SUBJECT TO COMPLETION, DATED NOVEMBER 1, 2005 MERGER PROPOSED YOUR VOTE IS VERY IMPORTANT

The boards of directors of Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation and Inamed Corporation have each unanimously approved the merger of Medicis and Inamed. We are proposing the merger because we believe it will benefit the stockholders of each of our respective companies by creating more stockholder value than either company could create individually and allowing stockholders to participate in a larger, more diversified company.

If the proposed merger is completed, Inamed stockholders will receive 1.4205 shares of Medicis common stock and $30.00 in cash for each share of Inamed common stock they own. As a result, Medicis will issue approximately million shares of Medicis common stock and pay $ billion in cash, based on the number of shares of Inamed common stock outstanding on , 2005. We estimate that immediately after the merger, on a fully-diluted basis, Inamed stockholders will hold approximately % of the then-outstanding shares of Medicis common stock, based on the number of shares of Medicis common stock and Inamed common stock outstanding on , 2005. Medicis stockholders will continue to own their existing shares, which will not be affected by the merger. Medicis common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the trading symbol MRX. On , 2005, Medicis common stock closed at $ per share as reported on the New York Stock Exchange Composite Transaction Tape.

The merger cannot be completed unless Medicis stockholders approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger and Inamed stockholders adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger. The obligations of Medicis and Inamed to complete the merger are also subject to the satisfaction or waiver of several other conditions, including receiving approval and/or clearance from regulatory agencies, particularly the United States Federal Trade Commission, or FTC. The FTC has issued to both Medicis and Inamed a second request for information with respect to the merger, and the merger cannot be completed until this request has been satisfied. More information about Medicis, Inamed and the proposed merger is contained in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus. We encourage you to read carefully this joint proxy statement/ prospectus before voting, including the section entitled Risk Factors beginning on page 19.

Based on its review, the Medicis board of directors has determined that the merger agreement and the merger are advisable and fair to and in the best interests of Medicis and its stockholders and has unanimously approved the merger agreement and the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger. Based on its review, the Inamed board of directors has determined that the merger agreement and the merger are advisable and fair to and in the best interests of Inamed and its stockholders and has unanimously approved the merger agreement and the merger.

The Medicis board of directors unanimously recommends that Medicis stockholders vote FOR the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement. The Inamed board of directors unanimously recommends that Inamed stockholders vote FOR the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger.

The proposals are being presented to the respective stockholders of each company at their special meetings. The dates, times and places of the meetings are as follows:

For Medicis stockholders:
, 2005, a.m., local time

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE MERGER

The following are some questions that you, as a stockholder of Medicis or Inamed, may have regarding the merger and the other matters being considered at the respective special meetings of stockholders of Medicis and Inamed and brief answers to those questions. Medicis and Inamed urge you to read carefully the remainder of this joint proxy statement/prospectus because the information in this section does not provide all the information that might be important to you with respect to the merger and the other matters being considered at the respective special meetings of stockholders. Additional important information is also contained in the annexes to and the documents incorporated by reference in this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Q: Why are Medicis and Inamed stockholders receiving this joint proxy statement/ prospectus?

A: Medicis and Inamed have agreed to the merger of Medicis and Inamed under the terms of a merger agreement that is described in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus. A copy of the merger agreement is attached to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus as Annex A.

In order to complete the merger, Medicis stockholders must vote to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger and Inamed stockholders must adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger. Medicis and Inamed will hold separate special meetings of their respective stockholders to obtain these approvals.

This joint proxy statement/ prospectus contains important information about the merger, the merger agreement and the special meetings of the respective stockholders of Medicis and Inamed, which you should read carefully. The enclosed voting materials allow you to vote your shares without attending your respective company's special meeting.

Your vote is very important. We encourage you to vote as soon as possible.

Q: Why are Medicis and Inamed proposing the merger?

A: Medicis and Inamed both believe that the merger will provide substantial strategic and financial benefits to the stockholders of both companies because the merger will allow stockholders of both companies the opportunity to participate in a larger, more diversified company. We both also believe that the combination will create a stronger and more competitive company that is capable of creating more stockholder value than either Medicis or Inamed could on its own. The combined company will be a leading specialty pharmaceutical, aesthetic and obesity intervention products company. To review the reasons for the merger in greater detail, see Recommendation of the Medicis Board of Directors and Its Reasons for the Merger on page 62 and Recommendation of the Inamed Board of Directors and Its Reasons for the Merger on page 66.

Q: What will happen in the merger?

A: Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, Inamed will merge with and into Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Medicis, with Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. surviving and continuing as a wholly owned subsidiary of Medicis.

Q: What consideration will Inamed stockholders receive in the merger?

A: If the merger is completed, Inamed stockholders will have the right to receive 1.4205 shares of Medicis Class A common stock and $30 in cash for each share of Inamed common stock they own. Inamed stockholders will receive cash for any fractional share of Medicis common stock that they would otherwise be entitled to receive in the merger after aggregating all fractional shares to be received by them.

A: No. After the merger is completed, you will be sent written instructions for exchanging your share certificates for the merger consideration.

Q: How will Medicis stockholders be affected by the merger and issuance of Medicis common stock in the merger?

A: After the merger, Medicis stockholders will continue to own their existing shares of Medicis common stock. Accordingly, Medicis stockholders will hold the same number of shares of Medicis common stock that they held immediately prior to the merger. However, because Medicis will be issuing new shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders in the merger, each outstanding share of Medicis common stock immediately prior to the merger will represent a smaller percentage of the total number of shares of Medicis common stock outstanding after the merger.

Q: When do Medicis and Inamed expect the merger to be completed?

A: Medicis and Inamed are working to complete the merger as quickly as practicable and currently expect the merger to be completed by the end of calendar 2005. However, we cannot predict the exact timing of the completion of the merger because it is subject to regulatory approvals and other conditions. See Summary Conditions to Completion of the Merger on page 7. There may be a substantial period of time between the approval of the proposals by stockholders at the special meetings of Medicis and Inamed stockholders and the effectiveness of the merger.

Q: What are the United States federal income tax consequences of the merger?

A: It is generally expected that for United States federal income tax purposes the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the Internal Revenue Code), and the consummation of the merger is conditioned on the receipt by each of Medicis and Inamed of an opinion from its counsel to the effect that the merger will so qualify. Assuming that the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, then, in general, an Inamed stockholder:

will recognize gain (but not loss) with respect to its Inamed common stock in an amount equal to the lesser of (i) any gain realized with respect to such stock or (ii) the amount of cash received with respect to such stock (other than any cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock); and will recognize gain (or loss) to the extent any cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock exceeds (or is less than) the basis of such fractional share.

No gain or loss will be recognized by Medicis, Inamed or the Medicis stockholders as a result of the merger.

Tax matters are very complicated, and the tax consequences of the merger to an Inamed stockholder will depend on the facts of each stockholder's own situation. For a description of the material federal income tax consequences of the merger, please see the information set forth in Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences beginning on page 10. Inamed stockholders are also urged to consult their tax advisors for a full understanding of the tax consequences of the merger.

Q: Are Medicis and Inamed stockholders entitled to appraisal rights?

A: Under Delaware law, holders of Inamed common stock have the right to dissent from the merger and obtain payment in cash for the fair value of their shares of common stock, as determined by the Delaware Court of Chancery, rather than the merger consideration. To exercise appraisal rights, Inamed stockholders must strictly follow the procedures prescribed by Delaware law. These procedures are summarized under the section entitled The Merger Appraisal Rights on page 94. In addition, the text of the applicable provision of Delaware law is included as Annex F to this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Holders of Medicis common stock are not entitled to appraisal rights in connection with the issuance of Medicis common stock in the merger.

Please refer to the voting instruction card used by your broker, bank or nominee to see if you may submit voting instructions using the Internet or telephone.

Additionally, you may also vote in person by attending your respective company's special meeting of stockholders. If you plan to attend your respective company's special meeting and wish to vote in person, you will be given a ballot at the special meeting. Please note, however, that if your shares are held in street name, and you wish to vote at your respective company's special meeting, you must bring a proxy from the record holder of the shares authorizing you to vote at the special meeting. Medicis is a leading independent specialty pharmaceutical company focusing primarily on helping patients attain a healthy and youthful appearance and self-image through the development and marketing of products in the United States for the treatment of dermatologic and aesthetic conditions in the United States and Canada, and podiatric conditions in the United States. Medicis has built its business by executing a four-part growth strategy. This strategy consists of promoting existing core brands, developing new products and important product line extensions, entering into strategic collaborations, and acquiring complementary products, technologies and businesses. Medicis cultivates relationships of trust and confidence with the high prescribing dermatologists and podiatrists and the leading plastic surgeons in the United States.

Medicis offers a broad range of products addressing various conditions including acne, fungal infections, rosacea, hyperpigmentation, photoaging, psoriasis, eczema, skin and skin-structure infections, seborrheic dermatitis and cosmesis (improvement in the texture and appearance of skin).

Medicis has developed and obtained rights to pharmaceutical agents in various stages of development. Medicis has a variety of products under development, ranging from new products to existing product line extensions and reformulations of existing products. Medicis' strategy involves the rapid evaluation and formulation of new therapeutics by obtaining preclinical safety and efficacy data, when possible, followed by rapid safety and efficacy testing in humans. In March 2003, Medicis expanded into the dermal aesthetic market through its acquisition of the exclusive United States and Canadian rights to market, distribute and commercialize the dermal restorative products known as RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™. As a result of its increasing financial strength, Medicis has begun adding long-term projects to its development pipeline. Historically, Medicis has supplemented its research and development efforts by entering into research and development agreements with other pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies.

Medicis was incorporated in July 1987. Medicis' common stock is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol MRX.

Inamed Corporation

(805) 683-6761

Inamed is a global healthcare company that develops, manufactures, and markets a diverse line of products that enhance the quality of people's lives. These products include breast implants for aesthetic augmentation and reconstructive surgery following a mastectomy, a range of dermal products to correct facial wrinkles, the BioEnterics® LAP-BAND® System designed to treat severe and morbid obesity, and the BioEnterics® IntraGastric Balloon (BIB®) system for the treatment of obesity. Inamed's breast aesthetics products and facial aesthetics products are marketed under Inamed Aesthetics, and its obesity intervention products are marketed under Inamed Health.

Inamed develops, manufactures and markets a diverse line of breast implants, consisting of a variety of shapes, sizes and textures. Inamed's breast implants consist of a silicone elastomer shell filled with either a saline solution or silicone gel with varying degrees of cohesivity. This shell can consist of either a smooth or textured surface. Inamed markets its breast implants under the trade names McGhan® and CUI® and the trademarks BioCell®, MicroCell®, BioDimensional™, and Inamed®. Inamed's breast implants are available in a large number of variations to meet customers' preferences and needs.

Inamed develops, manufactures and markets dermal filler products designed to improve facial appearance by smoothing wrinkles and scars and enhancing the definition of facial structure. Inamed's primary facial aesthetics products are Zyderm™, Zyplast™, CosmoDerm®, CosmoPlast®, the Hylaform® product range, the Juvéderm™/Hydrafill® product range and Captique™. In July 2002, Inamed acquired the exclusive rights in the United States, Canada and Japan to sell Ipsen Ltd.'s botulinum toxin Type A product, branded as Reloxin® in the United States, for all cosmetic indications. In January 2004, Inamed acquired the exclusive rights to sell Juvéderm® in the United States, Canada, and Australia, and the non-exclusive rights to sell the product under a different name in various other countries.

Inamed also develops, manufactures and markets several devices for the treatment of obesity. Its principal product in this market area, the BioEnterics® LAP-BAND® System, is designed to provide minimally invasive long-term treatment of morbid obesity and is used as an alternative to gastric bypass surgery or stomach stapling. The BioEnterics® LAP-BAND® System is an adjustable silicone elastomer band which is laparoscopically placed around the upper part of the stomach through a small incision, creating a small pouch at the top of the stomach. This slows down the passage of food and makes the patient feel full sooner. Unlike a gastric bypass which is permanent, the BioEnterics® LAP-BAND® System procedure is adjustable and reversible.

McGhan Medical Corporation was incorporated in 1974 and was a manufacturer of silicone products for plastic and reconstructive surgery. In 1977, that business was sold to Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company, or 3M. In 1984, a newly formed McGhan Medical Corporation acquired the assets of 3M's silicone implant product line. In 1985, that corporation became a subsidiary of a publicly-held company through a merger with First American Corporation, a Florida corporation. In 1986, First American changed its name to Inamed Corporation. In December 1998, Inamed changed its state of incorporation to Delaware through a reincorporation merger. Inamed's common stock trades on the NASDAQ National Market (NASDAQ) under the symbol IMDC.

Medicis and Inamed have agreed to the merger of Medicis and Inamed under the terms of the merger agreement that is described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Pursuant to the merger agreement, Inamed will merge with and into Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Medicis, with Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. surviving the merger. We have attached the merger agreement as Annex A to this joint proxy statement/prospectus. We encourage you to carefully read the merger agreement in its entirety because it is the legal document that governs the merger.

Merger Consideration

If you are an Inamed stockholder, other than an Inamed stockholder that validly exercises appraisal rights under Delaware law, upon completion of the merger each of your shares of Inamed common stock will be converted into the right to receive 1.4205 shares of Medicis Class A common stock and $30.00 in cash, subject to such adjustments as may be necessary to preserve the expected United States federal income tax treatment of the merger. We refer to the share and cash consideration to be paid to the Inamed stockholders by Medicis as the merger consideration. Medicis stockholders will continue to own their existing shares which will not be affected by the merger, except that, because Medicis will be issuing new shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders in the merger, each outstanding share of Medicis common stock immediately prior to the merger will represent a smaller percentage of the total number of shares of Medicis common stock outstanding after the merger.

Fractional Shares

Medicis will not issue fractional shares of Medicis common stock in the merger. As a result, an Inamed stockholder will receive cash for any fractional share of Medicis common stock that they would otherwise be entitled to receive in the merger.

For a full description of the treatment of fractional shares, see The Merger Agreement – Fractional Shares on page 110.

Inamed Equity Awards

Upon completion of the merger, all options outstanding under Inamed's Non-Employee Director's Stock Option Plan, 1998 Stock Option Plan, 2003 Outside Director Compensation Plan, and 2004 Performance Stock Option Plan, and standalone stock option grants to certain executive officers will be assumed by Medicis and converted into options to purchase shares of Medicis common stock. All options outstanding under Inamed's 1999 Stock Option Plan and 2000 Stock Option Plan will be assumed by Medicis and converted into options to purchase the merger consideration that would have been received if such options had been exercised in full for Inamed common stock immediately prior to the closing of the merger and exchanged for the merger consideration. The conversion ratios and exercise prices will be determined in accordance with the merger agreement. In addition, under the terms of the merger agreement, the vesting requirements applicable to each Inamed stock option that was outstanding on March 20, 2005 and which remains outstanding upon the completion of the merger will automatically lapse and such options will become immediately vested and exercisable in full. In addition, certain of Inamed's outstanding stock options contain provisions which will cause such options to become immediately vested and exercisable in full upon stockholder approval of the merger. Except for certain adjustments to reflect the effects of the transaction or as otherwise described above, each outstanding Inamed stock option will continue to be governed by the terms and conditions of the relevant stock option plan and stock option agreement applicable to such stock option immediately prior to the closing of the merger.

All outstanding rights that Inamed may hold to acquire unvested shares of Inamed common stock approved pursuant to the Inamed 2003 Restricted Stock Plan prior to March 20, 2005 will lapse at the effective time of the merger if the holder of such restricted shares is still employed by Inamed on that date. All rights which Inamed may hold to acquire unvested shares approved after March 20, 2005 will be assigned to Medicis and will thereafter be exercisable upon the same terms and conditions in effect immediately prior to the merger, except for certain adjustments to reflect the effects of the transaction.

All purchase rights issued and outstanding under the Inamed employee stock purchase plan as of the date of Inamed stockholder approval of the merger will be exercised on such date. The employee stock purchase plan will be suspended, and no additional offering periods will commence on or after the date of Inamed stockholder approval of the merger. Inamed agreed to take all actions necessary to terminate its employee stock purchase plan no later than the effective time of the merger.

Recommendations of the Boards of Directors (see pages 62 and 66)

Medicis

The Medicis board of directors believes that the merger is fair to, and in the best interest of, Medicis and its stockholders and has declared the merger to be advisable to its stockholders, and unanimously recommends that Medicis stockholders vote FOR approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement. In addition, the Medicis board of directors unanimously recommends that Medicis stockholders vote FOR approval of the amendment to Medicis' certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis common stock and change Medicis name from Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation to Medicis and FOR the proposal to adjourn the Medicis special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Medicis special meeting in favor of the foregoing.

Inamed

The Inamed board of directors believes that the merger agreement and the merger are advisable and fair to, and in the best interests of, Inamed and its stockholders and has unanimously approved the merger agreement and the merger, and unanimously recommends that Inamed stockholders vote FOR adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger and FOR the proposal to adjourn the Inamed special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Inamed special meeting in favor of the foregoing.

Stockholders Entitled to Vote; Vote Required (see pages 48 and 52)

Medicis

You can vote at the Medicis special meeting if you owned Medicis common stock at the close of business on _____, 2005, which is referred to as the Medicis record date. On that date, there were _____ shares of Medicis common stock outstanding and entitled to vote at the Medicis special meeting. You may cast one vote for each share of Medicis common stock that you owned on the Medicis record date. In accordance with the listing requirements of the NYSE, stockholder approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of shares of Medicis common stock present or represented by proxy and voted on such proposal, provided that the total votes cast on the proposal represent over 50% of the outstanding shares of Medicis common stock entitled to vote on the proposal. In accordance with the requirements of General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware, which is referred to as the DGCL, the approval of the amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis common stock and change Medicis name requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares of outstanding Medicis common stock entitled to vote at the special meeting. In accordance with Medicis bylaws, the approval of a proposal to adjourn the special meeting requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares of Medicis common stock represented at the meeting and entitled to vote thereon, whether or not a quorum is present.

Abstentions and broker non-votes, will be counted in determining whether a quorum is present at the Medicis special meeting. For each proposal, an abstention, which occurs when a stockholder attends a meeting either in person or by proxy, but abstains from voting, will have the same effect as a vote against the proposals. A broker non-vote occurs when shares are held in street name by a broker or other nominee on behalf of a beneficial owner and the beneficial owner does not instruct the broker or nominee how to vote the shares at the special meeting for a proposal and the broker or nominee does not have discretionary authority to vote such shares. Brokers do not have discretionary authority to vote on the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger. These resulting broker non-votes could have a negative effect on Medicis ability to obtain approval of this proposal because broker non-votes are not considered cast for purposes of determining whether the number of votes cast on the proposal represents over 50% of the outstanding shares. Brokers do have discretionary authority to vote on the proposal to amend Medicis certificate of incorporation and the proposal to adjourn the special meeting, and therefore broker non-votes should not result from these proposals.

You can vote at the Inamed special meeting if you owned Inamed common stock at the close of business on _____, 2005, which is referred to as the Inamed record date. On that date, there were _____ shares of Inamed common stock outstanding and entitled to vote at the Inamed special meeting. You may cast one vote for each share of Inamed common stock that you owned on the Inamed record date. The affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Inamed common stock entitled to vote at the special meeting, in person or by proxy, is required to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger. The approval of a proposal to adjourn the special meeting requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the voting shares represented at the meeting and entitled to vote.

Abstentions and broker non-votes will be counted in determining whether a quorum is present at the Inamed special meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes will have the same effect as a vote against the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger. Brokers do not have discretionary authority to vote on the proposal to adjourn the special meeting and therefore broker non-votes should not result from this proposal.

Share Ownership of Directors and Executive Officers

At the close of business on the Medicis record date, directors and executive officers of Medicis and their affiliates beneficially owned and were entitled to vote approximately _____ shares of Medicis common stock, collectively representing approximately _____ % of the shares of Medicis common stock outstanding on that date.

At the close of business on the Inamed record date, directors and executive officers of Inamed and their affiliates beneficially owned and were entitled to vote approximately _____ shares of Inamed common stock, collectively representing _____ % of the shares of Inamed common stock outstanding on that date.

Opinions of Deutsche Bank, Thomas Weisel Partners and JPMorgan (see pages 70, 76 and 84)

Medicis

On March 20, 2005, Deutsche Bank Securities Inc., or Deutsche Bank, financial advisor to Medicis, delivered to the Medicis board of directors its oral opinion, which was subsequently confirmed in a written opinion dated as of March 20, 2005, that, as of that date, and based upon and subject to the considerations described in its opinion and based upon such other matters as Deutsche Bank considered relevant, the merger consideration to be paid by Medicis pursuant to the merger agreement was fair to Medicis from a financial point of view. The full text of Deutsche Bank's written opinion is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex B. We encourage you to read this opinion carefully in its entirety for a description of the procedures followed, assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on the review undertaken. Deutsche Bank's opinion does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder as to any matters relating to the merger. Upon delivery of Deutsche Bank's opinion, Medicis paid Deutsche Bank a fee of $1 million. Additionally, Medicis has agreed to pay Deutsche Bank a transaction fee of $15.5 million against which any previous fees paid will be credited, which is contingent upon completion of the merger.

Thomas Weisel Partners LLC delivered its opinion to the Medicis board of directors, which was subsequently confirmed in writing that, as of March 20, 2005, and based upon and subject to the various considerations set forth in its opinion, the consideration to be paid by Medicis in the merger was fair, from a financial point of view, to Medicis. The full text of the Thomas Weisel Partners opinion, which sets forth, among other things, assumptions made, procedures followed, matters considered and limitations on the scope of the review undertaken by Thomas Weisel Partners in rendering its opinion, is attached as Annex C to this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Medicis stockholders should read the Thomas Weisel Partners opinion carefully and in its entirety. The Thomas Weisel Partners opinion is directed to the Medicis board of directors and does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder as to how such stockholder should vote or act on any matter relating to the merger. Upon delivery of Thomas Weisel Partners' opinion, Medicis paid Thomas Weisel Partners a fee of $750,000.

Inamed

On March 20, 2005, JPMorgan Securities Inc., or JPMorgan, financial advisor to Inamed, delivered to the Inamed board of directors its oral opinion, which was subsequently confirmed by delivery of a written opinion dated March 20, 2005, that, as of that date, and based upon and subject to the factors and assumptions set forth in the opinion, the aggregate merger consideration to be received by the holders of the shares of

Inamed common stock pursuant to the merger was fair, from a financial point of view, to such holders. The full text of JPMorgan's written opinion is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex D. We encourage you to read this opinion carefully in its entirety for a description of the procedures followed, assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on the review undertaken. JPMorgan's opinion is directed to the Inamed board of directors and does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder as to any matters relating to the merger. Upon delivery of JPMorgan's opinion, Inamed paid JPMorgan a fee of $1.5 million. Additionally, Inamed has agreed to pay JPMorgan a transaction fee equal to 0.50% of the value of the total merger consideration as of the closing of the merger against which the $1.5 million fee paid upon delivery of the opinion will be credited, and which is contingent upon completion of the merger.

Ownership of Medicis After the Merger

Based on the number of shares of Medicis and Inamed common stock outstanding on their respective record dates, after completion of the merger, Medicis expects to issue approximately _____ million shares of Medicis common stock. We estimate that immediately after the merger, on a fully diluted basis, Inamed stockholders will hold approximately _____ % of the shares of Medicis common stock, based on the fully-diluted number of shares of Medicis common stock and Inamed common stock as of the respective record dates.

In considering the recommendation of the respective board of directors of Medicis and Inamed with respect to the merger, the stockholders of both companies should be aware that some of the executive officers and directors of Medicis and Inamed have interests in the merger that differ from, or are in addition to, the interests of that company's stockholders. The Medicis board of directors and the Inamed board of directors were aware of these interests and considered them, among other matters, when making their respective decisions to approve the merger agreement.

Management of Medicis After the Merger

It is currently expected that each of the current members of the Medicis board of directors will continue to serve on the Medicis board of directors following the closing of the merger. At the effective time of the merger, Mitchell S. Rosenthal, M.D., Nicholas L. Teti, Joy A. Amundson and Terry E. Vandewarker, each of whom is a current member of the Inamed board of directors, will be appointed to the Medicis board of directors. It is anticipated that Dr. Rosenthal will be placed in the director class with a term expiring in 2005, Ms. Amundson and Mr. Vandewarker will be placed in the director class with a term expiring in 2006 and Mr. Teti will be placed in the director class with a term expiring in 2007. Jonah Shacknai will serve as Chairman of the Medicis board of directors, and Mr. Teti will serve as Vice Chairman. It is also currently expected that, at the effective time of the merger, Mr. Vandewarker and Ms. Amundson will be appointed to the audit committee of the Medicis board of directors along with two current members of the Medicis board of directors.

It is currently expected that all of the executive officers of Medicis will remain with Medicis after the merger in their current capacities, including Mr. Shacknai as Chief Executive Officer. It is also anticipated that Declan Daly, Inamed's Chief Financial Officer, will be employed in a senior accounting position in Medicis' finance department at the effective time of the merger and will report directly to, and have responsibility and authority in Medicis' finance department second only to, Medicis' Chief Financial Officer. In the event that Mr. Daly does not accept such employment upon the effective time of the merger, then Inamed will propose a qualified replacement for designation to the position ascribed for Mr. Daly, and Medicis shall consider such replacement in good faith. If Medicis rejects the proposed replacement, Inamed shall be entitled to propose at least two additional candidates for consideration in good faith by Medicis for such position.

Listing of Medicis Common Stock and Delisting of Inamed Common Stock (see pages 94 and 98)

Application will be made to have the shares of Medicis common stock issued in the merger approved for listing on the NYSE, where Medicis common stock currently is traded under the symbol MRX . If the merger is completed, Inamed common stock will no longer be listed on NASDAQ and will be deregistered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, which is referred to as the Exchange Act, and Inamed will no longer file periodic reports with the SEC.

Medicis

Under Delaware law, holders of Medicis common stock are not entitled to appraisal rights in connection with the issuance of Medicis common stock in the merger.

Inamed

Holders of Inamed common stock who do not wish to accept the consideration payable pursuant to the merger may seek, under Section 262 of the DGCL, judicial appraisal of the fair value of their shares by the Delaware Court of Chancery. This value could be more than, less than or the same as the merger consideration for the Inamed common stock. Failure to strictly comply with all the procedures required by Section 262 of the DGCL will result in a loss of the right of appraisal.

Merely voting against the merger will not preserve the right of Inamed stockholders of appraisal under Delaware law. Also, because a submitted proxy not marked against or abstain will be voted FOR the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger and FOR the proposal to adjourn the Inamed special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Inamed special meeting in favor of the foregoing, the submission of a proxy not marked against or abstain will result in the waiver of appraisal rights. Inamed stockholders who hold shares in the name of a broker or other nominee must instruct their nominee to take the steps necessary to enable them to demand appraisal for their shares.

Annex F to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus contains the full text of Section 262 of the DGCL, which relates to the rights of appraisal. We encourage you to read these provisions carefully and in their entirety.

Conditions to Completion of the Merger (see page 111)

A number of conditions must be satisfied before the merger will be completed. These include, among others: the approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger by Medicis stockholders and the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger by Inamed stockholders;

the receipt of all material governmental and regulatory consents, approvals, orders and authorizations required to consummate the merger;

the expiration or termination of the waiting period, or any extension to the waiting period, under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, which is referred to as the HSR Act;

the absence of any judgment, injunction, order or decree of any governmental entity preventing the completion of the merger;

the absence of any litigation by any governmental entity seeking to prohibit the merger or that would otherwise have a material adverse effect on Medicis or Inamed;

the representations and warranties of each party contained in the merger agreement being true and correct, except to the extent that breaches of such representations and warranties would not result in a material adverse effect on the representing party;

the listing of the shares of Medicis common stock to be issued in the merger on the NYSE;

the absence of events or developments since the date of the merger agreement that would reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on either party;

the absence of effective demands for appraisal under the DGCL with respect to 10% or more of the outstanding shares of Inamed common stock;

the delivery of a tax opinion to each of Medicis and Inamed by its respective legal counsel to the effect that for United States federal income tax purposes the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code; and the pending SEC investigation of Inamed shall not have prevented Medicis from obtaining financing consistent with the terms of a financing commitment letter obtained by Medicis.

Each of Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and Inamed may waive the conditions to the performance of its respective obligations under the merger agreement and complete the merger even though one or more of these conditions has not been met. However, the tax opinion condition cannot be waived without the receipt of further Medicis stockholder and Inamed stockholder approval. Neither Medicis nor Inamed can give any assurance that all of the conditions to the merger will be either satisfied or waived or that the merger will occur.

The completion of the merger is subject to compliance with the HSR Act. The notifications required under the HSR Act to the United States Federal Trade Commission, or the FTC, and the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice, or the Antitrust Division, were filed on March 31, 2005 by Medicis and April 5, 2005 by Inamed. On May 5, 2005, Medicis and Inamed received from the FTC requests for additional information and documents with respect to the proposed merger. As a result of the requests for additional information and documents, the waiting period under the HSR Act has been extended until no earlier than 11:59 P.M. Eastern Time on the 30th day after both Medicis and Inamed have substantially complied with the requests for additional information and documents and Medicis and Inamed have jointly provided the FTC with a notice to commence the thirty-day waiting period, unless that period is terminated earlier by the FTC. At any time before or after completion of the merger, the FTC could take any action under the antitrust laws as it deems necessary or desirable in the public interest, including seeking to enjoin completion of the merger or seeking divestiture of substantial assets of Medicis or Inamed. Medicis and Inamed may also be required to obtain additional regulatory approvals from various state and foreign authorities.

While Medicis and Inamed expect to obtain all required regulatory approvals, we cannot assure you that these regulatory approvals will be obtained or that the receipt of these regulatory approvals will not involve additional conditions, including the requirement to divest products, or make changes to the terms of the merger agreement. These conditions or changes could result in the conditions to the closing of the merger not being satisfied.

Medicis and Inamed have agreed to use their reasonable best efforts to take, or cause to be taken, all actions necessary and proper under applicable law and regulations, including the HSR Act, to consummate the merger as promptly as practicable, but in no event later than December 19, 2005, which date may be extended in certain circumstances described in the merger agreement. However, Medicis is not required to agree to any divestiture, hold separate or licensing of any material assets or otherwise agree to any actions that materially limit its freedom of action with respect to, or its ability to retain, any asset or business of Medicis or Inamed.

No Solicitation by Medicis or Inamed (see page 113)

The merger agreement contains restrictions on the ability of Medicis and Inamed to solicit or engage in discussions or negotiations with a third party with respect to a proposal to acquire a significant interest of Medicis or Inamed's equity or assets. Notwithstanding these restrictions, the merger agreement provides that under specified circumstances and prior to the applicable approval by their respective stockholders, if Medicis or Inamed receives an unsolicited bona fide written proposal from a third party to acquire a significant interest in it that its board of directors determines in good faith is reasonably likely to lead to a proposal that is superior to the merger, Medicis or Inamed, as applicable, may furnish nonpublic information to that third party and engage in negotiations regarding an acquisition proposal with that third party.

Medicis and Inamed may mutually agree in writing, at any time before the effective time of the merger, to terminate the merger agreement. Also, either Medicis or Inamed may terminate the merger agreement in a number of circumstances, including if:

the merger is not consummated by December 19, 2005, unless such date is extended to January 31, 2006 on the terms provided in the merger agreement. We refer to this December 19, 2005 date, as it may be extended, as the outside date;

any governmental entity prohibits the merger;

Inamed stockholders fail to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger at the Inamed special meeting; or Medicis stockholders fail to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger at the Medicis special meeting.

Medicis may terminate the merger agreement if:

Inamed breaches its representations or warranties or fails to perform its covenants in the merger agreement, which breach or failure to perform results in a failure of the related conditions to the completion of the merger being satisfied and cannot be cured before the termination date;

the Inamed board of directors withdraws or adversely modifies its recommendation of the merger agreement;

the Inamed board of directors approves or recommends to Inamed stockholders an acquisition proposal other than the merger agreement;

a tender offer or exchange offer for shares of Inamed common stock is commenced (other than by Medicis) and the Inamed board of directors recommends that the Inamed stockholders tender their shares or the Inamed board of directors fails to timely recommend that the Inamed stockholders reject such an offer; or for any reason Inamed fails to timely call, hold or convene the stockholder's meeting that is the subject of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus.

Inamed may terminate the merger agreement if:

Medicis breaches its representations or warranties or fails to perform its covenants in the merger agreement, which breach or failure to perform results in a failure of the related conditions to the completion of the merger being satisfied and cannot be cured before the termination date;

the Medicis board of directors withdraws or adversely modifies its recommendation of the share issuance;

the Medicis board of directors approves or recommends to Medicis stockholders an acquisition proposal other than the merger agreement;

a tender offer or exchange offer for shares of Medicis common stock is commenced (other than by Inamed) and the Medicis board of directors recommends that the Medicis stockholders tender their shares or the Medicis board of directors fails to timely recommend that the Medicis stockholders reject such an offer; or for any reason Medicis fails to timely call, hold or convene the stockholder's meeting that is the subject of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus.

If the merger agreement is terminated, Inamed, in certain specified circumstances, may be required to pay a termination fee of up to $90 million to Medicis, and Medicis, in certain specified circumstances, may be required to pay a termination fee of up to $70 million to Inamed. In addition, under certain circumstances, each party may be required to pay the other an expense fee of $10 million. As consideration for Inamed's dismissal of pending litigation against Medicis, Medicis agreed to pay Inamed $16.5 million if either the $70 million termination fee or the $10 million expense fee becomes payable by Medicis or if the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting.

It is generally expected that for United States federal income tax purposes the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. The consummation of the merger is conditioned on the receipt by each of Medicis and Inamed of an opinion from its counsel to the effect that the merger will so qualify. Neither Medicis nor Inamed may waive these conditions to the merger after its respective stockholders have adopted the merger agreement unless further approval from its stockholders is obtained with appropriate disclosure. Assuming that the merger qualifies as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, then, in general, an Inamed stockholder:

will recognize gain (but not loss) with respect to its Inamed common stock in an amount equal to the lesser of (i) any gain realized with respect to such stock or (ii) the amount of cash received with respect to such stock (other than any cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock); and

will recognize gain (or loss) to the extent any cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock exceeds (or is less than) the basis of such fractional share.

No gain or loss will be recognized by Medicis, Inamed or the Medicis stockholders as a result of the merger.

Tax matters are very complicated, and the tax consequences of the merger to an Inamed stockholder will depend on the facts of each stockholder's own situation. For a description of the material United States federal income tax consequences of the merger, please see the information set forth in "The Merger - Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences" beginning on page 92. Inamed stockholders are also urged to consult their tax advisors for a full understanding of the tax consequences of the merger.

Medicis will account for the merger as a business combination under United States generally accepted accounting principles.

Risk Factors (see page 19)

In evaluating the merger, the merger agreement or the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger, you should carefully read this joint proxy statement/ prospectus and especially consider the factors discussed in the section entitled Risk Factors on page 19.

Dividend Policies

The holders of Medicis common stock receive dividends if and when declared by the Medicis board of directors. Since the beginning of fiscal 2004, Medicis has paid quarterly cash dividends aggregating approximately $11.9 million on its common stock. In addition, on June 15, 2005, Medicis declared a cash dividend of $0.03 per issued and outstanding share of common stock payable on July 29, 2005 to Medicis stockholders of record at the close of business on July 1, 2005 and on September 14, 2005 Medicis declared a cash dividend of $0.03 per issued and outstanding share of common stock payable on October 31, 2005 to Medicis stockholders of record at the close of business on October 3, 2005. Prior to these dividends, Medicis had not paid a cash dividend on its common stock. Medicis has not adopted a dividend policy. Medicis has agreed to limit the per-share amount of increases in quarterly dividends it might pay prior to the closing of the merger.

The declaration and payment of dividends, however, is subject to the provisions of the DGCL and will depend upon business conditions, operating results, capital requirements and other factors that the board of directors deems relevant. Medicis can give no assurances that it will continue to pay dividends on the Medicis common stock in the future.

Inamed

The holders of Inamed common stock receive dividends if and when declared by the Inamed board of directors. Inamed has not paid cash dividends for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2004 and 2003 and is precluded by the terms of the merger agreement from paying any dividends during the fiscal year that will end on December 31, 2005.

Material Differences in Rights of Medicis Stockholders and Inamed Stockholders (see page 146)

Inamed stockholders receiving merger consideration will have different rights once they become Medicis stockholders due to differences between the governing documents of Medicis and Inamed. These differences are described in detail under Comparison of Stockholders Rights and Corporate Governance Matters beginning on page 146.

Expenses

Generally, all fees and expenses incurred in connection with the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement will be paid by the party incurring those expenses, subject to the specific exceptions discussed in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus.

Table of Contents*Comparative Per Share Information

The following table sets forth selected historical per share information of Medicis and Inamed and unaudited pro forma combined per share information after giving effect to the merger between Medicis and Inamed, under the purchase method of accounting, assuming that 1.4205 shares of Medicis common stock had been issued in exchange for each outstanding share of Inamed common stock. You should read this information in conjunction with the selected historical financial information, included elsewhere in this document, and the historical financial statements of Medicis and Inamed and related notes that are incorporated in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus by reference. The unaudited Medicis pro forma combined per share information is derived from, and should be read in conjunction with, the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements and related notes beginning on page 133 of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus. As Medicis and Inamed have different fiscal year ends, Inamed's consolidated financial information for the latest year ended has been recast to Medicis' June 30, 2005 year end by adding subsequent interim periods and deducting comparable preceding periods for pro forma purposes. The historical per share information is derived from audited financial statements of Medicis as of and for the year ended June 30, 2005 and unaudited financial statements of Inamed as of and for the recast twelve months ended June 30, 2005. The unaudited pro forma Inamed per share equivalents are calculated by multiplying the unaudited Medicis pro forma combined per share amounts by the exchange ratio of 1.4205.

We present the unaudited pro forma combined per share information for informational purposes only. The pro forma information is not necessarily indicative of what our financial position or results of operations actually would have been had we completed the merger at the dates indicated. In addition, the unaudited pro forma combined per share information does not purport to project the future financial position or operating results of the combined company.

- (a) Medicis' current quarterly dividend is $0.03 ($0.12 per share annualized) and is subject to future approval and declaration by the Medicis board of directors. Inamed did not declare cash dividend for the year ended June 30, 2005. The dividend policy of the combined company after the merger will be determined by its board of directors following the merger.
- (b) Amounts are calculated by multiplying Inamed historical per share amounts by the exchange ratio in the merger (1.4205 shares of Medicis common stock for each share of Inamed common stock).

The market value of the shares of Medicis common stock to be issued in exchange for shares of Inamed common stock upon the completion of the merger will not be known at the time Inamed stockholders vote on the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger, or at the time Medicis stockholders vote on the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger, because the merger will not be completed by the time of respective stockholder votes.

The above tables show only historical comparisons. Because the market prices of Medicis common stock and Inamed common stock will likely fluctuate prior to the merger, these comparisons may not provide meaningful information to Medicis stockholders in determining whether to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger or to Inamed stockholders in determining whether to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger. Medicis and Inamed stockholders are encouraged to obtain current market quotations for Medicis and Inamed common stock and to review carefully the other information contained in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus or incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/ prospectus in considering whether to approve the respective proposals before them. See the section entitled Additional Information Where You Can Find More Information on page 159.

