or Daihatsu may, within 30 days after the expiration of such period, file a petition with the Osaka District Court for a determination of the value of his or her shares. Daihatsu is also required to make payment of statutory interest on such share value as determined by the court accruing from the expiration of the 60-day period referred to in the second preceding sentence. The transfer of shares from dissenters to Daihatsu becomes effective on the effective date of the share exchange.

Dissenter's appraisal rights for shareholders of a company becoming a wholly-owned subsidiary through a share exchange are set forth in Articles 785 and 786 of the Companies Act. An English translation of these articles is included in this prospectus as Appendix D.

Status of Toyota Common Stock under the Federal Securities Laws

The exchange of shares of Daihatsu common stock held by U.S. shareholders for shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange has been registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or the Securities Act. Accordingly, there will be no restrictions under the Securities Act on the resale or transfer of such shares by U.S. shareholders of Daihatsu except for those shareholders, if any, who become affiliates of Toyota as such term is used in Rule 144 under the Securities Act. Persons who may be deemed to be affiliates of Toyota generally include individuals or entities that, directly or indirectly, control, are controlled by, or are under common control with Toyota. With respect to those shareholders who may be deemed to be affiliates of Toyota after the share exchange, Rule 144 places certain restrictions on the offer and sale within the United States or to U.S. persons of shares of Toyota common stock that may be received by them pursuant to the share exchange. This prospectus does not cover resales of shares of Toyota common stock received by any person who may be deemed to be an affiliate of Toyota after the share exchange.

Accounting Treatment

Daihatsu was a consolidated subsidiary of Toyota prior to the share exchange as Toyota had a controlling financial interest. As the share exchange does not result in a change of control of Daihatsu, the share exchange will be accounted for by Toyota in accordance with ASC 810 Consolidation. Increases or decreases in Toyota s ownership interest in Daihatsu, while Toyota retains its controlling financial interest, will be accounted for as equity transactions. No gain or loss will be recognized in the consolidated statements of income of Toyota and the carrying amount of the noncontrolling interest will be adjusted to reflect the change in Toyota's ownership interest in Daihatsu. Any difference between the fair value of the consideration paid by Toyota and the amount by which the noncontrolling interest is adjusted will be recognized within Toyota's shareholders' equity in Toyota's consolidated balance sheet.

Differences in Shareholders' Rights

There are no material differences between the rights of shareholders of Toyota common stock and Daihatsu common stock from a legal perspective.

Tax Consequences of the Share Exchange

Non-resident holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock will generally not be subject to Japanese taxation with respect to the share exchange, except with respect to cash payments of the sale price from Daihatsu as a result of their exercise of dissenters' appraisal rights.

The share exchange has not been structured to achieve a particular treatment for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and Toyota and Daihatsu have no obligation to structure the share exchange in a manner that is tax-free to U.S. Holders. As structured, however, the share exchange is expected to qualify as a tax-deferred reorganization under the provisions of the Code, but such qualification depends on the resolution of issues and facts that will not be known until the date of the share exchange. Neither Toyota nor Daihatsu has obtained or will obtain a ruling from the IRS or an opinion of U.S. counsel that the share exchange will qualify as a reorganization. If the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization, no gain or loss generally will be recognized by a U.S. Holder on the exchange of shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange, except with respect to any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and unless Daihatsu has been a PFIC at any time during the holding period of the U.S. Holder. If the share exchange does not qualify as a reorganization, a U.S. Holder that exchanges its shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the sum of (a) the fair market value of the shares of Toyota common stock received and (b) any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and (ii) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged. See "Taxation" for further discussion regarding the tax consequences of the share exchange.

REGULATION

Japanese Foreign Exchange Controls

The Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Law and the cabinet orders and ministerial ordinances thereunder (collectively, the Foreign Exchange Regulations), govern the acquisition and holding of shares of capital stock of Toyota by exchange non-residents and by foreign investors. The Foreign Exchange Regulations currently in effect do not, however, affect transactions between exchange non-residents to purchase or sell shares outside Japan using currencies other than Japanese yen.

Exchange non-residents are:

individuals who do not reside in Japan; and corporations whose principal offices are located outside Japan.

Generally, branches and other offices of non-resident corporations that are located within Japan are regarded as residents of Japan. Conversely, branches and other offices of Japanese corporations located outside Japan are regarded as exchange non-residents.

Foreign investors are:

individuals who are exchange non-residents;

corporations or other organizations that are organized under the laws of foreign countries or whose principal offices are located outside of Japan; and corporations (1) of which 50% or more of their voting rights are held directly or indirectly by individuals who are exchange non-residents and/or corporations or other organizations (a) that are organized under the laws of foreign countries or (b) whose principal offices are located outside of Japan or (2) a majority of whose officers, or officers having the power of representation, are individuals who are exchange non-residents.

Acquisition of Equity Securities

In general, the acquisition of shares of a Japanese company (such as the shares of capital stock of Toyota) by an exchange non-resident from a resident of Japan is not subject to any prior filing requirements. In certain limited circumstances, however, the Minister of Finance may require prior approval of an acquisition of this type. While prior approval, as described above, is not required, in the case where a resident of Japan transfers shares of a Japanese company (such as the shares of capital stock of Toyota) for consideration exceeding ¥100 million to an exchange non-resident, the resident of Japan who transfers the shares is required to report the transfer to the Minister of Finance within 20 days from the date of the transfer, unless the transfer was made through a bank, securities company or financial futures trader licensed under Japanese law.

If a foreign investor acquires shares of a Japanese company that is listed on a Japanese stock exchange (such as the shares of capital stock of Toyota) and, as a result of the acquisition, the foreign investor, in combination with any existing holdings, directly or indirectly holds 10% or more of the issued shares of the relevant company, the foreign investor, with certain exceptions, must file a report of the acquisition with the Minister of Finance and any other competent Ministers having jurisdiction over that Japanese company by the 15th day of the month following the month in which the date of the acquisition falls. In limited circumstances, such as where the foreign investor is in a country that is not listed on an exemption schedule in the Foreign Exchange Regulations, a prior notification of the acquisition must be filed with the Minister of Finance and any other competent Ministers, who may then modify or prohibit the proposed acquisition.

Table of ContentsTAXATION

You are urged to consult your own tax advisor with respect to the United States federal, state and local and the Japanese and other tax consequences of the share exchange and of owning and disposing of Toyota's shares or ADSs in your particular circumstances.

