Item 8.01 Other Events.

On December 17, 2007, Horizon Bancorp (“Horizon”) received from the Comptroller of the Currency (“OCC”) approval of Horizon’s request to eliminate the requirement to maintain regulatory capital ratios at 100 basis points above the “well capitalized” minimums. The OCC had imposed the additional capital requirements in connection with Horizon’s acquisition of Alliance Banking Company in June 2005. The OCC approval is effective immediately and, as a consequence, Horizon is now subject to the standard capital requirements.

As reported in our 10-Q for the nine months ended September 30, 2007, Horizon Bank's ratio of risk-based capital to risk-weighted assets was 10.77, which was below the required ratio after including the 100 basis point cushion but still exceeds the regulatory “well capitalized” minimum of 10.00.

Also, as previously reported, in connection with the OCC’s routine examination of Horizon Bank in 2003, the OCC raised the issue of the treatment of the loans in Horizon Bank’s mortgage warehousing portfolio for call report purposes. This issue remained open with the OCC until recently when the OCC concluded that the loans in the mortgage warehousing portfolio should be treated as commercial loans (and not mortgage loans) for risk-based capital purposes. This increased the risk-weighting for those loans from 50% to 100% and reduced Horizon Bank’s risk-based capital ratios. On December 17, 2007, Horizon also received from the OCC a more detailed analysis of the OCC’s reasons for concluding that Horizon Bank’s mortgage warehousing loans should be treated as commercial loans for risk-based capital purposes. Horizon is reviewing the OCC’s analysis and will decide upon the appropriate course of action after its review. Horizon may elect to further challenge the OCC’s position on this matter.