Table of Contents*RISK FACTORS

The merger involves risks for Medicis and Inamed stockholders. Inamed stockholders will be choosing to invest in Medicis common stock by voting in favor of the merger and Medicis stockholders will be choosing to permit significant dilution of their percentage ownership in Medicis by voting in favor of the issuance of stock in the merger. In addition to the other information included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus, including the matters addressed in Cautionary Statement Concerning Forward-Looking Statements, you should carefully consider the following risks before deciding whether to vote for adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger in the case of Inamed stockholders, or for approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement, in the case of Medicis stockholders. In addition, you should read and consider the risks associated with each of the businesses of Medicis and Inamed because these risks will also affect the combined company. These risks can be found below under Risk Factors Risks Related to Medicis and Risk Factors Risks Related to Inamed beginning on pages 25 and 36, respectively, as well as the Medicis Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2005 and the Inamed Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004, which are filed with the SEC and incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus. You should also read and consider the other information in this joint proxy statement/prospectus and the other documents incorporated by reference in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. See the section entitled Additional Information Where You Can Find More Information beginning on page 159. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to Medicis or Inamed or that are not currently believed to be important also may adversely affect the merger and the combined company after the merger.

Risks Relating to the Merger

Medicis and Inamed may be required to comply with material restrictions or conditions in order to obtain the regulatory approvals to complete the merger, and any delays in obtaining regulatory approvals will delay and may possibly prevent the merger.

The merger is subject to review by the Antitrust Division of the FTC under the HSR Act. Under this statute, Medicis and Inamed are required to make pre-merger notification filings and to await the expiration or early termination of the statutory waiting period prior to completing the merger. The governmental entities from whom approvals are required may attempt to condition their approval of the merger, or of the transfer to Medicis of licenses and other entitlements, on the satisfaction of certain regulatory conditions that may have the effect of imposing additional costs on Medicis or otherwise substantially reducing the benefits to Medicis if the merger is completed. These conditions could include a complete or partial license, divestiture, spin-off or sale of certain assets or businesses, which may be on terms that are not as favorable to Medicis and/or Inamed as may have been attainable absent the merger. Medicis and Inamed are obligated under the merger agreement to take specified actions, subject to certain limitations, including selling or otherwise divesting certain of their properties or assets, in order to obtain the required consents or approvals under the HSR Act and other antitrust regulations. However, Medicis is not required to agree to any divestiture, hold separate or licensing of any material assets or otherwise agree to any actions that materially limit its freedom of action with respect to, or its ability to retain, any assets or business of Medicis or Inamed. On May 5, 2005, Medicis and Inamed received from the FTC requests for additional information and documents with respect to the merger. As a result of the requests for additional information, the waiting period under the HSR Act has been extended until no earlier than 11:59 P.M. Eastern Time on the 30th day after both Medicis and Inamed have substantially complied with the requests for additional information and documents and Medicis and Inamed have jointly provided the FTC with a notice to commence the thirty-day waiting period, unless that period is extended by the FTC.

While Medicis and Inamed expect to obtain the required regulatory approvals, Medicis and Inamed cannot be certain that all of the required antitrust approvals will be obtained, nor can they be certain that the approvals will be obtained within the time contemplated by the merger agreement. A delay in obtaining the required approvals will delay and may possibly prevent the completion of the merger. At any time before or after completion of the merger, the FTC could take any action under the antitrust laws as it deems necessary or desirable in the public interest, including seeking to enjoin completion of the merger or seeking divestiture of substantial assets of Medicis or Inamed. For a full description of the regulatory approvals required for the merger see The Merger Regulatory Approvals Required for the Merger on page 91.

The issuance of shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders in the merger will substantially reduce the percentage interests of Medicis stockholders.

If the merger is completed, we expect that, based on data as of the Medicis and Inamed record dates, approximately _____ million shares of Medicis common stock will be issued to Inamed stockholders and, upon exercise of assumed options, up to approximately _____ million shares will be issued to holders of assumed options. Based on the number of shares of Medicis and Inamed common stock outstanding on the Medicis and Inamed record dates, on a fully-diluted basis, Inamed stockholders before the merger will own, in the aggregate, approximately _____ % of the outstanding shares of Medicis common stock immediately after the merger. The issuance of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders and holders of assumed options will cause a significant reduction in the relative percentage interest of current Medicis stockholders in earnings, voting, liquidation value and book and market value. In addition, under certain circumstances described more fully below, the amount of Medicis common stock issuable for each share of Inamed common stock may be increased, and the amount of cash payable for each share of Inamed common stock may be decreased. In the event of any such adjustment, Inamed stockholders as a whole will hold a larger percentage of the fully diluted Medicis common stock immediately after giving effect to the merger.

The price of Medicis common stock at the time of your vote on the merger might decline prior to the completion of the merger, which would decrease the value of the stock portion of the merger consideration to be received by Inamed stockholders in the merger. Further, at the Inamed special meeting, Inamed stockholders will not know the exact value of Medicis common stock that will be issued in the merger.

The market price of Medicis common stock at the time of completion of the merger may vary significantly from the price on the date of the merger agreement or from the price on the dates of the Medicis and Inamed special meetings. Medicis common stock has historically experienced volatility. The closing price of Medicis common stock on the NYSE Composite Transactions Reporting System on March 18, 2005, the last trading day prior to the announcement of the merger, was $31.68 per share. From March 21, 2005 through the date of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, the trading price of Medicis common stock ranged from a high of $ _____ per share to a low of $ _____ per share.

Under the merger agreement, Inamed stockholders will receive, upon completion of the merger, and in addition to the cash consideration, stock consideration equal to 1.4205 shares of Medicis common stock for each share of Inamed common stock they own. As a result, any changes in the value of Medicis common stock will have a corresponding effect on the value of the consideration that Medicis pays to Inamed stockholders in the merger. Neither party, however, has a right to terminate the merger agreement based solely upon changes in the market price of Medicis or Inamed common stock.

Inamed stockholders should be aware:

if the price of Medicis common stock declines after the time of the Inamed special meeting and before the completion of the merger, Inamed stockholders will receive shares of Medicis common stock that have a market value that will be less than the market value of such shares at the time of the Inamed special meeting; or if the price of Medicis common stock increases after the time of the Inamed special meeting and before the completion of the merger, Inamed stockholders will receive shares of Medicis common stock that have a market value that will be greater than the market value of such shares at the time of the Inamed special meeting.

Medicis and Inamed are working to complete the merger as quickly as possible. However, the time period between the stockholder votes taken at the special meetings and the completion of the merger will depend upon a number of factors, including the status of FTC approval and the timing of receipt of financing proceeds, which must be obtained prior to the completion of the merger. There is currently no way to predict how long it will take to obtain FTC approval and financing. Because the date when the merger is completed may be later than the date of the special meetings, Medicis and Inamed stockholders may not know the exact value of the Medicis common stock that will be issued in the merger at the time they vote on the merger proposals. Moreover, subsequent to the special meetings, events, conditions or circumstances could arise that could have a material impact or effect on Medicis, Inamed, the specialty pharmaceutical industry or the medical device industry and that could cause the price of Medicis common stock to fluctuate substantially.

The amount of cash per share that Inamed stockholders receive in the merger may be decreased, and the exchange ratio correspondingly increased, in order to preserve the tax treatment of the merger.

It is currently expected that the merger will be treated as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, as described under The Merger – Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences below. If the value of the Medicis common stock issuable in the merger, as determined on the effective date of the merger, represents less than 45% of the aggregate of the value of the Medicis common stock issuable and the cash payable in the merger combined (including cash payable to dissenters, if any), the exchange ratio will automatically be increased, and the amount of cash per share correspondingly decreased, in order to achieve this percentage. The actual percentage will depend on the average of the high and low selling prices of Medicis common stock on the NYSE on the date the merger is completed, the number of shares of Inamed common stock then outstanding, and the number of shares for which appraisal rights have been properly demanded under Delaware law. Assuming that no appraisal rights have been properly demanded, if the average of the high and low selling price of Medicis common stock on the NYSE on the date the merger is completed drops to below approximately $17.28 per share, the cash payable per share in the merger may be adjusted in this way. We encourage you to obtain current market quotations for the Medicis common stock and the Inamed common stock before you vote your shares.

Medicis will have more indebtedness after the merger, which could adversely affect its cash flows and business.

In order to complete the merger, Medicis anticipates arranging for and funding approximately $650 million of new financing. Proceeds from the financing will be used to fund a portion of the cash consideration to be paid to Inamed stockholders. Medicis' debt outstanding as of June 30, 2005 was approximately $453 million. As a result of this increase in debt, demands on Medicis' cash resources will increase after the completion of the merger. The increased levels of debt could, among other things:

require Medicis to dedicate a substantial portion of its cash flow from operations to payments on its debt, thereby reducing funds available for working capital, capital expenditures, dividends, acquisitions and other purposes;

increase Medicis' vulnerability to, and limit flexibility in planning for, adverse economic and industry conditions;

adversely affect Medicis' credit rating;

limit Medicis' ability to obtain additional financing to fund future working capital, capital expenditures, additional acquisitions and other general corporate requirements;

create competitive disadvantages compared to other companies with less indebtedness; and limit Medicis' ability to apply proceeds from an offering or asset sale to purposes other than the repayment of debt.

If Medicis is unable to finance the merger through existing cash balances and financings, the completion of the merger will be jeopardized.

Medicis intends to finance the merger primarily with existing cash balances, cash flow from operations and equity or debt financings. In the event that Medicis is unable to finance the merger, but is still obligated to complete the merger, Medicis will have to adopt one or more alternatives, such as selling assets or restructuring debt, which may adversely affect Medicis' business, financial condition and results of operations. Additionally, these sources of funds may not be sufficient to finance the merger, and other financing may not be available on acceptable terms, in a timely manner or at all. If Medicis is unable to secure such additional financing, the completion of the merger will be jeopardized and Medicis could be in breach of the merger agreement.

Medicis and Inamed may not realize all of the anticipated benefits of the merger.

The combined company's ability to realize the anticipated benefits of the merger will depend, in part, on the ability of Medicis to integrate the businesses of Inamed with Medicis. The combination of two independent companies is a complex, costly and time-consuming process. As a result, the combined company will be required to devote significant management attention and resources to integrating the diverse business practices and operations of Medicis and Inamed. This process may disrupt the business of either or both of the companies, and may not result in the full benefits expected by Medicis and Inamed. Neither company has previously completed a merger or acquisition comparable in size or scope to the merger. The failure of the combined company to meet the challenges involved in integrating successfully the operations of Medicis and Inamed or otherwise to realize any of the anticipated benefits of the merger could cause an interruption of, or a loss of momentum in, the activities of the combined company and could seriously harm its results of operations. In addition, the overall integration of the two companies may result in unanticipated problems, expenses, liabilities and diversion of management's attention, and may cause the combined company's stock price to decline. The difficulties of combining the operations of the companies include, among others:

- coordinating sales and marketing, research and development and manufacturing functions;
- unanticipated issues in integrating information, communications and other systems;
- unanticipated incompatibility of purchasing, logistics, marketing and administration methods;
- maintaining employee morale and retaining key employees;
- integrating the business cultures of both companies;
- preserving important strategic and customer relationships;
- consolidating corporate and administrative infrastructures and eliminating duplicative operations;
- the diversion of management's attention from ongoing business concerns; and
- coordinating geographically separate organizations.

In addition, even if the operations of Medicis and Inamed are integrated successfully, the combined company may not realize the full benefits of the merger, including the synergies, cost savings, or sales or growth opportunities that we expect. These benefits may not be achieved within the anticipated time frame, or at all. Further, because the businesses of Medicis and Inamed differ, the results of operations of the combined company and the market price of Medicis common stock may be affected after the merger by factors different from those affecting the shares of Medicis and Inamed currently, and may suffer as a result of the merger. As a result, we cannot assure you that the combination of Inamed with Medicis will result in the realization of the full benefits anticipated from the merger.

To be successful, the combined company must retain and motivate key employees, and failure to do so could seriously harm the combined company.

To be successful, the combined company must retain and motivate executives and other key employees. Employees of Medicis and Inamed may experience uncertainty about their future roles with the combined company until or after strategies for the combined company are announced or executed. These circumstances may adversely affect the combined company's ability to retain key personnel. The combined company also must continue to motivate employees and keep them focused on the strategies and goals of the combined company, which effort may be adversely affected as a result of the uncertainty and difficulties with integrating Medicis and Inamed. In addition, it is not anticipated that Medicis will extend offers of full time employment to any of Inamed's executive officers, except for Declan Daly, Inamed's Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, and Vicente Trelles, Inamed's Vice President and Chief Operations Officer. Accordingly, the roles and responsibilities of these executive officers will need to be filled either by existing or new Medicis officers and employees, which may require the combined company to devote time and resources to personnel matters that could otherwise be used to integrate the businesses of Medicis and Inamed to identifying, hiring and integrating replacements for the departed executives of Inamed.

If the combined company is unable to manage its growth, its business and financial results could suffer.

The combined company's future financial results will depend in part on its ability to profitably manage its core businesses, including any growth that the combined company may be able to achieve. Over the past several years, each of Medicis and Inamed has engaged in the identification of, and competition for, growth and expansion opportunities. In order to achieve those initiatives, the combined company will need to maintain existing customers and attract new customers, recruit, train, retain and effectively manage employees, as well as expand operations, customer support and financial control systems. If the combined company is unable to manage its businesses profitably, including its anticipated portfolio of complementary products in the facial aesthetics, breast aesthetics and therapeutic dermatological markets, as well as its medical device products for the treatment of obesity, any growth that the combined company may be able to achieve, its business and financial results could suffer.

The pro forma financial statements are presented for illustrative purposes only and may not be an indication of the combined company's financial condition or results of operations following the merger.

The pro forma financial statements contained in this joint proxy statement/prospectus are presented for illustrative purposes only and may not be an indication of the combined company's financial condition or results of operations following the merger for several reasons. The pro forma financial statements have been derived from the historical financial statements of Medicis and Inamed and certain adjustments and assumptions have been made regarding the combined company after giving effect to the merger. The information upon which these adjustments and assumptions have been made is preliminary, and these kinds of adjustments and assumptions are difficult to make with complete accuracy. Moreover, the pro forma financial statements do not reflect all costs that are expected to be incurred by the combined company in connection with the merger. For example, the impact of any incremental costs incurred in integrating the two companies is not reflected in the pro forma financial statements. As a result, the actual financial condition and results of operations of the combined company following the merger may not be consistent with, or evident from, these pro forma financial statements.

The assumptions used in preparing the pro forma financial information may not prove to be accurate, and other factors may affect the combined company's financial condition or results of operations following the merger. Any potential decline in the combined company's financial condition or results of operations may cause significant variations in the stock price of the combined company. See the section entitled "Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Statements" beginning on page 133.

Some of the conditions set forth in the merger agreement may be waived by Medicis or Inamed, subject to the agreement of the other party in specific cases, including without limitation, the condition that there be an absence of events or developments since the date of the merger agreement that would reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on either party. See "The Merger Agreement - Conditions to Completion of the Merger" on page 111. If any conditions are waived, Medicis and Inamed will evaluate whether amendment of this joint proxy statement/prospectus and resolicitation of proxies is warranted. In the event that the board of directors of Medicis or Inamed determines that resolicitation of stockholders is not warranted, the applicable company will have the discretion to complete the merger without seeking further stockholder approval.

If the proposed merger is not completed, Medicis and Inamed will have incurred substantial costs that may adversely affect Medicis and Inamed's financial results and operations and the market price of Medicis and Inamed common stock.

Medicis and Inamed have incurred and will incur substantial costs in connection with the proposed merger. These costs are primarily associated with the fees of financial advisors, attorneys, accountants and consultants. In addition, Medicis and Inamed have each diverted significant management resources in an effort to complete the merger and are each subject to restrictions contained in the merger agreement on the conduct of its business. If the merger is not completed, Medicis and Inamed will receive little or no benefit for these costs. If the merger agreement is terminated, Inamed, in certain specified circumstances, may be required to pay a termination fee of up to $90 million to Medicis, and Medicis, in certain specified circumstances, may be required to pay a termination fee of up to $70 million to Inamed. In addition, under certain circumstances, one party may be required to pay the other an expense fee of $10 million. As consideration for Inamed's dismissal of pending litigation against Medicis, Medicis agreed to pay Inamed $16.5 million if either the $70 million termination fee or the $10 million expense fee becomes payable by Medicis or if the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting.

In addition, if the merger is not consummated, Medicis and Inamed may experience negative reactions from the financial markets and Medicis and Inamed's collaborative partners, customers and employees. Each of these factors may adversely affect the trading price of Medicis and/or Inamed common stock and Medicis and/or Inamed's financial results and operations.

Provisions of the merger agreement may deter alternative business combinations and could negatively impact the stock prices of Medicis and Inamed if the merger agreement is terminated in certain circumstances.

Restrictions in the merger agreement on solicitation generally prohibit Medicis and Inamed from soliciting any acquisition proposal or offer for a merger or business combination with any other party, including a proposal that might be advantageous to the stockholders of Medicis or Inamed when compared to the terms and conditions of the merger described in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus. If the merger is not completed, either company may not be able to conclude another merger, sale or combination on as favorable terms, in a timely manner, or at all. If the merger agreement is terminated, Inamed, in certain specified circumstances, may be required to pay a termination fee of up to $90 million to Medicis, and Medicis, in certain specified circumstances, may be required to pay a termination fee of up to $70 million to Inamed. In addition, under certain circumstances, each party may be required to pay the other an expense fee of $10 million. As consideration for Inamed's dismissal of pending litigation against Medicis, Medicis agreed to pay Inamed $16.5 million if either the $70 million termination fee or the $10 million expense fee becomes payable by Medicis or if the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting. These provisions may deter third parties from proposing or pursuing alternative business combinations that might result in greater value to Medicis or Inamed stockholders than the merger. In the event the merger is terminated by Medicis or Inamed in circumstances that obligate either party to pay the expenses or termination fee to the other party, including where either party terminates the merger agreement because the other party's board of directors withdraws its support of the merger, Medicis and/or Inamed's stock prices may decline.

Directors and executive officers of Medicis and Inamed have interests in the merger that may be different from, or in addition to, the interests of Medicis or Inamed stockholders generally.

When considering the Medicis and Inamed boards of directors' recommendations that Medicis and Inamed stockholders vote in favor of their respective proposals relating to the merger, stockholders should be aware that some executive officers and directors of Medicis and Inamed have interests in the merger that may be different from, or in addition to, the interests of Medicis and Inamed stockholders generally. These interests, as a whole, include cash bonus payments that are contingent upon completion of the merger, enhanced severance payments and benefits under employment agreements and change in control agreements, acceleration of vesting of options and restricted stock as a result of the merger (or a subsequent qualifying termination of employment), the potential for positions as officers and directors of the combined company, and the right to continued indemnification and insurance coverage by the combined company for acts or omissions occurring prior to the merger.

As a result of these interests, directors and officers of Inamed could be more likely to vote to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger than if they did not hold these interests, and may have reasons for doing so that are not the same as the interests of other Inamed stockholders. Additionally, directors and officers of Medicis could be more likely to vote to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement than if they did not hold these interests, and may have reasons for doing so that are not the same as the interests of other Medicis stockholders. For a full description of the interests of directors and executive officers of Medicis and Inamed in the merger, see The Merger Interests of Medicis and Inamed's Directors and Executive Officers in the Merger on page 98.

If the combined company is unable to reach an acceptable agreement with Q-Med AB regarding Medicis ability to compete against Q-Med AB in certain international facial aesthetics markets, the results of operations and financial condition of the combined company would suffer materially.

Pursuant to existing agreements with Q-Med AB, Medicis' ability to compete against Q-Med AB outside North America in markets for certain hyaluronic acid-based aesthetic enhancements may be restricted. Concurrent with the execution of the merger agreement, Medicis, Inamed and Q-Med AB entered into a letter agreement, which is described below under The Merger Letter Agreement with Q-Med AB on page 106. Under the letter agreement, the parties agreed that Medicis and Q-Med AB will work diligently to reach a comprehensive agreement, within six months of the closing of the merger of Medicis and Inamed, regarding certain business opportunities and, if the comprehensive agreement is not executed within six months of the closing of the merger, Medicis will pay a specified royalty on net revenues of products acquired from Inamed as a result of the merger that compete with Q-Med AB products outside Canada and the United States, until the competing products are divested or discontinued. If Medicis is unable to reach an agreement with Q-Med regarding these business opportunities in a timely matter, on commercially reasonable terms or at all, the results of operations and financial condition of the combined company would suffer materially.

Medicis derives a majority of its sales from its core products, and any factor adversely affecting sales of these products would harm Medicis' business, financial condition and results of operations.

Medicis believes that the prescription volume of its core prescription products and sales of its dermal aesthetic product, RESTYLANE®, which Medicis began selling in the United States on January 6, 2004, will continue to constitute a significant portion of Medicis' sales for the foreseeable future. Accordingly, any factor adversely affecting Medicis' sales related to these products, individually or collectively, could harm its business, financial condition and results of operations. Many of Medicis' core prescription products, including DYNACIN® and LOPROX®, are subject to generic competition or may be in the near future. On July 18, 2004, Glades announced the launch of myrac<sup>tm</sup> (minocycline hydrochloride tablets, USP), as a branded pharmaceutical product. Myrac<sup>tm</sup> tablets is a prescription product that competes directly with Medicis' DYNACIN® tablet products. During the third quarter of Medicis' fiscal 2005, myrac<sup>tm</sup> began being marketed as a generic product. On August 6, 2004, the FDA approved an ANDA submitted by Altana for its ciclopirox topical suspension, a generic version of Medicis' LOPROX® TS product. On December 29, 2004, the FDA approved an ANDA submitted by Altana for its ciclopirox cream, a generic version of Medicis' LOPROX® cream product. On August 10, 2005, the FDA approved an ANDA submitted by Taro Pharmaceuticals U.S.A. Inc. for its ciclopirox topical suspension, a generic version of Medicis' LOPROX® topical suspension. Each of Medicis' core products could be rendered obsolete or uneconomical by competitive changes, including generic competition.

Sales related to Medicis' core prescription products and RESTYLANE® could also be adversely affected by other factors, including:

manufacturing or supply interruptions;

the development of new competitive pharmaceuticals and technological advances to treat the conditions addressed by Medicis' core products, including the introduction of new products into the marketplace;

marketing or pricing actions by one or more of Medicis' competitors;

regulatory action by the FDA and other government regulatory agencies; changes in the prescribing or procedural practices of dermatologists, plastic surgeons and/or podiatrists; changes in the reimbursement or substitution policies of third-party payors or retail pharmacies;

product liability claims;

the outcome of disputes relating to trademarks, patents, license agreements and other rights; changes in state and federal law that adversely affect Medicis' ability to market its products to dermatologists, plastic surgeons and/or podiatrists; and restrictions on travel affecting the ability of Medicis' sales force to market to prescribing physicians and plastic surgeons in person.

If Medicis does not comply with applicable regulatory requirements, such violations could result in warning letters, non-approval, suspensions of regulatory approvals, civil penalties and criminal fines, product seizures and recalls, operating restrictions, injunctions and criminal prosecution. The government has notified Medicis that Medicis has been named as a defendant in a qui tam (whistleblower) lawsuit filed under the federal False Claims Act. Medicis is cooperating with the government in its investigation, which relates to Medicis' marketing and promotion of LOPROX® products to pediatricians prior to Medicis' May 2004, disposition of its pediatric sales division.

Medicis' operating results and financial condition may fluctuate.

Medicis' operating results and financial condition may fluctuate from quarter to quarter and year to year for a number of reasons. The following events or occurrences, among others, could cause fluctuations in Medicis' financial performance from period to period:

changes in the amount Medicis spends to develop, acquire or license new products, technologies or businesses;

untimely contingent research and development payments under Medicis' third-party product development agreements; changes in the amount Medicis spends to promote its products;

delays between Medicis' expenditures to acquire new products, technologies or businesses and the generation of revenues from those acquired products, technologies or businesses;

changes in treatment practices of physicians that currently prescribe Medicis' products;

changes in reimbursement policies of health plans and other similar health insurers, including changes that affect newly developed or newly acquired products;

increases in the cost of raw materials used to manufacture Medicis products;

manufacturing and supply interruptions, including failure to comply with manufacturing specifications;

development of new competitive products by others;

development of new competitive products by others;

the mix of products that Medicis sells during any time period;

lower than expected demand for Medicis products;

Medicis responses to price competition;

expenditures as a result of legal actions;

market acceptance of Medicis' products;

the timing and receipt of FDA approvals;

the impairment and write-down of goodwill or other intangible assets;

implementation of new or revised accounting or tax rules or policies; disposition of core products, technologies and other rights; termination or expiration of, or the outcome of disputes relating to, trademarks, patents, license agreements and other rights; increases in insurance rates for general economic and industry conditions, including changes in interest rates affecting returns on cash balances and investments that affect customer demand;

existing products and the cost of insurance for new products;

seasonality of demand for Medicis' products;

Medicis' level of research and development activities;

new accounting standards and/or changes to existing accounting standards that would have a material effect on Medicis' consolidated financial position, results of operations or cash flows;

costs and outcomes of any tax audits or any litigation involving intellectual property, customers or other issues; and timing of revenue recognition related to licensing agreements and/or strategic collaborations.

As a result, Medicis believes that period-to-period comparisons of its results of operations are not necessarily meaningful and these comparisons should not be relied upon as an indication of future performance. The above factors may cause Medicis' operating results to fluctuate and adversely affect its financial condition and results of operations.

Medicis will be unable to meet its anticipated development and commercialization timelines if clinical trials for its products are unsuccessful or delayed.

The production and marketing of Medicis' products and its ongoing research and development, pre-clinical testing and clinical trial activities are subject to extensive regulation and review by numerous governmental authorities. Before obtaining regulatory approvals for the commercial sale of any products, Medicis and/or its partners must demonstrate through pre-clinical testing and clinical trials that Medicis' products are safe and effective for use in humans. Conducting clinical trials is a lengthy, time-consuming and expensive process. In addition to testing and approval procedures, extensive regulations also govern marketing, manufacturing, distribution, labeling and record-keeping procedures.

Completion of clinical trials may take several years or more. Medicis' commencement and rate of completion of clinical trials may be delayed by many factors, including:

lack of efficacy during the clinical trials;

unforeseen safety issues;

government or regulatory delays.

The results from pre-clinical testing and early clinical trials are often not predictive of results obtained in later clinical trials. A number of new products have shown promising results in clinical trials, but subsequently failed to establish sufficient safety and efficacy data to obtain necessary regulatory approvals. Data obtained from pre-clinical and clinical activities are susceptible to varying interpretations, which may delay, limit or prevent regulatory approval. In addition, regulatory delays or rejections may be encountered as a result of many factors, including perceived defects in the design of the clinical trials and changes in regulatory policy during the period of product development. Any delays in, or termination of, Medicis' clinical trials could materially and adversely affect Medicis' development and commercialization timelines, which could adversely affect its financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

If Medicis is unable to secure and protect its intellectual property and proprietary rights, or if its intellectual property rights are found to infringe upon the intellectual property rights of other parties, Medicis' business could suffer.

Medicis' success depends in part on its ability to obtain patents or rights to patents, protect trade secrets, operate without infringing upon the proprietary rights of others, and prevent others from infringing on its patents, trademarks, service marks and other intellectual property rights.

Medicis believes that the protection of its trademarks and service marks is an important factor in product recognition and in Medicis' ability to maintain or increase market share. If Medicis does not adequately protect its rights in its various trademarks and service marks from infringement, their value to Medicis could be lost or diminished. If the marks Medicis uses are found to infringe upon the trademark or service mark of another company, Medicis could be forced to stop using those marks and, as a result, Medicis could lose the value of those marks and could be liable for damages caused by an infringement.

The patents and patent applications in which Medicis has an interest may be challenged as to their validity or enforceability. Challenges may result in potentially significant harm to Medicis' business. The cost of responding to these challenges and the inherent costs to defend the validity of Medicis' patents, including the prosecution of infringements and the related litigation, could be substantial. Such litigation also could require a substantial commitment of Medicis' management's time.

Medicis is pursuing several United States patent applications, although Medicis cannot be sure that any of these patents will ever be issued. Medicis has also acquired rights under certain patents and patent applications in connection with its licenses to distribute products and by assignment of rights to patents and patent applications from certain of its consultants and officers. These patents and patent applications may be subject to claims of rights by third parties. If there are conflicting claims to the same patent or patent application, Medicis may not prevail and, even if it does have some rights in a patent or patent application, those rights may not be sufficient for the marketing and distribution of products covered by the patent or patent application.

The ownership of a patent or an interest in a patent does not always provide significant protection. Others may independently develop similar technologies or design around the patented aspects of Medicis' technology. Medicis only conducts patent searches to determine whether its products infringe upon any existing patents when Medicis thinks such searches are appropriate. As a result, the products and technologies Medicis currently markets, and those it may market in the future, may infringe on patents and other rights owned by others. If Medicis is unsuccessful in any challenge to the marketing and sale of its products or technologies, Medicis may be required to license the disputed rights, if the holder of those rights is willing, or to cease marketing the challenged products, or to modify Medicis' products to avoid infringing upon those rights. A claim or finding of infringement regarding one of Medicis' products could harm its business, financial condition and results of operations. The costs of responding to infringement claims could be substantial and could require a substantial commitment of Medicis' management's time. The expiration of patents may expose Medicis' products to additional competition.

Medicis also relies upon trade secrets, unpatented proprietary know-how and continuing technological innovation in developing and manufacturing many of Medicis' core products. It is Medicis' policy to require all of its employees, consultants and advisors to enter into confidentiality agreements prohibiting them from taking or disclosing Medicis' proprietary information and technology. Nevertheless, these agreements may not provide meaningful protection for Medicis' trade secrets and proprietary know-how if they are used or disclosed. Despite all of the precautions Medicis may take, people who are not parties to confidentiality agreements may obtain access to its trade secrets or know-how. In addition, others may independently develop similar or equivalent trade secrets or know-how.

If Q-Med is unable to protect its intellectual property and proprietary rights with respect to Medicis' dermal aesthetic enhancement products, Medicis' business could suffer.

RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™ currently have patent protection in the United States until 2015, and the exclusivity period of the license granted to Medicis by Q-Med ends on the last to occur of the last patent covering the products expiring and the licensed know-how becoming publicly known. If the validity or enforceability of these patents is successfully challenged, the cost to Medicis could be significant and Medicis' business may be harmed. For example, if any such challenges are successful, Q-Med may be unable to supply products to Medicis. Medicis may be unable to market, distribute and commercialize the products or it may no longer be profitable for it to do so.

Medicis may not be able to collect all scheduled license payments from BioMarin.

As part of Medicis' asset purchase agreement, license agreement and securities purchase agreement with BioMarin Pharmaceutical Inc., BioMarin will make license payments to Medicis of $2.1 million per quarter for four quarters beginning in July 2005; $1.75 million per quarter for the subsequent eight quarters beginning in July 2006; and $1.5 million per quarter for the subsequent four quarters beginning in July 2008. While Medicis did receive all scheduled quarterly license payments during the fiscal year ending June 30, 2005, it cannot give any assurances as to BioMarin's continuing ability to make payments to Medicis. Currently, Medicis' revenue recognition of these payments is on a cash basis.

Medicis depends upon its key personnel and its ability to attract, train, and retain employees.

Medicis' success depends significantly on the continued individual and collective contributions of its senior management team. Medicis has not entered into employment agreements with any of its key managers, with the exception of its Chairman and Chief Executive Officer. The loss of the services of any member of Medicis' senior management or the inability to hire and retain experienced management personnel could adversely affect Medicis' ability to execute its business plan and harm its operating results. In addition, Medicis' future success depends on its ability to hire, train and retain skilled employees. Competition for these employees is intense.

Medicis has internally developed potential pharmaceutical compounds and agents. It has also acquired the rights to certain potential compounds and agents in various stages of development. Medicis currently has a variety of new products in various stages of research and development and is working on possible improvements, extensions and reformulations of some existing products. These research and development activities, as well as the clinical testing and regulatory approval process, which must be completed before commercial quantities of these developments can be sold, will require significant commitments of personnel and financial resources. Medicis cannot assure you that it will be able to develop a product or technology in a timely manner, or at all. Delays in the research, development, testing or approval processes will cause a corresponding delay in revenue generation from those products. Regardless of whether they are ever released to the market, the expense of such processes will have already been incurred.

Medicis reevaluates its research and development efforts regularly to assess whether its efforts to develop a particular product or technology are progressing at a rate that justifies Medicis' continued expenditures. On the basis of these reevaluations, Medicis has abandoned in the past, and may abandon in the future, its efforts on a particular product or technology. Products that Medicis researches and develops may not be successfully commercialized. If Medicis fails to take a product or technology from the development stage to market on a timely basis, it may incur significant expenses without a near-term financial return.

Medicis has in the past, and may in the future, supplement its internal research and development by entering into research and development agreements with other pharmaceutical companies. Medicis may, upon entering into such agreements, be required to make significant up-front payments to fund the projects. Medicis cannot be sure, however, that it will be able to locate adequate research partners or that supplemental research will be available on terms acceptable to it in the future. If Medicis is unable to enter into additional research partnership arrangements, it may incur additional costs to continue research and development internally or abandon certain projects. Even if Medicis is able to enter into collaborations, it cannot assure you that these arrangements will result in successful product development or commercialization.

In March 2003, Medicis completed its acquisition of the rights to market, distribute and commercialize the dermal filler product lines known as RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™ in the United States and Canada. The products are approved for sale in Canada, and RESTYLANE® was approved for use in the United States on December 12, 2003. Medicis cannot assure you that the FDA will approve PERLANE<sup>tm</sup> and RESTYLANE FINE LINES<sup>tm</sup> in a timely fashion, or for the same indications as approved in other countries, or at all.

There is also a risk that Medicis' products may not gain market acceptance among physicians, patients and the medical community generally. The degree of market acceptance of any medical device or other product that Medicis develops will depend on a number of factors, including demonstrated clinical efficacy and safety, cost-effectiveness, potential advantages over alternative products, and Medicis' marketing and distribution capabilities. Physicians will not recommend Medicis' products until clinical data or other factors demonstrate their safety and efficacy compared to other competing products. Even if the clinical safety and efficacy of using Medicis' products is established, physicians may elect to not recommend using them for any number of other reasons, including whether Medicis' products best meet the particular needs of the individual patient.

Medicis may not be able to identify and acquire products, technologies and businesses on acceptable terms, if at all, which may constrain its growth.

Medicis' strategy for continued growth includes the acquisition of products, technologies and businesses. These acquisitions could involve acquiring other pharmaceutical companies' assets, products or technologies. In addition, Medicis may seek to obtain licenses or other rights to develop, manufacture and distribute products. Medicis cannot be certain that it will be able to identify suitable acquisition or licensing candidates or if any will be available on acceptable terms. Other pharmaceutical companies, with greater financial, marketing and sales resources than Medicis, have also tried to grow through similar acquisition and licensing strategies. Because of their greater resources, Medicis' competitors may be able to offer better terms for an acquisition or license than Medicis can offer, or they may be able to demonstrate a greater ability to market licensed products.

Medicis' success depends on its ability to manage its growth.

Medicis recently experienced a period of rapid growth from both acquisitions and internal expansion of its operations. This growth has placed significant demands on Medicis' human and financial resources. Medicis must continue to improve its operational, financial and management information controls and systems and effectively motivate, train and manage its employees to properly manage this growth. Even if these steps are taken, Medicis cannot be sure that its recent acquisitions will be integrated successfully into Medicis' business operations. If Medicis is not able to successfully integrate its acquisitions, it may not obtain the advantages that the acquisitions were intended to create. In addition, if Medicis does not manage this growth effectively, maintain the quality of its products despite the demands on its resources and retain key personnel, Medicis' business could be harmed.

Medicis depends on licenses from others, and any loss of such licenses could harm its business, market share and profitability.

Medicis has acquired the rights to manufacture, use and market certain products, including certain of Medicis' core products. Medicis also expects to continue to obtain licenses for other products and technologies in the future. Medicis license agreements generally require it to develop a market for the licensed products. If Medicis does not develop these markets within specified time frames, the licensors may be entitled to terminate these license agreements.

Medicis may fail to fulfill its obligations under any particular license agreement for various reasons, including insufficient resources to adequately develop and market a product, and lack of market development despite Medicis' diligence and lack of product acceptance. Medicis' failure to fulfill its obligations could result in the loss of its rights under a license agreement.

Medicis' inability to continue the distribution of any particular licensed product could harm its business, market share and profitability. Also, certain products Medicis licenses are used in connection with other products it owns or licenses. A loss of a license in such circumstances could materially harm Medicis' ability to market and distribute these other products.

Medicis' growth and acquisition strategy depends upon the successful integration of licensed products with its existing products. Therefore, any loss, limitation or flaw in a licensed product could impair Medicis' ability to market and sell its products, delay new product development and introduction, and harm Medicis' reputation. These problems, individually or together, could harm Medicis' business and results of operations.

Medicis depends on a limited number of customers, and if Medicis loses any of them, its business could be harmed.

Medicis' customers include some of the United States' leading wholesale pharmaceutical distributors, such as AmerisourceBergen, Cardinal, McKesson, Quality King, and major drug chains. During fiscal 2005, McKesson and Cardinal accounted for 51.2% and 21.8%, respectively, of Medicis' net revenues. The loss of any of these customers accounts or a material reduction in their purchases could harm Medicis' business, financial condition or results of operations. In addition, Medicis may face pricing pressure from its customers.

The distribution network for pharmaceutical products has, in recent years, been subject to increasing consolidation. As a result, a few large wholesale distributors control a significant share of the market. In addition, the number of independent drug stores and small chains has decreased as retail consolidation has occurred. Further consolidation among, or any financial difficulties of, distributors or retailers could result in the combination or elimination of warehouses which may result in product returns to Medicis, cause a reduction in the inventory levels of distributors and retailers, or otherwise result in reductions in purchases of Medicis' products, any of which could harm its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Medicis relies on others to manufacture its products.

Currently, Medicis outsources its entire product manufacturing needs. Typically, Medicis' manufacturing contracts are short-term. Medicis is dependent upon renewing agreements with its existing manufacturers or finding replacement manufacturers to satisfy its requirements. As a result, Medicis cannot be certain that manufacturing sources will continue to be available or that Medicis can continue to outsource the manufacturing of its products on reasonable or acceptable terms.

The underlying cost to Medicis for manufacturing its products is established in its agreements with these outside manufacturers. Because of the short-term nature of these agreements, Medicis' expenses for manufacturing are not fixed and could change from contract to contract. If the cost of production increases, Medicis' gross margins could be negatively affected.

In addition, Medicis relies on outside manufacturers to provide it with an adequate and reliable supply of its products on a timely basis. Loss of a supplier or any difficulties that arise in the supply chain could significantly affect Medicis' inventories and supply of products available for sale. Medicis does not have alternative sources of supply for all of its products. If a primary supplier of any of Medicis' core products is unable to fulfill Medicis' requirements for any reason, it could reduce Medicis' sales, margins and market share, as well as harm Medicis' overall business and financial results. If Medicis is unable to supply sufficient amounts of Medicis' products on a timely basis, its revenues and market share could decrease and, correspondingly, its profitability could decrease.

Under several exclusive supply agreements, with certain exceptions, Medicis must purchase most of its product supply from specific manufacturers. If any of these exclusive manufacturer or supplier relationships were terminated, Medicis would be forced to find a replacement manufacturer or supplier. The FDA requires that all manufacturers used by pharmaceutical companies comply with the FDA's regulations, including the current Good Manufacturing Practices (cGMP) regulations applicable to manufacturing processes. The cGMP validation of a new facility and the approval of that manufacturer for a new drug product may take a year or more before manufacture can begin at the facility. Delays in obtaining FDA validation of a replacement manufacturing facility could cause an interruption in the supply of Medicis' products. Although Medicis has business interruption insurance covering the loss of income for up to 12 months, which may mitigate the harm to it from the interruption of the manufacturing of Medicis' largest selling products caused by certain events, the loss of a manufacturer could still cause a reduction in Medicis' sales, margins and market share, as well as harm its overall business and financial results.

Medicis' reliance on third-party manufacturers and suppliers can be disruptive to its inventory supply.