For the purposes of discussion of Japanese and U.S. tax consequences of the share exchange below, the term "Treaty" shall refer to the current income tax convention between the United States and Japan, as amended; a "U.S. Holder" shall refer to any beneficial owner of shares of Daihatsu common stock that either receives shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange or properly exercises dissenters' rights and that is (i) a citizen or individual resident of the United States, as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes; (ii) a corporation (or other entity treated as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes) organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof, or the District of Columbia; (iii) an estate the income of which is subject to U.S. federal income tax without regard to its source; or (iv) a trust that is subject to the primary supervision of a U.S. court and the control of one or more U.S. persons, or that has a valid election in effect under applicable U.S. Treasury regulations to be treated as a U.S. person; and an "Eligible U.S. Holder" shall refer to a U.S. Holder that: (i) is a resident of the United States for purposes of the Treaty; (ii) does not maintain a permanent establishment in Japan (a) with which shares of Toyota common stock or ADSs are effectively connected or (b) of which shares of Toyota common stock or ADSs form part of the business property; and (iii) is eligible for benefits under the Treaty, with respect to income and gain derived in connection with the shares of Toyota common stock or ADSs.

Japanese Tax Consequences

The following is a discussion of the principal Japanese tax consequences (limited to national taxes) of the share exchange and the ownership of shares of Toyota common stock and ADSs to non-resident holders who hold shares of Daihatsu common stock and ultimately of Toyota common stock or ADSs. The discussion is the opinion of TMI Associates, Japanese counsel to Toyota. A "non-resident holder" means a holder of shares of Daihatsu's or Toyota common stock or ADSs, as the case may be, who holds such shares or ADSs as portfolio investments, and who is a non-resident individual of Japan or a non-Japanese corporation without a permanent establishment in Japan. For purposes of this discussion, a holder of shares or ADSs is considered to own such shares or ADSs, as applicable, as a portfolio investment if the holder owns less than 25% of the total number of the relevant corporation's issued shares.

The statements regarding Japanese tax laws set forth below are based on the laws in force and double taxation conventions applicable as of the date hereof which are subject to change, possibly on a retroactive basis, including changes due to the forthcoming 2016 Annual Tax Reform. This discussion is not exhaustive of all possible tax considerations which may apply to a particular non-resident holder and potential non-resident holders are advised to satisfy themselves as to the overall tax consequences of the share exchange and of the acquisition, ownership and disposition of Toyota's shares or ADSs, including specifically the tax consequences under Japanese law, the laws of the jurisdiction of which they are residents, and any tax treaty between Japan and their country of residence, by consulting their own tax advisors.

Consequences of the Share Exchange

Under the terms of the share exchange, shares of Daihatsu common stock will be exchanged solely for shares of Toyota common stock, and no cash or other property other than shares of Toyota common stock will be distributed to holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock, except that some holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock may receive cash (i) in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock where such fractional shares arise due to the exchange ratio in the share exchange or (ii) as a result of their exercise of dissenters' appraisal rights under the Companies Act.

Except as described in the following paragraph, non-resident holders holding Daihatsu shares as a portfolio investor will not be subject to Japanese taxation with respect to the share exchange.

Table of Contents

If holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock receive cash payments of the sale price from Daihatsu as a result of their exercise of dissenters' appraisal rights under the Companies Act, the portion of such sale price in excess of the amount corresponding to a pro rata portion of return of capital as determined under Japanese tax laws will be deemed dividends for Japanese tax purposes, and such deemed dividend portion, if any, will generally be subject to Japanese withholding tax. Non-resident holders who wish to exercise dissenters' appraisal rights are urged to consult their own tax advisors with respect to the exact tax consequences of their exercise of dissenters' appraisal rights. See The Share Exchange Dissenters' Appraisal Rights for a further discussion of dissenters' appraisal rights of shareholders of Daihatsu common stock.

Ownership and Disposition of Toyota Shares

Generally, a non-resident holder will be subject to Japanese withholding tax on dividends paid by Toyota. Such taxes are withheld prior to payment of dividends as required by Japanese law. Stock splits in themselves generally are not subject to Japanese income tax.

For the purpose of Japanese taxation, a non-resident holder of ADSs of Toyota is generally treated as a beneficial owner of the shares of Toyota common stock underlying the ADSs evidenced by the ADRs. Deposits or withdrawals of shares of Toyota common stock by a non-resident holder in exchange for ADSs are generally not subject to Japanese income or corporation tax.

In the absence of any applicable tax treaty, convention or agreement reducing the maximum rate of Japanese withholding tax, or allowing exemption from Japanese withholding tax, the rate of Japanese withholding tax applicable to dividends paid by a Japanese corporation to non-resident holders is generally 20.42%. However, with respect to dividends paid on listed shares issued by a Japanese corporation (such as shares of Toyota common stock or ADSs) to non-resident holders, except for any individual shareholder who holds 3% or more of the total number of shares issued by the relevant Japanese corporation, the aforementioned 20.42% withholding tax rate is reduced to 15.315% for dividends to be paid on or after January 1, 2014.

At the date of this prospectus, Japan has income tax treaties, conventions or agreements in force, whereby the above-mentioned withholding tax rate is reduced, in most cases to 15% or 10% for portfolio investors (15% under the income tax treaties with, among other countries, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Norway, Singapore and Spain, and 10% under the income tax treaties with Australia, France, the Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, the U.K. and the United States.)

Under the Treaty, the maximum rate of Japanese withholding tax which may be imposed on dividends paid by a Japanese corporation to an Eligible U.S. Holder that is a portfolio investor is generally limited to 10% of the gross amount actually distributed, and dividends paid by a Japanese corporation to an Eligible U.S. Holder that is a pension fund are exempt from Japanese income taxation by way of withholding or otherwise unless such dividends are derived from the carrying on of a business, directly or indirectly, by such pension fund.

If the maximum tax rate provided for in the income tax treaty applicable to dividends paid by Toyota to any particular non-resident holder is lower than the withholding tax rate otherwise applicable under Japanese tax law, or if any particular non-resident holder is exempt from Japanese income tax with respect to such dividends under the income tax treaty applicable to such particular non-resident holder, such non-resident holder of shares of Toyota common stock who is entitled to a reduced rate of or exemption from Japanese withholding tax on payment of dividends is required to submit an Application Form for Income Tax Convention Regarding Relief from Japanese Income Tax on Dividends in advance through the withholding agent to the relevant tax authority before such payment of dividends. A standing proxy for non-resident holders may provide this application service. With respect to ADSs, this reduced rate or exemption is applicable if the Depositary or its agent submits two Application Forms (one before payment of dividends, the other within eight months after the record date concerning such payment of dividends) together with certain other documents to the Japanese tax authority. To claim this reduced rate or exemption, any relevant non-resident holder of ADSs will be required to file a proof of taxpayer status, residence and beneficial ownership (as applicable) and to provide other information or documents as may be required by the Depositary. A non-resident holder who is entitled, under an applicable income tax treaty, to a reduced treaty rate lower than the withholding tax rate otherwise applicable under Japanese tax law or an exemption from the withholding tax, but failed to submit the required application in advance will be entitled to claim the refund of withholding taxes withheld in excess of the rate under an applicable tax treaty (if such non-resident holder is entitled to a reduced treaty rate under the applicable income tax treaty) or the whole of the withholding tax withheld (if such non-resident holder is entitled to an exemption under the applicable income tax treaty) from the relevant Japanese tax authority, by complying with a certain subsequent filing procedure. Toyota does not assume any responsibility to ensure withholding at the reduced treaty rate or not withholding for shareholders who would be so eligible under an applicable tax treaty but where the required procedures as stated above are not followed.