Medicis and the manufacturers of its products rely on suppliers of raw materials used in the production of Medicis products. Some of these materials are available from only one source and others may become available from only one source. Any disruption in the supply of raw materials or an increase in the cost of raw materials to Medicis manufacturers could have a significant effect on their ability to supply Medicis with its products.

Medicis tries to maintain inventory levels that are no greater than necessary to meet its current projections. Any interruption in the supply of finished products could hinder Medicis' ability to timely distribute finished products. If Medicis is unable to obtain adequate product supplies to satisfy its customers' orders, it may lose those orders and its customers may cancel other orders and stock and sell competing products. This, in turn, could cause a loss of Medicis market share and reduce its revenues.

Medicis could experience difficulties in obtaining supplies of RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™.

The manufacturing process to create bulk non-animal stabilized hyaluronic acid necessary to produce RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™ products is technically complex and requires significant lead-time. Any failure by Medicis to accurately forecast demand for finished product could result in an interruption in the supply of RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™ products and a resulting decrease in sales of the products.

Medicis depends exclusively on Q-Med for Medicis' supply of RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™ products. There are currently no alternative suppliers of these products. Q-Med has committed to supply RESTYLANE® to Medicis under a long-term license that is subject to customary conditions and Medicis delivery of specified milestone payments. Q-Med manufactures RESTYLANE®, PERLANE™ and RESTYLANE FINE LINES™ at its facility in Uppsala, Sweden. Medicis cannot be certain that Q-Med will be able to meet Medicis current or future supply requirements. Any impairment of Q-Med's manufacturing capacities could significantly affect Medicis' inventories and its supply of products available for sale.

Supply interruptions may disrupt Medicis' inventory levels and the availability of its products.

Numerous factors could cause interruptions in the supply of Medicis' finished products, including: timing, scheduling and prioritization of production by Medicis' contract manufacturers;

labor interruptions;

changes in Medicis' sources for manufacturing;

the timing and delivery of domestic and international shipments;

Medicis' failure to locate and obtain replacement manufacturers as needed on a timely basis; and conditions affecting the cost and availability of raw materials.

Medicis estimates customer demand for its prescription products primarily through use of third party syndicated data sources which track prescriptions written by health care providers and dispensed by licensed pharmacies. These data are extrapolations from information provided only by certain pharmacies, and are estimates of historical demand levels. Medicis observes trends from these data, and, coupled with certain proprietary information, prepares demand forecasts that are the basis for purchase orders for finished and component inventory from Medicis' third party manufacturers and suppliers. Medicis' forecasts may fail to accurately anticipate ultimate customer demand for products. Overestimates of demand may result in excessive inventory production; underestimates may result in inadequate supply of Medicis' products in channels of distribution.

Medicis sells its products primarily to major wholesalers and retail pharmacy chains. Consistent with pharmaceutical industry patterns, approximately 80% of Medicis' revenues are derived from four major drug wholesale concerns. While Medicis attempts to estimate inventory levels of its products at its major wholesale customers, using historical prescription information and historical purchase patterns, this process is inherently imprecise. Rarely do wholesale customers provide Medicis complete inventory levels at regional distribution centers, or within their national distribution systems. Medicis relies wholly upon its wholesale and drug chain customers to effect the distribution allocation of its products.

Medicis periodically offers promotions to wholesale and chain drugstore customers to encourage dispensing of its products, consistent with prescriptions written by licensed health care providers. Because many of Medicis' products compete in multi-source markets, it is important for Medicis to ensure the licensed health care providers' dispensing instructions are fulfilled with Medicis' branded products and are not substituted with a generic product or another therapeutic alternative product which may be contrary to the licensed health care providers' recommended prescribed Medicis brand. Medicis believes that a critical component of its brand protection program is maintenance of full product availability at drugstore and wholesale customers. Medicis believes such availability reduces the probability of local and regional product substitutions, shortages and backorders, which could result in lost sales. Medicis expects to continue providing favorable terms to wholesale and retail drug chain customers as may be necessary to ensure the fullest possible distribution of its branded products within the pharmaceutical chain of commerce.

Medicis cannot control or influence greatly the purchasing patterns of its wholesale and retail drug chain customers. These are highly sophisticated customers that purchase Medicis' products in a manner consistent with their industry practices and, presumably, based upon their projected demand levels. Purchases by any given customer, during any given period, may be above or below actual prescription volumes of any of Medicis' products during the same period, resulting in fluctuations in product inventory in the distribution channel.

As a result of customer buying patterns, a substantial portion of Medicis' revenues have been recognized in the last month of each quarter. Medicis schedules its inventory purchases to meet anticipated customer demand. As a result, relatively small delays in the receipt of manufactured products by Medicis could result in revenues being deferred or lost. Medicis' operating expenses are based upon anticipated sales levels, and a high percentage of Medicis' operating expenses are relatively fixed in the short term. Consequently, variations in the timing of revenue recognition could cause significant fluctuations in operating results from period to period and may result in unanticipated periodic earnings shortfalls or losses.

Medicis selectively outsources certain non-sales and non-marketing services, and cannot assure you that it will be able to obtain adequate supplies of such services on acceptable terms.

To enable Medicis to focus on its core marketing and sales activities, Medicis selectively outsources certain non-sales and non-marketing functions, such as laboratory research, manufacturing and warehousing. As Medicis expands its activities in these areas, additional financial resources are expected to be utilized. Medicis typically does not enter into long-term manufacturing contracts with third-party manufacturers. Whether or not such contracts exist, Medicis cannot assure you that it will be able to obtain adequate supplies of such services or products in a timely fashion, on acceptable terms, or at all.

Importation of products from Canada and other countries into the United States may lower the prices Medicis receives for its products.

Medicis' products are subject to competition from lower priced versions of its products and competing products from Canada and other countries where government price controls or other market dynamics result in lower prices. The ability of patients and other customers to obtain these lower priced imports has grown significantly as a result of the Internet, an expansion of pharmacies in Canada and elsewhere targeted to American purchasers, the increase in United States-based businesses affiliated with Canadian pharmacies marketing to American purchasers, and other factors. Most of these foreign imports are illegal under current

United States law. However, the volume of imports continues to rise due to the limited enforcement resources of the FDA and the United States Customs Service, and there is increased political pressure to permit the imports as a mechanism for expanding access to lower priced medicines.

In December 2003, Congress enacted the Medicare Prescription Drug, Improvement and Modernization Act of 2003. This law contains provisions that may change United States import laws and expand consumers' ability to import lower priced versions of Medicis' and competing products from Canada, where there are government price controls. These changes to United States import laws will not take effect unless and until the Secretary of Health and Human Services certifies that the changes will lead to substantial savings for consumers and will not create a public health safety issue. The former Secretary of Health and Human Services did not make such a certification. However, it is possible that the current Secretary or a subsequent Secretary could make the certification in the future. As directed by Congress, a task force on drug importation recently conducted a comprehensive study regarding the circumstances under which drug importation could be safely conducted and the consequences of importation on the health, medical costs and development of new medicines for United States consumers. The task force issued its report in December 2004, finding that there are significant safety and economic issues that must be addressed before importation of prescription drugs is permitted, and the current Secretary has not yet announced any plans to make the required certification. In addition, federal legislative proposals have been made to implement the changes to the United States import laws without any certification, and to broaden permissible imports in other ways. Even if the changes to the United States import laws do not take effect, and other changes are not enacted, imports from Canada and elsewhere may continue to increase due to market and political forces, and the limited enforcement resources of the FDA, the United States Customs Service and other government agencies.

The importation of foreign products adversely affects Medicis' profitability in the United States. This impact could become more significant in the future, and the impact could be even greater if there is a further change in the law or if state or local governments take further steps to facilitate the importation of products from abroad.

If Medicis becomes subject to product liability claims, its earnings and financial condition could suffer.

Medicis is exposed to risks of product liability claims from allegations that its products resulted in adverse effects to the patient or others. These risks exist even with respect to those products that are approved for commercial sale by the FDA and manufactured in facilities licensed and regulated by the FDA.

In addition to Medicis' desire to reduce the scope of its potential exposure to these types of claims, many of Medicis' customers require it to maintain product liability insurance as a condition of conducting business with Medicis. Medicis currently carries product liability insurance in the amount of $50 million per claim and $50 million in the aggregate on a claims-made basis. Nevertheless, this insurance may not be sufficient to cover all claims made against it. Insurance coverage is expensive and may be difficult to obtain. As a result, Medicis cannot be certain that its current coverage will continue to be available in the future on reasonable terms, if at all. If Medicis is liable for any product liability claims in excess of its coverage or outside of its coverage, the cost and expense of such liability could cause Medicis' earnings and financial condition to suffer.

Rising insurance costs could negatively impact profitability.

The cost of insurance, including workers compensation, product liability and general liability insurance, have risen significantly in recent years and may increase in the future. In response, Medicis may increase deductibles and/or decrease certain coverages to mitigate these costs. These increases, and Medicis' increased risk due to increased deductibles and reduced coverages, could have a negative impact on Medicis' results of operations, financial condition and cash flows.

If Medicis suffers negative publicity concerning the safety of its products, its sales may be harmed and Medicis may be forced to withdraw products.

Physicians and potential patients may have a number of concerns about the safety of Medicis' products, whether or not such concerns have a basis in generally accepted science or peer-reviewed scientific research.

Negative publicity, whether accurate or inaccurate, concerning Medicis' products could reduce market or governmental acceptance of Medicis' products and could result in decreased product demand or product withdrawal. In addition, significant negative publicity could result in an increased number of product liability claims, whether or not these claims are supported by applicable law.

RESTYLANE® is a consumer product; trends may change and applicable laws may affect sales or product margins of RESTYLANE®.

RESTYLANE® is a consumer product. If Medicis fails to anticipate, identify or react to competitive products or if consumer preferences in the cosmetic marketplace shift to other treatments for the treatment of fine lines, wrinkles and deep facial folds, Medicis may experience a decline in demand for RESTYLANE®. In addition, the popular media has at times in the past produced, and may continue in the future to produce, negative reports regarding the efficacy, safety or side effects of facial aesthetic products. Consumer perceptions of RESTYLANE® may be negatively impacted by these reports and other reasons.

Demand for RESTYLANE® may be materially adversely affected by changing economic conditions. Generally, the costs of cosmetic procedures are borne by individuals without reimbursement from their medical insurance providers or government programs. Individuals may be less willing to incur the costs of these procedures in weak or uncertain economic environments, and demand for RESTYLANE® could be adversely affected.

Medicis may not be able to repurchase the Old Notes and New Notes when required.

In June 2002, Medicis sold Contingent Convertible Senior Notes, due in 2032, or the Old Notes, in the amount of $400 million. In August 2003, Medicis exchanged approximately $230.8 million in principal of these Old Notes for approximately $283.9 million of Medicis' Contingent Convertible Senior Notes due in 2033, or the New Notes.

On June 4, 2007, 2012 and 2017 and upon the occurrence of a change in control, holders of the remaining Old Notes may require Medicis to offer to repurchase their Old Notes for cash. On June 4, 2008, 2013 and 2018 and upon the occurrence of a change in control, holders of the New Notes may require Medicis to offer to repurchase their New Notes for cash. Medicis may not have sufficient funds at the time of any such events to make the required repurchases.

The source of funds for any repurchase required as a result of any such events will be Medicis' available cash or cash generated from operating activities or other sources, including borrowings, sales of assets, sales of equity or funds provided by a new controlling entity. Medicis cannot assure you, however, that sufficient funds will be available at the time of any such events to make any required repurchases of the Notes tendered. Furthermore, the use of available cash to fund the repurchase of the Old Notes or New Notes may impair Medicis' ability to obtain additional financing in the future.

Medicis' publicly-filed SEC reports are reviewed by the SEC from time to time and any significant changes required as a result of any such review may result in material liability to Medicis and have a material adverse impact on the trading price of Medicis' common stock.

The reports of publicly-traded companies are subject to review by the SEC from time to time for the purpose of assisting companies in complying with applicable disclosure requirements and to enhance the overall effectiveness of companies' public filings, and comprehensive reviews of such reports are now required at least every three years under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. SEC reviews may be initiated at any time. While Medicis believes that its previously filed SEC reports comply, and Medicis intends that all future reports will comply in all material respects with the published rules and regulations of the SEC, Medicis could be required to modify or reformulate information contained in prior filings as a result of an SEC review. Any modification or reformulation of information contained in such reports could be significant and result in material liability to Medicis and have a material adverse impact on the trading price of Medicis' common stock.

Table of Contents*Risks Relating to Inamed

If Inamed is unable to avoid significant product liability claims, product recalls, or indemnification claims, Inamed may be forced to pay substantial damage awards, claims, and other expenses that could exceed its accruals and insurance coverage.

Inamed has in the past been, currently is, and may in the future be subject to product liability claims alleging that the use of Inamed's technology or products has resulted in adverse health effects. These claims may be brought even with respect to products that are investigational devices in approved clinical trials or that have received, or in the future may receive, regulatory approval for commercial sale. In particular, the manufacture and sale of breast implant products entails significant risk of product liability claims due to potential allegations of possible disease causation, transmission, complications and other health factors, rupture, deflation or other product failure. Other breast implant manufacturers that suffered such claims in the past have been forced to cease operations or even to declare bankruptcy. Inamed also faces a substantial risk of product liability claims from its obesity intervention products and its facial aesthetics products. In addition to product liability claims, Inamed may in the future need to recall or issue field corrections related to its products due to manufacturing deficiencies, labeling errors, or other safety or regulatory reasons or concerns. Inamed has, from time to time, entered into indemnification agreements with health care practitioners with respect to certain clinical research studies. Pursuant to these agreements, Inamed has agreed to indemnify the health care practitioners from third-party claims (in addition to product liability claims) resulting from or arising out of these studies.

At present, except for some of Inamed's products used in current clinical trials, Inamed has no third-party liability insurance to protect Inamed from the damages and the costs of claims for damages due to the use or recall of its products or indemnification claims. Product liability claims, recall orders or indemnification claims could result in material losses.

In addition, Inamed continues to incur substantial costs and expenses as a result of Inamed's liabilities related to the Trilucent breast implant. Inamed's Trilucent costs and expenses derive in part from the program announced by Inamed on June 6, 2000, and include, among other things, continuing expenses of Inamed's explantation program, regulatory compliance, scientific and other investigative studies, bodily injury and financial loss claims, and related legal and defense costs. While Inamed has insurance for some of these expenses and has also established accruals for them in addition to its insurance program, the combined amount of its insurance and accruals may be insufficient to cover all its future Trilucent-related liabilities. In 2002, Inamed came to final settlements with each of its two insurers for product liability claims arising from the Trilucent implant. Under one settlement with MEDMARC Casualty Insurance Company, MEDMARC paid $6 million in cash to Inamed in January 2003, $1.5 million cash to Inamed in May 2003, and, effective November 16, 2002, agreed to make a policy with a limit of $10 million available to Inamed for defense and indemnification of Trilucent-related bodily injury claims worldwide. The policy does not cover claims filed against Inamed after November 7, 2005. This policy was fully used as of June 30, 2004. Under the second settlement, AISLIC, an AIG company, agreed to make an excess policy with a limit of $10 million available to Inamed for the indemnification of non-United States Trilucent claims. There was approximately $2.4 million remaining under this commitment at June 30, 2005 and $4.2 million remaining at December 31, 2004.

In addition, at June 30, 2005, Inamed had an accrual for future Trilucent claims, costs, and expenses of approximately $6.8 million and insurance of $2.4 million, or $4.4 million, net of insurance. While Inamed currently believes this amount is adequate, it is possible that its future Trilucent-related liabilities could exceed this amount. Further, the existing insurance coverage is subject to a number of conditions. Thus, Inamed's accruals and liability insurance coverage under the foregoing insurance policies may be inadequate to cover its future Trilucent-related liabilities, including its Trilucent-related bodily injury claims and other contingent liabilities.

Under the program announced on June 6, 2000, Inamed has, through its AEI Inc. subsidiary, undertaken a comprehensive program of support and assistance for women who received Trilucent breast implants, under which Inamed is covering medical expenses associated with the removal and replacement of those implants for the approximately 8,500 women who received them. To date, Inamed believes that more than 90% of the United Kingdom residents and more than 75% of the women in the rest of the world who had these implants have had them removed. The product was not sold commercially in the United States. Prior to February 15, 2005, an insurance company honored its commitment under an insurance policy to reimburse Inamed for most of the medical expenses incurred in connection with this explantation program. As of February 15, 2005, this policy expired in accordance with its terms. Despite the expiration of this policy, Inamed may continue to pay for the explantations of certain Trilucent recipients, and hence it is possible that Inamed will incur material liabilities for Trilucent-related explantation expenses in the future for which it will not have insurance coverage.

Recipients of the Trilucent implants have also asserted claims and brought legal proceedings against Inamed, AEI (an affiliate of Inamed), other affiliated and unaffiliated entities, and persons alleging bodily injury and financial loss as a result of the implantation and explantation of their Trilucent implants. To date, Inamed has been able to resolve these claims within its accruals and with insurance proceeds. In the United Kingdom and Spain, Inamed has entered into protocols under which women who have had their Trilucent implants removed since June 6, 2000 may apply for certain fixed levels of compensation, or may obtain an independent, binding determination of their damages, without proof of defect or legal causation. In the United Kingdom, while Inamed has been successful in settling the vast majority of claims, Inamed has yet to finally adjudicate approximately 90 claims in which women in the U.K. are claiming serious medical complications from their Trilucent explantation procedure. In Spain, although approximately 310 women have accepted Inamed's protocol, approximately 61 have commenced individual legal proceedings (approximately 43 of which are still pending) and a Spanish consumer union has commenced a single action in which it alleges that it represents approximately 40 Spanish Trilucent explantees. More than 790 Spanish women were explanted and hence more than 300 have yet to make claims for bodily injury or financial loss (although Inamed has already paid for their explants). The claims of many of these women may now be time-barred under Spanish law. In addition, in the second quarter of 2005, for the first time an appellate court in Spain issued a decision holding that Trilucent Breast Implants were not defective within the meaning of Spanish product liability law and dismissed a EUR 60,000 award issued by the lower court. While this ruling is a positive development for Inamed, and may eliminate or reduce its liability in cases filed in the judicial district (Madrid) in which it was issued, it may not be followed by other Spanish appellate courts or could be modified or be found to be inapplicable to other cases filed in the Madrid district. Inamed is also facing Trilucent-related claims and legal proceedings in Germany, Belgium, Italy and other countries. In Germany, where as many as 1,500 to 2,000 women are believed to have been implanted with Trilucent implants, approximately 950 have been explanted, but only approximately 130 have made claims for bodily injury or financial loss (although Inamed has already paid for their explants). By reason of adverse publicity concerning Trilucent and the announced closure of Inamed's explantation program, the rate of filing of new Trilucent-related bodily injury claims by women in Germany, Belgium, Italy and other European countries may increase in 2005 or in the following years.

In addition, under U.K. and Spanish law, the release granted to Inamed under its settlement protocol is necessarily provisional, and each participating claimant reserves the right to pursue a future claim should she develop cancer or reproductive abnormalities. On August 4, 2004, the Trilucent Scientific Advisory Panel (TSAP) delivered a report to the successor entity to the MDA in the United Kingdom, known as the MHRA. In its report, issued after more than three years of research, the TSAP concluded that there is no scientific evidence that Trilucent implants pose a significant systemic risk to human health but that the removal of the implants on precautionary grounds was and is appropriate. Although Inamed's regulator in the U.K. has determined that no further studies of Trilucent are currently required, Inamed could also be obligated to fund scientific or epidemiologic research, or incur expenses for medical monitoring, that are in excess of the spending levels which are currently forecast. As a result of these and other factors, the total amount of accruals and insurance available to address Inamed's future Trilucent-related liabilities may be insufficient and Inamed may need to make additional provisions for Trilucent-related liabilities in the future.

The production and marketing of Inamed's products and its ongoing research and development, pre-clinical testing and clinical trial activities are subject to extensive regulation and review by numerous governmental authorities both in the United States and abroad. Most of the products Inamed develops must undergo rigorous pre-clinical and clinical testing and an extensive regulatory approval process before they can be marketed. This process makes it longer, harder and more costly to bring Inamed's products to market, and Inamed cannot guarantee that any of its products will be approved, or, once approved, not recalled. The pre-marketing approval process and biologic license application process can be particularly expensive, uncertain and lengthy, and a number of products for which FDA approval has been sought by other companies have never been approved for marketing. In addition to testing and approval procedures, extensive regulations also govern marketing, manufacturing, distribution, labeling, and record-keeping procedures. If Inamed does not comply with applicable regulatory requirements, such violations could result in warning letters, non-approval, suspensions of regulatory approvals, civil penalties and criminal fines, product seizures and recalls, operating restrictions, injunctions, and criminal prosecution.

Delays in or rejection of FDA or other government entity approval of Inamed's new products may also adversely affect its business. Such delays or rejection may be encountered due to, among other reasons, government or regulatory delays, lack of efficacy during clinical trials, unforeseen safety issues, slower than expected rate of patient recruitment for clinical trials, inability to follow patients after treatment in clinical trials, inconsistencies between early clinical trial results and results obtained in later clinical trials, varying interpretations of data generated by clinical trials, or changes in regulatory policy during the period of product development in the United States and abroad. In the United States, there has been a continuing trend of more stringent FDA oversight in product clearance and enforcement activities, causing manufacturers to experience longer approval cycles, more uncertainty, greater risk, and higher expenses.

On April 11, 2005, the General and Plastic Surgery Advisory Panel (Panel) of the FDA recommended by a five to four vote the non-approval to the FDA of Inamed's Pre-Market Approval (PMA) application to market responsive silicone gel-filled breast implants in the United States. After consideration of the outcome of the Panel meeting and in consultation with the FDA, Inamed modified its responsive gel PMA by separating data for eight round style investigational devices and the shaped Style 153 investigational devices. This PMA modification also included new 10 to 12 year European data for these styles. Inamed also decided to voluntarily end the availability of the Style 153 as an investigational device in clinical studies. The Style 153 accounted for approximately $3.4 million (less than 1%) of Inamed's total revenues in 2004.

Mentor Corporation announced on July 28, 2005, that it had received an approvable letter from the FDA with respect to its silicone breast implants that had received the Panel's recommendation of approval in April. According to Mentor, the approvable letter stipulates a number of conditions which Mentor must satisfy in order to receive FDA approval to market and sell silicone gel-filled breast implants in the United States. On September 21, 2005, Inamed announced that it received an approvable letter from the FDA for its responsive silicone gel filled breast implants. The approvable letter stipulates a number of conditions that Inamed must comply with in order to receive FDA approval to market and sell responsive silicone gel filled breast implants in the United States. An approvable letter is one of several intermediate steps in the FDA review process of new products.

Internationally, there is a risk that Inamed may not be successful in meeting applicable quality standards or other certification requirements. Even if regulatory approval of a product is granted, this approval may entail limitations on uses for which the product may be labeled and promoted. It is possible, for example, that Inamed may not receive FDA approval to market its current products for broader or different applications or to market updated products that represent extensions of Inamed's basic technology. In addition, Inamed may not receive FDA export approval to export its products in the future, and countries to which products are to be exported may not approve them for import.

Inamed's manufacturing facilities also are subject to continual governmental review and inspection. The FDA has stated publicly that compliance with manufacturing regulations will be scrutinized more strictly. A governmental authority may challenge Inamed's compliance with applicable federal, state and foreign regulations. In addition, any discovery of previously unknown problems with one of Inamed's products or facilities may result in restrictions on the product or the facility, including withdrawal of the product from the market or other enforcement actions.

From time to time, legislative or regulatory proposals are introduced that could alter the review and approval process relating to Inamed's products. It is possible that the FDA or other governmental authorities will issue additional regulations further restricting the sale of Inamed's present or proposed products. Any change in legislation or regulations that govern the review and approval process relating to Inamed's current and future products could make it more difficult and costly to obtain approval for new products, or to produce, market, and distribute existing products.

There are material risks related to the potential delay or failure to consummate the proposed merger with Medicis.

The proposed merger with Medicis may not be completed on the anticipated timetable, and it is possible that the merger will not be completed at all. The delay or failure to consummate the proposed merger with Medicis could negatively impact Inamed's stock price and future business and operations. If the merger with Medicis is delayed or not consummated for any reason, Inamed may be subject to a number of material risks, including the following:

If the merger agreement is terminated by Medicis under certain circumstances, and Inamed enters into a change of control transaction subsequent to such termination, Inamed may be required to pay to Medicis a termination fee of $90 million. Inamed may also be required to pay a fee of $10 million upon its breach of the terms and conditions of the merger agreement. These fees may deter other parties from offering to acquire Inamed, which could interfere with the ability of its stockholders to receive a premium for their shares of Inamed's stock;

The price of Inamed's common stock may decline, as the current market price of its common stock may reflect an assumption that the proposed merger will be consummated and that its stockholders will become stockholders of Medicis upon closing of the merger;

Inamed must pay certain expenses related to the proposed merger, including substantial financial advisory, legal, accounting and other merger-related fees even if the merger is not consummated, which could affect Inamed's results of operations and cash liquidity, and potentially its stock price;

Significant management and other resources have been diverted to efforts to consummate the proposed merger and, if the merger is not consummated, such efforts will result in little or no benefit to Inamed;

Current and prospective employees may experience uncertainty about their future role with Inamed, which may adversely affect Inamed's ability to attract and retain key management, research and development, manufacturing and other personnel;

The announcement of the proposed merger may have an adverse effect on Inamed's revenues in the near-term and its market position if Inamed's customers, suppliers, marketing and collaboration partners and other third parties delay, defer or cancel purchases pending resolution of the proposed merger; and

If the merger agreement with Medicis is terminated and the Inamed board of directors decides to seek another merger or business combination, it may not be able to find a partner willing to pay an equivalent price to that which would have been obtained in the proposed merger with Medicis.

In addition, the merger agreement contains a number of conditions which must be satisfied or waived prior to the closing of the merger, including required antitrust approvals, such as the expiration or termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act. On May 5, 2005, Inamed received a Second Request from the FTC regarding the proposed merger with Medicis. The Second Request was issued under the notification requirements of the HSR Act. The effect of the Second Request is to extend the waiting period imposed by the HSR Act until thirty days after Medicis and Inamed have substantially complied with the Second Request and Medicis and Inamed have jointly provided the FTC with a notice to commence the thirty-day waiting period, unless terminated sooner by the FTC. There can be no assurance that this merger will receive the required antitrust approvals on a timely basis, if at all, and either Inamed or Medicis may be required to divest certain assets or a portion of its respective operations to obtain the required antitrust approvals. See The Merger Agreement on page 108.

If Inamed suffers negative publicity concerning the safety of its products, Inamed's sales may be harmed and Inamed may be forced to withdraw products.

Physicians and potential and existing patients may have a number of concerns about the safety of Inamed's products, including its breast implants, obesity intervention products and facial dermal fillers, whether such concerns have a basis in generally accepted science or peer-reviewed scientific research or not. Negative publicity—whether accurate or inaccurate—about Inamed's products, based on, for example, news about breast implant litigation or regulatory activities and developments, whether involving Inamed or a competitor, new government regulation, or bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) or Creutzfeldt-Jacob, or mad cow disease, could materially reduce market acceptance of Inamed's products and could result in product withdrawals. In addition, significant negative publicity could result in an increased number of product liability claims, whether or not these claims have a basis in scientific fact.

Inamed's quarterly operating results are subject to substantial fluctuations and any failure to meet financial expectations for any fiscal quarter may disappoint securities analysts and investors and could cause Inamed's stock price to decline.

Inamed's quarterly operating results have fluctuated in the past and may vary significantly in the future due to a combination of factors, many of which are beyond Inamed's control. These factors include:

changes in demand for Inamed's products;

Inamed's ability to meet the demand for its products;

on-going and increased competition;

the number, timing, pricing and significance of new products and product introductions and enhancements by Inamed and its competitors;

regulatory approvals obtained either by Inamed or a competitor;

Inamed's ability to develop, introduce and market new products and enhanced versions of its existing products on a timely basis;

changes in pricing policies by Inamed or its competitors;

events related to the proposed merger with Medicis and/or the operating results or stock price of Medicis;

merger-related expenses if the merger with Medicis is not consummated;

the timing of significant orders and shipments;

regulatory approvals or other regulatory action affecting new or existing products;

litigation with respect to product liability, intellectual property, and other claims or product recalls and any insurance covering such claims or recalls; and general economic factors, such as foreign exchange rates.

As a result, Inamed believes that period-to-period comparisons of its results of operations are not necessarily meaningful and you should not rely upon these comparisons as indications of future performance. These factors may cause Inamed's operating results to be below securities analysts' expectations in some future quarters, which could cause the market price of its stock to decline.

Table of ContentsIf changes in the economy and consumer spending reduce consumer demand for Inamed's products, Inamed's sales and profitability will suffer.

Breast augmentation and reconstruction, facial dermal fillers, and obesity intervention are elective procedures. Other than United States federally mandated insurance reimbursement for post-mastectomy reconstructive surgery, breast augmentations and other cosmetic procedures are not typically covered by insurance. Adverse changes in the economy may cause consumers to reassess their spending choices and reduce the demand for cosmetic surgery. This shift could have an adverse effect on Inamed's sales and profitability.

Reimbursement for obesity surgery, including use of Inamed's products, is available to various degrees in most of its international markets. In the United States, reimbursements by insurance plans are increasing, but reimbursement is not widely available to all insured patients at this time. Adverse changes in the economy could have an adverse effect on consumer spending and governmental health care resources. This shift could have an adverse effect on the sales and profitability of Inamed's obesity intervention business.

If Inamed is unable to continue to develop and market new products and technologies, Inamed may experience a decrease in demand for its products or its products could become obsolete.

The health care industry is highly competitive and is subject to significant and rapid technological change. Inamed believes that its ability to respond quickly to consumer needs or advances in medical technologies, without compromising product quality, is crucial to its success. Inamed is continually engaged in product development and improvement programs to maintain and improve its competitive position. Inamed cannot, however, guarantee that it will be successful in enhancing existing products or developing new products or technologies that will timely achieve regulatory approval or receive market acceptance.

There is also a risk that Inamed's products may not gain market acceptance among physicians, patients and the medical community generally. The degree of market acceptance of any medical device or other product that Inamed develops will depend on a number of factors, including demonstrated clinical efficacy and safety, cost-effectiveness, potential advantages over alternative products, and Inamed's marketing and distribution capabilities. Physicians will not recommend Inamed's products until clinical data or other factors demonstrate their safety and efficacy compared to other competing products. Even if the clinical safety and efficacy of using Inamed's products is established, physicians may elect not to recommend using them for any number of other reasons, including whether Inamed's products best meet the particular needs of the individual patient.

Inamed's products compete with a number of other products manufactured by major health care companies, and may also compete with new products currently under development by others. If Inamed's new products do not achieve significant market acceptance, or if its current products are not able to continue competing successfully in the changing market, Inamed's revenue and earnings may not grow as much as expected or may even decline.

If clinical trials for Inamed's products are unsuccessful or delayed, Inamed will be unable to meet its anticipated development and commercialization timelines, which could cause Inamed's stock price to decline.

Before obtaining regulatory approvals for the commercial sale of any products, Inamed must demonstrate through pre-clinical testing and clinical trials that its products are safe and effective for use in humans. Conducting clinical trials is a lengthy, time-consuming and expensive process.

Completion of clinical trials may take several years or more. Inamed's commencement and rate of completion of clinical trials may be delayed by many factors, including:

- lack of efficacy during the clinical trials;
- unforeseen safety issues;
- slower than expected patient recruitment; and

government or regulatory delays.

The results from pre-clinical testing and early clinical trials are often not predictive of results obtained in later clinical trials. A number of new products have shown promising results in clinical trials, but subsequently failed to establish sufficient safety and efficacy data to obtain necessary regulatory approvals. Data obtained from pre-clinical and clinical activities are susceptible to varying interpretations, and may, after regulatory review, have to be modified, which may delay, limit or prevent regulatory approval. In addition, regulatory delays or rejections may be encountered as a result of many factors, including perceived defects in the design of the clinical trials, the modification of submitted data, and changes in regulatory policy during the period of product development. Any delays in, or termination of, Inamed's clinical trials will materially and adversely affect its development and commercialization timelines, which would cause its stock price to decline.

If Inamed's collaborative partners do not perform, Inamed will be unable to develop and market products as anticipated.

Inamed has entered into collaborative arrangements with third parties to develop and market certain products. Inamed cannot assure you that these collaborations will produce successful products. If Inamed fails to maintain its existing collaborative arrangements or fails to enter into additional collaborative arrangements, the number of products from which Inamed could receive future revenues would decline.

Inamed's dependence on collaborative arrangements with third parties subjects Inamed to a number of risks. These collaborative arrangements may not be on terms favorable to Inamed. Agreements with collaborative partners typically allow partners significant discretion in electing whether or not to pursue any of the planned activities. Inamed cannot control the amount and timing of resources its collaborative partners may devote to products based on the collaboration, and its partners may choose to pursue alternative products. Inamed's partners may not perform their obligations as expected. Business combinations, significant changes in a collaborative partner's business strategy, or its access to financial resources may adversely affect a partner's willingness or ability to complete its obligations under the arrangement. Moreover, Inamed could become involved in disputes with its partners, which could lead to delays or termination of the collaborations and time-consuming and expensive litigation or arbitration. Even if Inamed fulfills its obligations under a collaborative agreement, its partner can terminate the agreement under certain circumstances. If any collaborative partner were to terminate or breach Inamed's agreement with it, or otherwise fail to complete its obligations in a timely manner, its chances of successfully commercializing products would be materially and adversely affected.

Inamed's failure to attract and retain key managerial, technical, selling and marketing personnel could adversely affect its business.

Inamed's success depends upon its retention of key managerial, technical, selling and marketing personnel. The loss of the services of key personnel might significantly delay or prevent the achievement of Inamed's development and strategic objectives. Inamed does not maintain key person life insurance on any of its employees, and none of its employees is under any obligation to continue providing services to Inamed.

Inamed must continue to attract, train and retain managerial, technical, selling and marketing personnel. Competition for such highly skilled employees in Inamed's industry is high, and Inamed cannot be certain that it will be successful in recruiting or retaining such personnel. Inamed also believes that its success depends to a significant extent on the ability of its key personnel to operate effectively, both individually and as a group. If Inamed is unable to identify, hire and integrate new employees in a timely and cost-effective manner, its operating results may suffer.

If Inamed's intellectual property rights do not adequately protect its products or technologies, others could compete against Inamed more directly, which would hurt its profitability.

Inamed's success depends in part on its ability to obtain patents or rights to patents, protect trade secrets, operate without infringing upon the proprietary rights of others, and prevent others from infringing on its patents, trademarks and other intellectual property rights. Inamed will be able to protect its intellectual property from unauthorized use by third parties only to the extent that it is covered by valid and enforceable patents, trademarks and licenses. Patent protection generally involves complex legal and factual questions and, therefore, enforceability of patent rights cannot be predicted with certainty. Patents, if issued, may be challenged, invalidated or circumvented. Thus, any patents that Inamed owns or licenses from others may not provide adequate protection against competitors. In addition, Inamed's pending and future patent applications may fail to result in patents being issued. Also, those patents that are issued may not provide Inamed with adequate proprietary protection or competitive advantages against competitors with similar technologies. Moreover, the laws of certain foreign countries do not protect Inamed's intellectual property rights to the same extent as do the laws of the United States.

In addition to patents and trademarks, Inamed relies on trade secrets and proprietary know-how. Inamed seeks protection of these rights, in part, through confidentiality and proprietary information agreements. These agreements may not provide meaningful protection or adequate remedies for violation of Inamed's rights in the event of unauthorized use or disclosure of confidential and proprietary information. Failure to protect Inamed's proprietary rights could seriously impair its competitive position.

If third parties claim Inamed is infringing their intellectual property rights, Inamed could suffer significant litigation or licensing expenses or be prevented from marketing its products.

Inamed's commercial success depends significantly on its ability to operate without infringing the patents and other proprietary rights of others. However, regardless of Inamed's intent, its technologies may infringe the patents or violate other proprietary rights of third parties. In the event of such infringement or violation, Inamed may face litigation, become subject to damages, and may be prevented from selling existing products and pursuing product development or commercialization. At present, Inamed is a party in one such matter.

Inamed depends on a sole or limited number of suppliers for certain products and raw materials and certain of its manufacturing processes are only performed at one location worldwide.

Loss of any supplier or interruption of such manufacturing processes could adversely affect Inamed's ability to manufacture and/or sell many of its products. Inamed currently relies on a single supplier for silicone raw materials used in many of its products. Although Inamed has an agreement with this supplier to transfer the necessary formulations to Inamed in the event that it cannot meet Inamed's requirements, Inamed cannot guarantee that it would be able to produce or obtain a sufficient amount of quality silicone raw materials in a timely manner. Inamed depends on third party manufacturers for silicone molded components and silicone facial implants. Inamed also depends on third party manufacturers for its facial aesthetics product lines with the exclusion of the bovine and human based collagen products. In addition, Inamed currently relies on Immucor, Inc. for the supply of human collagen mesh, used in the production of CosmoDerm® and CosmoPlast®. Additionally, certain of Inamed's manufacturing processes are only performed at one location worldwide.

Inamed's ability to sell bovine collagen-based products could be adversely affected if it experiences problems with the closed herd of domestic cattle from which it derive these products.

Inamed relies on two closed herds of domestic cattle that are kept apart from all other cattle for the production of its bovine collagen-based products. If these herds suffered a significant reduction or became unavailable to Inamed, Inamed would have a limited ability to access a supply of acceptable bovine collagen from a similarly segregated source. A significant reduction in the supply of bovine collagen could have a material adverse effect on Inamed's ability to sell bovine collagen-based products.

Inamed's international business exposes it to a number of risks.

Approximately 40% of Inamed's sales are derived from international operations. Accordingly, any material decrease in foreign sales would have a material adverse effect on Inamed's overall sales and profitability. Most of Inamed's international sales are denominated in United States dollars, Euros, or Japanese Yen. Depreciation or devaluation of the local currencies of countries where Inamed sells its products may result in its products becoming more expensive in local currency terms, thus reducing demand. In addition, Inamed manufactures and assembles all of its breast implant products and obesity intervention products in Ireland and in Costa Rica. A large percentage of Inamed's operating expenses are denominated in currencies other than the United States dollar due to the elimination of its Santa Barbara manufacturing operations. Inamed cannot guarantee that it will not experience unfavorable currency fluctuation effects in future periods, which could have an adverse effect on its operating results. Inamed's operations and financial results also may be significantly affected by other international factors, including:

- foreign government regulation of Inamed's products;
- product liability, intellectual property and other claims;
- new export license requirements;
- political or economic instability in Inamed's target markets;
- trade restrictions;
- changes in tax laws and tariffs;
- inadequate protection of intellectual property rights in some countries;
- managing foreign distributors, manufacturers and staffing;
- managing foreign branch offices; and
- competition.

If these risks actually materialize, Inamed's international sales and/or profitability, as well as sales to United States customers who purchase products manufactured abroad, may decrease.

Healthcare reform legislation could materially adversely affect Inamed's business.

If any national healthcare reform or other legislation or regulations are passed that imposes limits on the number or type of medical procedures that may be performed or that has the effect of restricting a physician's ability to select specific products for use in patient procedures, such changes could have a material adverse effect on the demand for Inamed's products. In the United States, there have been, and Inamed expects that there will continue to be, a number of federal and state legislative and regulatory proposals to implement greater governmental control over the healthcare industry. These proposals create uncertainty as to the future of Inamed's industry and may have a material adverse effect on its ability to raise capital or to form collaborations. In a number of foreign markets, the pricing and profitability of healthcare products are subject to governmental influence or control. In addition, legislation or regulations that impose restrictions on the price that may be charged for healthcare products or medical devices may adversely affect Inamed's sales and profitability.