Gains derived from the sale or other disposition of shares of Toyota common stock or ADSs outside Japan by a non-resident holder holding such shares or ADSs as a portfolio investor are, in general, not subject to Japanese income or corporation tax under Japanese tax law. Eligible U.S. Holders are not subject to Japanese income or corporation tax with respect to such gains under the Treaty, subject to a certain filing requirement under Japanese law.

Japanese inheritance tax or gift tax at progressive rates may be payable by an individual who has acquired from an individual shares of Toyota common stock or ADSs as legatee, heir or donee even if neither the acquiring individual nor the decedent nor the donor is a Japanese resident.

Holders of Toyota's shares of common stock or ADSs should consult their tax advisors regarding the effect of these taxes and, in the case of U.S. Holders, the possible application of the Estate and Gift Tax Treaty between the U.S. and Japan.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following discussion describes the anticipated U.S. federal income tax consequences to U.S. Holders of the share exchange and of owning Toyota common stock following the share exchange. The discussion is the opinion of Shearman & Sterling LLP, U.S. tax counsel to Toyota. The discussion is applicable to a U.S. Holder that has held shares of Daihatsu common stock as capital assets within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Code, and will hold shares of Toyota common stock as capital assets following the share exchange.

Except where noted, this discussion does not deal with holders that are subject to special rules, such as the following:

dealers in securities or currencies;

traders in securities that elect to use a mark-to-market method of accounting for their securities holdings;

persons liable for the alternative minimum tax;

banks, financial institutions, insurance companies or mutual funds;

tax-exempt entities;

former citizens or long-term residents of the United States;

persons holding shares of Daihatsu common stock or Toyota common stock as part of a hedging, integrated, conversion or constructive sale transaction or a straddle;

persons owning (directly, indirectly or constructively) 10% or more of the voting shares of Daihatsu;

holders of Daihatsu stock acquisition rights;

Table of Contents

persons who received their shares of Daihatsu common stock upon the exercise of stock acquisition rights or otherwise as compensation for services;

except as specifically described below, U.S. Holders of shares of Daihatsu common stock that will own (directly, indirectly or constructively) 5% or more of either the total voting power or the total value of the shares of Toyota immediately after the share exchange (5% Transferee Shareholders); or persons whose functional currency is not the U.S. dollar.

In addition, the following discussion is based on the provisions of the Code, U.S. Treasury regulations, rulings and judicial decisions issued under the Code as of the date of this registration statement. These authorities may be repealed, revoked or modified, possibly with retroactive effect, so as to result in U.S. federal income tax consequences different from those discussed below. Neither Toyota nor Daihatsu has requested a ruling from the IRS with respect to any of the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the share exchange or any of the other matters discussed herein and, as a result, there can be no assurance that the IRS will not disagree with or challenge any of the conclusions described below, or that such conclusions, if challenged, will be upheld by a court.

This discussion does not contain a detailed description of all the U.S. federal income tax consequences to U.S. Holders in light of their particular circumstances and does not address the effects of any state, local or non-U.S. tax laws (other than Japanese withholding taxes, as specifically described under Ownership and Disposition of Toyota Common Stock Distributions), or other U.S. federal tax consequences, such as U.S. federal estate or gift tax consequences. U.S. Holders are urged to consult their own tax advisors concerning the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the share exchange and the ownership or disposition of shares of Toyota common stock in light of their particular circumstances, as well as any consequences arising under the laws of any other taxing jurisdiction.

If a partnership (including any entity treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes) holds shares of Daihatsu common stock and will hold shares of Toyota common stock after the share exchange, the tax treatment of a partner will depend upon the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. Partners of a partnership holding such stock should consult their own tax advisors with respect to the U.S. federal tax treatment of the share exchange and of holding shares of Toyota common stock.

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, owners of ADRs evidencing ADSs will be treated as the owners of the shares of Toyota common stock represented by those ADSs, and exchanges of shares of Toyota common stock for ADSs, and exchanges of ADSs for shares of Toyota common stock, will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax. Unless otherwise noted, references in this section to shares of Toyota common stock include shares represented by ADSs.

The Share Exchange

Treatment of the Share Exchange

The share exchange has not been structured to achieve a particular treatment for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and Toyota and Daihatsu have no obligation to structure the share exchange in a manner that is tax-free to U.S. Holders. As structured, however, the share exchange is expected to qualify as tax-deferred reorganization under the provisions of Section 368(a) of the Code, but such qualification depends on the resolution of issues and facts that will not be known until the date of the share exchange. Neither Toyota nor Daihatsu has obtained or will obtain a ruling from the IRS or an opinion of U.S. counsel that the share exchange will qualify as a reorganization. The following sections describe the tax consequences that will be applicable to a U.S. Holder (i) if the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization and (ii) if the share exchange does not qualify as a reorganization.

Table of Contents*Share Exchange Qualifies as a Reorganization*

Assuming that the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization, and subject to the discussion under Ownership and Disposition of Shares of Toyota Common Stock Passive Foreign Investment Company Considerations below, no gain or loss will be recognized by a U.S. Holder on the exchange of shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange, except with respect to any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock. Cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock will be treated as a payment in exchange for the fractional shares of Toyota common stock, resulting in gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount of cash received for the fractional shares of Toyota common stock and the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis attributable to the fractional shares of Toyota common stock.

The aggregate tax basis of the shares of Toyota common stock received by the U.S. Holder in exchange for shares of Daihatsu common stock will equal the aggregate tax basis of the U.S. Holder's shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged in the share exchange, reduced by any tax basis attributable to fractional shares of Toyota common stock treated as exchanged for cash and increased by the amount of gain recognized in the share exchange. The holding period of the shares of Toyota common stock received in the share exchange will include the holding period of the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged for the shares of Toyota common stock. If the U.S. Holder acquired different blocks of shares of Daihatsu common stock at different times and at different prices, the tax basis and holding period of the shares of Toyota common stock the U.S. Holder received in the share exchange will be determined separately with respect to each block of the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged for shares of Toyota common stock and the shares of Toyota common stock received by the U.S. Holder will be allocated pro rata to each such block of shares.

Any gain or loss recognized by a U.S. Holder upon the share exchange will be capital gain or loss and will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder's holding period for the shares of Daihatsu common stock exceeds one year at the time of the share exchange. Long-term capital gains of non-corporate U.S. Holders, including individuals, currently are subject to reduced rates of taxation. Any gain recognized by a U.S. Holder will be treated as U.S. source income for U.S. foreign tax credit purposes. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to complex limitations under the Code.

5% Transferee Shareholders

Additional, special rules will apply to a U.S. Holder that is a 5% Transferee Shareholder following the share exchange if the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization. To avoid the recognition of gain in the share exchange, a 5% Transferee Shareholder will need to enter into a gain recognition agreement in accordance with applicable U.S. Treasury regulations. In addition, the 5% Transferee Shareholder will be required to file certain annual information statements with its U.S. federal income tax returns for each of the first five full taxable years following the taxable year of the share exchange. U.S. Holders that may be 5% Transferee Shareholders following the share exchange should consult their own tax advisors regarding the requirements that may apply to them.

Share Exchange Does Not Qualify as a Reorganization

If the share exchange does not qualify as a reorganization, and subject to the discussion under Ownership and Disposition of Shares of Toyota Common Stock Passive Foreign Investment Company Considerations below, a U.S. Holder that exchanges its shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the sum of (a) the fair market value of the shares of Toyota common stock received and (b) any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and (ii) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged.

Such gain or loss will be capital gain or loss and will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder's holding period for the shares of Daihatsu common stock exceeds one year at the time of the share exchange.

Table of Contents

Long-term capital gains of non-corporate U.S. Holders, including individuals, currently are subject to reduced rates of taxation. Any gain recognized by a U.S. Holder will be treated as U.S. source income for U.S. foreign tax credit purposes. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to complex limitations under the Code.

A U.S. Holder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Toyota common stock received will be the fair market value of those shares on the date the U.S. Holder receives them. The U.S. Holder's holding period for shares of Toyota common stock received in the share exchange will begin on the day after the date the U.S. Holder receives those shares.

Dissenters' Rights

Regardless of whether the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization, a U.S. Holder that properly exercises dissenters' appraisal rights with respect to shares of Daihatsu common stock will recognize taxable capital gain or loss based upon the difference between the amount of cash received by such U.S. Holder (including any Japanese taxes withheld, as described under Japanese Tax Consequences Consequences of the Share Exchange) and the U.S. Holder's tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged. Such gain or loss will be capital gain or loss and will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder's holding period for the shares of Daihatsu common stock exceeds one year. Long-term capital gains of non-corporate U.S. Holders, including individuals, currently are subject to reduced rates of taxation. Any gain realized by a U.S. Holder will be treated as U.S. source income for U.S. foreign tax credit purposes. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to complex limitations under the Code.

Records and Reporting Requirements

If the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization, U.S. Holder that is a significant holder within the meaning of U.S. Treasury regulations Section 1.368-3(c)(1) will be required to attach a statement to its U.S. federal income tax return for the year in which the share exchange occurs that contains the information listed in U.S. Treasury regulations Section 1.368-3(b), including the U.S. Holder's tax basis in its shares of Daihatsu common stock and the fair market value of the U.S. Holder's shares of Daihatsu common stock immediately before they were exchanged for shares of Toyota common stock. A significant holder includes a holder of at least 5% (by vote or value) of the stock of a corporation if the stock is publicly traded within the meaning of U.S. Treasury regulations Section 1.368-3(c)(2) or a holder of securities of a corporation with a basis of $1 million or more.

All U.S. Holders should keep records regarding the number, basis and fair market value of their shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged for shares of Toyota common stock. All U.S. Holders, including any potential 5% Transferee Shareholders, should consult their own tax advisors regarding any record-keeping and reporting requirements applicable to them in respect of the share exchange.

Ownership and Disposition of Shares of Toyota Common Stock*Distributions*

Subject to the discussion under Passive Foreign Investment Company Considerations below, the gross amount of distributions paid to a U.S. Holder with respect to shares of Toyota common stock, including any Japanese tax withheld, will be treated as dividend income to the extent paid out of Toyota's current or accumulated earnings and profits, as determined under U.S. federal income tax principles. Dividend income will be includible in gross income on the day it is actually or constructively received by the U.S. Holder, in the case of shares of Toyota common stock, or by the depositary, in the case of ADSs. These dividends will not be eligible for the dividends received deduction allowed to corporations under the Code in respect of dividends received from other U.S. corporations. To the extent amounts paid with respect to shares of Toyota common stock exceed Toyota's current and accumulated earnings and profits, those amounts will instead be treated first as a tax-free return of capital to the extent of the U.S. Holder's basis in the shares of Toyota common stock, and thereafter as capital gain.

Table of Contents

Subject to the discussion under Passive Foreign Investment Company Considerations below, dividends paid by a qualified foreign corporation to non-corporate U.S. Holders, including individuals, are subject to reduced rates of taxation, provided certain holding period requirements are satisfied. A qualified foreign corporation includes a foreign corporation that is eligible for the benefits of an income tax treaty with the United States that meets certain requirements. The U.S. Treasury Department has determined that the Treaty meets these requirements, and it is expected that Toyota will be eligible for the benefits of the Treaty. U.S. Holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the availability of the reduced tax rate on dividends in their particular circumstances.

The amount of any dividend paid in Japanese yen will equal the U.S. dollar value of the Japanese yen received calculated by reference to the exchange rate in effect on the date the dividend is received by the U.S. Holder, regardless of whether the Japanese yen are converted into U.S. dollars on such date. If the Japanese yen received as a dividend are not converted into U.S. dollars on the date of receipt, a U.S. Holder will have a basis in the Japanese yen equal to their U.S. dollar value on the date of receipt. Any gain or loss realized on a subsequent conversion or other disposition of the Japanese yen will be treated as U.S. source ordinary income or loss.

Subject to certain limitations, Japanese tax withheld on dividends will be treated as a foreign tax eligible for credit or deduction against a U.S. Holder's U.S. federal income tax. See Japanese Tax Consequences Ownership and Disposition of Toyota Shares for a discussion of the Japanese withholding tax and, if applicable, how to obtain the reduced withholding tax rate. Special rules apply in determining the U.S. foreign tax credit limitation with respect to dividends received by non-corporate U.S. Holders that are subject to the reduced rates of taxation described above. The decision to claim either a credit or a deduction must be made each year, and will apply to all foreign taxes paid by a U.S. Holder to any foreign country with respect to that year. Dividends paid on shares of Toyota common stock will be treated as income from sources outside the United States and will constitute passive income or, in the case of certain U.S. Holders, general category income for U.S. foreign tax credit purposes. The rules relating to the determination of the U.S. foreign tax credit are complex and U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors to determine whether and to what extent a credit would be available in their particular circumstances.