If Inamed's use of hazardous materials results in contamination or injury, Inamed could suffer significant financial loss.

Inamed's manufacturing and research activities involve the controlled use of hazardous materials. Inamed cannot eliminate the risk of accidental contamination or injury from these materials. In the event of an accident or environmental discharge, Inamed may be held liable for any resulting damages, which may exceed its financial resources.

Inamed's stock price has been volatile and its trading volume has historically been lower than that of many NASDAQ listed stocks.

The trading price of Inamed's common stock has been, and may be, subject to wide fluctuations in response to a number of factors, many of which are beyond its control. These factors include:

quarter-to-quarter variations in Inamed's operating results;

the results of testing, technological innovations, or new commercial products by Inamed or its competitors;

governmental actions, regulations, rules, and orders;

general conditions in the healthcare, medical device, or plastic surgery industries;

changes in earnings estimates by securities analysts;

developments and litigation concerning patents or other intellectual property rights;

litigation or public concern about the safety of Inamed's products; and resignation of senior officers.

Historically, the daily trading volume of Inamed's common stock has been relatively low compared to that of many other NASDAQ listed stocks. Inamed cannot guarantee that an active public market for its common stock will be sustained or that the average trading volume will remain at present levels or increase. In addition, the stock market in general and the NASDAQ National Market in particular experience significant price and volume fluctuations. Volatility in the market price for particular companies has often been unrelated or disproportionate to the operating performance of those companies. Broad market factors may seriously harm the market price of Inamed's common stock, regardless of its operating performance. In addition, securities class action litigation has often been initiated following periods of volatility in the market price of a company's securities. A securities class action suit against Inamed could result in substantial costs, potential liabilities, and the diversion of management's attention and resources.

Litigation and government investigations may harm Inamed's business or otherwise distract its management.

Substantial, complex or extended litigation and government investigations could cause Inamed to incur large expenditures and distract Inamed management. For example, lawsuits by employees, stockholders, customers, or competitors could be very costly and substantially disrupt Inamed's business. Disputes from time to time with such companies or individuals are not uncommon, and Inamed cannot assure you that it will always be able to resolve such disputes out of court or on terms favorable to it.

Inamed's publicly-filed SEC reports are reviewed by the SEC from time to time and any significant changes required as a result of any such review may result in material liability to Inamed and have a material adverse impact on the trading price of Inamed's common stock.

The reports of publicly-traded companies are subject to review by the SEC from time to time for the purpose of assisting companies in complying with applicable disclosure requirements and to enhance the overall effectiveness of companies' public filings, and comprehensive reviews of such reports are now required at least every three years under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. SEC reviews may be initiated at any time. While Inamed believes that its previously filed SEC reports comply, and Inamed intends that all future reports will comply in all material respects with the published rules and regulations of the SEC, Inamed could be required to modify or reformulate information contained in prior filings as a result of an SEC review. Any modification or reformulation of information contained in such reports could be significant and result in material liability to Inamed and have a material adverse impact on the trading price of Inamed's common stock.

developments and other factors they believe are appropriate in the circumstances. Such statements are subject to a number of assumptions, risks and uncertainties, many of which are beyond the control of Medicis and Inamed. Any such projections or statements include the current views of Medicis and Inamed with respect to future events and financial performance. No assurances can be given, however, that these activities, events or developments will occur or that such results will be achieved. Such statements are subject to a number of assumptions, risks and uncertainties, many of which are beyond the control of Medicis and Inamed. There are a number of important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those projected, including, without limitation:

the timing and success of new product development by Medicis, Inamed or third parties;

the availability of product supply;

the receipt of required regulatory approvals for the transaction (including the approval of antitrust authorities necessary to complete the merger);

the ability to realize the anticipated synergies and benefits of the merger;

the ability to timely and cost-effectively integrate Medicis' and Inamed's operations; access to available and feasible financing (including financing for the merger) on a timely basis;

the risks and uncertainties normally incident to the pharmaceutical and medical device industries, including product liability claims and FDA approvals;

the introduction of federal and/or state regulations relating to Medicis' or Inamed's business; dependence on sales of key products;

the uncertainty of future financial results and fluctuations in operating results;

dependence on Medicis' strategy, including the uncertainty of license payments and/or other payments due from third parties;

THE MEDICIS SPECIAL MEETING

General

This joint proxy statement/ prospectus is being provided to Medicis stockholders as part of a solicitation of proxies by the Medicis board of directors for use at a special meeting of Medicis stockholders. This joint proxy statement/ prospectus provides Medicis stockholders with the information they need to know to be able to vote or instruct their vote to be cast at the special meeting of Medicis stockholders.

Date, Time, Place and Purpose of the Medicis Special Meeting

The special meeting of Medicis stockholders will be held on _____, 2005, at _____ a.m., local time, at _____.

The Medicis special meeting is being held for the following purposes:

to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of March 20, 2005, by and among Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Medicis, and Inamed Corporation; to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve an amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis Class A common stock from 150,000,000 to 300,000,000 and change Medicis name from Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation to Medicis ;

to consider and vote upon a proposal to adjourn the Medicis special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Medicis special meeting in favor of the foregoing; and to transact any other business as may properly come before the special meeting or any adjournments or postponements of the special meeting.

Recommendation of the Medicis Board of Directors

Proposal 1

The Medicis board of directors has unanimously approved the merger agreement and unanimously recommends that Medicis stockholders vote FOR approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement. See The Merger Recommendation of the Medicis Board of Directors and Its Reasons for the Merger on page 62.

The Medicis board of directors has unanimously approved a resolution, subject to stockholder approval, to amend Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis common stock and to change Medicis name and unanimously recommends that Medicis stockholders vote FOR approval of the amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis common stock and change Medicis name from Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation to Medicis .

If this proposal is approved by Medicis stockholders, the authorized number of shares of Medicis Class A common stock will increase from 150,000,000 to 300,000,000 and Medicis name will change from Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation to Medicis . After completion of the merger, the number of issued shares of Medicis common stock is expected to be _____ million. Medicis intends to file the amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis common stock and change Medicis name immediately prior to the completion of the merger. The form of the certificate of amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation is attached as Annex E to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus. Medicis reserves the right to abandon or modify, upon approval of the Medicis board of directors, the proposed amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation, in whole or in part, at any time prior to the filing of the amendment with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware, including after approval of the stockholders has been obtained. Medicis does not intend to file the amendment with the Secretary of State of Delaware if the merger is abandoned for any reason.

The Medicis board of directors believes it is desirable to authorize additional shares of common stock so that there will be sufficient shares available for issuance for purposes that the Medicis board of directors may later determine to be in the best interests of Medicis and its stockholders. Such purposes could include the offer of shares for cash, acquisitions, financings, mergers, stock splits, stock dividends, employee benefit programs and other general corporate purposes. No further action or authorization by Medicis stockholders would be necessary prior to the issuance of additional shares of common stock, unless required by applicable law or regulation.

Proposal 3

The Medicis board of directors unanimously recommends that Medicis stockholders vote FOR approval of the proposal to adjourn the Medicis special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Medicis special meeting in favor of the foregoing.

Medicis stockholders are voting on each proposal separately. The vote of a Medicis stockholder on one proposal has no bearing on the other proposal, or on any other matter that may come before the Medicis special meeting.

Record Date; Outstanding Shares; Shares Entitled to Vote

Only holders of record of Medicis common stock at the close of business on the record date, _____, 2005, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the Medicis special meeting. As of the Medicis record date, there were _____ shares of Medicis common stock outstanding and entitled to vote at the special meeting, held by approximately _____ holders of record. Each holder of Medicis common stock is entitled to one vote for each share of Medicis common stock owned as of the Medicis record date.

A list of Medicis stockholders entitled to vote at the special meeting will be available for review at the special meeting and at the executive offices of Medicis during regular business hours for a period of ten days before the special meeting.

Quorum and Vote Required

A quorum of stockholders is necessary to hold a valid special meeting. The required quorum for the transaction of business at the special meeting is a majority of the outstanding shares of Medicis common stock entitled to vote and present, whether in person or by proxy, at the Medicis special meeting. All shares of Medicis common stock represented at the Medicis special meeting, including abstentions and broker non-votes, which are described below, will be treated as shares that are present and entitled to vote for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum.

Broker non-votes are shares held by a broker or other nominee that are represented at the meeting, but with respect to which such broker or nominee is not instructed by the beneficial owner of such shares to vote on the particular proposal and the broker does not have discretionary voting power on such proposal.

In accordance with NYSE listing requirements, the approval by Medicis stockholders of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement requires the approval of a majority of the votes cast on such proposal, provided that the total votes cast on the proposal represents over 50% of the outstanding shares of Medicis common stock entitled to vote on the proposal. Votes for, votes against and abstentions count as votes cast, while broker non-votes do not count as votes cast. All outstanding shares of Medicis common stock, including broker non-votes, count as shares entitled to vote. Thus the total sum of votes for, plus votes against, plus abstentions, which is referred to as the NYSE Votes Cast, must be greater than 50% of the total outstanding shares of Medicis common stock. Once satisfied, the number of votes for the proposal must be greater than 50% of the NYSE Votes Cast. It is expected that brokers and other nominees will not have discretionary voting authority on this proposal and thus broker non-votes will result from this proposal. Broker non-votes could have a negative effect on Medicis ability to obtain the necessary number of NYSE Votes Cast. Abstentions will have the same effect as a vote against this proposal.

Proposal 2

In accordance with the requirements of the DGCL, the approval of the amendment to Medicis' certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis' common stock and to change Medicis' name requires the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares of outstanding Medicis common stock entitled to vote on the proposal. Abstentions will have the same effect as a vote against this proposal. It is expected that brokers and other nominees will have discretionary voting authority on this proposal and thus broker non-votes will not result from this proposal.

In accordance with the DGCL and Medicis' bylaws, approval of the proposal to adjourn the Medicis special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of Medicis' common stock represented at the meeting and entitled to vote thereon. Abstentions will have the same effect as a vote against this proposal. Broker non-votes are not expected to result from the vote on this proposal.

Voting by Medicis' Directors and Executive Officers

As of the Medicis record date for the special meeting, the directors and executive officers of Medicis as a group beneficially owned and were entitled to vote approximately _____ shares of Medicis common stock, or approximately _____ % of the outstanding shares of Medicis on that date.

Voting; Proxies; Revocation

You may vote by proxy or in person at the Medicis special meeting. Votes cast by proxy or in person at the Medicis special meeting will be tabulated and certified by the inspector of elections appointed for the Medicis special meeting.

Voting in Person

If you plan to attend the Medicis special meeting and wish to vote in person, you will be given a ballot at the special meeting. Please note, however, that if your shares are held in street name, which means your shares are held of record by a broker, bank or other nominee, and you wish to vote at the Medicis special meeting, you must bring to the special meeting a proxy from the record holder of the shares authorizing you to vote at the Medicis special meeting.

Voting by Proxy

Your vote is very important. Accordingly, please complete, sign and return the enclosed proxy card whether or not you plan to attend the Medicis special meeting in person. You should vote your proxy even if you plan to attend the Medicis special meeting. You can always change your vote at the special meeting. Voting instructions are included on your proxy card. If you properly give your proxy and submit it to Medicis in time to vote, one of the individuals named as your proxy will vote your shares as you have directed. A proxy card is enclosed for your use.

The method of voting by proxy differs for shares held as a record holder and shares held in street name. If you hold your shares of Medicis common stock as a record holder, you may vote by completing, dating and signing the enclosed proxy card and promptly returning it in the enclosed, pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope or otherwise mailing it to Medicis, or by submitting a proxy over the Internet or by telephone by following the instructions on the enclosed proxy card. If you hold your shares of Medicis common stock in street name, which means your shares are held of record by a broker, bank or nominee, you will receive instructions from your broker, bank or other nominee that you must follow in order to vote your shares. Your broker, bank or nominee may allow you to deliver your voting instructions over the Internet or by telephone. Please see the voting instructions from your broker, bank or nominee that accompany this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

All properly signed proxies that are received prior to the special meeting and that are not revoked will be voted at the special meeting according to the instructions indicated on the proxies or, if no direction is indicated, they will be voted FOR approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement, FOR approval of the amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of Medicis common stock and change Medicis name from Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation to Medicis and FOR approval of the proposal to adjourn the Medicis special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Medicis special meeting in favor of the foregoing.

Revocation of Proxy

You may revoke your proxy at any time before your proxy is voted at the Medicis special meeting by taking any of the following actions:

delivering to the corporate secretary of Medicis a signed written notice of revocation, bearing a date later than the date of the proxy, stating that the proxy is revoked;

signing and delivering a new proxy, relating to the same shares and bearing a later date;

submitting another proxy by telephone or on the Internet (your latest telephone or Internet voting instructions are followed); or attending the Medicis special meeting and voting in person, although attendance at the special meeting will not, by itself, revoke a proxy.

If your shares are held in street name, you may change your vote by submitting new voting instructions to your broker, bank or other nominee. You must contact your broker, bank or other nominee to find out how to do so.

Written notices of revocation and other communications with respect to the revocation of Medicis proxies should be addressed to:

Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation
8125 North Hayden Road
Scottsdale, Arizona 85258
Attn: Corporate Secretary

Abstentions and Broker Non-Votes

Under the listing requirements of the NYSE, brokers who hold shares of Medicis common stock in street name for a beneficial owner of those shares typically have the authority to vote in their discretion on routine proposals when they have not received instructions from beneficial owners. However, brokers are not allowed to exercise their voting discretion with respect to the approval of matters which the NYSE determines to be non-routine, such as approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement, without specific instructions from the beneficial owner. These non-voted shares are referred to as broker non-votes. If your broker holds your Medicis common stock in street name, your broker will vote your shares only if you provide instructions on how to vote by filling out the voter instruction form sent to you by your broker with this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

For Proposal 1, abstentions will have the same effect as voting against approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement and broker non-votes could have a negative effect on Medicis ability to obtain the necessary number of NYSE Votes Cast.

For Proposal 2, abstentions will have the same effect as voting against approval of the amendment to Medicis certificate of incorporation to increase the authorized number of shares of Medicis common stock and to change Medicis name. Broker non-votes are not expected to result from the vote on Proposal 2.

For Proposal 3, abstentions will have the same effect as voting against approval of the adjournment. Broker non-votes are not expected to result from the vote on Proposal 3.

Proxy Solicitation

The Medicis board of directors is soliciting proxies for the Medicis special meeting from Medicis stockholders. Medicis will bear the entire cost of soliciting proxies from Medicis stockholders, except that Medicis and Inamed have each agreed to share equally all expenses incurred in connection with the filing with the SEC of the registration statement of which this joint proxy statement/ prospectus forms a part, and the printing and mailing of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus and related proxy materials. In addition to the solicitation of proxies by mail, Medicis will request that brokers, banks and other nominees send proxies and proxy materials to the beneficial owners of Medicis common stock held by them and secure their voting instructions. Medicis will reimburse those record holders for their reasonable expenses. Medicis has engaged The Proxy Advisory Group of Strategic Stock Surveillance, LLC, to assist in the solicitation of proxies and provide related advice and informational support, for a services fee and the reimbursement of customary disbursements, which are not expected to exceed $20,000 in the aggregate. Medicis also may use several of its regular employees, who will not be specially compensated, to solicit proxies from Medicis stockholders, either personally or by telephone, Internet, telegram, facsimile or special delivery letter.

Other Business; Adjournments

As of the date of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, Medicis does not expect that any matter other than the proposals presented in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus will be brought before the Medicis special meeting. However, if other matters incident to the conduct of the special meeting are properly presented at the special meeting or any adjournment or postponement of the special meeting, the persons named as proxies will vote in accordance with their best judgment with respect to those matters.

An adjournment may be made from time to time in accordance with the adjournment proposal in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, and in such other circumstances, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares of Medicis common stock represented at the meeting and entitled to vote thereon, whether or not a quorum exists, without further notice other than by an announcement made at the special meeting.

Assistance

If you need assistance in completing your proxy card or have questions regarding the Medicis special meeting, please contact Medicis Investor Relations at (602) 808-3854 or investorIrelations@medicis.com or write to Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation, 8125 North Hayden Road, Scottsdale, Arizona 85258, Attn: Investor Relations.

Date, Time, Place and Purpose of the Inamed Special Meeting

time, for the following purposes:

to consider and vote upon a proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger pursuant to the Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of March 20, 2005, by and among Medicis Pharmaceutical Corporation, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Medicis, and Inamed Corporation; to consider and vote upon a proposal to adjourn the Inamed special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Inamed special meeting in favor of the foregoing; and to transact such other business as may properly come before the special meeting or any adjournments or postponements of the special meeting.

Recommendation of the Inamed Board of Directors

For reasons described in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, the Inamed board of directors has unanimously approved the merger and merger agreement and believes that the merger is in the best interests of Inamed and its stockholders. The Inamed board of directors unanimously recommends that Inamed stockholders vote FOR approval of the merger and adoption of the merger agreement. See The Merger Recommendation of the Inamed Board of Directors and Its Reasons for the Merger on page 66.

In addition, the Inamed board of directors unanimously recommends that Inamed stockholders vote FOR approval of the proposal to adjourn the Inamed special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies if there are not sufficient votes at the time of the Inamed special meeting in favor of the foregoing.

Record Date; Outstanding Shares; Shares Entitled to Vote

Only holders of record of Inamed common stock at the close of business on the record date, _____, 2005, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the Inamed special meeting. As of the record date, there were _____ shares of Inamed common stock issued and outstanding and entitled to vote at the special meeting, held by approximately _____ holders of record. Each share of Inamed common stock entitles its holder to cast one vote on each matter submitted to a vote at the Inamed special meeting.

A complete list of Inamed stockholders entitled to vote at the special meeting will be available for inspection at _____ during regular business hours for a period of no less than ten days before the special meeting.

Quorum and Vote Required

A majority of the shares of Inamed common stock issued and outstanding and entitled to vote as of the record date must be represented, in person or by proxy, at the Inamed special meeting to constitute a quorum. A quorum must be present before a vote can be taken on the adoption of the merger agreement and the approval of the merger or any other matter except adjournment of the meeting due to the absence of a quorum. Abstentions and broker non-votes, which are described below, will be counted for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum at the Inamed special meeting. If a quorum is not present, Inamed expects that the special meeting will be adjourned or postponed to solicit additional proxies. At any subsequent reconvening of the special meeting, all proxies will be voted in the same manner as the proxies would have been voted at the original convening of the special meeting, except for any proxies that have been effectively revoked or withdrawn prior to the subsequent meeting.

For the merger agreement to be adopted and the merger approved, at least a majority of the votes that holders of the outstanding shares of Inamed common stock are entitled to cast at the Inamed special meeting must be voted in favor of adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger.

Approval of the proposal to adjourn the Inamed special meeting, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of proxies requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares represented at the meeting and entitled to vote thereon.

You may vote by proxy or in person at the special meeting. This joint proxy statement/ prospectus is being furnished to Inamed stockholders in connection with the solicitation of proxies by the Inamed board of directors for use at the special meeting of Inamed stockholders. It is accompanied by a form of proxy. Votes cast by proxy and in person at the special meeting will be tabulated and certified by the inspector of elections appointed for the Inamed special meeting. All shares of Inamed common stock represented by properly executed proxies that Inamed receives before or at the special meeting will, unless the proxies are revoked, be voted in accordance with the instructions indicated thereon.

Voting in Person

If you plan to attend the Inamed special meeting and wish to vote in person, you will be given a ballot at the special meeting. Please note, however, that if your shares are held in street name, which means your shares are held of record by a broker, bank or other nominee, and you wish to vote at the Inamed special meeting, you must bring to the special meeting a proxy from the record holder of the shares authorizing you to vote at the Inamed special meeting.

Voting by Proxy

Your vote is very important. Accordingly, please complete, sign and return the enclosed proxy card whether or not you plan to attend the Inamed special meeting in person. You should vote your proxy even if you plan to attend the Inamed special meeting. You can always change your vote at the special meeting. Voting instructions are included on your proxy card. If you properly give your proxy and submit it to Inamed in time to vote, one of the individuals named as your proxy will vote your shares as you have directed. A proxy card is enclosed for your use.

The method of voting by proxy differs for shares held as a record holder and shares held in street name. If you hold your shares of Inamed common stock as a record holder, you may vote by completing, dating and signing the enclosed proxy card and promptly returning it in the enclosed, pre-addressed, postage-paid envelope or otherwise mailing it to Inamed, or by submitting a proxy over the Internet or by telephone by following the instructions on the enclosed proxy card. Table of Contents

Revocation of Proxies

An Inamed stockholder who submits a proxy and later changes his or her mind as to his or her vote, or decides to attend the meeting in person, may revoke his or her proxy at any time before the vote at the Inamed special meeting by:

delivering to the corporate secretary of Inamed a signed written notice of revocation, bearing a date later than the date of the proxy, stating that the proxy is revoked;

signing and delivering a new proxy, relating to the same shares and bearing a later date;

submitting another proxy by telephone or on the Internet (your latest telephone or Internet voting instructions are followed); or attending the Inamed special meeting and voting in person, although attendance at the special meeting will not, by itself, revoke a proxy.

If your shares are held in street name, you may change your vote by submitting new voting instructions to your broker or other nominee. You must contact your broker or other nominee to find out how to do so.

Written notices of revocation and other communications with respect to the revocation of Inamed proxies should be addressed to:

5540 Ekwil Street
Santa Barbara, California 93111
Attn: Corporate Secretary

Abstentions; Broker Non-Votes

If any Inamed stockholder submits a proxy that indicates an abstention from voting in all matters, that stockholder's shares will be counted as present in determining the existence of a quorum at the Inamed special meeting, but the shares will not be voted on any matter at the meeting.

Shares represented by proxies that reflect a broker non-vote will be counted as present and entitled to vote for purposes of determining whether a quorum is present at the meeting. A broker non-vote occurs when a nominee holding shares for a beneficial owner does not vote on a particular proposal because the nominee does not have discretionary voting authority or has not received instructions from the beneficial owners of the shares. Because adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger requires the affirmative vote of over 50% of the outstanding shares, abstaining, not voting on the proposal, or failing to instruct your broker on how to vote shares of Inamed common stock held for you by your broker will have the same effect as a vote against the adoption of the merger agreement and the approval of the merger. For the adjournment proposal, abstentions will have the same effect as voting against approval of the adjournment. Broker non-votes are not expected to result from the vote on the adjournment proposal.

Proxy Solicitation

Inamed will bear the entire cost of soliciting proxies for the Inamed special meeting from Inamed stockholders, except that Medicis and Inamed have each agreed to share equally all expenses incurred in connection with the preparing, printing and filing with the SEC of the registration statement of which this joint proxy statement/prospectus forms a part. In addition to the solicitation of proxies by mail, Inamed will request that brokers and other nominees send proxies and proxy materials to the beneficial owners of Inamed common stock held by them and secure their voting instructions. Inamed will reimburse those record holders, if they so request, for their reasonable expenses in so doing. Directors, officers and employees of Inamed, who will not be specially compensated, may solicit proxies from Inamed stockholders. Inamed has also made arrangements with _____ to assist it in soliciting proxies, and has agreed to pay a fee of approximately _____ for its services, plus reimbursement for reasonable out of pocket expenses incurred in connection with the proxy solicitation.

Other Business; Adjournments

As of the date of this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, Inamed does not expect that any matter other than the proposals presented in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus will be brought before the Inamed special meeting. However, if other matters incident to the conduct of the special meeting are properly presented at the special meeting or any adjournment or postponement of the special meeting, the persons named as proxies will vote in accordance with their best judgment with respect to those matters.

An adjournment may be made from time to time in accordance with the adjournment proposal in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, and in such other circumstances, by the affirmative vote of a majority of the shares represented at the meeting and entitled to vote thereon, whether or not a quorum exists, without further notice other than by an announcement made at the special meeting.

Assistance

If you need assistance in completing your proxy card or have questions regarding the Inamed special meeting, please contact Inamed's Secretary at (805) 683-6761 or write to Inamed Corporation, 5540 Ekwil Street, Santa Barbara, California 93111, Attn: Secretary, or contact _____ at _____ or write to _____.

THE MERGER

The following is a description of material aspects of the merger. While we believe that the following description covers the material terms of the merger, the description may not contain all of the information that is important to you. We encourage you to read carefully this entire joint proxy statement/ prospectus, including the merger agreement attached to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus as Annex A, for a more complete understanding of the merger.

General

Each of the Medicis and Inamed board of directors has unanimously approved the merger agreement and the merger. At the effective time of the merger, Inamed will be merged with and into Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., the separate corporate existence of Inamed will cease, and Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. will survive as the surviving entity. Inamed stockholders will be entitled to receive 1.4205 shares of Medicis Class A common stock and $30 in cash for each share of Inamed common stock that they own, upon the terms and subject to adjustment as provided in the merger agreement and further described below under "The Merger Agreement" Merger Consideration.

Background of the Merger

The management of each of Medicis and Inamed continually reviews its company's respective position in light of the changing competitive environment of the pharmaceutical and medical device industries with the objective of determining what strategic alternatives are available to enhance stockholder value. While each company believes that it has positive future prospects on a stand-alone basis, from time to time, the management of each of Medicis and Inamed has had conversations with other companies to explore opportunities to improve the position of Medicis and Inamed, respectively, including potential acquisitions or dispositions of assets, licenses, joint ventures or other strategic transactions.

Consistent with Medicis' and Inamed's respective business plans to make strategic acquisitions or licenses of products and technologies to create a more diversified product portfolio and revenue base, management of Medicis and Inamed have periodically discussed on an informal basis over the past two years the possibility of combining the companies. These discussions generally focused on the broad conceptual aspects of a potential business combination.

In mid-2004, the Inamed board of directors instructed Nicholas Teti, Inamed's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, to conduct an evaluation of strategic alternatives for Inamed, including (i) a status quo scenario whereby Inamed would continue to grow and innovate in its current areas of strategic focus, (ii) pursuing strategic acquisitions of complementary businesses and technologies and (iii) the possible merger with another company. In connection with the evaluation of these and other options and discussions of possible strategic transactions with other companies, Inamed management initiated discussions with outside financial advisors to assist in the analysis of potential strategic alternatives.

On October 10, 2004, while attending a conference of the American Society of Plastic Surgeons, Mr. Teti and Jonah Shacknai, Medicis Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, mutually agreed to meet and discuss a potential strategic relationship between Medicis and Inamed.

On October 28 and 29, 2004, the Inamed board of directors held a meeting in Montecito, California, during which Inamed management presented an analysis of the various strategic alternatives available to Inamed, including a possible strategic partnership or business combination with Medicis. Part of the presentation included analysis by investment banking firms, including JPMorgan, of potential acquisition candidates and of potential merger candidates. The board determined that a transaction with Medicis or continuing on a stand-alone basis were both viable alternatives for maximizing stockholder value in the long term. As a result, the board authorized Mr. Teti to engage JPMorgan to act as Inamed's financial advisor with respect to a possible transaction with Medicis and to take other appropriate steps to investigate the feasibility and advisability of such a transaction with Medicis and other strategic alternatives.

In connection with its initial discussions with Inamed, Medicis began consulting with financial and legal advisors about issues relating to a possible transaction with Inamed. On November 11, 2004, Medicis retained Deutsche Bank as its financial advisor with respect to a possible business combination of Medicis and Inamed.

In order to further explore a transaction and in contemplation of the possible exchange of material non-public information between the parties, Medicis and Inamed entered into a confidentiality agreement dated November 17, 2004. On November 17, 2004, Inamed executed an engagement letter with JPMorgan to serve as Inamed's financial advisor with respect to a possible business combination of Medicis and Inamed.

On November 29 and 30, 2004, the Medicis board of directors held a meeting at which they discussed, among other things, the business and operations of Inamed and a possible business combination with Inamed.

On December 3, 2004, management teams of Medicis and Inamed exchanged certain limited nonpublic financial information regarding their respective operations. On December 8, 2004, management of Medicis and Inamed met to discuss a potential strategic business combination, and exchanged additional financial information. Inamed representatives communicated to Medicis that Inamed would require a preliminary indication of value and transaction structure prior to providing additional information and communicated a preference for a meaningful portion of the consideration to be comprised of cash. Subsequently, Inamed representatives informed Medicis that the deal terms must reflect an understanding that neither party could terminate the merger agreement due to the outcome of the FDA's decision on Inamed's PMA for silicone breast implants.

On December 10, 2004, Inamed received an initial indication from Medicis of a range of exchange ratios based on then-current prices, which included an assumption that a material portion of the merger consideration would consist of cash. On December 13, 2004, a representative of JPMorgan contacted a representative of Deutsche Bank to indicate that Inamed believed that, based on the trading prices of the common stock of Medicis and Inamed at that time, Medicis' proposed premium and portion of the consideration payable in cash were significantly too low. Notwithstanding this position, Inamed management concluded that the range of values, taken together with the potential strategic value of the proposed combination, was of sufficient interest to merit further consideration.

On December 13, 2004, the Medicis board of directors held a telephonic board meeting to discuss a potential strategic business combination with Inamed. During the meeting, consistent with the prior direction of the board of directors, Medicis management advised the board of directors that the company had selected financial, legal and other advisors to assist with the review and negotiation of the potential transaction.

The parties and their advisors reviewed these materials, engaged in extensive due diligence meetings and exchanged additional due diligence materials.

Despite the lack of agreement regarding significant terms of a possible transaction, on February 7, 2005, Medicis' legal counsel delivered to Inamed a proposed form of merger agreement to facilitate the discussion of various ancillary terms of a possible transaction.

From February 7, 2005 onwards, representatives and legal and financial advisors of Medicis and Inamed engaged in extensive negotiations regarding the draft merger agreement and various other legal and regulatory issues. Inamed management advised the board of directors of its belief that, subject to Medicis' completion of satisfactory due diligence and the negotiation of several significant terms (including the composition of the board of directors and management of the combined company and material terms of the merger agreement), Medicis management would present a proposal to the Medicis board of directors that the consideration to be received by the Inamed stockholders in the merger would be a combination of cash and stock with value equivalent to an implied price of $75 per share, with the exchange ratio to be fixed prior to execution of a definitive merger agreement, inclusive of approximately $30 per share to be paid in cash; management highlighted for the board that the exchange ratio supporting this value was materially more favorable than the exchange ratio previously discussed, but had not been approved by the Medicis board of directors;

Recommendation of the Medicis Board of Directors and Its Reasons for the Merger

The Medicis board of directors believes that the merger with Inamed will enhance Medicis position as a specialty pharmaceutical leader with a diverse portfolio of products. At a special meeting of the Medicis board of directors held on March 20, 2005, the Medicis board of directors unanimously:

determined that the merger is advisable, and is fair to and in the best interests of Medicis and its stockholders;

approved the merger agreement;

directed that approval of the issuance of Medicis common stock pursuant to the merger agreement be submitted for consideration by Medicis stockholders at a Medicis special meeting; and resolved to recommend that the Medicis stockholders vote FOR approval of the proposal to issue Medicis common stock in the merger pursuant to the merger agreement.

In reaching its decision to approve the merger agreement, the Medicis board of directors consulted with senior members of the Medicis management team and consultants regarding the strategic and operational aspects of the merger and the results of the due diligence efforts undertaken by management and Medicis advisors. In addition, the Medicis board of directors held discussions with representatives of Deutsche Bank and Medicis other advisors regarding the past and current business operations, financial condition and future prospects of Inamed. The Medicis board of directors also consulted with Deutsche Bank and Thomas Weisel Partners as to the fairness, from a financial point of view to Medicis, of the merger consideration to be paid by Medicis. The Medicis board of directors also consulted with representatives of Latham & Watkins LLP regarding legal due diligence matters and the terms of the merger agreement and related agreements. Medicis management and the Medicis board of directors also retained other firms to provide consulting services to Medicis in connection with the merger. In reaching its decision to approve the merger agreement, the Medicis board of directors considered a variety of factors, a number of which are summarized below:

Strengthened Strategic Position. The Medicis board of directors considered that the merger would further enhance Medicis' role as a specialty pharmaceutical leader with the benefits of increased size, product base, product pipeline and employees. The Medicis board of directors concluded that the merger with Inamed would strengthen and diversify Medicis' product base and product pipeline in key areas and enhance Medicis' strategic position within the specialty pharmaceutical market.

Operating Efficiencies and Synergies. The Medicis board of directors reviewed the potential strategic and other benefits of the merger, including the complementary nature of the businesses of Medicis and Inamed and the opportunity for cost savings. The Medicis board of directors noted that, although no assurances can be given that any particular level of synergies will be achieved, Medicis management anticipates cost synergies of approximately $15 to $20 million in the combined company's first full year. Medicis' ability to achieve these goals is subject to various factors, a number of which will be beyond its control, including economic conditions and unanticipated changes in business conditions, and, therefore, there can be no assurance that these results will be achieved. See Cautionary Statement Concerning Forward-Looking Statements.

Positioned for Long-Term Growth. The Medicis board of directors considered the fact that the merger with Inamed would likely accelerate Medicis' future revenue and earnings growth, which would add stockholder value. The Medicis board of directors concluded that the merger with Inamed would improve Medicis' prospects for long-term growth by creating a larger company with increased revenue and improved future earnings.

Strategic Alternatives. The Medicis board of directors reviewed other possible acquisition candidates and determined that the merger with Inamed was a strategic fit and presented a unique opportunity to enhance and expand Medicis' business, product line and position for future international growth.

Integration of Inamed. The Medicis board of directors considered the fact that the combination of the businesses of Medicis and Inamed would be challenging. However, after consultation with Medicis management and its advisors, the Medicis board of directors determined that the operations of Inamed could be integrated with those of Medicis in an efficient manner.

Terms of the Merger Agreement. The Medicis board of directors, with the assistance of counsel, considered the general terms of the merger agreement, including:

Fixed Exchange Ratio. The Medicis board of directors considered the fact that the fixed exchange ratio provides certainty as to the number of shares of Medicis common stock to be issued to Inamed stockholders and the percentage of the total shares of Medicis common stock that current Inamed stockholders will own after the merger. The Medicis board of directors also considered the premium that the merger consideration implied.

No Solicitation; Termination Fee. The Medicis board of directors reviewed the provisions of the merger agreement that limit the ability of Medicis and Inamed to solicit other acquisition offers and require each party to pay a fee to the other party under specified circumstances. The Medicis board of directors believed that these provisions were reasonable under the circumstances.

Conditions to Consummation. The Medicis board of directors reviewed with counsel the conditions to consummation of the merger, in particular the likelihood of obtaining the necessary regulatory approvals and stockholder approvals, and the likelihood that the merger would be completed. While the Medicis board of directors believes that these approvals will be obtained in a timely fashion, the Medicis board of directors also noted that Medicis is not required to agree to any material divestitures or other material restrictions on the operation of the business of the combined company.

Board Participation. The Medicis board of directors considered the fact that four members of the Inamed board of directors would be elected to the Medicis board of directors after the effective time of the merger. The Medicis board of directors also considered that the audit committee of the board would consist of two members of the current Medicis board of directors and two members of the Inamed board of directors.

Opinions of Deutsche Bank and Thomas Weisel Partners. The Medicis board of directors considered the separate opinions of Deutsche Bank and Thomas Weisel Partners that, as of the date of the opinions, and based upon and subject to the considerations described in the opinions and based on such other matters as Deutsche Bank and Thomas Weisel Partners considered relevant, the merger consideration to be paid by Medicis for each outstanding share of Inamed common stock pursuant to the merger agreement was fair from a financial point of view to Medicis. See Opinions of Deutsche Bank and Thomas Weisel Partners.

Letter Agreement with Q-Med AB. The Medicis board of directors considered the effect of certain noncompetition provisions to which Medicis is subject under existing agreements between Medicis and Q-Med AB, which may restrict the ability of Medicis to compete against Q-Med AB in certain aesthetics markets. The Medicis board of directors then reviewed the terms and conditions of a letter agreement between Medicis and Q-Med AB, which is described below under Letter Agreement with Q-Med AB on page 106, and the effect of Inamed's agreement to dismiss the investigation pending in the United States International Trade Commission, captioned as In re Certain Injectable Implant Compositions, Inv. No. 337-TA-515, between Inamed, as complainant, and Q-Med AB and Medicis, as respondents, and the litigation pending in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, captioned as Inamed Corp. v. Q-Med AB, et al, No. 3:04-CV-1064, between Inamed, as plaintiff, and Q-Med AB and Medicis, as defendants. As consideration for Inamed's dismissal of these actions against Medicis and Q-Med AB, Medicis agreed to pay Inamed $16.5 million if the $10 million expense fee or the $70 million termination fee is payable by Medicis under the merger agreement or if the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting.

Financing. The Medicis board of directors reviewed with management and its advisors the ability of Medicis to obtain the financing necessary to pay the cash portion of the merger consideration. See Senior Secured Financing Commitment Letter with Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. on page 107.

In addition, the Medicis board of directors also identified and considered a variety of potentially negative factors in its deliberations concerning the merger, including:

the incremental debt associated with the merger could cause Medicis to have reduced financial flexibility;

the ability of Medicis to obtain the necessary financing to pay the cash portion of the merger consideration, and the potential terms of such financing; the risk that the potential benefits sought in the merger might not be fully realized; the possibility that the merger might not be completed, or that completion might be unduly delayed;

the effect of public announcement of the merger on Medicis' stock price;

the projected dilution of Medicis' earnings per share as a result of the issuance of the shares in the merger, and the estimated time period for the merger to be accretive to Medicis' earnings per share;

the fact that the merger agreement does not contain a financing condition, other than a limited condition related to Medicis' inability to obtain financing as a result of a pending SEC investigation of Inamed;

the risks associated with the SEC's pending investigation of Inamed, as described in Inamed's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004;

the risk that management's efforts to integrate Inamed will disrupt Medicis' operations;

the risk that Medicis and/or Inamed may have to agree to divest or license certain assets in order to obtain FTC approval of the merger;

the substantial charges to be incurred in connection with the merger, including costs of integrating the businesses of Medicis and Inamed and transaction expenses arising from the merger;

the risks associated with Inamed's silicone breast implants and other Inamed products in development not being approved by the FDA;

the risk that key management and research and development personnel might not remain employed by Medicis;

the non-solicitation provisions, termination fee and related provisions in the merger agreement, although the Medicis board considered that these provisions would not preclude bona fide alternative proposals;

the requirement that Medicis hold its stockholders' meeting and allow stockholders to vote on the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement, even if a third party makes a superior proposal for a business combination with Medicis;

the requirement that Medicis pay Inamed $16.5 million if the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting as consideration for Inamed's dismissal of litigation against Medicis and Q-Med AB;

the requirement that Medicis pay Inamed a termination fee of $70 million or an expense fee of $10 million if the merger agreement is terminated due to specified reasons and that, as consideration for Inamed's dismissal of litigation against Medicis and Q-Med AB, Medicis pay Inamed $16.5 million in the event any such termination or expense fee becomes payable by Medicis;

the provisions of the merger agreement that place restrictions on the conduct of Medicis' business during the period between the signing of the merger agreement and the completion of the merger; and various other risks associated with the merger and the businesses of Medicis, Inamed and the combined company described in the section entitled "Risks Factors" and in the documents incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

The Medicis board of directors concluded, however, that these factors could be managed or mitigated by Medicis or were unlikely to have a material impact on the merger or Medicis, and that, overall, the potentially negative factors associated with the merger were outweighed by the potential benefits of the merger.