Sale or Other Disposition of Shares of Toyota Common Stock

Subject to the discussion under Passive Foreign Investment Company Considerations below, a U.S. Holder will recognize taxable gain or loss on any sale or other taxable disposition of shares of Toyota common stock in an amount equal to the difference between the amount realized for the shares of Toyota common stock and such U.S. Holder's tax basis in the shares of Toyota common stock. The gain or loss will be capital gain or loss, and will be long-term capital gain or loss if the U.S. Holder's holding period for the shares of Toyota common stock exceeds one year at the time of sale or other disposition. Long-term capital gains of non-corporate U.S. Holders, including individuals, currently are subject to reduced rates of taxation. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations. Capital gain or loss recognized by a U.S. Holder on the shares of Toyota common stock will be treated as U.S. source gain or loss for U.S. foreign tax credit purposes.

Passive Foreign Investment Company Considerations

Special, unfavorable, U.S. federal income tax rules will apply to U.S. Holders that have held shares of Daihatsu common stock or will hold shares of Toyota common stock if Daihatsu or Toyota has been or is a PFIC at any time during which the U.S. Holder has held or holds shares of Daihatsu common stock or Toyota common stock, and may change the treatment of distributions on and dispositions of shares of Toyota common stock described above and the treatment of the exchange of shares of Daihatsu common stock pursuant to the share exchange. A non-U.S. corporation is classified as a PFIC for U.S. federal income tax purposes in any taxable year if (i) at least 75% of its gross income is passive income or (ii) at least 50% of the gross value of its assets (based on an average of the quarterly values of the assets) is attributable to assets that produce passive income or are held for the production of passive income.

Table of Contents

Toyota does not believe that Daihatsu was a PFIC for the fiscal year ended March 31, 2016, and does not expect Daihatsu to be a PFIC for Daihatsu's current fiscal year, based on the expected composition of its income and assets. Neither Toyota nor Daihatsu has made a determination whether Daihatsu was a PFIC for any taxable year ending prior to March 31, 2016. Toyota does not believe that it was a PFIC for U.S. federal income tax purposes for its taxable year ended March 31, 2016, and intends to continue its operations in such a manner that it will not become a PFIC in the future. Because the PFIC determination is made annually after the end of the taxable year and the application of the PFIC rules to a corporation such as Toyota (which among other things is engaged in leasing and financing through several subsidiaries) is not entirely clear, no assurances can be made regarding determination of the PFIC status of either Daihatsu or Toyota in the current or any future taxable year. U.S. Holders should consult their own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal income tax consequences applicable to their own tax situation.

If the share exchange qualifies as a reorganization and Daihatsu has been a PFIC at any time during the holding period of a U.S. Holder, assuming that Toyota is not a PFIC in the taxable year of the share exchange, as expected, and U.S. Holders of Daihatsu have not made certain elections with respect to Daihatsu, such a U.S. Holder would likely recognize gain (but not loss) upon the exchange of its shares of Daihatsu common stock for shares of Toyota common stock pursuant to the share exchange. The gain will be equal to the difference between (i) the sum of (a) the fair market value of the shares of Toyota common stock received and (b) any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and (ii) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged. If the share exchange does not qualify as a reorganization and Daihatsu has been a PFIC at any time during the holding period of a U.S. Holder, a U.S. Holder will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between (i) the sum of (a) the fair market value of the shares of Toyota common stock received and (b) any cash received in lieu of fractional shares of Toyota common stock and (ii) the U.S. Holder's adjusted tax basis in the shares of Daihatsu common stock exchanged. Further, if Toyota was a PFIC at any time during the holding period of a U.S. Holder, gain on disposition of shares of Toyota common stock and any distribution in excess of 125% of the average of the annual distributions on shares of Toyota common stock received by the U.S. Holder during the preceding three years or the U.S. Holder's holding period (whichever is shorter) would be subject to the PFIC rules. Finally, if Toyota was a PFIC for the taxable year in which a dividend was paid or the preceding year, such dividends would not be eligible for reduced rates of taxation as described above under Distributions.

In each case described in the preceding paragraph, in the absence of certain elections, the gain and any excess distributions will be allocated ratably to each day that the U.S. Holder held the shares of Daihatsu common stock or Toyota common stock (as applicable). Amounts allocated to the current taxable year and to any taxable years before Daihatsu or Toyota (as applicable) became a PFIC will be treated as ordinary income in the U.S. Holder's current taxable year. In addition, amounts allocated to each other taxable year beginning with the taxable year that Daihatsu or Toyota (as applicable) became a PFIC will be taxed at the highest rate in effect for that taxable year on ordinary income. The tax will be subject to an interest charge at the rate applicable to underpayments of income tax. If a U.S. Holder owns shares of Daihatsu common stock or Toyota common stock in any year in which Daihatsu or Toyota is a PFIC, the U.S. Holder will be required to file IRS Form 8621 (or any other form subsequently specified by the U.S. Department of the Treasury) with the U.S. Holder's U.S. federal income tax return.

U.S. Holders should consult their own tax advisors with respect to the U.S. federal income tax consequences applicable to their own tax situation.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding

Information reporting requirements will apply to (i) cash payments received, if any, in the share exchange, (ii) dividends in respect of shares of Toyota common stock, and (iii) the proceeds received on the sale or other disposition of shares of Toyota common stock within the United States, and, in some cases, outside of the United States by a U.S. Holder unless such U.S. Holder is an exempt recipient. In addition, backup withholding may apply to such amounts if a U.S. Holder fails to provide an accurate taxpayer identification number or fails either to report dividends required to be shown on U.S. federal income tax returns or to make certain certifications. The amount of any backup withholding from a payment may be allowed as a credit against a U.S. Holder's U.S. federal income tax liability, provided the required information is furnished to the IRS in a timely manner.

Certain U.S. Holders who are individuals that hold certain foreign financial assets (which may include shares of Toyota common stock) are required to report information relating to such assets, subject to certain exceptions. U.S. Holders should consult their tax advisors regarding the effect, if any, of this reporting requirement on their ownership and disposition of shares of common stock or ADSs.