It was not practical to, and thus the Medicis board of directors did not, quantify, rank or otherwise assign relative weights to the wide variety of factors it considered in evaluating the merger and the merger agreement, nor did the board determine that any one factor was of particular importance in deciding that the merger agreement and associated transactions were in the best interests of Medicis and its stockholders. This discussion of information and material factors considered by the Medicis board of directors is intended to be a summary rather than an exhaustive list. In considering these factors, individual members of the board may have given different weight to different factors. The board conducted an overall analysis of the factors described above, and overall considered the factors to support its decision in favor of the merger and the merger agreement. The decision of each member of the Medicis board of directors was based upon his or her own judgment, in light of all of the information presented, regarding the overall effect of the merger agreement and associated transactions on Medicis stockholders as compared to any potential alternative transactions or courses of action. After considering this information, all members of the Medicis board of directors unanimously approved the merger agreement and the merger and recommended that Medicis stockholders approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement.

Recommendation of the Inamed Board of Directors and Its Reasons for the Merger

At a special meeting of the Inamed board of directors held on March 20, 2005, the Inamed board of directors unanimously:

determined that the merger is advisable, and is fair to and in the best interests of Inamed and its stockholders;

approved the merger agreement;

directed that adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger be submitted for consideration by Inamed stockholders at an Inamed special meeting; and resolved to recommend that the Inamed stockholders vote FOR the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger.

In reaching its decision to approve the merger agreement, the Inamed board of directors consulted with senior members of the Inamed management team regarding the strategic and operational aspects of the merger and the results of the due diligence efforts undertaken by management and Inamed advisors. In addition, the Inamed board of directors held discussions with representatives of JPMorgan and Inamed's other advisors regarding the past and current business operations, financial condition and future prospects of Medicis. The Inamed board of directors also consulted with JPMorgan as to financial aspects of the merger, including the fairness, from a financial point of view, to Inamed stockholders, of the merger consideration to be paid by Medicis. The Inamed board of directors also consulted with representatives of Morrison & Foerster LLP regarding legal due diligence matters and the terms of the merger agreement and related agreements. In reaching its decision to approve the merger agreement, the Inamed board of directors considered a variety of factors, a number of which are summarized below:

Consideration to be received in the Merger. The Inamed board of directors considered the relationship of the consideration to be paid pursuant to the merger to the market price of Inamed common stock, as well as the form of the merger consideration to be received in the merger by the holders of Inamed common stock, including: the fact that the value of the merger consideration, based on the then-current market price for Medicis common stock, provides an opportunity for Inamed stockholders to receive a premium over the trading value of Inamed common stock on March 18, 2005, the last trading day before the public announcement of the proposed merger, and also over the average trading value of Inamed common stock in recent periods preceding that date; the fact that Inamed stockholders will receive a portion of the merger consideration in stock, which provides them with an opportunity to participate in the potential growth of the combined company following the merger as stockholders of Medicis;

the fact that Inamed stockholders will receive a portion of the merger consideration in cash, which provides them with a measure of certainty of value despite stock market or industry volatility compared to a transaction in which they would receive all stock or other non-cash consideration;

the opinion of JPMorgan that, as of the date of the opinion, and based upon and subject to the considerations described in the opinion and based on such other matters as JPMorgan considered relevant, the merger consideration to be received by the Inamed stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement was fair from a financial point of view to the Inamed stockholders. See Opinion of JPMorgan on page 84; and the fact that Medicis will have a much larger public float than Inamed after completion of the merger, which could provide greater liquidity for Inamed stockholders and could prove to be less volatile.

Greater Product Portfolio and Diversification of Revenues. The Inamed board of directors considered that the combination of Medicis' and Inamed's revenue generating products will help create a more diversified product portfolio and revenue base, and enhance the combined company's position as a specialty pharmaceutical leader with the potential benefits of increased size, product base, product pipeline and employees. The Inamed board of directors concluded that the merger would strengthen Medicis' product base by, for example, combining the two companies' respective facial aesthetics product lines and diversifying Inamed away from breast implant products and the risks associated with dependence upon these products for a majority of Inamed's revenues.

Operating Efficiencies and Synergies. The Inamed board of directors reviewed the potential strategic and other benefits of the merger, including the complementary nature of the businesses of Medicis and Inamed and the opportunity for cost savings and other synergies. The Inamed board of directors noted that, although no assurances can be given that any particular level of synergies will be achieved, Inamed management anticipates cost synergies of approximately $15 to $20 million in the combined company's first full year. The combined company's ability to achieve these goals is subject to various factors, a number of which will be beyond its control, including economic conditions and unanticipated changes in business conditions, and, therefore, there can be no assurance that these results will be achieved. See Cautionary Statement Concerning Forward-Looking Statements.

Positioned for Long-Term Growth. The Inamed board of directors considered that the merger could improve Inamed's prospects for long-term growth by creating a larger company with increased revenue and improved future earnings by, for example:

Maximizing Product Development Potential the Inamed board of directors considered that Medicis' resources and revenues will help maximize the potential and advance the development of Inamed's pipeline of products.

Enhancing Research and Development the Inamed board of directors considered that the combined company will have greater technical expertise and financial resources to devote to research and development, consistent with each party's focus on building stockholder value by pursuing technological leadership through continuous innovation.

Increased Product Sales Opportunities the Inamed board of directors considered that the combined company will form a global, more diversified company that will be able to take advantage of a larger sales force and previously unavailable cross-selling opportunities among the expanded customer base.

Information Regarding the Businesses of the Companies. The Inamed board of directors considered historical and current information about Medicis' and Inamed's businesses, prospects, financial performance and condition, operations, management and competitive position, management's knowledge of the industry and conditions in the industry in general, all of which led the board of directors to believe that a combined entity with its greater financial resources may have greater potential and advantages than Inamed would have as a stand-alone entity.

Information Regarding Comparable Transactions. The Inamed board of directors reviewed and considered summary information provided by JPMorgan regarding comparable merger transactions and the trading performance of stock in comparable companies in the industry.

Strategic Alternatives. The Inamed board of directors assessed alternatives to the merger, including the potential for remaining a stand-alone entity, and concluded that the merger with Medicis represents the transaction most favorable to the Inamed stockholders that has been or is likely to be presented to Inamed stockholders.

Terms of the Merger Agreement. The Inamed board of directors, with the assistance of counsel, considered the general terms of the merger agreement, including:

No Solicitation; Termination Fee. The Inamed board of directors considered the provisions of the merger agreement that limit the ability of Medicis and Inamed to solicit other acquisition offers and require each party to pay a termination fee to the other party under specified circumstances, including the right of the Inamed board of directors to respond to, evaluate and negotiate certain other business combination proposals. The Inamed board of directors believed that these provisions were reasonable under the circumstances and would not preclude Inamed from considering bona fide alternative proposals.

Conditions to Consummation. The Inamed board of directors reviewed the conditions to consummation of the merger, in particular the likelihood of obtaining the necessary regulatory approvals and stockholder approvals, and the likelihood that the merger would be completed.

Board participation. The Inamed board of directors considered the appointment of certain members of the Inamed board of directors to the Medicis board of directors after the effective time of the merger, including that:

Four members of the Inamed board of directors would be appointed to the Medicis board of directors, with one being placed in a class with a term expiring in 2005, two being placed in a class with a term expiring in 2006 and one being placed in a class with a term expiring in 2007; and

The Medicis audit committee would consist of four members, consisting of two current members of the Medicis board of directors, Mr. Vandewarker and Ms. Amundson (or another Inamed designee selected by the nominating committee of the Medicis board of directors).

Tax Treatment. The Inamed board of directors also considered the expected qualification of the merger as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code resulting in the common stock portion of the merger consideration being received by Inamed stockholders without having to recognize gain at the time for federal income tax purposes.

Financing. The Inamed board of directors reviewed with management and its advisors the ability of Medicis to obtain the financing necessary to pay the cash portion of the merger consideration, including the related Senior Secured Financing Commitment Letter with Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc.

Arm s-Length Negotiation. The Inamed board of directors considered that the merger agreement with Medicis was the product of arm s-length negotiations between Inamed and its advisors, on the one hand, and Medicis and its advisors, on the other, which the Inamed board of directors believed would help ensure that the transaction is fair to and in the best interests of the Inamed stockholders.

Letter Agreement with Q-Med AB. The Inamed board of directors considered the effect of certain noncompetition provisions to which Medicis is subject under existing agreements between Medicis and Q-Med AB, which may restrict the ability of Medicis to compete against Q-Med AB in certain aesthetics markets. The Inamed board of directors then reviewed the terms and conditions of a letter agreement between Medicis and Q-Med AB, which is described below under Letter Agreement with Q-Med AB on page 106, and the effect of Inamed s agreement to dismiss the investigation pending in the United States International Trade Commission, captioned as In re Certain Injectable Implant Compositions, Inv. No. 337-TA-515, between Inamed, as complainant, and Q-Med AB and Medicis, as respondents, and the litigation pending in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, captioned as Inamed Corp. v. Q-Med AB, et al, No. 3:04-CV-1064, between Inamed, as plaintiff, and Q-Med AB and Medicis, as defendants. As consideration for Inamed s dismissal of these actions against Medicis and Q-Med AB, Medicis agreed to pay Inamed $16.5 million if the $10 million expense fee or the $70 million termination fee is payable by Medicis under the merger agreement or if the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting.

In addition, the Inamed board of directors also identified and considered a variety of potentially negative factors in its deliberations concerning the merger, including:

Under the terms of the merger agreement, between its execution date and the effective time of the merger, Inamed is required to obtain Medicis' consent before it can take certain specified actions and is otherwise restricted in the conduct of its business, so that, among other things, Inamed's ability to enter into collaboration discussions and financing arrangements during this preclosing period is limited;

The historic volatility of the trading price of Medicis common stock and the effect of potential declines in the trading price of Medicis common stock prior to the completion of the merger on the value of the premium and consideration received by holders of Inamed common stock in the merger;

The fact that Inamed's appointees to the Medicis board of directors would constitute a minority of the members of the Medicis board of directors;

The time, effort and costs involved in combining the two businesses and the risk that integration would divert management attention from the ongoing businesses of the combined company and could disrupt Inamed's operations. The Inamed board of directors considered the fact that the combination of the businesses of Medicis and Inamed would be challenging. However, after consultation with Inamed management and its advisors, the Inamed board of directors determined that the operations of Inamed could be integrated with those of Medicis in an efficient manner;

The possibility that the merger may not be completed or that completion of the merger may be unduly delayed;

The conditions to Medicis' obligations to close the merger, and the possibility that those conditions might not be satisfied even if the merger is approved by stockholders;

The risk that Medicis and/or Inamed may have to agree to divest or license certain assets in order to obtain FTC approval of the merger;

The potential loss of key employees as a result of the merger and the announcement of having entered into a merger agreement, and the risk that despite the efforts of the combined company, key management and research and development personnel might not remain employed by the combined company;

The possibility that the benefits anticipated and sought to be achieved in the merger might not be realized;

The risks associated with Medicis' marketed products and its product development pipeline;

The risks associated with the government inquiry into Medicis' marketing and promotion of LOPROX® to pediatricians, as described in Risk Factors Risks Relating to Medicis ;

The non-solicitation provisions, termination fee and related provisions in the merger agreement, although the Inamed board concluded that these provisions would not preclude bona fide alternative proposals;

If any third party makes a superior proposal for a business combination with Inamed, the Inamed board of directors could provide information to and engage in negotiations with such third party subject to the terms and conditions of the merger agreement, but absent receipt of a superior proposal, the merger agreement does not provide for the Inamed board of directors to reassess whether the merger is in the best interests of Inamed stockholders, except to the extent required by its fiduciary duties to Inamed stockholders;

The requirement that Inamed hold its stockholders' meeting and allow stockholders to vote on the merger agreement, even if a third party makes a superior proposal for a business combination with Inamed;

The provisions of the merger agreement that require the payment of a termination fee of $90 million or $10 million by Inamed if the merger agreement is terminated due to specified reasons;

The business, financial, operational and other risks associated with Inamed continuing to operate as an independent company;

The possibility that the price or value of Inamed common stock might increase if Inamed were to remain an independent company; and

Various other risks associated with the merger and the businesses of Medicis, Inamed and the combined company described in the section entitled Risk Factors Risks Relating to the Merger and in the documents incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/ prospectus.

The Inamed board of directors concluded, however, that these factors could be managed or mitigated by Inamed or were unlikely to have a material impact on the merger or Inamed, and that, overall, the potentially negative factors associated with the merger were outweighed by the potential benefits of the merger.

It was not practical to, and thus the Inamed board of directors did not, quantify, rank or otherwise assign relative weights to the wide variety of factors it considered in evaluating the merger and the merger agreement, nor did the board determine that any one factor was of particular importance in deciding that the merger agreement and associated transactions were in the best interests of Inamed and its stockholders. This discussion of information and material factors considered by the Inamed board of directors is intended to be a summary rather than an exhaustive list. In considering these factors, individual members of the board may have given different weight to different factors. The board conducted an overall analysis of the factors described above, and overall considered the factors to support its decision in favor of the merger and the merger agreement. The decision of each member of the Inamed board of directors was based upon his or her own judgment, in light of all of the information presented, regarding the overall effect of the merger agreement and associated transactions on Inamed stockholders as compared to any potential alternative transactions or courses of action. After considering this information, all members of the Inamed board of directors unanimously approved the merger agreement and the merger and recommended that Inamed stockholders adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger.

Opinions of Deutsche Bank and Thomas Weisel Partners

Deutsche Bank

Deutsche Bank Securities Inc., or Deutsche Bank, has acted as financial advisor to Medicis in connection with its merger with Inamed. At the March 20, 2005 meeting of the Medicis board of directors, Deutsche Bank rendered its oral opinion to the Medicis board of directors, subsequently confirmed in its written opinion, dated as of March 20, 2005, that, as of the date of the opinion, based upon and subject to the assumptions made, matters considered and limits of the review undertaken by Deutsche Bank, the merger consideration to be paid under the merger agreement with Inamed was fair from a financial point of view to Medicis. For purposes of Deutsche Bank's opinion and this description of the opinion, the merger consideration means the right to receive, with respect to each outstanding share of Inamed common stock (other than shares cancelled as set forth in the merger agreement or dissenting shares) (i) 1.4205 shares of Medicis common stock and (ii) $30 in cash.

The full text of Deutsche Bank's opinion, which sets forth, among other things, the assumptions made, matters considered and limits on the review undertaken by Deutsche Bank in connection with its opinion, is attached as Annex B to this document and is incorporated into this document by reference. We urge you to read Deutsche Bank's opinion carefully and in its entirety. Deutsche Bank's opinion addresses only the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the merger consideration, and does not address any other aspect of the transaction or constitute a recommendation to any Medicis stockholder as to how to vote. The following summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the Deutsche Bank opinion.

In connection with Deutsche Bank's role as financial advisor to Medicis, and in arriving at its opinion, Deutsche Bank has reviewed certain publicly available financial and other information concerning Medicis and Inamed and certain internal analyses and other information furnished to it by Medicis and Inamed. Deutsche Bank also held discussions with members of the senior managements of Medicis and Inamed regarding the businesses and prospects of their respective companies and the joint prospects of a combined company. In addition, Deutsche Bank:

reviewed the reported prices and trading activity for Inamed common stock and Medicis common stock;

compared certain financial and stock market information for Medicis and Inamed with similar information for certain other companies whose securities are publicly traded;

reviewed the financial terms of certain recent business combinations which it deemed comparable, in whole or in part, to the merger;

reviewed the terms of the merger agreement; and performed such other studies and analyses and considered such other factors as it deemed appropriate.

In preparing its opinion, Deutsche Bank relied upon, did not assume responsibility for the independent verification of, and did not independently verify, the accuracy and completeness of any information whether publicly available, furnished to it or otherwise made available to it including, without limitation, any financial information, forecasts or projections considered in connection with the rendering of its opinion. Accordingly, Deutsche Bank assumed and relied upon the accuracy and completeness of all such information for purposes of rendering its opinion. With respect to the financial forecasts and projections, including the analyses and forecasts of certain cost savings, operating efficiencies, revenue effects and financial synergies expected by Medicis and Inamed to be achieved as a result of the merger transaction, that Deutsche Bank received from the management of Medicis and Inamed, Deutsche Bank assumed that the information provided was reasonably prepared on bases reflecting the best currently available projections and judgments of the management of Medicis and Inamed. Deutsche Bank expressed no view as to the reasonableness of those forecasts and projections or the assumptions on which they are based. Deutsche Bank did not conduct a physical inspection of any of the properties or assets, and did not make any independent valuation or appraisal of the assets or liabilities (contingent or otherwise) of Medicis or Inamed, nor was Deutsche Bank furnished with any such appraisals.

For purposes of rendering its opinion, Deutsche Bank assumed that, in all respects material to its analysis: the representations and warranties of Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and Inamed contained in the merger agreement are true and correct;

Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and Inamed will each perform all of the covenants and agreements to be performed under the merger agreement, and all conditions to the obligations of each of the parties to complete the merger transaction will be satisfied without any waiver;

all material governmental, regulatory or other approvals and consents required in connection with the completion of the merger transaction will be obtained and that in connection with obtaining any necessary governmental, regulatory or other approvals and consents, or any amendments, modifications or waivers to any agreements, instruments or orders to which either Medicis or Inamed (or any of their respective affiliates) is a party or is subject or by which it is bound, no limitations, restrictions or conditions will be imposed or amendments, modifications or waivers made that would have a material adverse effect on Medicis or Inamed or materially reduce the contemplated benefits of the merger transaction;

the merger transaction will be a tax-free reorganization to Medicis; and no adjustment to the merger consideration is made pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement.

The opinion of Deutsche Bank is necessarily based on economic, market and other conditions as in effect on, the information made available to Deutsche Bank as of, and the financial condition of Medicis and Inamed on, March 18, 2005, the last trading day prior to the March 20, 2005 board meeting.

Financial Analysis of Deutsche Bank Securities Inc.

The following is a summary of the material financial analyses performed by Deutsche Bank in connection with rendering its opinion. These materials were reviewed with the Medicis board of directors on March 20, 2005.

Deutsche Bank made comparisons of the ranges of implied share prices derived from the various analyses described below to $75, which was the implied value of the merger consideration on the date of Deutsche Bank's opinion (and which we refer to in this description of the opinion as the implied merger consideration), and the closing prices of $31.68 and $66.24, for Medicis and Inamed respectively, as of March 18, 2005.

Selected Publicly Traded Companies Analysis

Deutsche Bank reviewed certain financial information and calculated commonly used valuation measurements for each of Medicis and Inamed, as applicable, to corresponding information and measurements for groups of publicly traded companies.

The selected companies forming the group to which Inamed was compared were Allergan, Inc., American Medical Systems, Inc., Cytoc Corporation, Integra LifeSciences Holdings Corporation, Kinetic Concepts, Inc., Kyphon Inc., Medicis, Mentor Corporation, Respirationics, Inc. and ResMed Inc. We refer to these companies as the Inamed selected comparables. Deutsche Bank selected these companies because they are publicly traded companies with operations that for purposes of this analysis may be considered similar to those of Inamed.

The selected companies forming the group to which Medicis was compared were Allergan, Inc., Axcen Pharma Inc., Cephalon, Inc., Connetics Corporation, Endo Pharmaceutical Holdings, Inc., First Horizon Pharmaceuticals Corp. and Forest Laboratories, Inc. We refer to these companies as the Medicis selected comparables. Deutsche Bank selected these companies because they are publicly traded companies with operations that for purposes of this analysis may be considered similar to those of Medicis.

The financial information and valuation measurements reviewed by Deutsche Bank included, among other things:

- current share price;

- equity market valuation;

- ratio of equity market valuation to net income; and

- ratio of equity market valuation to long term earnings growth rate.

To calculate the trading multiples for the Inamed selected comparables and the Medicis selected comparables, Deutsche Bank used publicly available information concerning historical and projected financial performance, including analyst reports and published historical financial information and earnings estimates reported by Institutional Brokers Estimate System, or IBES. IBES is a data service that monitors and publishes compilations of earnings estimates by selected research analysts regarding companies of interest to institutional investors. To calculate the trading multiples for Medicis, Deutsche Bank used projections prepared by Medicis management. To calculate the trading multiples for Inamed, Deutsche Bank used projections prepared by Inamed management and adjusted by Medicis management.

Deutsche Bank observed that the implied value of Inamed common stock based on this selected publicly traded companies analysis ranged from $57 to $81 per share and compared that range of values to the implied merger consideration. Deutsche Bank also observed that the implied value of Medicis common stock based on the selected publicly traded companies analysis ranged from $23 to $38 per share and compared that range of values to the March 18, 2005 closing share price for Medicis common stock of $31.68.

None of the companies utilized in the publicly traded company analysis is identical to Medicis or Inamed. Accordingly, Deutsche Bank believes the analysis is not simply mathematical. Rather, it involves complex considerations and qualitative judgments, reflected in Deutsche Bank's opinion, concerning differences in financial and operating characteristics of the selected companies and other factors that could affect the public trading value of the selected companies.

Selected Precedent Transactions Analysis

Deutsche Bank examined 16 historical business combinations in the specialty pharmaceutical industry and the medical device industry since January 1, 1999, involving companies that it considered to be comparable, in whole or in part, to Inamed. The transactions it reviewed were:

- the acquisition of BioChem Pharma, Inc. by Shire Pharmaceuticals Group plc;
- the acquisition of Dura Pharmaceuticals, Inc. by Elan Corporation plc;
- the acquisition of Jones Pharma, Inc. by King Pharmaceuticals, Inc.;
- the acquisition of Roberts Pharmaceuticals Corp. by Shire Pharmaceuticals Group plc;
- the acquisition of Guidant Corp. by Johnson & Johnson;
- the acquisition of VISX, Incorporated by Advanced Medical Optics, Inc.;
- the acquisition of Ocular Sciences, Inc. by The Cooper Companies, Inc.;
- the acquisition of ALARIS Medical Systems, Inc. by Cardinal Health Inc.;
- the acquisition of TheraSense, Inc. by Abbott Laboratories;
- the acquisition of Centerpulse AG by Zimmer Holdings, Inc.;
- the acquisition of Disetronic Holding AG by Roche Holding AG;
- the acquisition of MiniMed, Inc. by Medtronic, Inc.;
- the acquisition of Inverness Medical Technologies Inc. (diabetes) by Johnson & Johnson;
- the acquisition of Summit Autonomous, Inc. by Alcon Laboratories Inc./ Nestle SA;
- the acquisition of Xomed Surgical Products, Inc. by Medtronic, Inc.; and
- the acquisition of Perclose, Inc. by Abbott Laboratories.

Deutsche Bank analyzed Last Twelve Months, or Trailing, EBITDA and net income, and Next Twelve Months, or Forward, net income acquisition multiples for the selected transactions and then applied those multiples to the corresponding Inamed statistics based on historical results and management projections from Inamed as adjusted by the management of Medicis. Deutsche Bank observed that the implied value of Inamed common stock based on this precedent transaction analysis ranged from $68 to $86.

All multiples for the selected transactions were based on public information available at the time of announcement of those transactions, without taking into account differing market and other conditions during the six-year period during which the selected transactions occurred. Because the reasons for, and circumstances surrounding, each of the precedent transactions analyzed were so diverse, and due to the inherent differences between the operations and financial conditions of Inamed and the companies involved in the selected transactions, Deutsche Bank believes that a comparable transaction analysis is not simply mathematical. Rather, it involves complex considerations and qualitative judgments, reflected in Deutsche Bank's opinion, concerning differences between the characteristics of these transactions and the merger that could affect the value of the subject companies and businesses and Inamed.

Premiums Paid Analysis

Deutsche Bank examined the average premiums paid across selected business combinations and change of control transactions for the last three calendar years. In addition, Deutsche Bank examined the premiums paid for historical business combinations in the specialty pharmaceutical and medical device industries involving companies that it considered to be comparable, in whole or in part, to Inamed. Premiums were calculated based on the target's stock price 30 days prior to announcement.

Deutsche Bank applied a range of 20% to 30% to the Inamed average 30-day closing common stock price of $69.21 as of March 18, 2005. The implied range of Inamed stock price values based on this premiums paid analysis was $83 to $90.

Because the reasons for, and circumstances surrounding, each of the selected business combinations analyzed were so diverse, and due to the inherent differences between the operations and financial conditions of Medicis and the companies involved in the selected business combinations, Deutsche Bank believes that the premiums paid analysis is not simply mathematical. Rather, it involves complex considerations and qualitative judgments, reflected in Deutsche Bank's opinion, concerning differences between the characteristics of these transactions and the merger that could affect the value of the subject companies and businesses and Medicis.

Discounted Cash Flow Analyses

Deutsche Bank performed discounted cash flow analyses for (i) Medicis as a stand-alone entity, and (ii) Inamed as a stand-alone entity. Deutsche Bank calculated the discounted cash flow values for each of Medicis and Inamed as the sum of (i) the net present values of the estimated future free cash flows that Medicis or Inamed, as the case may be, would generate for the fiscal years 2005 through 2009, plus (ii) the terminal value of Medicis or Inamed, as applicable at the end of that period. The estimated future cash flows for Inamed were based on both Inamed management projections and Inamed management projections as adjusted by Medicis management, the latter of which accounted for $15 million of synergies beginning in 2006 and growing 5% a year thereafter. The estimated future cash flows for Medicis were based on Medicis management projections.

The range of estimated terminal values was calculated by applying terminal value multiples ranging from 9.0x to 11.0x for Medicis and 17.0x to 19.0x for Inamed to projected 2009 EBITDA. The multiple ranges were selected by looking at the mean LTM EBITDA multiple of the Medicis and Inamed selected comparables. The present value of the cash flows and terminal values were calculated using discount rates ranging from 11% to 13% for Medicis and 9% to 11% for Inamed. The discount rate ranges were selected by performing weighted average cost of capital ( WACC ) analyses of the Medicis and Inamed selected comparables.

Deutsche Bank observed that the range of implied Medicis stock price values resulting from the discounted cash flow analysis was $47 to $55. Deutsche Bank observed that the range of implied Inamed stock price values resulting from the discounted cash flow analysis based on Inamed management projections was $155 to $186. Deutsche Bank also observed that the range of implied Inamed stock price values resulting from the discounted cash flow analysis based on adjusted Inamed management projections with synergies was $74 to $88. The Medicis board of directors was advised by senior members of the Medicis management team that management relied upon the more conservative adjusted Inamed projections when evaluating the proposed merger.

Relative Contribution Analysis

Deutsche Bank analyzed two scenarios of the pro forma relative financial performance contributions of Medicis and Inamed, the first based on management projections of Medicis and Inamed and the second based on management projections of Medicis and management projections of Inamed as adjusted by Medicis management. Both scenarios looked at pro forma contribution for the 2004, 2005 and 2006 calendar years, as compared to the pro forma relative economic ownership percentages for Medicis and Inamed respectively, based on the implied merger consideration. Deutsche Bank calculated the relative contributions of Medicis and Inamed to the combined company in terms of, among other things, (i) revenues, (ii) earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization, or EBITDA, (iii) net income and (iv) fully diluted equity market capitalization, based on the closing market price for Medicis of $31.68 on March 18, 2005 and the implied merger consideration.

Based on these metrics, Deutsche Bank observed that on a combined basis and based on projections from the management of Inamed, the implied pro forma economic ownership percentage for Inamed stockholders ranged from 39.8% to 61.5%. On a combined basis and based on projections from the management of Inamed as adjusted by Medicis management, the implied pro forma economic ownership percentage for Inamed stockholders ranged from 39.8% to 57.7%. Deutsche Bank compared these ranges of implied pro forma economic ownership percentages for Inamed stockholders with the economic ownership percentage of 42.4% based on the implied merger consideration.

Pro Forma Combined Earnings Analysis

Deutsche Bank analyzed certain pro forma effects of the merger. Based on such analysis, Deutsche Bank computed the resulting dilution/ accretion to the combined company's earnings per share estimate for the calendar years ending December 31, 2005, 2006 and 2007, after taking into account any potential cost savings and other synergies identified by Medicis management that Medicis and Inamed could achieve if the merger was consummated and non-recurring costs relating to the merger. Deutsche Bank noted that after taking into account the potential for cost savings and other synergies and non-recurring costs related to the merger, on a pro forma GAAP basis, the merger would be approximately 11.9% dilutive for the calendar year ended December 31, 2005, which accounted for one quarter and included no synergies, 11.5% dilutive for the calendar year ended December 31, 2006 and approximately 5.5% accretive for the calendar year ended December 31, 2007. Calculations for pro forma GAAP earnings per share were conducted using an estimated value for transaction-related amortization charges. An assessment of Inamed's amortizable intangibles was not complete as of March 20, 2005. Because of the significant impact on earnings of the non-cash charges resulting from the transaction-related amortization, Deutsche Bank also analyzed the pro forma effects of the merger on a non-GAAP basis. As a result of this analysis, Deutsche Bank noted that after taking into account the potential cost savings and other synergies and non-recurring costs related to the merger, on a non-GAAP basis, the merger would be approximately 6.5% dilutive for the calendar year ended December 31, 2005, which accounted for one quarter and included no synergies, 1.5% accretive for the calendar year ended December 31, 2006 and 17.0% accretive for the calendar year ended December 31, 2007. Pro forma non-GAAP earnings per share exclude transaction-related amortization charges.

General

The foregoing summary describes all analyses and factors that Deutsche Bank deemed material in its presentation to the Medicis board of directors, but is not a comprehensive description of all analyses performed and factors considered by Deutsche Bank in connection with preparing its opinion. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process involving the application of subjective business judgment in determining the most appropriate and relevant methods of financial analysis and the application of those methods to the particular circumstances and, therefore, is not readily susceptible to summary description. Deutsche Bank believes that its analyses must be considered as a whole and that considering any portion of those analyses and of the factors considered without considering all analyses and factors could create a misleading view of the process underlying the opinion. In arriving at its fairness determination, Deutsche Bank did not assign specific weights to any particular analyses. Deutsche Bank conducted its analyses and rendered its opinion described herein separately and independently from any analyses conducted or opinion rendered by Thomas Weisel Partners.

In conducting its analyses and arriving at its opinion, Deutsche Bank utilized a variety of generally accepted valuation methods. The analyses were prepared solely for the purpose of enabling Deutsche Bank to provide its opinion as investment bankers to the Medicis board of directors as to the fairness of the merger consideration, from a financial point of view, to Medicis and do not purport to be appraisals or necessarily reflect the prices at which businesses or securities actually may be sold, which are inherently subject to uncertainty. In connection with its analyses, Deutsche Bank made, and was provided by Medicis and Inamed management with, numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, general business and economic conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of Medicis, Inamed, or their respective advisors. Forecasts provided to Deutsche Bank, which were prepared by Medicis and Inamed management, did not include the expensing of stock options or special charges associated with research and development. Analyses based on estimates or forecasts of future results are not necessarily indicative of actual past or future values or results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by those analyses. Because those analyses are inherently subject to uncertainty, being based upon numerous factors or events beyond the control of Medicis, Inamed or their respective advisors, none of Medicis, Inamed, Deutsche Bank nor any other person assumes responsibility if future results or actual values are different from these forecasts or assumptions.

The terms of the merger transaction were determined through negotiations between Medicis and Inamed and were approved by the Medicis board of directors. Although Deutsche Bank provided advice to Medicis during the course of these negotiations, the decision to enter into the merger transaction was solely that of the Medicis board of directors. As described above, the opinion and presentation of Deutsche Bank to the Medicis board of directors was only one of a number of factors taken into consideration by the Medicis board of directors in making its determination to recommend the merger transaction. Deutsche Bank's opinion was provided to the Medicis board of directors to assist it in connection with its consideration of the merger transaction and does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder as to how to vote or take any other action with respect to any matter related to the merger transaction.

Deutsche Bank's opinion does not in any manner address the prices at which any securities of Medicis or Inamed will trade after the announcement or completion of the merger transaction. Deutsche Bank assumes no responsibility for updating or revising its opinion based on circumstances or events occurring after the date of the opinion. In connection with the preparation of its opinion, Deutsche Bank was not authorized by Medicis or the Medicis board of directors to solicit, nor has Deutsche Bank solicited, third-party indications of interest for the acquisition of all or any part of Medicis or any other extraordinary transaction involving Medicis.

Medicis selected Deutsche Bank as financial advisor in connection with the merger transaction based on Deutsche Bank's qualifications, expertise, reputation and experience in mergers and acquisitions. Medicis has retained Deutsche Bank under a letter agreement dated February 10, 2005. Deutsche Bank will be paid a fee for its services as financial advisor to Medicis in connection with the merger transaction, a substantial portion of which is contingent upon completion of the merger transaction. Deutsche Bank was paid a fee of $1 million for its delivery of an opinion to the Medicis board of directors regarding the fairness to Medicis from a financial point of view of the merger consideration to be paid by Medicis in connection with the transaction. If the merger transaction is consummated, an additional fee will be payable to Deutsche Bank equal to $15.5 million against which any previous fees paid will be credited. Deutsche Bank is an affiliate of Deutsche Bank AG, which together with its affiliates we refer to as the DB Group. One or more members of the DB Group have agreed to provide financing to Medicis in connection with the merger for which they will receive customary fees. See Senior Secured Financing Commitment Letter with Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. on page 107. Medicis has also agreed to indemnify Deutsche Bank and certain related persons to the full extent lawful against certain liabilities, including certain liabilities under the United States federal securities laws arising out of its engagement or the merger.

Deutsche Bank is an internationally recognized investment banking firm experienced in providing advice in connection with mergers and acquisitions and related transactions. One or more members of the DB Group have, from time to time, provided investment banking, commercial banking (including extension of credit) and other financial services to Medicis or its affiliates for which it has received customary compensation, including Medicis' August 2004 $283.9 million convertible exchange offer for which a member of the DB Group acted as dealer manager. In the ordinary course of business, members of the DB Group may actively trade in the securities and other instruments and obligations of Medicis and Inamed for their own accounts and for the accounts of their customers. Accordingly, the DB Group may at any time hold a long or short position in those securities, instruments and obligations.

Thomas Weisel Partners

Medicis requested that Thomas Weisel Partners evaluate the fairness to Medicis, from a financial point of view, of the consideration to be paid by Medicis pursuant to the merger. On March 20, 2005, at a meeting of the board of directors held to evaluate the merger, Thomas Weisel Partners rendered its oral opinion to the Medicis board of directors that as of such date, and based upon and subject to the assumptions, limitations and qualifications set forth in its written opinion, the consideration to be paid by Medicis pursuant to the merger was fair to Medicis, from a financial point of view. The opinion was subsequently confirmed by delivery by Thomas Weisel Partners of a written opinion dated March, 20, 2005.

The full text of the Thomas Weisel Partners opinion, dated March 20, 2005, which we refer to as the TWP opinion, is attached as Annex C to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus and is incorporated into this joint proxy statement/ prospectus by reference. Stockholders of Medicis should read the TWP opinion carefully and in its entirety for a discussion of the assumptions made, limitations upon the review undertaken and qualifications in rendering the opinion. However, we have included the following summary of the TWP opinion.

Thomas Weisel Partners has directed the TWP opinion to the board of directors of Medicis in connection with that board of directors consideration of the merger. The TWP opinion does not constitute a recommendation to any stockholder as to how such stockholder should vote with respect to the merger. The TWP opinion addresses only the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the consideration to be paid by Medicis pursuant to the merger. Thomas Weisel Partners was not asked to consider, and its opinion does not address, any alternatives to the merger or Medicis underlying decision to proceed with or effect the merger or any other aspect of the merger. Thomas Weisel Partners was retained by Medicis to render an opinion to the board of directors of Medicis in connection with the merger and has not acted as financial advisor to Medicis in connection with the merger. In furnishing its opinion, Thomas Weisel Partners did not admit that it is an expert within the meaning of the term expert as used in the Securities Act of 1933, which is referred to as the Securities Act, and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, nor did it admit that its opinion constitutes a report or valuation within the meaning of Section 11 of the Securities Act. The TWP opinion includes statements to this effect.

In connection with its opinion, Thomas Weisel Partners, among other things:

reviewed certain publicly available financial and other data with respect to Medicis and Inamed, including the consolidated financial statements for recent years and interim periods to December 31, 2004 with respect to Medicis and Inamed and certain other relevant financial and operating data relating to Medicis and Inamed made available to Thomas Weisel Partners from published sources and from the internal records of Medicis;

made inquiries regarding and discussed the merger and the merger agreement and other matters related thereto with Medicis counsel; and

In connection with its review, Thomas Weisel Partners did not assume any obligation to independently verify the foregoing information. Instead, with Medicis' consent, Thomas Weisel Partners relied on such information being accurate and complete in all material respects. Thomas Weisel Partners also made the following assumptions, in each case with Medicis' consent:

with respect to the financial forecasts for Medicis and Inamed prepared and provided by management of Medicis, Thomas Weisel Partners assumed for purposes of its opinion, upon the advice of Medicis, that the forecasts were reasonably prepared on bases reflecting the best available estimates and judgments of management of Medicis at the time of preparation as to the future financial performance of Medicis and Inamed, and these forecasts provide a reasonable basis upon which Thomas Weisel Partners could form its opinion; that with respect to Medicis management's assessment of the SEC investigation of Inamed, as described in Inamed's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004, such assessment is reasonable and reflects the best available information and judgments of management of Medicis; that there have been no material changes in Medicis' or Inamed's assets, financial condition, results of operations, business or prospects since the respective dates of their last financial statements made available to Thomas Weisel Partners; and that the merger will be consummated in accordance with the terms described in the merger agreement, without any further amendment thereto, and without waiver by Medicis of any of the conditions to its obligations thereunder.

In addition, for purposes of the TWP opinion:

Thomas Weisel Partners relied, at Medicis' direction and without independent verification, on management of Medicis as to all legal and financial reporting matters with respect to Medicis, the merger, the merger agreement and the Investigation;

Thomas Weisel Partners assumed that the merger will be consummated in a manner that complies in all respects with the applicable provisions of the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, and all other applicable federal and state statutes, rules and regulations;

Thomas Weisel Partners assumed that in the course of obtaining the necessary regulatory approvals for the merger, no restrictions including any divestiture requirements, will be imposed that could have a meaningful effect on the contemplated benefits of the merger; and

Thomas Weisel Partners did not assume responsibility for making an independent evaluation, appraisal or physical inspection of any of the assets or liabilities (contingent or otherwise) of Medicis or Inamed, nor was Thomas Weisel Partners furnished with any such appraisals.

The TWP opinion was based on economic, monetary and market and other conditions as in effect on, and the information made available to Thomas Weisel Partners as of, the date of its opinion. Accordingly, although subsequent developments may affect its opinion, Thomas Weisel Partners has not assumed any obligation to update, revise or reaffirm its opinion.

The following is a brief summary of the material financial analyses performed by Thomas Weisel Partners in connection with providing its opinion to the board of directors of Medicis. The following summary, however, does not purport to be a complete description of the financial analyses performed by Thomas Weisel Partners, nor does the order of analyses described represent the relative importance given to those analyses. Some of the summaries of financial analyses performed by Thomas Weisel Partners include information presented in tabular format. Premiums Paid Analysis

Based on information provided by SDC Platinum, Thomas Weisel Partners reviewed the consideration paid in 49 global healthcare transactions announced since January 1, 2000 with public acquirors and public target companies with equity values from $400 million to $10 billion. Thomas Weisel Partners calculated the premium percentages to the average stock price for the 1-day, 1-week and 1-month periods prior to the announcement of the relevant acquisition. This analysis indicated a range of such premium percentages of (2.6%) to 96.2% with a range for the mean and median premium percentages of 27.1% to 34.6% and a range for the first and third quartile premium percentages of 15.5% to 47.1%.

Based on the quartile results of this analysis, Thomas Weisel Partners calculated an implied price per share ranges for Inamed of $77.87 to $99.81.

Thomas Weisel Partners also calculated premium percentages with respect to the 16 of the 49 above-referenced transactions in which the target company were to control a significant portion of the combined company post closing. This analysis indicated a range of such premium percentages of (2.6%) to 96.2% with a range for the mean and median premium percentages of 25.2% to 32.7% and a range for the first and third quartile premium percentages of 17.6% to 46.6%.