COMPARISON OF SHAREHOLDERS RIGHTS

Upon the effectiveness of the share exchange, the shareholders of Daihatsu will become shareholders of Toyota common stock. Both Toyota and Daihatsu are joint stock corporations organized under the laws of Japan. Toyota common stock is traded on the Tokyo Stock Exchange, the Nagoya Stock Exchange and two other regional stock exchanges in Japan and on the London Stock Exchange. Toyota's ADSs, each representing two shares of Toyota common stock, are listed on the NYSE under the ticker symbol TM. Daihatsu common stock is listed on the Tokyo Stock Exchange. In addition, the description of the attributes of shares of common stock in the share capital provisions of the articles of incorporation of Toyota and Daihatsu are substantially similar. As a result, there are no material differences between the rights of holders of Toyota common stock and of Daihatsu common stock from a legal perspective.

VI Grounds for Responses

1 Referral (1)

(1) Introduction

According to the draft of the Press Release, the purpose of the Share Exchange is substantially as described below.

Description

Since product, technology and business strategies have been established separately for the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand, it is recognized that there are issues to address in the area of compact vehicles with respect to the product lineups that satisfy diversified customer needs, speedy business development and brand management.

In order to realize sustainable growth, the Toyota group needs to work to implement integrated global strategies. More specifically, while improving the products and services under their own brand, Toyota and Daihatsu must go beyond the existing frameworks and utilize the technology and knowhow in the production of quality and affordable cars in which Daihatsu specializes, as well as further strengthen their mutually complementary relationship.

Under these circumstances, it is essential to clearly demarcate the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand and mutually utilize the two companies' strengths to the maximum extent in order to globally expand the product lineups that are attractive to the customers of these brands and that can satisfy diversified customer needs. This will also result in the improvement of corporate value for both companies.

Toyota and Daihatsu will focus on the following strategies going forward in the compact vehicle field to further strengthen their ties, in which Daihatsu will play the principal role.

i Compact car strategy: Providing globally competitive compact cars based on technology accumulated with light vehicles

Daihatsu intends to evolve the Daihatsu brand into a global brand with a unique value that draws on Daihatsu's strength in providing customer-desired products and services more quickly and at a more affordable price than any competitor. In addition, to meet globally diversified needs, the Toyota group will differentiate the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand and expand the product lineups of these brands and make them optimal to their customers.

App. C-4

Table of Contentsii Technological strategy: Combining cutting-edge group technology foundation and low-cost technology

Toyota and Daihatsu will share their technological strategies from the initial conception stage and create a corporate structure that simultaneously realizes the development of cutting-edge technology and cost reduction. More specifically, Toyota will develop technologies such as electrified powertrain technology and information technology that will evolve cars in the areas of environment, safety, security, and comfort technology. Daihatsu will further explore its current advantages such as space-efficient packaging ability, low-cost technology and fuel-efficient technology (such as weight reduction and conventional technologies) and will seek to provide products that are more appealing than its competitors in a timely manner by, for example, realizing cost reduction and miniaturization of Toyota's advanced technologies and incorporating such technologies in compact cars offered by Daihatsu.

iii Business strategy: Central role in car production in emerging markets

In the emerging markets, Daihatsu will play the main role in manufacturing activities, including development, procurement and production, as Toyota and Daihatsu will mutually utilize the other's business foundation. This will allow Toyota to supplement products with competitiveness and effectively shift resources, and allow Daihatsu to enter and operate more expeditiously and efficiently in new regions where it had been difficult for Daihatsu to enter due to the risks involved.

In this way, both Daihatsu and Toyota will change their current relationship, in which they mainly operate their own brand businesses while supporting the other's business, into one in which Daihatsu will lead the light vehicle and the compact car businesses of the Toyota group. Toyota and Daihatsu will make common any car production process that should be made common but also separately evolve and seek to differentiate their own brand in order to offer attractive and globally-competitive products that satisfy diverse customer needs by making the most of the distinctiveness of both brands.

In order to accomplish these measures, it is indispensable for the two companies to build a closer relationship than ever in such efforts as combining their technology, knowhow and business infrastructure and flexibly carrying out a common strategy as well as clarifying responsibilities and streamlining decision-making between the two companies. Accordingly, Toyota and Daihatsu discussed and concluded that it was appropriate to make Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

We have examined below whether it can be said that the purpose described above is reasonable such that it will contribute to the improvement of your corporate value.

(2) Environment surrounding you, your future initiatives and background to Share ExchangeA Environment surrounding you

Due to the drastic changes in the environment surrounding the automobile industry such as the global popularization of environmentally-friendly vehicles in pursuit of a low carbon-emission society, more active initiatives for increased safety performance and information technology, and a global downsizing trend technologies required for automobile development are becoming more advanced, complicated and diversified. Accordingly, you recognize that the business environment will become even harsher in the future, anticipating that competitors will launch products incorporating advanced technologies such as electrified powertrain technology and information technology that are expected to further evolve and become widely used.

In emerging countries a future growth market for the automobile industry automobiles, mainly entry-level cars, are rapidly becoming more popular and a quantitative business expansion on a global basis will bring about competitive advantage. However, you recognize that to ensure such competitive advantage, it is important to also expand business into emerging countries with significant expected future growth in addition to Indonesia and Malaysia where you are already operating.

App. C-5

Table of Contents

B Your future initiatives

In light of the fact that the development of automobiles requires a significant period of time, you believe you need to promptly take measures to address the current business environment described above.

More specifically, you believe you need to implement the following initiatives.

- (i) To develop products pursuing low-cost and fuel-efficient technologies that are essential features of light vehicles, create customer-desired products and services more quickly than competitors and launch new attractive products. As part of such effort, you need to swiftly adopt next-generation technologies such as electrified powertrain technology and information technology, which will also be beneficial for the further growth of your existing business.
- (ii) To actively tap into emerging markets other than Indonesia and Malaysia and develop new markets for further growth in the future.

C Challenges in realizing the above initiatives

You recognize that you will face the following challenges in implementing the future initiatives described in B above.

- (i) It is an urgent need to respond to the next-generation technologies such as electrified powertrain technology and information technology, but partly because such response will require a considerable amount of money and time, there is a limit to your fully doing this with your own resources.
- (ii) Considering that you have only operated in Indonesia and Malaysia outside Japan thus far, there is a limit to your being able to develop overseas markets on your own going forward because you will need to create a business infrastructure anew, which will require a considerable amount of resources and entail great risk.

D Solving the above challenges through the Share Exchange

You believe that you will be able to solve the challenges described in C above as follows through the Share Exchange.

- (i) By combining the world's leading next-generation technologies that Toyota currently has (including electrified powertrain technology and information technology) and your advantages in small cars (including packaging ability, low-cost technology and fuel-efficient technology (such as weight reduction and conventional technologies)), the two companies' knowhow and resources will complement each other and you will be able to quickly respond to increasingly advanced and complicated automobile technologies to which you cannot fully respond on your own.

- (ii) By becoming a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota, you will be able to capitalize on Toyota's overseas resources as well as its overseas development and sales capabilities, which will allow you to actively enter and operate in emerging countries and further expand business in a short term.

Therefore, it can be considered that your challenges will be resolved through the Share Exchange.

App. C-6

Table of Contents

(3) Conclusion

The Share Exchange will contribute to the improvement of your corporate value and the purpose of the Share Exchange is reasonable.

2 Referral (2)

(1) Introduction

According to the draft of the Press Release, the share exchange ratio between the common stock of Toyota and your common stock in the Share Exchange is such that Toyota will allot 0.26 shares of Toyota common stock for each share of your common stock (the Share Exchange Ratio).

We have examined below, based on the Share Exchange Ratio Valuation Report that you obtained from SMBC Nikko Securities and other information, whether it can be said that the terms and conditions, including the Share Exchange Ratio, of the Share Exchange are fair. We note that SMBC Nikko Securities is independent of both you and Toyota.

(2) Methods of analysis adopted by SMBC Nikko Securities

According to the Share Exchange Ratio Valuation Report, in connection with the valuation of the share exchange ratio, SMBC Nikko Securities adopted (i) the market price analysis and (ii) the DCF analysis in valuing common stock of both companies that formed the basis of the valuation of the share exchange ratio. Accordingly, in relation to the valuation of your and Toyota's common stock, we have examined whether it can be said that adopting these methods is appropriate and whether anything particularly unreasonable is found in the valuation of the share exchange ratio performed through each such analysis.

A (i) Market price analysis

Since shares of common stock of you and Toyota are listed on the first section of the Tokyo Stock Exchange, market prices, which are objective prices formed by supply and demand from a large number of investors, exist. Therefore, it can be said that adopting (i) the market price analysis in this valuation is appropriate.

Furthermore, in this valuation, your common stock was valued based on a share price calculated based on four references, which were the closing price on the valuation base date (January 26, 2016, which was the business day immediately prior to the date of media coverage regarding the Share Exchange) and the simple average of the closing share prices for the most recent one-month period, three-month period and six-month period.

Although you made a downward revision of earnings on November 2, 2015 (the Downward Revision), it was confirmed through questioning that (a) you would usually determine the possibility of revision of earnings at such interim point in each financial year and the Downward Revision was made through usual procedures and (b) that the Downward Revision was made without assuming the existence of the Share Exchange.

Given the above, nothing particularly unreasonable was found in the valuation of the share exchange ratio through (i) the market price analysis used in the Share Exchange Ratio Valuation Report.

B (ii) DCF analysis

Since it is expected that you and Toyota will continue business activities and generate certain revenues in the future, in order to calculate the present value of your and Toyota's common stock objectively, it is thought that the present value of your and Toyota's common stock need to be calculated by reflecting cash flows to be generated by you and Toyota through such business activities in the future.

App. C-7

Table of Contents

Consequently, it is appropriate to adopt (ii) the DCF analysis in this valuation.

Your business plan that SMBC Nikko Securities referenced in performing (ii) the DCF analysis in this valuation was prepared substantially with the following background:

In recent years you had not prepared a medium-term business plan, but you prepared a business plan for the purpose of its being used as a reference in valuing your common stock in the valuation of the share exchange ratio (synergetic effects of the Share Exchange were not taken into account). No party related to Toyota was involved in the process of developing the business plan.

SMBC Nikko Securities also received a business plan from Toyota in order to value the Toyota common stock.

Furthermore, according to SMBC Nikko Securities, it performed the DCF analysis by applying to the business plans that each of you and Toyota reasonably prepared based on the best projection and judgment the discount rate that was calculated based on the general CAPM theory based on your and Toyota's financial positions and market data. Regarding the other methods in the analysis, SMBC Nikko Securities indicated that it also used general approaches.

Given the above, the process of developing the business plan that is the basis of the valuation and the methods of analysis based on such plan can be viewed as appropriate, and nothing particularly unreasonable was found in the valuation of the share exchange ratio through (ii) the DCF analysis used in the Share Exchange Ratio Valuation Report.

(3) Background of negotiations for the Share Exchange Ratio

In relation to the Share Exchange Ratio, multiple negotiations were held between you and Toyota, and eventually, the Share Exchange Ratio was agreed upon to be [Toyota:you = 1:0.26]. As described in 3(2)B below, none of your directors who have a material relationship with Toyota participated in such negotiations, and it could be said that the Share Exchange Ratio was agreed upon after diligent negotiations without concerns for conflicts of interest.

(4) Conclusion

The Share Exchange Ratio exceeds both the share exchange ratio range of 0.21 ~ 0.22 using (i) the market price analysis and the median value of the share exchange ratio range of 0.20 ~ 0.28 using (ii) the DCF analysis indicated in the Share Exchange Ratio Valuation Report. As stated above, nothing particularly unreasonable was found in the valuation in the Share Exchange Ratio Valuation Report. Furthermore, as stated above, the Share Exchange Ratio was agreed upon after diligent negotiations between you and Toyota.

Given the above, it can be said that the fairness of the terms and conditions, including the share exchange ratio, of the Share Exchange is ensured.

3 Referral (3)

In relation to Referral (3), we have examined below whether it can be said that the interests of your minority shareholders are fully considered in the Share Exchange through fair procedures from the following two points of view: (1) ensuring an appropriate opportunity for shareholders to decide and (2) eliminating arbitrariness in the decision-making process and ensuring objective situation that guarantees appropriateness of the share exchange ratio.

App. C-8

Table of Contents

(1) Ensuring an appropriate opportunity for shareholders to decide

A Thorough disclosure of process and other background leading to the consummation of the Share Exchange

Based on the draft of the Press Release regarding the Share Exchange, it is understood that information substantially as below will be disclosed in relation to the process and other background leading to the consummation of the Share Exchange.

Description

Due to the drastic changes in the environment surrounding the automobile industry in recent years such as the global popularization of environmentally-friendly vehicles in pursuit of a low carbon-emission society, more active initiatives for increased safety performance and information technology, and a global downsizing trend technologies required for automobile development are becoming more advanced, complicated and diversified.

The globally-growing market of compact vehicles is an important market. In emerging countries, the entry-level car market is expanding due to economic development, and in advanced countries, vehicles are being made smaller due to environmental and traffic concerns. However, because product, technology and business strategies have been established separately for the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand, Toyota group recognizes that there are issues to address in the area of compact vehicles with respect to the product lineups that satisfy diversified customer needs, speedy business development and brand management. In order for the Toyota group to address these challenges with greater speed, and not only to maintain and expand its market share but also to contribute to realizing sustainable growth of the automobile industry through the production of ever better cars, it is believed that the Toyota group needs to work to implement integrated global strategies. More specifically, while improving the products and services under their own brand, Toyota and Daihatsu must go beyond the existing frameworks and utilize the technology and knowhow in the production of quality and affordable cars in which Daihatsu specializes, as well as further strengthen their mutually complementary relationship.