Contribution Analysis

Thomas Weisel Partners performed a contribution analysis based on estimated future financial operating information provided by management of Medicis for Medicis, Inamed and the pro forma combined company. The Thomas Weisel Partners analysis considered the relative contributions of Medicis and Inamed to the pro forma combined company's estimated revenues, gross profit, EBITDA, EBIT, net income (including amortization) for calendar years 2005 and 2006 and for the LTM. This analysis indicated (1) an implied exchange ratio range of 1.109x to 2.105x with a mean of 1.541x, a median of 1.479x, a first quartile of 1.229x and a third quartile of 1.781x and (2) an implied price per share range for Inamed of $35.13 to $66.70 with a mean of $48.83, a median of $46.86, a first quartile of $38.93 and a third quartile of $56.43.

The implied exchange ratio in the foregoing description assumes that the net cash of Medicis equals $248.5 million, which is pro forma for the conversion of Medicis' $169 million convertible notes. It also assumes the conversion of Medicis' $169 million convertible notes and that the net cash of Inamed equals $107.8 million.

Inamed Discounted Cash Flow Analysis

Thomas Weisel Partners performed a discounted cash flow analysis using estimated free cash flows for Inamed for calendar years 2005 through 2009 derived from estimates provided by Medicis management. Thomas Weisel Partners first estimated the terminal value of the estimated cash flows by applying multiples to Inamed's estimated 2009 EBITDA, which multiples ranged from 13.5x to 19.0x. Thomas Weisel Partners then discounted to the present the cash flows estimated through 2009 and the terminal values using discount rates ranging from 8% to 10%. Using information provided by BARRA and FactSet Research Systems, Thomas Weisel Partners arrived at these discount rates based on the weighted-average cost of capital for Inamed and the selected companies referred to in the Comparable Companies Analysis above. This analysis implied an enterprise value range for Inamed of $2,394.2 million to $3,468.2 million and an implied price per share range of Inamed of $67.92 to $97.08.

Thomas Weisel Partners also performed a discounted cash flow analysis using the same estimated free cash flows for Inamed for calendar years 2005 through 2009 and by estimating the terminal value of the estimated cash flows by applying growth rates ranging from 2% to 4% to Inamed's estimated 2009 EBITDA. Thomas Weisel Partners then discounted the cash flows estimated through 2009 and the terminal values using discount rates ranging from 8.0% to 10%. This analysis implied an enterprise value range for Inamed of $1,577.3 million to $3,080.7 million and an implied price per share range of Inamed of $45.75 to $85.56.

Pro Forma Merger Analysis

Thomas Weisel Partners reviewed the pro forma effects of the merger on the combined company's estimated earnings for calendar years 2005 and 2006 based on the merger consideration and utilizing financial forecasts for Medicis and Inamed provided by Medicis management as well as permanent financing assumptions provided by Medicis management.

Pro Forma Cash EPS (as converted)	(2.1)%	16.4%

The Pro Forma EPS (not converted) and Pro Forma Cash EPS (not converted) in the foregoing description include approximately 52.3 million shares of Medicis to be issued to Inamed stockholders. Also, the Pro Forma EPS (as converted) and Pro Forma Cash EPS (as converted) in the foregoing description include approximately 13.1 million shares of Medicis related to Medicis convertible notes and add-back of associated interest expense, and Medicis management expectation that Medicis will not have to convert the notes proposed to be issued in connection with the merger.

The foregoing description is only a summary of the analyses and examinations that Thomas Weisel Partners deems material to its opinion. It is not a comprehensive description of all analyses and examinations actually conducted by Thomas Weisel Partners. The preparation of a fairness opinion necessarily is not susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. Thomas Weisel Partners believes that its analyses and the summary set forth above must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions of its analyses and of the factors considered, without considering all analyses and factors, would create an incomplete view of the process underlying the analyses set forth in its presentation to the board of directors of Medicis. In addition, Thomas Weisel Partners did not attribute any particular weight to any factor or analysis considered by it, and may have deemed various assumptions more or less probable than other assumptions. The fact that any specific analysis has been referred to in the summary above is not meant to indicate that this analysis was given greater weight than any other analysis. Accordingly, the ranges of implied values resulting from any particular analysis described above should not be taken to be the view of Thomas Weisel Partners with respect to the actual value of Medicis or Inamed. Thomas Weisel Partners conducted its analyses and rendered its opinion described herein separately and independently from any analyses conducted or opinion rendered by Deutsche Bank.

In performing its analyses, Thomas Weisel Partners made numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, general business and economic conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of Medicis. Forecasts provided to Thomas Weisel Partners, which were prepared by Medicis and Inamed management, did not include the expensing of stock options or special charges associated with research and development. The analyses performed by Thomas Weisel Partners are not necessarily indicative of actual values or actual future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than those suggested by these analyses. These analyses were prepared solely as part of the analysis performed by Thomas Weisel Partners with respect to the financial fairness of the consideration to be paid by Medicis pursuant to the merger agreement, and were provided to the board of directors of Medicis in connection with the delivery of the TWP opinion. The analyses do not purport to be appraisals or to reflect the prices at which a company might actually be sold or the prices at which any securities may trade at any time in the future.

As described above, the TWP opinion and presentation were among the many factors that the board of directors of Medicis took into consideration in making its determination to approve the merger and merger agreement.

Pursuant to the terms of the engagement letter dated February 14, 2005, Medicis has paid Thomas Weisel Partners a cash fee of $750,000 payable upon the delivery of its opinion for its services. Further, Medicis has agreed to reimburse Thomas Weisel Partners for its reasonable out-of-pocket expenses and to indemnify Thomas Weisel Partners, its affiliates, partners, directors, officers, agents, employees and each other person or entity, if any, controlling Thomas Weisel Partners or any of its affiliates, against specific liabilities, including liabilities under the federal securities laws.

Opinion of JPMorgan

Pursuant to an engagement letter dated November 17, 2004, Inamed retained JPMorgan as its exclusive financial advisor in connection with the merger.

At the meeting of the Inamed board of directors on March 20, 2005, JPMorgan rendered its oral opinion, subsequently confirmed in writing, to the board of directors that, as of such date and based upon and subject to the matters set forth in JPMorgan's opinion, the consideration to be received by the holders of Inamed common stock in the merger was fair, from a financial point of view, to those holders. No limitations were imposed by the Inamed board of directors upon JPMorgan with respect to the investigations made or procedures followed by it in rendering its opinion.

The full text of the written opinion of JPMorgan dated March 20, 2005, which sets forth the assumptions made, matters considered and limits on the review undertaken, is attached as Annex D to this joint proxy statement/prospectus and is incorporated herein by reference. Inamed stockholders are urged to read the opinion in its entirety. JPMorgan's written opinion is addressed to the Inamed board of directors, is directed only to the consideration to be paid in the merger and does not constitute a recommendation to any Inamed stockholder as to how such stockholder should vote at the Inamed special meeting. The summary of the opinion of JPMorgan set forth in this joint proxy statement/prospectus is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of such opinion.

In arriving at its opinion, JPMorgan, among other things:

reviewed the merger agreement;

reviewed certain publicly available business and financial information concerning Medicis and Inamed and the industries in which they operate;

compared the proposed financial terms of the merger with the publicly available financial terms of certain transactions involving companies JPMorgan deemed relevant and the consideration received for such companies;

compared the financial and operating performance of Medicis and Inamed with publicly available information concerning certain other companies JPMorgan deemed relevant and reviewed the current and historical market prices of Inamed common stock and Medicis common stock and certain publicly traded securities of such other companies;

reviewed certain internal financial analyses and forecasts prepared by the managements of Medicis and Inamed relating to their respective businesses, including (x) analyses and forecasts prepared by the management of Inamed that take into account the possibility that the FDA may not approve any or all of Inamed's new silicone breast products and Reloxin products and (y) analyses and forecasts prepared by the management of Inamed that assume that the FDA approves all of these new products;

reviewed estimates prepared by the managements of Medicis and Inamed of the amount and timing of the cost savings and related expenses and synergies expected to result from the merger; and performed such other financial studies and analyses and considered such other information as JPMorgan deemed appropriate for the purposes of this opinion.

In addition, JPMorgan held discussions with members of the management of Medicis and Inamed with respect to certain aspects of the merger, and the past and current business operations of Medicis and Inamed, the financial condition and future prospects and operations of Medicis and Inamed, the effects of the merger on the financial condition and future prospects of Medicis and Inamed, and other matters JPMorgan believed necessary or appropriate to its inquiry, including the risks associated with the FDA approval process for new products.

In giving its opinion, JPMorgan relied upon and assumed, without assuming responsibility or liability for independent verification, the accuracy and completeness of all information that was publicly available or was furnished to or discussed with it by Medicis and Inamed or otherwise reviewed by or for JPMorgan. JPMorgan did not conduct any valuation or appraisal of any assets or liabilities and was not provided any such valuations or appraisals, nor did JPMorgan evaluate the solvency of Medicis or Inamed under any state or federal laws relating to bankruptcy, insolvency or similar matters. In relying on financial analyses and forecasts provided to it, including the expected cost savings and related expenses and synergies referred to above, JPMorgan assumed that they were reasonably prepared based on assumptions reflecting the best currently available estimates and judgments by management as to the expected future results of operations and financial condition of Medicis and Inamed to which such analyses or forecasts relate. JPMorgan has expressed no view as to such analyses or forecasts, including such estimated cost savings, expenses and synergies, or the assumptions on which they were based. JPMorgan also assumed that the merger will qualify as a tax-free reorganization for United States federal income tax purposes and that the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement will be consummated as described in such agreement. JPMorgan also assumed that the definitive merger agreement will not differ in any material respects from the draft thereof furnished to it. JPMorgan relied as to all legal matters relevant to rendering its opinion upon the advice of counsel. JPMorgan further assumed that all material governmental, regulatory or other consents and approvals necessary for the consummation of the merger would be obtained without any adverse effect on Medicis or Inamed or on the contemplated benefits of the merger.

The projections furnished to JPMorgan for Medicis and Inamed were prepared by the respective managements of each company. Neither Inamed nor Medicis publicly discloses internal management projections of the type provided to JPMorgan in connection with JPMorgan's analysis of the merger, and such projections were not prepared with a view toward public disclosure. These projections were based on numerous variables and assumptions that are inherently uncertain and may be beyond the control of management, including, without limitation, factors related to general economic and competitive conditions and prevailing interest rates. Accordingly, actual results could vary significantly from those set forth in such projections.

JPMorgan's opinion is necessarily based on economic, market and other conditions as in effect on, and the information made available to JPMorgan as of, the date of such opinion. It should be understood that subsequent developments may affect JPMorgan's opinion and that JPMorgan does not have any obligation to update, revise, or reaffirm its opinion. JPMorgan's opinion is limited to the fairness, from a financial point of view, to the holders of Inamed common stock of the merger consideration in the proposed merger and JPMorgan has expressed no opinion as to the fairness of the merger to, or any consideration of, the holders of any other class of securities, creditors or other constituencies of Inamed or the underlying decision by Inamed to engage in the merger. JPMorgan expressed no opinion as to the price at which Medicis common stock or Inamed common stock would trade at any time after the date of its opinion.

JPMorgan was not authorized to and did not solicit any expressions of interest from any other parties with respect to the sale of all or any part of Inamed or any other alternative transaction. Consequently, JPMorgan assumed that such terms are the most beneficial terms from Inamed's perspective that could under the circumstances be negotiated among the parties to such transactions, and JPMorgan expressed no opinion as to whether any alternative transaction might produce consideration for Inamed stockholders in an amount in excess of that contemplated in the merger.

In accordance with customary investment banking practice, JPMorgan employed generally accepted valuation methods in reaching its opinion. The following is a summary of the material financial analyses utilized by JPMorgan in connection with providing its opinion.

Stock Trading Analysis

JPMorgan also reviewed one-year forward price earnings multiples based on monthly equity research analysts estimates as published by I/B/E/S over the one and three years prior to March 18, 2005 for both Medicis and Inamed. JPMorgan also reviewed Inamed's one-year forward price earnings multiple based on the Inamed management's sensitivity case projections and Medicis' one-year forward price earnings multiple based on research analysts consensus estimates. JPMorgan also observed that Medicis' average one-year forward price earnings multiple was 25.3x and 19.5x and 18.2x over the last one and three years, while the current one-year forward price earnings multiple was 22.4x.

Historical Exchange Ratio

JPMorgan analyzed the historical trading price of Medicis common stock relative to Inamed common stock based on closing prices between March 18, 2003 and March 18, 2005 and calculated the historical exchange ratios during this period implied by dividing the daily closing prices per share of Inamed common stock by those of Medicis common stock and the average of those historical trading ratios for the 1-week, 1-month, 3-month, 6-month, 12-month and 24-month periods ended on March 18, 2005. JPMorgan also calculated the exchange ratio implied by dividing the closing price per share of Inamed common stock by that of Medicis common stock on March 18, 2005 and by dividing the value of merger consideration of $75 per share by the closing price of Medicis common stock on March 18, 2005.

	Implied Exchange Ratio
At $75.00	2.37x
Market as of March 18, 2005	2.09x
1 - week average	2.09x

JPMorgan conducted a discounted cash flow analysis for the purpose of determining the implied fully diluted equity value per share for Inamed common stock. JPMorgan reviewed two scenarios, one of which was based upon Inamed management's long-range plan, which reflected Inamed management's strategic plan for the fiscal years 2005 through 2010 and additional assumptions from Inamed management for the fiscal years 2011 through 2014. The other scenario was a sensitivity case that was based on a set of more conservative assumptions by Inamed management for the fiscal years 2005 through 2014.

For both scenarios, JPMorgan considered probabilities of FDA approval of Inamed's new United States silicone breast products from 0% to 100%. JPMorgan also considered specific risks associated with approval of Inamed's Reloxin products as indicated by Inamed management. JPMorgan calculated the unlevered free cash flows that Inamed is expected to generate during fiscal years 2005 through 2014 for both scenarios. JPMorgan calculated an implied range of terminal values for Inamed using a range of perpetuity growth rates for free cash flows from 3% to 4%. JPMorgan utilized a discount rate of 17% for calculating a terminal value range for Reloxin products and a range of discount rates from 10% to 11% for calculating a terminal value for the remainder of Inamed. The unlevered free cash flows and the range of terminal values were then discounted to present value using a discount rate of 17% for Reloxin and a range of discount rates of 10% to 11% for the remainder of Inamed, respectively.

The present value of the unlevered free cash flows and the range of terminal values were then adjusted for Inamed's cash and total debt as of December 31, 2004. In Inamed's long-range plan case, this analysis indicated an approximate implied per share equity reference range for Inamed of $77 to $98, $92 to $117, and $106 to $136 based on 0%, 50% and 100% probability of approval for Inamed's new United States silicone breast products, respectively. In the sensitivity case, this analysis indicated an approximate implied per share equity reference range for Inamed of $54 to $68, $62 to $78, and $70 to $88 based on 0%, 50% and 100% probability of approval for Inamed's new United States silicone breast products, respectively.

JPMorgan also conducted a discounted cash flow analysis for the purpose of determining the implied fully diluted equity value per share for Medicis common stock. JPMorgan reviewed two scenarios, one of which was based upon Medicis management's most likely case, which reflected Medicis management assumptions for the fiscal years 2005 through 2007 and was based on assumptions provided by Inamed management for fiscal years 2008-2014. The other scenario was based on projections by equity research analysts for fiscal years 2005-2007 and on a more conservative set of assumptions for fiscal years 2008-2014 developed based on those projections.

For both scenarios, JPMorgan calculated the unlevered free cash flows that Medicis is expected to generate during calendar years 2005 through 2014. JPMorgan calculated an implied range of terminal values for Medicis using a range of perpetuity growth rates for free cash flows from 3% to 4% and a range of discount rates from 10% to 11%. The unlevered free cash flows and the range of terminal values were then discounted to present value using a range of discount rates from 10% to 11%. The present value of the unlevered free cash flows and the range of terminal values were then adjusted for Medicis' cash and debt as of December 31, 2004. This analysis indicated an approximate implied per share equity reference range for Medicis of $41 to $51 in the most likely case and an approximate implied per share equity reference range for Medicis of $37 to $45 in the other scenario.

Using the implied per share values derived from the discounted cash flow analysis conducted for the Inamed long range plan case at 0%, 50% and 100% probability of approval for new United States silicone breast products relative to the Medicis most-likely case, JPMorgan calculated a range of implied exchange ratios, in each case compared to the proposed exchange ratio of 2.37x:

Comparison	Implied Exchange Ratio

Using the implied per share values derived from the discounted cash flow analysis conducted for the Inamed sensitivity case at 0%, 50% and 100% probability of approval for new United States silicone breast products relative to the Medicis street case, JPMorgan calculated a range of implied exchange ratios, in each case compared to the proposed exchange ratio of 2.37x:

The summary set forth above does not purport to be a complete description of the analyses or data utilized by JPMorgan. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process and is not necessarily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. JPMorgan believes that the summary set forth above and its analyses must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions thereof, without considering all of its analyses, could create an incomplete view of the processes underlying its analyses and opinion. JPMorgan based its analyses on assumptions that it deemed reasonable, including assumptions concerning general business and economic conditions and industry-specific factors. The other principal assumptions upon which JPMorgan based its analyses are set forth above under the description of each analysis. Forecasts provided to JPMorgan, which were prepared by Medicis and Inamed management, did not include the expensing of stock options or special charges associated with research and development. JPMorgan's analyses are not necessarily indicative of actual values or actual future results that might be achieved, which values may be higher or lower than those indicated. Moreover, JPMorgan's analyses are not and do not purport to be appraisals or otherwise reflective of the prices at which businesses actually could be bought or sold.

As a part of its investment banking business, JPMorgan and its affiliates are continually engaged in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, investments for passive and control purposes, negotiated underwritings, secondary distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements, and valuations for estate, corporate and other purposes. JPMorgan was selected to advise Inamed with respect to the merger on the basis of such experience and its familiarity with Inamed.

For services rendered in connection with the merger, Inamed has agreed to pay JPMorgan a fee equal to 0.50% of the value of the total merger consideration as of the closing of the merger. Of this amount, Inamed has paid $1.5 million in connection with the delivery by JPMorgan of the fairness opinion. The remaining transaction fee is payable upon completion of the merger. In addition, Inamed has agreed to reimburse JPMorgan for its expenses incurred in connection with its services, including the fees and disbursements of counsel, and will indemnify JPMorgan against certain liabilities, including liabilities arising under the federal securities laws.

In the ordinary course of their businesses, JPMorgan and its affiliates may actively trade the debt and equity securities of Medicis or Inamed for their own accounts or for the accounts of customers and, accordingly, they may at any time hold long or short positions in such securities.

Regulatory Approvals Required for the Merger

The merger is subject to review by the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice, or the Antitrust Division, and the United States Federal Trade Commission, or the FTC, under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, which is referred to as the HSR Act. Under the HSR Act, Medicis and Inamed are required to make pre-merger notification filings and to await the expiration or early termination of the statutory waiting period prior to completing the merger. The notifications required under the HSR Act to the FTC and the Antitrust Division were filed on March 31, 2005 by Medicis and April 5, 2005 by Inamed.

On May 5, 2005, Medicis and Inamed received from the FTC requests for additional information and documents with respect to the merger. As a result of the requests for additional information and documents, the waiting period under the HSR Act has been extended until no earlier than 11:59 P.M. EST on the 30th day after both Medicis and Inamed have substantially complied with the requests for additional information and documents and Medicis and Inamed have jointly provided the FTC with a notice to commence the thirty-day waiting period, unless that period is terminated earlier by the FTC.

There can be no assurance that the parties will obtain the required antitrust approvals or obtain the approvals without restrictions or conditions that would be materially adverse to the combined company if the merger is completed. These restrictions and conditions could include the grant of a complete or partial license, divestiture or holding separate of assets or businesses. Under the terms of the merger agreement, Medicis is not required to agree to commit to any divestiture, license or hold separate with respect to any of Medicis' or Inamed's material assets businesses, or otherwise take or commit to take any action that materially limits Medicis' freedom of action with respect to, or its ability to retain, any asset or business of Medicis or Inamed.

In addition, during at any time before or after completion of the merger, the Antitrust Division, the FTC or any state attorney general could challenge, seek to block or block the merger under the antitrust laws, as it deems necessary or desirable in the public interest. Other antitrust competition agencies outside the United States with jurisdiction over the merger could also initiate action to challenge or block the merger. In addition, in some jurisdictions, a competitor, customer or other third party could initiate a private action under the antitrust laws challenging or seeking to enjoin the merger, before or after it is completed. Medicis and Inamed cannot be sure that a challenge to the merger will not be made or that, if a challenge is made, Medicis and Inamed will prevail.

the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. Neither Medicis nor Inamed may waive such tax opinion closing condition to the merger after the Medicis stockholders and the Inamed stockholders have approved the merger unless further approval is obtained from the Medicis stockholders and the Inamed stockholders with appropriate disclosure. The opinions of counsel will assume (1) that the statements and facts concerning the merger set forth in the merger agreement and described in this proxy statement/ prospectus are true, correct and complete, (2) that the merger will be consummated in the manner contemplated by, and in accordance with the terms set forth in, the merger agreement and described in this proxy statement/ prospectus, and (3) certain customary factual assumptions. In addition, the tax opinions will be based on the law in effect on the date of the opinions and on representations made in representation letters provided by Medicis and Inamed substantially in the forms attached to the merger agreement as exhibits, all of which must continue to be true and accurate in all respects as of the effective time of the merger. If any of these assumptions or representations is inaccurate, the tax consequences of the merger could differ from those described here. The opinions of counsel to be delivered in connection with the merger represent the best legal judgment of counsel to Medicis and counsel to Inamed and are not binding on the Internal Revenue Service or the courts. Neither Medicis nor Inamed has requested nor will request a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service as to the tax consequences of the merger, and there can be no assurance that the Internal Revenue Service will agree with the conclusions in the above-described opinions or in the discussion below.

Assuming the merger qualifies for United States federal income tax purposes as a reorganization within the meaning of section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code and subject to the qualifications and assumptions described herein:

neither Medicis nor Inamed will recognize gain or loss as a result of the merger;

Medicis stockholders will not recognize any gain or loss for federal income tax purposes as a result of the merger;

an Inamed stockholder will recognize gain (but not loss) with respect to its shares of Inamed common stock in an amount equal to the lesser of (i) any gain realized with respect to such stock or (ii) the amount of cash received with respect to such stock (other than any cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock). A holder's gain realized will equal the difference between the fair market value of the Medicis common stock and cash received and such holder's tax basis in the Inamed common stock surrendered. Any such gain recognized will be a capital gain;

an Inamed stockholder's aggregate tax basis for the shares of Medicis common stock received in the merger (including any fractional share interest for which cash is received) will equal the stockholder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Inamed common stock surrendered upon completion of the merger, increased by any gain recognized by such holder in the merger (other than gain resulting from the receipt of cash instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock) and reduced by the amount of any cash received in the merger (other than any cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock);

an Inamed stockholder's holding period for the shares of Medicis common stock received in the merger (including any fractional share interest for which cash is received) will include the period during which the shares of Inamed common stock surrendered in the merger were held; and an Inamed stockholder who receives cash instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock in the merger will generally recognize capital gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between the amount of cash received instead of a fractional share and the stockholder's adjusted tax basis allocable to such fractional share.

Capital gains or losses recognized in the merger as described above generally will constitute long-term capital gain or loss if the Inamed stockholder's holding period in the Inamed common stock surrendered in the merger is more than one year as of the effective date of the merger. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

Backup Withholding; Information Reporting

An Inamed stockholder may be subject to backup withholding for United States federal income tax purposes on any cash received in the merger, including cash received instead of a fractional share of Medicis common stock, unless certain requirements are met. Payments will not be subject to backup withholding if the stockholder (1) is a corporation or comes within certain other exempt categories and, when required, demonstrates this fact, or (2) provides Medicis or the third-party paying agent, as appropriate, with the holder's correct taxpayer identification number and completes a form in which the holder certifies that the holder is not subject to backup withholding. The taxpayer identification number of an individual is his or her Social Security number. Any amount paid as backup withholding will be credited against the holder's United States federal income liability provided the holder furnishes the required information to the Internal Revenue Service. Holders must also comply with the information reporting requirements of the Treasury regulations under the tax-free reorganization provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. Appropriate documentation for the foregoing purposes will be provided to holders by the exchange agent.

Tax matters are very complicated, and the tax consequences of the merger to a particular Inamed stockholder will depend on that stockholder's own tax situation. Inamed stockholders are encouraged to consult their tax advisors regarding the specific tax consequences of the merger, including tax return reporting requirements, the applicability of federal, state, local and foreign tax laws and the effect of any proposed change in the tax laws.

Accounting Treatment

In accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States, Medicis will account for the merger as a business combination. Upon the completion of the merger, Medicis will record the cash consideration, the market value of its common stock issued (based on an average of the closing prices of Medicis common stock for a range of trading days from two days before and after March 21, 2005, the announcement date) in the merger, the fair value of Inamed's outstanding debt at the time of the merger, the fair value of Medicis options issued in exchange for options to purchase shares of Inamed common stock outstanding at the effective time of the merger and the amount of direct transaction costs associated with the merger, as the estimated purchase price of acquiring Inamed. Medicis will allocate the estimated purchase price to the tangible and identifiable intangible assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on their respective fair values at the effective time of the merger. Any excess of the estimated purchase price over the fair value of net assets acquired will be accounted for as goodwill.

In accordance with the Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, goodwill resulting from the business combination will not be amortized but instead will be tested for impairment at least annually (more frequently if certain indicators are present). In the event that Medicis management determines that the value of goodwill has become impaired, the combined company will incur an accounting charge for the amount of impairment during the fiscal quarter in which the determination is made.

Listing of Medicis Common Stock

Medicis will use all reasonable efforts to cause the shares of Medicis common stock to be issued in connection with the merger to be approved for listing on the NYSE upon the completion of the merger.

Appraisal Rights

Under Delaware law, holders of Medicis common stock are not entitled to appraisal rights in connection with the issuance of Medicis common stock in the merger.

Holders of shares of Inamed common stock who do not vote in favor of adopting the merger agreement and approving the merger and properly demand appraisal of their shares will be entitled to appraisal rights pursuant to the merger agreement under Section 262 of the DGCL, which is referred to as Section 262.

The following discussion is not a complete discussion of the law pertaining to appraisal rights under Section 262 and is qualified in its entirety by the full text of Section 262 which is attached to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus as Annex F. The following summary does not constitute any legal or other advice, nor does it constitute a recommendation that Inamed stockholders exercise their right to seek appraisal under Section 262 of the DGCL. All references in Section 262 and in this summary to a stockholder are to the record holder of the shares of Inamed common stock as to which appraisal rights are asserted. A person having a beneficial interest in shares of Inamed common stock held of record in the name of another person, such as a broker, fiduciary, depository or other nominee, must act promptly to cause the record holder to follow the steps summarized below properly and in a timely manner to perfect appraisal rights.

Under Section 262, persons who hold shares of Inamed common stock who do not vote in favor of adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger and who otherwise follow the procedures set forth in Section 262 will be entitled to have their shares appraised by the Delaware Court of Chancery and to receive payment of the fair value of the shares, exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger, together with a fair rate of interest, if any, as determined by the court.

Under Section 262, where a merger is to be submitted for approval at a meeting of stockholders, as in the case of the approval of the merger agreement and the merger by Inamed stockholders, the corporation, not less than 20 days prior to the meeting, must notify each of its stockholders entitled to appraisal rights that appraisal rights are available and include in the notice a copy of Section 262. This joint proxy statement/ prospectus shall constitute the notice, and the full text of Section 262 is attached to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus as Annex F. Any holder of Inamed common stock who wishes to exercise appraisal rights or who wishes to preserve such holder's right to do so, should review the following discussion and Annex F carefully because failure to timely and properly comply with the procedures specified will result in the loss of appraisal rights. Moreover, due to the complexity of the procedures for exercising the right to seek appraisal, Inamed stockholders who are considering exercising such rights are urged to seek the advice of legal counsel.

Any Inamed stockholder wishing to exercise appraisal rights under Section 262 must:

deliver to Inamed, before the vote on the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger at the Inamed special meeting, a written demand for the appraisal of the stockholder's shares; not vote its shares of common stock in favor of adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger; and hold of record the shares of Inamed common stock on the date the written demand for appraisal is made and continue to hold the shares of record through the effective time of the merger.

The holder must not vote in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger. A proxy that is signed and does not contain voting instructions will, unless revoked, be voted in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the transaction, and it will constitute a waiver of the stockholder's right of appraisal and will nullify any previously delivered written demand for appraisal. Therefore, a stockholder who votes by proxy and who wishes to exercise appraisal rights must vote against the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the transaction or abstain from voting on the merger agreement. Neither voting against the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the transaction (in person or by proxy), nor abstaining from voting or failing to vote on the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and approve the transaction will in and of itself constitute a written demand for appraisal satisfying the requirements of Section 262.

The written demand for appraisal must be in addition to and separate from any proxy or vote. The demand must reasonably inform Inamed of the identity of the holder as well as the intention of the holder to demand an appraisal of the fair value of the shares held by the holder. A stockholder's failure to make the written demand prior to the taking of the vote on the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger at the Inamed special meeting will constitute a waiver of appraisal rights.

Only a holder of record of shares of Inamed common stock is entitled to assert appraisal rights for the shares registered in that holder's name. A demand for appraisal in respect of shares of Inamed common stock should be executed by or on behalf of the holder of record, fully and correctly, as the holder's name appears on the holder's stock certificates, should specify the holder's mailing address and the number of shares registered in the holder's name, and must state that the person intends to demand appraisal of the holder's shares pursuant to the merger agreement. If the shares are owned of record in a fiduciary capacity, such as by a trustee, guardian or custodian, execution of the demand should be made in that capacity. If the shares are owned of record by more than one person, as in a joint tenancy and tenancy in common, the demand should be executed by or on behalf of all joint owners. An authorized agent, including an agent for two or more joint owners, may execute a demand for appraisal on behalf of a holder of record. However, the agent must identify the record owner or owners and expressly disclose the fact that, in executing the demand, the agent is acting as agent for the record owner or owners. A record holder such as a broker who holds shares as nominee for several beneficial owners may exercise appraisal rights with respect to the shares held for one or more beneficial owners while not exercising the rights with respect to the shares held for other beneficial owners. In such case, however, the written demand should set forth the number of shares as to which appraisal is sought. If no number of shares is expressly mentioned, the demand will be presumed to cover all shares of Inamed common stock held in the name of the record owner. Stockholders who hold their shares in brokerage accounts or other nominee forms and who wish to exercise appraisal rights are urged to consult with their brokers to determine the appropriate procedures for the making of a demand for appraisal by such a nominee.

All written demands for appraisal pursuant to Section 262 should be sent or delivered to Inamed Corporation, 5540 Ekwil Street, Santa Barbara, California 93111, Attention: Joseph A. Newcomb, Esq., Corporate Secretary.

Within ten days after the effective time of the merger, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., or its successor in interest, which we refer to generally as the surviving corporation, must notify each holder of Inamed common stock who has complied with Section 262 and who has not voted in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger that the merger has become effective. Within 120 days after the effective time of the merger, but not thereafter, the surviving corporation or any holder of Inamed common stock who has complied with Section 262 and is entitled to appraisal rights under Section 262 may file a petition in the Delaware Court of Chancery demanding a determination of the fair value of the shares of Inamed common stock. The surviving corporation is under no obligation to and has no present intention to file a petition. Accordingly, it is the obligation of the holders of Inamed common stock to initiate all necessary action to perfect their appraisal rights in respect of shares of Inamed common stock within the time prescribed in Section 262.

Within 120 days after the effective time of the merger, any holder of Inamed common stock who has complied with the requirements for exercise of appraisal rights will be entitled, upon written request, to receive from the surviving corporation a statement setting forth the aggregate number of shares of Inamed common stock not voted in favor of the approval of the merger agreement and the merger and with respect to which demands for appraisal have been received and the aggregate number of holders of such shares. The statement must be mailed within ten days after a written request has been received by the surviving corporation or within ten days after the expiration of the period for delivery of demands for appraisal, whichever is later.

If a petition for an appraisal is timely filed by a holder of shares of Inamed common stock and a copy is served upon the surviving corporation, the surviving corporation will then be obligated within 20 days to file with the Delaware Register in Chancery a duly verified list containing the names and addresses of all stockholders who have demanded an appraisal of their shares and with whom agreements as to the value of their shares have not been reached. After notice to the stockholders as required by the Court, the Delaware Court of Chancery is empowered to conduct a hearing on the petition to determine those stockholders who have complied with Section 262 and who have become entitled to appraisal rights thereunder. The Delaware Court of Chancery may require the stockholders who demanded payment for their shares to submit their stock certificates to the Register in Chancery for notation on the certificates of the pending appraisal proceeding. If any stockholder fails to comply with the direction, the Delaware Court of Chancery may dismiss the proceedings as to that stockholder.

After determining the holders of Inamed common stock entitled to appraisal, the Delaware Court of Chancery will appraise the fair value of their shares, exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger, together with a fair rate of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amount determined to be the fair value. Stockholders considering seeking appraisal should be aware that the fair value of their shares as so determined could be more than, the same as or less than the consideration they would receive pursuant to the merger if they did not seek appraisal of their shares and that an investment banking opinion as to fairness from a financial point of view is not necessarily an opinion as to fair value under Section 262. You should not expect the surviving corporation to offer more than the applicable merger consideration to any stockholder exercising appraisal rights and Medicis reserves the right to assert, in any appraisal proceeding, that for purposes of Section 262, the fair value of a share of Inamed common stock is less than the applicable merger consideration.

Although Inamed believes that the merger consideration is fair, no representation is made as to the outcome of the appraisal of fair value as determined by the Delaware Court of Chancery. Delaware courts have decided that the statutory appraisal remedy, depending on factual circumstances, may or may not be a dissenter's exclusive remedy. The Delaware Court of Chancery will determine the amount of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amounts to be received by persons whose shares of common stock of Inamed have been appraised. If a petition for appraisal is not timely filed, then the right to an appraisal will cease.

In determining fair value and, if applicable, a fair rate of interest, the Delaware Court of Chancery is to take into account all relevant factors. In Weinberger v. UOP, Inc., the Delaware Supreme Court discussed the factors that could be considered in determining fair value in an appraisal proceeding, stating that proof of value by any techniques or methods which are generally considered acceptable in the financial community and otherwise admissible in court should be considered, and that fair price obviously requires consideration of all relevant factors involving the value of the company. The Delaware Supreme Court stated that, in making this determination of fair value, the court must consider market value, asset value, dividends, earnings prospects, the nature of the enterprise, and any other facts that could be ascertained as of the date of the merger that throw any light on future prospects of the merged corporation. Section 262 provides that fair value is to be exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger. In Cede & Co. v. Technicolor, Inc. the Delaware Supreme Court stated that such exclusion is a narrow exclusion [that] does not encompass known elements of value, but which rather applies only to the speculative elements of value arising from such accomplishment or expectation. In Weinberger, the Delaware Supreme Court construed Section 262 to mean that elements of future value, including the nature of the enterprise, which are known or susceptible of proof as of the date of the merger and not the product of speculation, may be considered.

The costs of the action may be determined by the Court and levied upon the parties as the Court deems equitable. The Court may also order that all or a portion of the expenses incurred by any stockholder in connection with an appraisal, including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of experts utilized in the appraisal proceeding, be charged pro rata against the value of all the shares entitled to be appraised.

Any holder of shares of Inamed common stock who has demanded an appraisal in compliance with Section 262 will not, after the effective time of the merger, be entitled to vote the shares subject to the demand for any purpose or be entitled to the payment of dividends or other distributions on those shares, except dividends or other distributions payable to holders of record of Inamed common stock as of a record date prior to the effective time of the merger.

Any Inamed stockholder may withdraw its demand for appraisal and accept the consideration offered pursuant to the merger agreement by delivering to the surviving corporation a written withdrawal of the demand for appraisal. However, any such attempt to withdraw the demand made more than 60 days after the effective date of the merger will require written approval of the surviving corporation. No appraisal proceeding in the Delaware Court of Chancery will be dismissed without the approval of the Delaware Court of Chancery, and such approval may be conditioned upon such terms as the Court deems just. If the surviving corporation does not approve a request to withdraw a demand for appraisal when that approval is required, or if the Delaware Court of Chancery does not approve the dismissal of an appraisal proceeding, the stockholder will be entitled to receive only the appraised value determined in any such appraisal proceeding, which value could be less than, equal to or more than the consideration being offered pursuant to the merger agreement.

If any stockholder who demands appraisal of shares of Inamed common stock under Section 262 fails to perfect, or effectively withdraws or loses, such holder's right to appraisal, the stockholder's shares of Inamed common stock will be deemed to have been converted at the effective time of the merger into the right to receive the merger consideration. A stockholder will fail to perfect, or effectively lose or withdraw, the stockholder's right to appraisal if no petition for appraisal is filed within 120 days after the effective time of the merger, or if the stockholder delivers to the surviving corporation a written withdrawal of the holder's demand for appraisal and an acceptance of the merger consideration, except that any attempt to withdraw made more than 60 days after the effective time of the merger will require the written approval of the surviving corporation and, once a petition for appraisal is filed, the appraisal proceeding may not be dismissed as to any holder absent court approval.

Failure to follow the steps required by Section 262 for perfecting appraisal rights may result in the loss of these rights. Consequently, any stockholder willing to exercise appraisal rights is urged to consult with legal counsel prior to attempting to exercise such rights.

Delisting and Deregistration of Inamed Common Stock

If the merger is completed, Inamed common stock will be delisted from NASDAQ and deregistered under the Exchange Act, and Inamed will no longer file periodic reports with the SEC.

Restrictions on Sales of Shares of Medicis Common Stock Received in the Merger

The shares of Medicis common stock to be issued in connection with the merger will be registered under the Securities Act and will be freely transferable, except for shares of Medicis common stock issued to any person who is deemed to be an affiliate of Inamed under the Securities Act prior to the merger. Persons who may be deemed to be affiliates of Inamed prior to the merger include individuals or entities that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with, Inamed prior to the merger, and may include officers and directors, as well as significant stockholders of Inamed prior to the merger. Affiliates of Inamed prior to the merger may not sell any of the shares of Medicis common stock received by them in connection with the merger except pursuant to:

an effective registration statement under the Securities Act covering the resale of those shares;

an exemption under paragraph (d) of Rule 145 under the Securities Act; or any other applicable exemption under the Securities Act.

Medicis' registration statement on Form S-4, of which this joint proxy statement/prospectus is a part, does not cover the resale of shares of Medicis common stock to be received by affiliates of Inamed in the merger.

Interests of Medicis and Inamed's Directors and Executive Officers in the Merger

Medicis

In considering the recommendation of the Medicis board of directors that the Medicis stockholders vote in favor of adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger, Medicis stockholders should be aware that some of Medicis' executive officers and directors may have interests in the merger that may be different from, or in addition to, their interests as stockholders of Medicis. These interests relate to or arise from, among other things:

severance benefits to which Richard J. Havens, Mark A. Prygocki, Sr. and Mitchell S. Wortzman would become entitled under the Amended and Restated Executive Retention Plan upon a qualifying termination of employment with Medicis following the merger; and the right of each of the executive officers, in exchange for waiving his right to receive the accelerated vesting of his stock options and restricted stock awards upon stockholder approval of the merger, to receive a lump sum cash payment equal to $50,000, payable upon the closing of the merger, and the accelerated vesting of certain stock option and restricted stock awards upon a qualifying termination of his employment following the merger.

These interests are described below, and except as described below, those persons have, to the knowledge of Medicis, no material interest in the merger apart from those of Medicis stockholders generally. The Medicis board of directors was aware of these interests and considered them, among other matters, in making its recommendation.

Amended and Restated Executive Retention Plan

The executive officers (other than Mr. Shacknai) and certain other officers of Medicis are participants in the Amended and Restated Executive Retention Plan. Under this plan, participants only receive benefits if there is a change in control, such as the merger, and their employment is terminated under any of the following circumstances:

the participant's employment is terminated by Medicis without cause (as described below), or by the participant for good reason (as described below), not later than 24 months following the change in control;

the participant's employment is terminated due to his or her death or disability not later than 12 months following the change in control; or the participant's employment is terminated by Medicis without cause (as described below) prior to the change in control and the participant demonstrates that such termination was at the request of a third party in connection with the change in control.

For these purposes, the term "cause" means the participant's (i) willful and continued failure to substantially perform the duties of Medicis (other than a failure resulting from the participant's disability), (ii) willful engagement in conduct which is demonstrably injurious to Medicis or any subsidiary, monetarily or otherwise, (iii) commission of a felony, or (iv) significant violation of any statutory or common law duty of loyalty to Medicis. A participant will have "good reason" to terminate employment with Medicis if: (a) the participant's duties, responsibilities or authority are materially reduced or diminished without the participant's prior written consent, (b) the participant's compensation or benefits are reduced from the compensation and benefits which exist for the participant on the effective date of the change in control (other than ordinary course diminutions in potential bonuses based on poor performance), (c) Medicis reduces the potential earnings of the participant under any performance-based bonus or incentive plan in effect immediately prior to the effective date of a change in control which is disproportionate as compared to other executives employed by Medicis, (d) Medicis amends or terminates any performance-based bonus or incentive plan in effect immediately prior to the effective date of a change in control, or (e) Medicis requires the participant's principal place of employment to be greater than 25 miles from the participant's principal place of employment on the date of the change in control.

In the event of a qualifying termination of an executive officer's employment, he will be entitled to receive the following:

an amount equal to 200% of the sum of (A) the participant's base salary for the 12-month period preceding his or her termination of employment, plus (B) the participant's highest annual bonus for any year during the last three fiscal years preceding the participant's termination of employment; medical, health, life, and/or disability insurance benefits for a period of two years, provided that continued participation is permissible under such plans and programs or, at the option of the participant, a cash payment in lieu of and equivalent to such insurance benefits;

reimbursement for all legal fees and expenses incurred by the participant in contesting or disputing his or her termination or in seeking to obtain or enforce any right or benefit provided by his or her employment agreement, unless the participant's claim is determined to be frivolous or without merit;

the continued benefit for a period of two years of all active and retired employee benefit plans and programs or arrangements in which the participant was entitled to participate immediately prior to the change in control, provided that continued participation is possible under such plans and programs;

a lump sum cash payment at the participant's normal retirement age (or earlier retirement age should he or she so elect), in an amount equal to the value of the retirement pension to which the participant would have been entitled under Medicis' pension plan, excess benefit plan and supplemental retirement plan, if any, if the participant's employment had continued for an additional period of two years determined as of the participant's normal retirement age (or earlier retirement age, should he or she elect) reduced by the present value of the participant's actual benefits under such plans;

the gross-up of payments subject to excise taxes under the Internal Revenue Code as parachute payments so that the participant receives the same amount he would have received had there been no applicable excise taxes; and the termination of any provision in any stock option agreements with the participant giving Medicis the right to the return of profits from the participant's exercise of options during the 3-year period preceding his or her termination of employment.

The consummation of the merger will constitute a change in control for purposes of the Amended and Restated Executive Retention Plan. Following the consummation of the merger, any qualifying termination of Richard J. Havens, Mark A. Prygocki, Sr. or Mitchell S. Wortzman will result in that individual being eligible to receive the severance benefits described above. Set forth below is an estimate of the value of the severance benefits payable under the plan to each participating executive officer, assuming a qualifying termination of employment as of September 30, 2005 and excluding the amount of any tax gross-up payment, the amount of any legal fees, and the value of the termination of any stock option provisions requiring the return of profits from the exercise of stock options. This amount is in addition to the values shown in the tables below regarding the accelerated vesting of stock options and restricted stock.

Name	Estimated Value of Severance Benefits
Richard J. Havens	$ 1,513,305
Mark A. Prygocki, Sr.	$ 1,659,805
Mitchell S. Wortzman	$ 1,249,705

Employment Agreement of Jonah Shacknai

Pursuant to the terms of the amended employment agreement between Jonah Shacknai, Medicis' Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and Medicis, Mr. Shacknai will be entitled to receive certain severance benefits in the event of his termination of employment without cause or for good reason, regardless of whether or not the merger occurs. However, in the event there is a change in control of Medicis (such as the merger) and Mr. Shacknai is not appointed as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of the surviving entity (or to such other position as may be acceptable to Mr. Shacknai), Mr. Shacknai would be entitled to receive additional severance benefits upon such termination. Since

Mr. Shacknai is expected to continue to serve as Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Medicis, as the surviving entity, he will not be entitled to receive the additional benefits as a result of the merger.

Table of ContentsConsideration in Lieu of Option and Restricted Stock Acceleration

In accordance with the terms of Medicis' equity compensation plans and agreements, all participants (including all of Medicis' executive officers and directors) will receive accelerated and full vesting of outstanding options and restricted stock awards in the event the Medicis stockholders approve the merger. Each of the executive officers, however, have agreed to waive his right to receive the accelerated vesting of his stock options and restricted stock awards upon stockholder approval of the merger in exchange for a lump sum cash payment equal to $50,000, payable upon the closing of the merger, and the right to accelerated vesting of certain stock options and restricted stock awards upon his subsequent dismissal or discharge by Medicis without cause or his voluntary resignation for good reason during the 24-month period following the merger. For these purposes, the terms cause and good reason are substantially the same as the definitions in the Amended and Restated Executive Retention Plan (as described above).

The following table shows the total number of unvested Medicis option shares and restricted stock awards held as of September 30, 2005 by each executive officer that would have become fully vested upon stockholder approval of the merger if not for the executive's agreement to waive such acceleration. The options have exercise prices ranging between $18.33 and $38.45 per share. The intrinsic value of the unvested options is based on the difference between $32.56 (the closing price of Medicis common stock on September 30, 2005, as reported on the New York Stock Exchange) and the actual exercise price of the executive officer's unvested options. The value of the restricted stock is based on $32.56 per share (the closing price of Medicis common stock on September 30, 2005, as reported on the New York Stock Exchange).

Jonah Shacknai	280,000	$ 313,599	10,000	$ 325,600
Richard J. Havens	163,800	$ 813,267	10,000	$ 325,600
Mark A. Prygocki, Sr.	218,402	$ 1,084,389	10,000	$ 325,600

Unvested Non-Employee Director Stock Options

As of September 30, 2005, Medicis' non-employee directors hold unvested options to purchase an aggregate of 105,000 shares of Medicis common stock. None of the unvested Medicis option shares held by the non-employee directors will accelerate and become vested in connection with the merger. However, assuming that each non-employee director remains in service with Medicis, all of such unvested Medicis option shares will vest in full on September 30, 2006 pursuant to their terms, irrespective of the merger.

Inamed

In considering the recommendation of the Inamed board of directors that the Inamed stockholders vote in favor of adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger, Inamed stockholders should be aware that some of Inamed's executive officers and directors may have interests in the merger that may be different from, or in addition to, their interests as stockholders of Inamed. The interests relate to or arise from, among other things:

the retention of certain Inamed officers and directors as officers or directors of the combined company after the completion of the merger; severance benefits to which Nicholas L. Teti, Declan Daly, Joseph A. Newcomb, Vicente Trelles, Robert S. Vaters, Patricia S. Walker and Hani Zeini would become entitled under individual employment agreements or change in control agreements upon a qualifying termination of employment with Medicis following stockholder approval of the merger;

the acceleration of vesting for certain stock options and restricted stock awards; and

the continued indemnification of directors and officers of Inamed pursuant to the merger agreement and providing these individuals with directors and officers insurance.

These interests are described below, and except as described below, those persons have, to the knowledge of Inamed, no material interest in the merger apart from those of Inamed stockholders generally. The Inamed board of directors was aware of these interests and considered them, among other matters, in making its recommendation.

Post-Merger Board Membership

The merger agreement provides that, at the effective time of the merger, Mitchell S. Rosenthal, M.D., Nicholas L. Teti, Joy A. Amundson and Terry E. Vandewarker, each of whom is a current member of the Inamed board of directors, will be appointed to the combined company's board of directors. It is anticipated that Dr. Rosenthal will be placed in a director class with a term expiring in 2005, Ms. Amundson and Mr. Vandewarker will be placed in a director class with a term expiring in 2006 and Mr. Teti will be appointed Vice Chairman and will be placed in a director class with a term expiring in 2007. The merger agreement also provides that, at the effective time of the merger, Mr. Vandewarker and Ms. Amundson will be appointed to the audit committee of the combined company's board of directors along with two current members of the Medicis board of directors.

Post-Merger Employment of Declan Daly

The merger agreement provides that Declan Daly will be employed in a senior accounting position in the combined company's finance department at the effective time of the merger and will report directly to, and have responsibility and authority in the combined company's finance department second only to, the combined company's Chief Financial Officer. In the event that Mr. Daly does not accept such employment upon the effective time of the merger, then Inamed will propose a qualified replacement for designation to the position ascribed for Mr. Daly, and Medicis shall consider such replacement in good faith. If Medicis rejects the proposed replacement, Inamed shall be entitled to propose at least two additional candidates for consideration in good faith by Medicis for such position.

Employment/Change in Control Agreements of Inamed's Executive Officers

The following is a description of Inamed's employment agreements and change in control agreements for Inamed's executive officers. As discussed below, each agreement entitles the executive officer to certain rights in the event of the executive's termination without cause by Inamed or by the combined company, or for good reason by the executive, upon a change in control or within a specified period of time following a change in control. For purposes of these agreements, a change in control will occur if Inamed stockholders vote to approve the merger. Except as set forth below, cause is generally defined in each agreement to mean that the executive has: (a) been convicted of certain crimes, (b) engaged in conduct which is materially injurious to Inamed, (c) failed to perform his or her respective duties as an executive officer of Inamed, (except that Mr. Zeini's employment agreement does not contain this sub-clause (c)) or (d) engaged in gross negligence or willful misconduct resulting in material harm to Inamed.

Except as set forth below, good reason is generally defined in each agreement to mean that the executive: (a) is excluded from participation in any employee benefit plan offered to other similarly ranked executives or his or her benefits under such plans are materially reduced, (b) is asked to relocate to a location other than one in Santa Barbara County, California (or, in the case of Messrs. Newcomb and Trelles, Ventura County, California), (c) is not reimbursed for his or her business expenses in accordance with Inamed's policy regarding reimbursements or (d) the executive's job responsibilities materially change (except that (i) with respect to Mr. Zeini this sub-clause (d) instead states the executive's base salary is decreased and (ii) Mr. Trelles' employment agreement does not contain this sub-clause (d)).

In addition to the severance payments and other benefits described below, each of the employment or change in control agreements also provides for the immediate vesting of all stock options held by the executive in the event of a change of control, except that Mr. Teti's employment agreement provides that at a minimum all stock options held by Mr. Teti will vest immediately pro-rata based on the number of months Mr. Teti has worked for Inamed from the date of grant as a percentage of the total number of months otherwise required for complete vesting and Mr. Daly's employment agreement does not address vesting of stock options or restricted stock upon a change in control. However, according to the terms of the merger agreement, as described below, all stock options granted on or before March 20, 2005 which remain outstanding upon completion of the merger (including all such stock options held by the Inamed executive officers), and all shares of Inamed restricted stock approved on or before March 20, 2005 which have not been repurchased by Inamed (or forfeited to Inamed) prior to the completion of the merger (including all such shares of Inamed restricted stock held by the Inamed executive officers), will immediately vest in full upon the consummation of the merger.

Employment Agreement of Nicholas L. Teti

In October 2004, Inamed entered into an amended and restated employment agreement with Nicholas L. Teti, its President, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman. Mr. Teti's employment agreement provides that he will be entitled to the following if his employment is terminated without cause by Inamed or the combined company, or by Mr. Teti for good reason, within twelve months following stockholder approval of the merger: (1) pro-rated payment of his base salary through the date of his termination, (2) payment of an amount equal to the greater of (x) three times his base salary at the time the Inamed stockholders approve the merger or (y) three times his base salary at the time of his termination, (3) payment of any annual bonus awarded but not yet paid, (4) reimbursement of expenses incurred but not paid prior to his termination, and (5) continued participation in medical, dental and life insurance plans until the earlier of (a) the expiration of the 24-month period following Mr. Teti's termination of employment or (b) the date Mr. Teti becomes eligible for equivalent benefits elsewhere. Mr. Teti's employment agreement defines "good reason" to include, in addition to the above description, situations in which: (a) Mr. Teti's title as Chief Executive Officer is changed, (b) Mr. Teti ceases to be Chairman of Inamed's (or any of its successor's) Board of Directors, (c) Mr. Teti's base salary is decreased or (d) Inamed fails to obtain a written agreement from any successor of Inamed to assume the obligations under Mr. Teti's employment agreement upon a change in control.

Employment Agreement of Declan Daly

In October 1998, Inamed entered into an employment agreement with Declan Daly, its Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, which was amended in November 1999. Under this agreement, in the event that Mr. Daly's employment is terminated, he will be entitled to payment of an amount equal to eighteen months of his gross remuneration (i.e. base salary and all perquisites) at the rate applicable at the date of termination. The merger agreement provides that Mr. Daly will be employed in a senior accounting position in the combined company's finance department at the effective time of the merger and will report directly to, and have responsibility and authority in the combined company's finance department second only to, the combined company's Chief Financial Officer. In the event that Mr. Daly does not accept such employment upon the effective time of the merger, then Inamed will propose a qualified replacement for designation to the position ascribed for Mr. Daly, and Medicis shall consider such replacement in good faith. If Medicis rejects the proposed replacement, Inamed shall be entitled to propose at least two additional candidates for consideration in good faith by Medicis for such position.

Employment Agreement of Joseph A. Newcomb

In August 2003, Inamed entered into an employment agreement with Joseph A. Newcomb, its Executive Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary. Under this agreement, Mr. Newcomb will be entitled to the following if his employment is terminated without cause by Inamed or the combined company, or by Mr. Newcomb for good reason, within twelve months following stockholder approval of the merger: (a) pro-rated payment of his base salary through the date of his termination, (b) payment of an amount equal to the greater of (i) two times his base salary at the time the Inamed stockholders approve the merger or (ii) two times his base salary at the time of his termination, (c) payment of any annual bonus awarded but not yet paid, (d) reimbursement of expenses incurred but not paid prior to his termination, and (e) continued participation in medical, dental and life insurance plans for the earlier of 18 months or until Mr. Newcomb is eligible for equivalent benefits elsewhere.

Employment Agreement of Robert S. Vaters

In January 2003, Inamed entered into an employment agreement with Robert S. Vaters, Executive Vice President, Strategy and Corporate Development. Under this agreement, Mr. Vaters will be entitled to the following if his employment is terminated without cause by Inamed or the combined company, or by Mr. Vaters for good reason, within twelve months following stockholder approval of the merger: (a) pro-rated payment of his base salary through the date of his termination, (b) payment of an amount equal to the greater of (i) two times his base salary at the time the Inamed stockholders approve the merger or (ii) two times his base salary at the time of his termination, (c) payment of any annual bonus awarded but not yet paid, (d) reimbursement of expenses incurred but not paid prior to his termination, and (e) continued participation in medical, dental and life insurance plans for the earlier of 18 months or until Mr. Vaters is eligible for equivalent benefits elsewhere.

Change in Control Agreement of Patricia S. Walker

Inamed stockholder approval of the merger will constitute a change in control for purposes of the employment agreements and change in control agreements described above. Following Inamed stockholder approval of the merger, any qualifying termination of Messrs. Teti, Daly, Newcomb, Trelles, Vaters or Zeini or Dr. Walker will result in that individual being eligible to receive the severance benefits described above. Set forth below is an estimate of the value of the severance benefits payable to each executive officer, assuming a qualifying termination of employment as of September 30, 2005. This amount does not reflect the value of any executive's continued participation in medical, dental and/or life insurance plans and is in addition to the values shown in the tables below regarding the accelerated vesting of stock options and restricted stock.

Name	Estimated Value of Severance Benefits

Accelerated Vesting of Certain Inamed Stock Options and Restricted Stock Awards

Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, all stock options to acquire Inamed common stock granted on or before March 20, 2005, including all such stock options held by directors and executive officers of Inamed, that remain outstanding upon the completion of the merger will automatically become vested and exercisable in full at such time. The merger agreement also provides that options granted under Inamed's Non-Employee Director's Stock Option Plan, 1998 Stock Option Plan, 2004 Performance Stock Option Plan, as well as one outstanding non-plan stock option grant held by Nicholas Teti will be assumed by the combined company and converted into options to purchase shares of the combined company's common stock. In addition, options outstanding under Inamed's 1999 Stock Option Plan and 2000 Stock Option Plan will be assumed by the combined company and converted into options to purchase the aggregate amount of merger consideration the optionee would have been entitled to receive in connection with the merger if he or she exercised such option in full, whether or not exercisable, immediately prior to the effective time of the merger and received the merger consideration in exchange for the Inamed shares purchased (see "The Merger Agreement - Inamed Equity Awards and Benefit Plans" on page 122 for more information).

All shares of restricted Inamed common stock approved on or before March 20, 2005 that remain outstanding but unvested upon completion of the merger, including all such shares of restricted stock held by Inamed executive officers, will become fully vested at such time. In the merger, these shares will be treated in the same manner as other shares of Inamed common stock (see "The Merger Agreement - Merger Consideration" on page 108 for more information).

The following table shows the total number of unvested Inamed option shares and shares of Inamed restricted stock held as of September 30, 2005 by each executive officer and director that are expected to accelerate and become fully vested in connection with the merger. The options have exercise prices ranging between $18.17 and $67.35 per share. The intrinsic value of the unvested options is based on the difference between $75.68 (the closing price of Inamed common stock on September 30, 2005, as reported by NASDAQ) and the actual exercise price of the executive individual's unvested options. The value of the restricted stock is based on $75.68 per share (the closing price of Inamed common stock on September 30, 2005, as reported by NASDAQ).

Indemnification of Inamed Directors and Officers

The merger agreement provides that, for a period of six years following the completion of the merger, Medicis will cause to be maintained in effect the current policies of directors and officers liability insurance maintained by Inamed with respect to claims arising from or related to facts or events which occurred at or before the effective time of the merger, although Medicis may substitute policies with reputable and financially sound carriers of at least the same coverage and amounts containing terms and conditions which are no less advantageous (see The Merger Agreement Directors and Officers Indemnification on page 124 for more information).

Letter Agreement with Q-Med AB

In connection with the proposed merger, on March 20, 2005, Medicis executed a letter agreement with Q-Med AB and Inamed, dated as of March 18, 2005. The letter provides for the following, among other matters:

Q-Med AB will have no right to enforce the non-competition provisions embodied in Section 7.4(b) of the Supply Agreement, dated March 7, 2003, between Medicis and Q-Med AB for a period of 24 months following the closing of Medicis merger with Inamed pursuant to the merger agreement;

Q-Med AB will have no right to enforce the diligence obligations embodied in Section 3.1 of the Amended and Restated License Agreement, dated March 6, 2003, between Q-Med AB and HA North American Sales AB for a period of 24 months following the closing of the merger;

Medicis and Q-Med AB will work diligently to reach a comprehensive agreement, within six months of the closing of the merger, regarding certain business opportunities;

If the comprehensive agreement referenced above is not executed within six months of the closing of the merger, Medicis will pay a specified royalty on net revenues of products acquired from Inamed as a result of the merger that compete with Q-Med AB products outside Canada and the United States, until the competing products are divested or discontinued;

Within five business days of the execution of the merger agreement, the parties will file motions to dismiss with prejudice (i) the investigation pending in the United States International Trade Commission, captioned as In re Certain Injectable Implant Compositions, Inv. No. 337-TA-515, between Inamed, as complainant, and Q-Med AB and Medicis, as respondents, and (ii) the litigation pending in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California, captioned as Inamed Corp. v. Q-Med AB, et al, No. 3:04-CV-1064, between Inamed, as plaintiff, and Q-Med AB and Medicis, as defendants. Each party will take all appropriate actions to ensure that such matters are dismissed within 30 days after filing such motions. On April 18, 2005 and March 25, 2005, respectively, the investigation in the United States International Trade Commission and the litigation pending in the United States District Court for the Southern District of California described in the preceding paragraph were dismissed; and

If the merger agreement is terminated for any reason that would give rise to Medicis' obligation to pay Inamed the $10 million expense fee or the $70 million termination fee pursuant to Section 5.10(c) of the merger agreement, Medicis will pay to Inamed $16.5 million in consideration for Inamed's agreement to dismiss the litigation matters discussed above.

Senior Secured Financing Commitment Letter with Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc.

In connection with the proposed merger, on March 20, 2005, Medicis entered into a Senior Secured Financing Commitment Letter with Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. Subject to the terms and conditions of the letter, Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. have committed to provide $650 million of senior secured financing to Medicis. The financing commitment letter provides that the committed financing would mature in seven years and bear interest at an adjustable rate. The indebtedness would be guaranteed by Medicis' domestic subsidiaries and secured by all assets and stock owned by Medicis and its domestic subsidiaries. The financing commitment letter includes customary conditions to funding, including, without limitation, no material adverse change to the market for credit facilities similar in nature to the facility contemplated by the letter that has had a material adverse effect on syndication, the absence of a material adverse effect on Inamed, certain ratings requirements, the accuracy of representations and warranties of the parties, the absence of a material adverse effect on Inamed relating to the SEC's investigation of Inamed as disclosed in Inamed's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004, and that Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. shall have received at least $450 million of cash from Medicis.

The description of the financing commitment letter contained above is based upon the terms set forth in such letter, which terms are subject to negotiation and execution of the definitive credit agreements satisfactory to Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas, Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. and Medicis. As a result, the final terms of the definitive credit agreements may vary from those described above. The financing commitment letter expires at the earlier of (a) January 31, 2006, unless on or prior to such date the transaction has been consummated and the borrowing has occurred, (b) the date of the termination of the merger agreement (other than with respect to ongoing indemnities, confidentiality provisions and similar provisions) and (c) the issuance of any securities pursuant to the engagement letter dated March 20, 2005 between Medicis and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas and Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. will receive customary compensation in connection with the financing commitment letter and related financing. The financing contemplated by the financing commitment letter is not the exclusive source of financing relating to the merger available to Medicis. As referenced above, Medicis has also entered into an engagement letter with Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. pursuant to which, subject to the terms and conditions set forth therein, Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. has committed to purchase, at or following the closing of the merger and on or prior to January 31, 2006, contingent convertible senior notes due 2025 of Medicis in a principal amount up to the lesser of $650 million and 25% of the equity market capitalization of Medicis (after giving effect to the merger).

THE MERGER AGREEMENT

The following summary describes certain material provisions of the merger agreement, which is included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A and is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus. This summary may not contain all of the information about the merger agreement that is important to you. You are encouraged to read the merger agreement carefully in its entirety.

The merger agreement is included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus in order to provide you with information regarding its terms. It is not in any way intended to provide you with factual information about the current state of affairs of either Medicis or Inamed. Such information can be found elsewhere in this joint proxy statement/prospectus (including the attached annexes) and in the other public filings that Medicis and Inamed make with the SEC, which are available without charge at www.sec.gov. The merger agreement contains representations, warranties, covenants and other agreements, each as of specific dates. These representations, warranties, covenants and other agreements are qualified by information contained in confidential disclosure letters that the parties exchanged in connection with the execution of the merger agreement. The disclosure letters contain information that modifies, qualifies and creates exceptions to the representations, warranties, covenants and other agreements set forth in the merger agreement. Although some of the information contained in the disclosure letters may be non-public, Medicis and Inamed do not believe that this information is required to be publicly-disclosed under the federal securities laws. Moreover, certain of these representations, warranties, covenants and/or other agreements may not be accurate or complete as of a specific date because they are subject to a contractual standard of materiality that may be different from the standard generally applied under the federal securities laws and/or were used for the purpose of allocating risk between Medicis and Inamed rather than establishing matters as facts. Finally, information concerning the subject matter of these representations, warranties, covenants and other agreements may have changed since the date of the merger agreement, which may or may not be fully-reflected in Medicis and Inamed's public disclosures. Accordingly, you should not rely on these representations, warranties, covenants and other agreements as statements of fact.

Structure of the Merger

The merger agreement provides for the merger of Inamed with and into Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Medicis. As a result of the merger, Inamed will cease to exist and Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. will continue as the surviving corporation.

Completion and Effectiveness of the Merger

The closing of the merger will occur on the second business day after all of the conditions to completion of the merger contained in the merger agreement are satisfied or waived, unless the parties agree otherwise in writing (see Conditions to Completion of the Merger below). The merger will become effective upon the filing of the certificate of merger with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware.

We are working to complete the merger as soon as practicable. However, because completion of the merger is subject to regulatory approvals and other conditions, we cannot predict the actual timing.

General

Upon completion of the merger, each share of Inamed common stock outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the merger will be cancelled and extinguished and converted into the right to receive 1.4205 shares of Medicis Class A Common Stock, par value of $0.014 per share, and $30 in cash, to be received upon surrender of the certificate representing the share of Inamed common stock in the manner provided in the merger agreement. The consideration may be adjusted in order to support the treatment of the merger as a tax free reorganization. Shares held by Inamed stockholders who validly exercise appraisal rights will be subject to appraisal in accordance with Delaware law as described further below under Appraisal Rights.

If the amount obtained by dividing the aggregate Medicis stock value by the closing transaction value is less than 0.45, the following shall occur:

The exchange ratio shall be adjusted to a number, rounded to the nearest fourth decimal place, equal to (1) the product of 0.45 and the closing transaction value, divided by (2) the product of the aggregate Inamed share number and the closing Medicis stock price ; and

The cash merger consideration shall be adjusted to an amount, rounded to the nearest cent, equal to the quotient obtained by dividing (1) the amount obtained by subtracting the aggregate dissenter s value from the product of 0.55 and the closing transaction value, by (2) the aggregate Inamed share number.

For purposes of the preceding paragraphs, aggregate Inamed share number means the number obtained by subtracting the aggregate number of shares of Inamed common stock to be cancelled in the merger and the aggregate number of shares subject to appraisal rights determined at the closing, from the aggregate number of shares of Inamed common stock that is outstanding on the closing date of the merger. Closing transaction value means the sum of (x) the product of (i) the $30 cash portion of the merger consideration and (ii) the aggregate Inamed share number , (y) the product of (i) the product of (a) 1.4205 and (b) the number obtained by subtracting (I) the aggregate number of shares of Inamed common stock to be cancelled in the merger and (II) the aggregate number of shares subject to appraisal rights determined at the closing, from (III) the aggregate number of shares of Inamed common stock outstanding on the closing date, and (ii) the closing Medicis stock price and (z) the aggregate dissenter s value. Closing Medicis stock price means the mean between the high and low selling prices of Medicis common stock on the NYSE on the date the merger becomes effective. Aggregate dissenter s value means the product of (i) the aggregate number of shares subject to appraisal rights determined at the closing, and (ii) the sum of (a) the $30 cash portion of the merger consideration and (b) the product of 1.4205 and the closing Medicis stock price.

Upon completion of the merger, each share of Inamed common stock held by Medicis or any direct or indirect wholly-owned subsidiaries of Medicis immediately prior to the merger will be automatically cancelled and extinguished, and none of Medicis or any of its direct or indirect subsidiaries will receive any securities of Medicis or other consideration in exchange for those shares.

Appraisal Rights

Shares of Inamed common stock held by any Inamed stockholder that properly demands payment for its shares in compliance with the appraisal rights under Section 262 of the DGCL will not be converted into the right to receive the merger consideration. Inamed stockholders properly exercising appraisal rights will be entitled to payment as described above under The Merger Appraisal Rights. However, if any Inamed stockholder fails to perfect or otherwise waives, withdraws or loses the right to receive payment under Section 262, then that Inamed stockholder will not be paid in accordance with Section 262 and the shares of Inamed common stock held by that Inamed stockholder will be exchangeable solely for the right to receive the merger consideration.

Exchange of Inamed Stock Certificates for Medicis Stock Certificates

Medicis has retained Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. as the exchange agent for the merger to handle the exchange of shares of Inamed common stock for the merger consideration, including the payment of cash for fractional shares.

Only those holders of Inamed common stock who properly surrender their Inamed stock certificates in accordance with the exchange agent s instructions will receive:

a statement indicating book-entry ownership of Medicis common stock or, if requested, a certificate representing Medicis common stock;

cash in lieu of any fractional share of Medicis common stock; and dividends or other distributions, if any, on Medicis common stock to which they are entitled under the terms of the merger agreement.

After the effective time of the merger, each certificate representing shares of Inamed common stock that has not been surrendered will represent only the right to receive upon surrender of that certificate each of the items listed in the preceding sentence. Following completion of the merger, Inamed will not register any transfers of Inamed common stock outstanding on its stock transfer books prior to the merger.

To effect the exchange of shares of Inamed common stock, as soon as reasonably practicable after the effective time of the merger, the exchange agent will mail to each record holder of shares of Inamed common stock a letter of transmittal and instructions for surrendering the certificates representing shares of Inamed common stock for the merger consideration. Upon surrender of certificates representing shares of Inamed common stock for cancellation, together with an executed letter of transmittal, to the exchange agent, the holder of those certificates will be entitled to receive the merger consideration.

Fractional Shares

Medicis will not issue fractional shares of Medicis common stock in the merger. Instead, each holder of shares of Inamed common stock who would otherwise be entitled to receive fractional shares of Medicis common stock in the merger will be entitled to an amount of cash, without interest, rounded to the nearest cent, equal to the product of the amount of the fractional share interest in a share of Medicis common stock to which that stockholder is entitled by an amount equal to the average of the closing sale prices for a share of Medicis common stock on the New York Stock Exchange, as reported in The Wall Street Journal, Northeastern edition, for each of the ten consecutive trading days ending with the second complete trading day prior to the effective time of the merger.

Termination of Exchange Fund

Six months after the completion of the merger, Medicis may require the exchange agent to deliver to Medicis all cash and shares of Medicis common stock remaining in the exchange fund. Thereafter, Inamed stockholders must look only to Medicis for payment of the merger consideration on their shares of Inamed common stock.

No Liability

None of Medicis, Inamed, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. or the exchange agent will be liable to any holder of a certificate representing shares of Inamed common stock or any cash payable in respect of any distributions or dividends or in lieu of any fractional shares of Medicis common stock, delivered to a public official under any applicable abandoned property, escheat or similar law.

Distributions with Respect to Unexchanged Shares

Holders of Inamed common stock are not entitled to receive any dividends or other distributions on Medicis common stock until the merger is completed. After the merger is completed, holders of Inamed common stock certificates will be entitled to dividends and other distributions declared or made after completion of the merger with respect to the number of whole shares of Medicis common stock to which they are entitled upon exchange of their Inamed stock certificates, but they will not be paid any dividends or other distributions on Medicis common stock until they surrender their Inamed stock certificates to the exchange agent in accordance with the exchange agent instructions.

Transfers of Ownership and Lost Stock Certificates

Medicis will only issue the merger consideration, cash in lieu of a fractional share and any dividends or distributions on Medicis common stock that may be applicable in a name other than the name in which a surrendered Inamed stock certificate is registered if the certificate is properly endorsed or otherwise in proper form and any applicable stock transfer taxes have been paid.

The merger consideration, cash in lieu of a fractional share and any dividends or distributions on Medicis common stock that may be applicable shall be paid to any Inamed stockholder whose stock certificate has been lost, stolen or destroyed upon the making of an affidavit of that fact by the stockholder claiming such certificate to be lost, stolen or destroyed. Medicis may also require an Inamed stockholder who makes such an affidavit to post a bond as indemnity against any claim that may be made against Medicis with respect to the lost stock certificate.

Conditions to Completion of the Merger

The obligations of Medicis and Inamed to complete the merger are subject to the satisfaction or waiver, if legally permissible, of the following conditions:

- the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger by Inamed stockholders and the approval of the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger by Medicis stockholders;
- the registration statement of which this joint proxy statement/prospectus is a part must be declared effective under the Securities Act and the registration statement shall not be subject to any stop order or proceeding seeking a stop order;
- the approval for listing on the NYSE of the shares of Medicis common stock to be issued in the merger, subject to official notice of issuance;
- the absence of any judgment, injunction, order or decree of any governmental entity making illegal or otherwise restraining or prohibiting the consummation of the merger;
- the receipt of all governmental and regulatory consents, approvals, orders and authorizations required to complete the merger, except for such consents, approvals, orders and authorizations the absence of which would not have a Material Adverse Effect on Medicis after the merger;
- the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting period and any extension of the waiting period under the HSR Act;
- the absence of any legal prohibition having the effect of preventing or prohibiting completion of the merger;
- the absence of any litigation by any governmental entity seeking to prohibit or restrain the merger or that otherwise would have a Material Adverse Effect on Medicis or Inamed;
- the absence of any pending suit, action or proceeding by any governmental entity seeking to prohibit the merger or that otherwise would have a Material Adverse Effect on Medicis or Inamed, provided that this condition is satisfied four days following the dismissal or final decision denying the governmental entity's request for an injunction;
- the representations and warranties of the other party, without giving effect to any limitation as to materiality or Material Adverse Effect, being true and correct at and as of the effective time of the merger as if they were made on that date (except to the extent that the representations and warranties speak as of another date), except where the failure of the representations and warranties to be true and correct would not have a Material Adverse Effect on the other party, and the receipt of a certificate of an executive officer of the other party to that effect;
- the other party having performed or complied with its agreements and covenants in the merger agreement in all material respects, and the receipt of a certificate of an executive officer of the other party to that effect;

In addition, the obligation of Medicis to complete the merger is subject to the satisfaction or waiver, if legally permissible, of the following conditions:

the number of dissenting shares must not exceed 10% of the outstanding shares of Inamed common stock; and the pending SEC investigation of Inamed, as described in Inamed's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004, shall not have prevented Medicis from obtaining financing consistent with the terms set forth in a financing commitment letter obtained by Medicis concurrent with the execution of the merger agreement, provided that Medicis used commercially reasonable efforts to obtain such financing.

Furthermore, the obligation of Inamed to complete the merger is subject to the satisfaction or waiver, if legally permissible, of Medicis' receipt of the funds necessary to pay the cash portion of the merger consideration.

Material Adverse Effect, when used in reference to Medicis or Inamed, means a change, event, development or effect that has a material adverse effect on the business or financial condition of the referenced party and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, or that prevents the referenced party from fulfilling its obligations to consummate the merger. However, any changes or developments will not be deemed to have a Material Adverse Effect if they relate to:

- the medical device and specialty pharmaceutical industries generally (which changes or developments, in each case, do not disproportionately affect the referenced party in any material respect);
- financial or securities markets or the economy in general (which changes or developments, in each case, do not disproportionately affect the referenced party in any material respect);
- the referenced party's stock price or trading volume, in and of itself;
- the referenced party's failure to meet published revenue or earnings projections, in and of itself;
- the announcement of this merger or actions pursuant to (and required by) the merger agreement; or
- the determination by, or the delay of a determination by, the FDA, or any panel or advisory body empowered or appointed thereby, with respect to the approval, non-approval or disapproval of any of the referenced party's products.

The merger agreement also contains additional representations and warranties of Medicis relating to the ownership and activities of Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and the funds necessary to pay the merger consideration upon completion of the merger.

Medicis and Inamed Prohibited from Soliciting Other Offers

Under the terms of the merger agreement, subject to certain exceptions described below, each of Medicis and Inamed has agreed that it and its subsidiaries, and directors, officers and employees of it and its subsidiaries, will not, directly or indirectly:

solicit, initiate, encourage or induce any inquiry regarding, or the making, submission or announcement of, an acquisition proposal; participate in any discussions or negotiations regarding, or furnish any non-public information with respect to, or take any other action to facilitate any inquiries or the making of any proposal that constitutes or may reasonably be expected to lead to, an acquisition proposal; or enter into any letter of intent or similar document or contract (whether binding or not) contemplating or otherwise relating to an acquisition proposal.

In addition, each of Medicis and Inamed has agreed that it will use its reasonable best efforts to cause its and its respective subsidiaries, attorneys, accountants, investment bankers, financial advisors, agents and other representatives not to do any of the foregoing.

For purposes of the restrictions described above, an acquisition proposal is any offer or proposal with respect to a potential or proposed:

merger, consolidation, business combination or similar transaction involving the party or any of its significant subsidiaries pursuant to which the party's stockholders immediately prior to such transaction would own less than 85% of the aggregate voting power of the entity surviving or resulting from such transaction (or the ultimate parent entity thereof);

sale, lease, exclusive license or other disposition, directly or indirectly of the assets of the party or its subsidiaries representing 15% or more of the consolidated assets of the party and its subsidiaries; issuance, sale or other disposition of securities representing more than 15% of the voting power of the party;

transaction in which any person or group of persons acquires beneficial ownership or the right to acquire beneficial ownership of 15% or more of the outstanding voting capital stock of the party; or any combination of the above.

Each of Medicis and Inamed is obligated to notify the other in writing within 48 hours after receipt of any acquisition proposal or request for nonpublic information or inquiry that could reasonably be expected to lead to an acquisition proposal. The notice must include the material terms and conditions of the acquisition proposal, request or inquiry, and the identity of the person making the request. The party receiving the request must keep the other party informed of the status and details of the acquisition proposal, request or inquiry, and must provide the other party with a copy of all written materials provided to the third party.

Notwithstanding the prohibitions described above, if either Medicis or Inamed receives an unsolicited bona fide written acquisition proposal made after the signing of the merger agreement, the party receiving the acquisition proposal is permitted to participate or engage in discussions or negotiations with, and provide information to, the party making the acquisition proposal as long as:

the receiving party's board of directors determines in good faith, after consulting with an independent financial advisor and outside legal counsel, that such proposal constitutes or is reasonably likely to result in a superior proposal; and prior to providing any such information, the receiving party enters into a confidentiality agreement containing (with certain exceptions) terms at least as restrictive as the terms of the confidentiality agreement between Medicis and Inamed and, contemporaneously with furnishing any nonpublic information to such person, the receiving party furnishes such nonpublic information to the other party.

Prior to providing any information to, or participating in discussions or negotiations with, the party making the acquisition proposal, the receiving party must provide written notice to the other party and shall have otherwise complied with the notice and information delivery requirements discussed above.

A superior proposal is an unsolicited, bona fide written offer made by a potential acquirer to acquire, directly or indirectly, pursuant to a tender offer, exchange offer, merger, consolidation or other business combination, all or substantially all of the assets of the company, or as a result of which the stockholders of the company immediately preceding the transaction would hold less than 50% of the equity interests in the surviving or resulting entity or its parent or subsidiary, on terms that are more favorable to that company's stockholders than the terms of the merger between Medicis and Inamed.

Medicis and Inamed have agreed that upon receipt of a superior proposal, and if requested by the other party, the receiving party shall negotiate in good faith with the other party, for a period not less than five business days after receipt of written notice of the superior proposal, to revise the merger agreement so that the third party superior proposal no longer constitutes a superior proposal.

Changes of Recommendation

The Medicis board of directors has agreed to recommend to Medicis stockholders the approval of the issuance of the shares of Medicis common stock in the merger, and to use commercially reasonable best efforts to obtain the required stockholder approval. The Inamed board of directors has agreed to recommend to its stockholders the adoption of the merger agreement and approval of the merger, and to use commercially reasonable best efforts to obtain the required stockholder adoption and approval.

Neither the Medicis nor Inamed boards of directors nor any committee thereof may:

withdraw or modify, or publicly propose to withdraw or modify, in a manner adverse to the other party, the recommendations discussed above; approve any letter of intent, agreement in principle, acquisition agreement or similar agreement relating to any acquisition proposal; or approve or recommend, or publicly propose to approve or recommend, any acquisition proposal.