Under these circumstances, Toyota and Daihatsu have come to share an understanding that it is essential to clearly demarcate the Toyota brand and the Daihatsu brand and mutually utilize the two companies' strengths to the maximum extent in order to globally expand the product lineups that are attractive to the customers of these brands and that can satisfy diversified customer needs. The two companies have come to believe that this will also result in the improvement of corporate value for both companies.

Given that, both Daihatsu and Toyota have come to believe that it is necessary to change their current relationship, in which they mainly operate their own brand businesses while supporting the other's business, into one in which Daihatsu will lead the light vehicle and the compact car businesses of the Toyota group, as well as to make common any car production process that should be made common but also separately evolve and differentiate their own brand in order to offer attractive and globally-competitive products that satisfy diverse customer needs by making the most of the distinctiveness of both brands. In order to accomplish these measures, it is indispensable for the two companies to build a closer relationship than ever in such efforts as combining their technology, knowhow and business infrastructure and flexibly carrying out a common strategy, as well as clarifying responsibilities and streamlining decision-making between the two companies. Accordingly, Toyota and Daihatsu discussed and concluded that it was appropriate to make Daihatsu a wholly-owned subsidiary of Toyota.

Table of Contents

- B Thorough explanation on details of a material relationship that Toyota has in connection with the Share Exchange

In the Press Release, it has been explained that since Toyota already owns 218,649,990 shares of your common stock (51.19% of the voting rights of the 427,122,966 total issued shares as of December 31, 2015) and you are a consolidated subsidiary of Toyota, it is necessary to ensure fairness of the Share Exchange.

- (2) Eliminating arbitrariness in the decision-making process and ensuring objective situation that guarantees reasonableness of the share exchange ratio

- A Questions regarding the merits and terms and conditions of the transaction referred to outside directors or independent third-party committee, and giving respect to their judgment

You established the Committee consisting of three (3) members – an attorney, a certified public accountant and a graduate school professor – who have no material relationship with you or Toyota, and referred to the Committee the questions of whether (i) the purpose of the Share Exchange is reasonable (including whether the Share Exchange will contribute to the improvement of your corporate value), (ii) the fairness of the terms and conditions (including the Share Exchange Ratio) of the Share Exchange is ensured, (iii) the interests of your minority shareholders are fully considered in the Share Exchange through fair procedures, and (iv) based on (i) through (iii) above, the resolution by your board of directors to consummate the Share Exchange would not be disadvantageous to your minority shareholders, and requested the Committee to submit its opinion to your board of directors.

It is not clear at the moment whether your board of directors will give respect to the Committee’s judgment, but in light of the background of establishment of the Committee, it seems highly likely that your board of directors will respect the Committee’s judgment.

- B Unanimous approval by the directors and audit & supervisory members, excluding those who have a material relationship with the controlling shareholder

Among your directors, the director who concurrently serves as a director of Toyota, the director who was Senior Managing Officer of Toyota until June 2015 and the director who was an employee of Toyota until March 2013 did not participate in any of the discussions regarding or voting on the Share Exchange at your board of directors meetings, and did not participate in any of the discussions and negotiations with Toyota regarding the Share Exchange on your behalf, in order to avoid actual and potential conflicts of interest.

Among your outside audit & supervisory board members, one member also serves as Senior Advisor to the Board and Senior Technical Executive of Toyota, and thus neither participated in any of the discussions at your board of directors meetings regarding the Share Exchange nor expressed his opinion thereon in order to avoid conflicts of interest.

(4) If a director or an audit & supervisory board member, without any fault on his part, sustains damage through the management of the affairs entrusted to him, he may demand compensation therefor from the company. Under Article 388 of the Companies Act, a company may not refuse a demand from an audit & supervisory board member referred to in subparagraphs (1) through (3) above unless the company establishes that the relevant expense or obligation was or is not necessary for the performance of the audit & supervisory board member's duties.

The Registrant maintains insurance on behalf of its directors and audit & supervisory board members against liabilities asserted against them in shareholder derivative or other lawsuits.

aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information in the Registration Statement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any increase or decrease in volume of securities offered (if the total dollar value of securities offered would not exceed that which was registered) and any deviation from the low or high end of the estimated maximum offering range may be reflected in the form of prospectus filed with the Commission pursuant to Rule 424(b) if, in the aggregate, the changes in volume and price represent no more than a 20 percent change in the maximum aggregate offering price set forth in the Calculation of Registration Fee table in the effective Registration Statement; and

- (iii) to include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the Registration Statement or any material change to such information in the Registration Statement.
- (2) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
- (3) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.
- (4) To file a post-effective amendment to the Registration Statement to include any financial statements required by Item 8.A. of Form 20-F at the start of any delayed offering or throughout a continuous offering. - (5) That, for purpose of determining any liability under the U.S. Securities Act of 1933, each filing of the registrant's annual report pursuant to section 13(a) or section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (and, where applicable, each filing of an employee benefit plan's annual report pursuant to 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) that is incorporated by reference in the registration statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.
- (6) That prior to any public reoffering of the securities registered hereunder through use of a prospectus which is a part of this Registration Statement, by any person or party who is deemed to be an underwriter within the meaning of Rule 145(c), the Registrant undertakes that such reoffering prospectus will contain the information called for by the applicable registration form with respect to reofferings by persons who may be deemed underwriters, in addition to the information called for by the other items of the applicable form.
- (7) That every prospectus (i) that is filed pursuant to paragraph (6) immediately preceding, or (ii) that purports to meet the requirements of Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933 and is used in connection with an offering of securities subject to Rule 415, will be filed as a part of an amendment to the Registration

- (b) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes: (i) to respond to requests for information that is incorporated by reference into the prospectus pursuant to Item 4, 10(b), 11 or 13 of this form, within one business day of receipt of such request, and to send the incorporated documents by first class mail or other equally prompt means; and (ii) to arrange or provide for a facility in the U.S. for the purpose of responding to such requests.

The undertaking in subparagraph (i) above includes information contained in documents filed subsequent to the effective date of the Registration Statement through the date of responding to the request.

- (c) The undersigned Registrant hereby undertakes to supply by means of a post-effective amendment all information concerning a transaction and the company being acquired involved therein, that was not the subject of and included in the Registration Statement when it became effective.

Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Securities Act of 1933 may be permitted to directors, officers or controlling persons of the Registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions, or otherwise, the Registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the Registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the Registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the Registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.