However, each of the Medicis and Inamed board of directors may withdraw or modify its recommendation if, prior to receipt of the approvals of their respective stockholders necessary to complete the merger:

the board of directors has determined in good faith, after consultation with outside counsel, that the failure to withdraw or modify its recommendation would be reasonably likely to result in a violation of its fiduciary duties under applicable law, and the withdrawing company has notified the other company in writing of this determination; and

in the case of any actions taken in connection with an acquisition proposal, at least five business days following receipt by the other company of the above notice, and taking into account any revised proposal made by the other company since receipt of the notice, the withdrawing company's board of directors maintains its determination made above.

Nothing in the merger agreement prohibits either Medicis or Inamed or their respective boards of directors from taking and disclosing to their respective stockholders, in compliance with the rules and regulations of the Exchange Act, a position contemplated by Rule 14e-2(a) promulgated under the Exchange Act. However, neither the Medicis nor the Inamed board of directors may change its recommendation unless permitted by the merger agreement, as discussed in the previous paragraph.

Stockholders Meetings

Medicis and Inamed have agreed to call, hold and convene a meeting of their respective stockholders as soon as practicable after the registration statement of which this joint proxy statement/ prospectus forms a part is declared effective by the SEC. The receipt of an acquisition proposal or a change of recommendation does not limit or otherwise alter each company's obligation to call, hold and convene their respective stockholders meeting pursuant to the merger agreement. Each party has agreed not to submit to the vote of its stockholders an acquisition proposal from a third party prior to the termination of the merger agreement.

Conduct of Business Before Completion of the Merger

General Restrictions on Operations

Medicis and Inamed have agreed to restrictions on their activities until either the completion of the merger or the termination of the merger agreement, except as specifically permitted by the merger agreement. In general, each of Medicis and Inamed is required to:

Medicis and Inamed will promptly advise the other party of any state of facts, event, change, effect, development, condition or occurrence that, individually or in the aggregate, has had or would reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on it. Inamed will give prompt notice to Medicis, and Medicis will give prompt notice to Inamed, of any representation or warranty made by it or contained in the merger agreement that is qualified as to materiality becoming untrue or inaccurate in any respect, or any representation or warranty made by it or contained in the merger agreement that is not qualified as to materiality becoming untrue or inaccurate in any material respect. Medicis and Inamed will also give prompt notice to the other of the failure by it to comply with or satisfy in any material respect any covenant, condition or agreement to be complied with or satisfied by it under the merger agreement. No notification, however, will affect the representations, warranties, covenants or agreements of the parties or the conditions to the obligations of the parties under the merger agreement.

Inamed Equity Awards

Medicis will take all corporate action necessary to reserve for issuance a sufficient number of shares of Medicis common stock for delivery upon exercise or settlement of the Inamed stock options to be assumed by Medicis pursuant to the merger agreement. As soon as reasonably practicable, and in no event later than three business days after the effective time of the merger, Medicis will file a registration statement on Form S-8, or any successor or other appropriate form, with respect to the shares of Medicis common stock subject to the assumed Inamed stock options and will use all reasonable efforts to maintain the effectiveness of such registration statement or registration statements, and maintain the current status of the prospectus or prospectuses contained in such registration statement or registration statements, for so long as the Inamed stock options assumed by Medicis remain outstanding. Prior to the filing of the registration statement on Form S-8, Medicis will take such further actions as may be reasonably necessary to cover under such registration statement (or on a Form S-3 or any other successor or other appropriate form reasonably satisfactory to those persons whose shares are not covered by the Form S-8) shares of Medicis common stock subject to the assumed Inamed stock options held by those persons eligible under Inamed's registration statement on Form S-8 immediately prior to the closing of the merger.

Stock Options

Under the merger agreement, options outstanding under Inamed's Non-Employee Director's Stock Option Plan, 1998 Stock Option Plan, and 2004 Performance Stock Option Plan, as well as one outstanding non-plan stock option grant held by Nicholas Teti will be assumed by Medicis and converted into options to purchase shares of Medicis common stock. In addition, options outstanding under Inamed's 1999 Stock Option Plan and 2000 Stock Option Plan will be assumed by Medicis and converted into options to purchase the aggregate amount of merger consideration the optionee would have been entitled to receive in connection with the merger if he or she exercised such option in full, whether or not exercisable, immediately prior to the effective time of the merger and received the merger consideration in exchange for the Inamed shares purchased.

Each of the assumed Inamed options will be subject to the terms and conditions of the option plan and the stock option agreement applicable to such option immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, except that, as of the merger:

each unvested Inamed stock option outstanding that was granted on or before March 20, 2005 will immediately become fully vested and exercisable upon the closing of the merger;

each Inamed stock option granted under Inamed's Non-Employee Director's Stock Option Plan, 1998 Stock Option Plan, and 2004 Performance Stock Option Plan will be exercisable for the number of whole shares of Medicis common stock determined by multiplying the number of shares of Inamed common stock that were issuable upon exercise of such option, whether or not exercisable, immediately prior to the merger by 2.3674, rounded down to the nearest whole number of shares of Medicis common stock;

the per share exercise price for the shares of Medicis common stock issuable upon exercise of each option granted under Inamed's Non-Employee Director's Stock Option Plan, 1998 Stock Option Plan, and 2004 Performance Stock Option Plan will be equal to the quotient determined by dividing the exercise price per share of Inamed common stock at which such option was exercisable immediately prior to the merger by 2.3674, rounded up to the nearest whole cent;

each Inamed stock option granted under Inamed's 1999 Stock Option Plan or 2000 Stock Option Plan will be exercisable for the aggregate amount of merger consideration the optionee would have been entitled to receive in connection with the merger if he or she exercised such option in full, whether or not exercisable, immediately prior to the effective time of the merger and received the merger consideration in exchange for the Inamed shares purchased (see The Merger Agreement Merger Consideration on page 108 for additional information); and the exercise price for each unit subject to an assumed stock option granted under Inamed's 1999 Stock Option Plan and 2000 Stock Option Plan will be equal to the sum obtained by dividing the aggregate exercise price payable for the Inamed common stock subject to such option immediately prior to the closing of the merger by the number of units subject to such assumed option immediately following the closing of the merger, rounded up to the nearest whole cent. Unit means one share of Medicis common stock plus an amount of cash equal to the sum obtained by dividing (x) the aggregate amount of cash for which the assumed option is exercisable immediately following the effective time of the merger by (y) the whole number of shares of Medicis common stock issuable upon exercise of such assumed option immediately following the effective time of the merger, rounded down to the nearest whole cent.

Employee Stock Purchase Plan

Inamed has agreed to take all requisite action with respect to its employee stock purchase plan to ensure that: all Inamed purchase rights issued and outstanding as of the date of the Inamed stockholder approval will be exercised on such date;

no Inamed purchase rights will be issued and outstanding as of the effective time of the merger; conditioned upon the occurrence of the closing, the employee stock purchase plan will be terminated no later than the effective time of the merger; and the employee stock purchase plan will be suspended and no additional offering periods will commence on or after the date of the Inamed stockholder approval.

Inamed will deliver to Medicis prior to the merger sufficient evidence that the employee stock purchase plan will be terminated no later than the closing of the merger. In addition, prior to the approval of Inamed stockholders, Inamed will take all actions (including, if appropriate, amending the terms of the employee stock purchase plan and the terms of any offering period(s) commencing prior to merger) that are necessary to ensure that, as of the date of the Inamed stockholder approval, all participants and former participants in the employee stock purchase plan will cease to have any right or interest thereunder.

All actions taken in connection with, and all amendments made to, the employee stock purchase plan will be taken or made in a manner intended to comply with Sections 423 and 424 of the Internal Revenue Code so that such actions will not result in a modification of any outstanding purchase rights for purposes of such Sections.

Repurchase Rights

All outstanding rights that Inamed may hold to acquire unvested shares of Inamed common stock approved under the Inamed 2003 Restricted Stock Plan on or before March 20, 2005 will lapse at the effective time of the merger. All other repurchase rights which Inamed may hold to acquire unvested shares approved after March 20, 2005 will be assigned to Medicis and will thereafter be exercisable upon the same terms and conditions in effect immediately prior to the merger, except that:

the assigned repurchase rights will be adjusted to apply to the merger consideration received in exchange for the unvested shares of Inamed common stock subject to the assigned repurchase rights; and the repurchase price to be paid (if any) for the merger consideration received in exchange for a share of Inamed restricted stock will be an amount determined by dividing the repurchase price per share of Inamed restricted stock, as determined immediately prior to the closing of the merger, by 2.3674, rounded down to the nearest whole cent.

In the event that the exercise of an assigned repurchase right would result in the return of cash merger consideration to Medicis, Medicis will be entitled to offset the cash merger consideration to be returned against the repurchase price (if any) to be paid.

Inamed Benefit Plans

After the merger, benefit plans in effect as of the date of the merger agreement will remain in effect with respect to employees of Inamed or its subsidiaries covered by such plans at the time of the merger until such time as Medicis adopts a new benefit plan. Prior to the merger, Medicis and Inamed will cooperate in reviewing, evaluating and analyzing Inamed benefit plans with a view towards developing appropriate new benefit plans for the employees covered thereby.

At such time as any new benefit plans are implemented, Medicis will, and will cause its subsidiaries to, with respect to all new benefit plans:

provide each employee of Inamed or its subsidiaries with service or other credit for all limitations as to preexisting conditions, exclusions and waiting periods with respect to participation and coverage requirements applicable to Inamed employees under any new benefit plan that is a welfare plan that such employees may be eligible to participate in after the merger, to the extent that such employee would receive credit for such conditions under the corresponding welfare plan in which any such employee participated immediately prior to the effective time of the merger;

provide each employee of Inamed or its subsidiaries with credit for any co-payments and deductibles paid in satisfying any applicable deductible or out-of-pocket requirements under any new benefit plan that is a welfare plan that such employees are eligible to participate in after the effective time of the merger;

provide each employee with credit for all service for purposes of eligibility, vesting and benefit accruals (but not for benefit accruals under any defined benefit pension plan) with Inamed and its subsidiaries, under each employee benefit plan, program, or arrangement of Medicis or its subsidiaries in which such employees are eligible to participate after the effective time of the merger; and provide benefits under medical, dental, vision and similar health and welfare plans that are in the aggregate no less favorable than those provided to similarly situated employees of Medicis and its subsidiaries; provided, however, that in no event will the employees be entitled to any credit to the extent that it would result in a duplication of benefits with respect to the same period of service.

Medicis will have no obligation to provide any credit for service, co-payments, deductibles paid, or for any purpose, unless and until Medicis has received such supporting documentation as it may reasonably deem to be necessary in order to verify the appropriate credit to be provided.

If requested by Medicis at least seven days prior to the effective time of the merger, Inamed will terminate any and all benefit plans intended to qualify under Section 401(k) of the Internal Revenue Code, effective not later than the last business day immediately preceding the effective time of the merger. In the event that Medicis requests that such 401(k) plan(s) be terminated, Inamed will provide Medicis with evidence that such 401(k) plan(s) have been terminated pursuant to a resolution of the Inamed board of directors (the form and substance of which will be subject to review and approval by Medicis) not later than the day immediately preceding the effective time of the merger.

Medicis will, and will cause its subsidiaries to, honor in accordance with their terms all benefits accrued through the merger under Inamed benefit plans or under other contracts, arrangements, commitments, or understandings described in the Inamed disclosure letter.

Medicis will, to the fullest extent permitted by law, and will cause Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. to honor all of Inamed's and its subsidiaries' obligations to indemnify the current or former directors or officers of Inamed or any subsidiary for acts or omissions by such directors and officers occurring prior to the effective time of the merger. For a period of six years following the effective time of the merger, the certificate of incorporation of Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. will contain provisions no less favorable with respect to indemnification and exculpation of present and former directors and officers of Inamed than are presently set forth in Inamed's and any subsidiary's certificate of incorporation and bylaws.

For six years from the effective time of the merger, Medicis will cause to be maintained in effect the current policies of directors' and officers' liability insurance maintained by Inamed, although Medicis may substitute policies with reputable and financially sound carriers of at least the same coverage and amounts containing terms and conditions which are no less advantageous with respect to claims arising from or related to facts or events which occurred at or before the effective time of the merger. Medicis will not be obligated to make annual premium payments for this insurance if the premiums exceed 200% of the annual premiums paid as of the date of the merger agreement by Inamed for the insurance. If the insurance coverage cannot be obtained at all, or can only be obtained at an annual premium in excess of the maximum premium, Medicis will maintain the most advantageous policies of directors' and officers' insurance obtainable for an annual premium equal to the maximum premium.

If Medicis in its sole discretion elects, by giving written notice to Inamed at least 30 days prior to the effective time of the merger, then, instead of the insurance described above, effective as of the effective time of the merger, Inamed will purchase a directors' and officers' liability insurance tail or runoff insurance program for a period of six years after the effective time of the merger with respect to wrongful acts and/or omissions committed or allegedly committed at or prior to the effective time of the merger. This coverage will have an aggregate coverage limit over the term of the directors' and officers' liability insurance tail or runoff insurance policy in an amount at least equal to the annual aggregate coverage limit under Inamed's existing directors' and officers' liability policy, and in all other respects will be with reputable and financially sound carriers and no less advantageous on the whole to the existing directors' and officers' liability policy coverage.

Financing

Prior to the closing of the merger, Medicis must obtain all financing required for the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, including funding the cash portion of the merger consideration. In connection with any financing, Medicis has agreed to:

notify Inamed of any proposed or executed amendments to the financing commitment letter that Medicis entered into with Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. and Deutsche Bank Trust Company Americas;

provide to Inamed copies of any other commitment letters and any definitive agreements entered into by Medicis or any of its subsidiaries in connection with the financing commitment letter or any alternative financing and all notices and all proposed or executed amendments or modifications regarding any such documents or arrangements;

keep Inamed informed of the status of any contemplated or proposed financing; notify Inamed of any assertion by any lender under the financing commitment letter or any other commitment letter or definitive agreements entered into in relation to a financing that any condition contained in the financing commitment letter, any other commitment letter or definitive agreements entered into in relation to a financing has not been satisfied or cannot be satisfied at the time such condition is required to be satisfied; and discuss with Inamed at Inamed's reasonable request the status of any contemplated or proposed financing.

Inamed has agreed to use its reasonable best efforts to provide cooperation, subject to certain restrictions, in connection with the arrangement of any financing, including reasonable participation in meetings and road shows, the provision of information reasonably requested by Medicis and reasonable assistance in the preparation of any offering memoranda, private placement memoranda, prospectuses and similar documents that Medicis may prepare in connection with any financing.

Termination of the Merger Agreement

Termination by Medicis or Inamed

Either Medicis or Inamed may terminate the merger agreement at any time before the effective time of the merger if:

the merger is not completed by December 19, 2005, which may be extended by either party up to and including January 31, 2006 in the event that (a) Medicis has been unable to obtain funds on terms satisfactory to Medicis sufficient to pay the full amount of the cash merger consideration, or (b) all other conditions to consummation of the merger are satisfied or capable of being satisfied and the sole reason the merger has not been consummated is that one or more of the regulatory conditions have not been satisfied at the time of the extension, except that this right to terminate the merger agreement is not available to any party whose failure to fulfill any obligation under the merger agreement has been the cause of the failure of the merger to close (this date, as it may be extended, is referred to herein as the termination date );

any governmental entity issues an order, decree or ruling or takes any other action permanently restraining, enjoining or otherwise prohibiting the merger, and the order, decree, ruling or other action has become final and nonappealable;

Inamed stockholders do not adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger at a duly convened stockholders meeting at which the vote to adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger was taken; or Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of Medicis common stock to Inamed stockholders in the merger at a duly convened stockholders meeting at which the vote to approve the share issuance was taken.

Termination by Medicis

Medicis may terminate the merger agreement by written notice at any time prior to completion of the merger if:

Inamed breaches or fails to perform any of its representations, warranties or covenants contained in the merger agreement, which would result in a failure of a closing condition relating to the accuracy of the representations and warranties of Inamed or the performance by Inamed of its obligations under the merger agreement and the breach or failure to perform cannot be or has not been cured prior to the termination date;

the Inamed board of directors withdraws or adversely modifies its recommendation of the merger, or resolves to do so;

the Inamed board of directors approves or recommends to Inamed stockholders an acquisition proposal other than the merger agreement, or resolves to do so;

a tender offer or exchange offer for shares of Inamed common stock is commenced (other than by Medicis or any of its affiliates) and the Inamed board of directors recommends that the Inamed stockholders tender their shares in such tender or exchange offer or such board of directors fails to recommend that the Inamed stockholders reject such tender or exchange offer within ten business days after receipt of Medicis request to do so; or for any reason Inamed fails to call, hold or convene the Inamed stockholders meeting on or before the fifth business day prior to the termination date, subject to certain limitations.

Termination by Inamed

Inamed may terminate the merger agreement by written notice at any time prior to completion of the merger if: Medicis breaches or fails to perform any of its representations, warranties or covenants contained in the merger agreement, which would result in a failure of a closing condition relating to the accuracy of the representations and warranties of Medicis or the performance of its obligations under the merger agreement and the breach or failure to perform cannot be or has not been cured prior to the termination date;

the Medicis board of directors withdraws or adversely modifies its recommendation of the share issuance, or resolves to do so;

the Medicis board of directors approves or recommends to Medicis stockholders an acquisition proposal other than the merger agreement, or resolves to do so;

a tender offer or exchange offer for shares of Medicis common stock is commenced (other than by Inamed or any of its affiliates) and the Medicis board of directors recommends that the Medicis stockholders tender their shares in such tender or exchange offer or such board of directors fails to recommend that the Medicis stockholders reject such tender or exchange offer within ten business days after receipt of Inamed's request to do so; or for any reason Medicis fails to call, hold or convene the Medicis stockholders' meeting on or before the fifth business day prior to the termination date, subject to certain limitations.

Termination Fees

Expense Fees

Medicis and Inamed have agreed that if the merger agreement is terminated by either Medicis or Inamed due to the other party's breach of any representation, warranty, covenant or agreement (i) which would result in a failure of the breaching party to perform its obligations under the agreement in all material respects, or (ii) where such representations and warranties are not true and correct as of the effective time of the merger, except where such failure would not constitute a material adverse effect to the breaching party, and neither (i) nor (ii) can be cured prior to the outside date, the breaching party shall pay an expense fee of $10 million to the other party, provided that certain written notice requirements are satisfied.

Medicis has agreed to pay Inamed an expense fee of $10 million if either Medicis or Inamed terminates the merger agreement due to (i) a governmental entity issuing a final order, decree or rule or taking any other final action restraining, enjoining or otherwise prohibiting the merger and the order, decree, ruling or other action has become final and nonappealable or (ii) the failure of the merger to close by the termination date, where all other conditions to the merger are capable of then being satisfied and the sole reason that the merger has not closed on or prior to the date of termination is that (a) a governmental entity has issued a judgment, injunction, order or decree making the merger illegal or otherwise restraining or prohibiting the closing of the merger and/or (b) the waiting period under the HSR Act shall not have expired or been terminated or the necessary consents and approvals under the antitrust laws have not been obtained (except for consents the failure of which to be obtained would not reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect on Medicis after the closing of the merger). This expense fee shall not be payable by Medicis if Medicis is required to pay another expense or termination fee.

Termination Fees

Inamed has agreed to pay Medicis a termination fee of $90 million, less any amount previously paid as specified above, at the earlier of the date that Inamed enters into a definitive agreement providing for an acquisition transaction or the date of the consummation of such transaction if:

prior to the Inamed special meeting, any person publicly announces an acquisition proposal relating to Inamed which has not been expressly and bona fide publicly withdrawn;

the merger agreement is terminated (i) by either Medicis or Inamed because of Inamed's failure to obtain the requisite stockholder approval at the Inamed special meeting or (ii) by Medicis as a result of a breach by Inamed of any representation, warranty, covenant or agreement (a) which would result in a failure of Inamed to perform its obligations under the merger agreement in all material respects, or (b) where such representations and warranties are not true and correct as of the effective time of the merger, except where such failure would not constitute a material adverse effect to Inamed, and neither (a) nor (b) can be cured prior to the termination date; and within 12 months after the date of termination of the merger agreement, Inamed enters into a definitive agreement with respect to an acquisition transaction or consummates an acquisition transaction.

Inamed has also agreed to pay Medicis a termination fee of $90 million within two business days following termination of the merger agreement if the merger agreement is terminated by Medicis because:

the Inamed board of directors has withdrawn or adversely modifies its recommendation with respect to the merger, or resolves to do so;

the Inamed board of directors approves or recommends to Inamed stockholders, or resolves to do so, an acquisition proposal other than the merger agreement;

a tender offer or exchange offer for shares of Inamed common stock is commenced (other than by Medicis or any of its affiliates) and the Inamed board of directors recommends that the Inamed stockholders tender their shares in such tender or exchange offer or fails to recommend that the Inamed stockholders reject such tender or exchange offer within ten business days after receipt of Medicis' request to do so; or Inamed fails to call, hold or convene the Inamed stockholders' meeting on or before the fifth business day prior to the termination date, subject to certain limitations.

Medicis has agreed to pay Inamed a termination fee of $70 million, less any amount previously paid as specified above, at the earlier of the date that Inamed enters into a definitive agreement providing for an acquisition transaction or the date of the consummation of such transaction if:

prior to the Medicis special meeting, any person publicly announces an acquisition proposal relating to Medicis which has not been expressly and bona fide publicly withdrawn;

the merger agreement is terminated (i) by either Medicis or Inamed because of Medicis' failure to obtain the requisite stockholder approval at the Medicis special meeting or (ii) by Inamed as a result of a breach by Medicis of any representation, warranty, covenant or agreement (a) which would result in a failure of Medicis to perform its obligations under the merger agreement in all material respects, or (b) where such representations and warranties are not true and correct as of the effective time of the merger, except where such failure would not constitute a material adverse effect to Medicis, and neither (a) nor (b) can be cured prior to the termination date; and within 12 months after the date of termination of the merger agreement, Medicis enters into a definitive agreement with respect to an acquisition transaction or consummates an acquisition transaction.

Medicis has also agreed to pay Inamed a termination fee of $70 million within two business days following termination of the merger agreement if the merger agreement is terminated by Inamed because:

the Medicis board of directors has withdrawn or adversely modifies its recommendation with respect to the merger, or resolves to do so;

the Medicis board of directors approves or recommends to Medicis stockholders an acquisition proposal other than the merger agreement, or resolves to do so;

a tender offer or exchange offer for shares of Medicis common stock is commenced (other than by Inamed or any of its affiliates) and the Medicis board of directors recommends that the Medicis stockholders tender their shares in such tender or exchange offer or fails to recommend that the Medicis stockholders reject such tender or exchange offer within ten business days after receipt of Inamed's request to do so; or Medicis fails to call, hold or convene the Medicis stockholders' meeting on or before the fifth business day prior to the termination date, subject to certain limitations.

For purposes of determining whether a termination fee is payable, an acquisition transaction is:

a merger, consolidation, business combination or similar transaction involving the party or any of its significant subsidiaries pursuant to which the party's stockholders immediately prior to such transaction would own less than 50% of the aggregate voting power of the entity surviving or resulting from such transaction;

the sale, lease, exclusive license or other disposition, directly or indirectly of the assets of the party or its subsidiaries representing 50% or more of the consolidated assets of the party and its subsidiaries;

a transaction in which any person or group of persons acquires beneficial ownership or the right to acquire beneficial ownership of 50% or more of the outstanding voting capital stock of the party; or any combination of the above.

Litigation Dismissal Fee

As consideration for Inamed's dismissal of certain litigation against Medicis and Q-Med AB, Medicis agreed to pay Inamed $16.5 million if:

the $10 million expense fee or the $70 million termination fees become payable by Medicis; or the merger agreement is terminated because Medicis stockholders do not approve the issuance of shares pursuant to the merger agreement at the Medicis special meeting.

Effect of Termination

In the event of termination of the merger agreement by either Medicis or Inamed prior to the effective time of the merger in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement, the merger agreement will immediately become void and have no effect. Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp., or Inamed will not have any liability or obligation to the other parties, except to the extent that the termination results from the willful and material breach by a party of any representation, warranty or covenant set forth in the merger agreement, and other than the payment of fees and expenses described above under Fees and Expenses and Termination Fees, certain provisions relating to confidentiality, and certain other general provisions which will survive the termination.

Fees and Expenses

Except as provided under Termination Fees, all fees and expenses incurred in connection with the merger will be paid by the party incurring the fees or expenses, whether or not the merger is consummated, other than expenses incurred in connection with filing, printing and mailing this joint proxy statement/ prospectus, the listing of Medicis common stock on the NYSE and in connection with required filings under the HSR Act, which will be shared equally by Medicis and Inamed.

Public Announcements

Medicis and Inamed will consult with each other before issuing, and provide each other reasonable opportunity to review and comment upon, any press release or other public statements with respect to the merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement and will not issue any such press release or make any public statement prior receiving the other party's consent, except as may be required by applicable law or by obligations pursuant to any listing agreement with any national securities exchange. However, each party may make public statements in response to specific questions by the press, analysts, investors or those attending industry conferences or financial analyst conference calls, so long as any such statements are not inconsistent with previous press releases, public disclosures or public statements made by either party.

Stock Exchange Listing

Medicis will use all reasonable efforts to cause the shares of Inamed common stock to be issued in the merger to be approved for listing on the NYSE, subject to official notice of issuance, prior to the closing of the merger.

Tax Treatment

Medicis and Inamed intend the merger to qualify for United States federal income tax purposes as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. Each of Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and Inamed will use its commercially reasonable efforts to cause the merger to qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and Inamed will use their commercially reasonable efforts not to, and not to permit or cause any of their respective subsidiaries to, take any action that could reasonably be expected to impede or prevent the merger from qualifying as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. For a description of certain tax consequences of the merger, see The Merger Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences.

Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. and Inamed will cooperate and use their commercially reasonable efforts in order for Medicis to obtain from Latham & Watkins LLP, and Inamed to obtain from Morrison & Foerster LLP, an opinion that for United States federal income tax purposes the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. If these opinions are not rendered, Medicis and Inamed will not complete the merger unless further approval of the Medicis stockholders and the Inamed stockholders is obtained with appropriate disclosure.

Inamed will give Medicis the opportunity to participate in the defense or settlement of any stockholder litigation against Inamed and its directors relating to the merger or any other transaction contemplated by the merger agreement. Medicis will give Inamed the opportunity to participate in the defense or settlement of any stockholder litigation against Medicis and its directors relating to the merger or any other transaction contemplated by the merger agreement. No settlement agreement with respect to any stockholder litigation against Medicis or Inamed and their respective directors relating to the merger or any other transaction contemplated by the merger agreement may be agreed to without the consent of the other party.

Medicis Board of Directors

At or prior to the effective date of the merger, the Medicis board of directors shall take all action necessary so that, effective immediately following the merger, Mitchell S. Rosenthal, M.D., Nicholas L. Teti, Joy A. Amundson (or, in the event that Ms. Amundson is unable to serve as a director, such other current director of Inamed selected by the nominating committee of the Medicis board of directors) and Terry E. Vandewarker shall be appointed to board of directors of Medicis, with Dr. Rosenthal being placed in a class with a term expiring in 2005, Ms. Amundson (or such other current director selected) and Mr. Vandewarker being placed in a class with a term expiring in 2006 and Mr. Teti being placed in a class with a term expiring in 2007. Jonah Shacknai will serve as Chairman of the Medicis board of directors and Mr. Teti will serve as Vice Chairman. It is also currently expected that Mr. Vandewarker and Ms. Amundson will be appointed to the audit committee of the Medicis board of directors along with two current members of the Medicis board of directors.

Inamed Rights Agreement

Under the merger agreement, Inamed has agreed that it will not:

redeem the rights associated with Inamed's rights agreement;

amend its rights agreement, unless required to do so by a court; or

In addition, the merger agreement provides that the Inamed board of directors shall not make a determination that Medicis, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. or any of their respective affiliates or associates is an acquiring person for purposes of Inamed's rights agreement. On March 20, 2005, Inamed amended its Amended and Restated Rights Agreement dated as of November 16, 1999, as amended, so that its provisions will not apply to the merger agreement or merger with Medicis. The rights agreement will still apply to alternative transactions that might be proposed by other parties without advance approval of the Inamed board of directors.

Medicis Rights Agreement

Medicis has agreed that it will not:

redeem the rights associated with Medicis's rights agreement;

amend its rights agreement, unless required to do so by a court; or adopt a new stockholder rights plan or poison pill.

In addition, the merger agreement provides that the Medicis board of directors shall not make a determination that Inamed, Masterpiece Acquisition Corp. or any of their respective affiliates or associates is an acquiring person for purposes of Medicis's rights agreement.

On August 17, 2005, with Inamed's written consent, Medicis amended and restated its stockholder rights agreement to, among other things, extend the expiration date of the rights issued pursuant to the stockholder rights agreement to August 17, 2015 and increase the authorized number of shares of Medicis preference stock to 1,500,000. For purposes of the merger agreement, all references to the Medicis stockholder rights agreement in effect as of the date of the merger agreement shall be deemed to refer to the Medicis amended and restated stockholder rights agreement.

Amendments, Extensions and Waivers

Amendments

The merger agreement may be amended by the parties at any time prior to the effective time of the merger by an instrument in writing signed on behalf of each of the parties. However, after the approval of the merger agreement at the special meeting of Inamed stockholders or the approval of the issuance of shares of

Medicis common stock in the merger at the special meeting of Medicis stockholders, there will be no amendment made that by law requires further approval by the stockholders of Medicis or Inamed without the further approval of the stockholders of Medicis or Inamed, respectively.

Extensions and Waivers

At any time prior to the effective time of the merger, any party to the merger agreement may:
extend the time for the performance of any of the obligations or other acts of the other parties;

waive any inaccuracies in the representations and warranties of the other parties contained in the merger agreement or in any document delivered pursuant to the merger agreement; or waive compliance by the other parties with any of the agreements or conditions contained in the merger agreement (except for those conditions relating to legal opinions); provided that after the Medicis stockholders approve the issuance of shares of Medicis common stock in the merger and the Inamed stockholders adopt the merger agreement and approve the merger, there shall be made no waiver that by law requires further approval by the Medicis or Inamed stockholders, respectively, without such approval.

Any agreement on the part of either party to any extension or waiver will be valid only if set forth in an instrument in writing signed by that party. The failure of any party to the merger agreement to assert any of its rights under the merger agreement or otherwise will not constitute a waiver of those rights.

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED COMBINED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income combine the historical consolidated statements of income of Medicis and Inamed, giving effect to the merger and related events as if they had occurred on July 1, 2004, the first day of Medicis' fiscal year ended June 30, 2005. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet combines the historical consolidated balance sheet of Medicis and the historical consolidated balance sheet of Inamed, giving effect to the merger and related events as if they had been consummated on June 30, 2005. As Medicis and Inamed have different fiscal year ends, Inamed's consolidated financial information for the latest year ended December 31, 2004 has been recast to Medicis' June 30, 2005 year end by adding subsequent interim periods and deducting comparable preceding periods for pro forma purposes. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements include adjustments directly attributable to the merger transaction. The pro forma adjustments are described in the accompanying notes. The pro forma adjustments are based upon available information and assumptions that are (1) directly attributable to the merger, (2) factually supportable, and (3) with respect to the statements of income, expected to have a continuing impact on the combined results beyond 12 months from the date of the merger. You should read this information in conjunction with the:

accompanying notes to the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements;

separate historical audited financial statements of Medicis as of and for the year ended June 30, 2005 included in Medicis' Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2005, which is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus; separate historical audited financial statements of Inamed as of and for the year ended December 31, 2004 included in Inamed's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2004, which is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus; and separate historical unaudited financial statements of Inamed as of and for the six months ended June 30, 2005 and 2004 included in Inamed's Quarterly Reports on Form 10-Q for the six month period ended June 30, 2005 and 2004, which are incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

We prepared the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information using the purchase method of accounting with Medicis treated as the acquirer. Accordingly, Medicis' cost to acquire Inamed will be allocated to the tangible and intangible assets acquired and liabilities assumed based upon their respective estimated fair values as of the date of the merger transaction. Under the HSR Act and other relevant laws and regulations, there are significant limitations regarding what Medicis can learn about specific Inamed scientific projects and product specific revenue that are underway. The allocation is dependent upon certain valuations and other studies that have not progressed to a stage where there is sufficient information to make a definitive allocation. Accordingly, the purchase price allocation pro forma adjustments are preliminary and have been made solely for the purpose of providing unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information. The final purchase price allocation, which will be determined subsequent to the closing of the merger, and its effect on results of operations, may differ significantly from the pro forma amounts included in this section, although these amounts represent management's best estimate.

We present the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information for informational purposes only. The pro forma information is not necessarily indicative of what our financial position or results of operations actually would have been had we completed the merger at the dates indicated. In addition, the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information does not purport to project the future financial position or operating results of the combined company.

Table of Contents*1. Basis of Presentation and New Accounting Pronouncements

These unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements have been prepared based upon historical financial information of Medicis and Inamed giving effect to the merger transaction and other related adjustments described in these footnotes. Certain footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States have been condensed or omitted as permitted by SEC rules and regulations. These unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are not necessarily indicative of the results of operations that would have been achieved had the merger transaction actually taken place at the dates indicated and do not purport to be indicative of future financial position or operating results. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements should be read in conjunction with the historical financial statements.

The merger transaction will be accounted for using the purchase method of accounting, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States, with Medicis treated as the acquiror and Inamed as the acquired company.

Medicis' most recent fiscal year ended on June 30, 2005 and Inamed's most recent fiscal year ended on December 31, 2004. Because these fiscal year ends differ by more than 93 days, SEC rules require that the reporting periods be more closely aligned for the purposes of pro forma financial information. For these purposes, the consolidated results of Inamed have been more closely aligned with Medicis, as follows. The consolidated results of Inamed for the latest year ended has been recast to Medicis' June 30, 2005 year end by adding subsequent interim periods and deducting comparable preceding periods for pro forma purposes (see Note 7).

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income combine the historical consolidated statements of income of Medicis and Inamed, giving effect to the merger and related events as if they had occurred on July 1, 2004, the first day of Medicis' fiscal year ended June 30, 2005. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet combines the historical consolidated balance sheet of Medicis and the historical consolidated balance sheet of Inamed, giving effect to the merger and related events as if they had been consummated on June 30, 2005.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined income statements do not reflect significant operational and administrative cost savings, which are referred to as synergies, that management of the combined company estimates may be achieved as a result of the merger transaction, or non-recurring one-time costs that may be incurred as a direct result of the merger transaction.

New Accounting Pronouncements

EITF No. 04-1 ( Accounting for Pre-existing Relationships between the Parties to a Business Combination ) is effective for business combinations completed after October 13, 2004, the date it was ratified by the FASB. The guidance requires that preexisting contractual relationships that are effectively settled through a business combination be accounted for as if they were settled separately from the combination. As it relates to the planned merger, Medicis agrees to pay Inamed an aggregate of $16.5 million as consideration for Inamed's dismissal of pending litigation against Medicis, if certain termination or other fees become payable by Medicis, or if the merger agreement is terminated because its stockholder approval is not obtained at the stockholders meeting relating to the merger. In connection with the merger, Inamed filed a motion to dismiss with prejudice Inamed's patent infringement action. In addition, Inamed consented to the dismissal of the pending litigation, which has been granted and has been made final. Arrangements that are not deemed to be at fair value will generally cause expense to be recognized by Medicis on the merger date. As a result, this settlement is included in the preliminary estimate of purchase price.

During December 2004, the FASB issued SFAS No. 123R which requires companies to measure and recognize compensation expense for all share-based payments at fair value. Share-based payments include stock option grants. Medicis grants options to purchase common stock to its employees and directors under its stock option plans at prices equal to the market value of the stock on the dates the options were granted. SFAS No. 123R is effective for Medicis beginning July 1, 2005. Medicis is currently evaluating the expected impact that the adoption of SFAS No. 123R will have on its consolidated financial position and results of operations. Medicis expects the adoption of SFAS No. 123R will have an unfavorable impact on its consolidated results of operations and net income per common share. SFAS No. 123R also requires the benefits of tax deductions in excess of recognized compensation cost to be reported as a financing cash flow, rather than as an operating cash flow as required under current guidelines. This requirement will reduce Medicis' net operating cash flows and increase net financing cash flows in periods after adoption. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements do not reflect the effects of SFAS 123R, however, Medicis expects that certain stock options will become vested on the merger date. The unrecognized compensation expense related to such options at June 30, 2005 is $54.9 million. The remaining unrecognized compensation cost as of the date of the merger will be recognized upon the acceleration of the vesting.

2. Purchase Price and Financing Considerations

Purchase Price

The merger agreement provides that each outstanding share of Inamed common stock will be converted into the right to receive 1.4205 shares of Medicis Class A common stock and $30 in cash. Medicis will not issue fractional shares of Medicis common stock in the merger. As a result, the total number of shares of Medicis common stock that each Inamed stockholder will receive in the merger will be rounded down to the nearest whole number, and each Inamed stockholder will receive cash for any fractional share of Medicis common stock that they would otherwise be entitled to receive in the merger. The merger agreement also provides that upon completion of the merger, all options outstanding under various Inamed's option plans will be assumed by Medicis. Some Inamed outstanding options will be converted into options to purchase shares of Medicis common stock and some Inamed outstanding options will be converted into options to purchase the merger consideration that would have been received if such options had been exercised in full for Inamed common stock immediately prior to the closing of the merger and exchanged for the merger consideration. The conversion ratios and exercise prices are determined in accordance with the merger agreement. The fair value of the assumed options is included as part of the preliminary estimate of the purchase price under accounting principles generally accepted in the United States.

Exchange ratio	1.4205
	51,583
Multiplied by Medicis average stock price for the period two days prior through two days after the public announcement of the proposed merger on March 21, 2005	$ 30.19
Share consideration		$ 1,557.3	million
Number of shares of Inamed common stock outstanding as of June 30, 2005 (in thousands)	36,313
Cash consideration per share	$ 30.00
Cash consideration		1,089.4	million
Estimated fair value of Inamed stock options outstanding as of June 30, 2005 expected to be exchanged for Medicis stock options or merger consideration*		57.4	million
Estimated value of litigation dismissal fee		(16.5)	million
Estimated transaction costs		29.7	million
Estimated purchase price		$ 2,717.3	million

* Estimated fair value of the options is calculated by using an option pricing model, based on appropriate assumptions and Medicis stock price of $30.19, which represented the average stock price for the period two days prior through two days after the March 21, 2005 announcement of the merger transaction.

The tangible and intangible assets and liabilities assumed of Inamed will be recorded as of the merger transaction date, at their respective fair values, and added to those of Medicis. The reported financial position and results of operations of Medicis after completion of the merger will reflect these values, but will not be restated retroactively to reflect the historical financial position or results of operations of Inamed. The allocation is dependent upon certain valuations and other studies that have not progressed to a stage where there is sufficient information to make a definitive allocation. Accordingly, the purchase price allocation pro forma adjustments are preliminary and have been made solely for the purpose of providing unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information. The final purchase price allocation, which will be determined subsequent to the closing of the merger, and its effect on results of operations, may differ significantly from the pro forma amounts included in this section, although these amounts represent management's best estimate.

For the purpose of this pro forma analysis, the above estimated purchase price has been allocated based on a preliminary estimate of the fair value of tangible and intangible assets and liabilities assumed as follow:

	(In millions)
Book value of net assets acquired at June 30, 2005	$ 479.2
Eliminate existing goodwill and other intangible assets	(185.4)
Adjusted book value of net assets acquired	293.8
Remaining allocation:
Decrease short term investments to fair value	(0.1)
Increase inventory to fair value(3)	21.0
Increase property and equipment to fair value	0.2
Identifiable intangible assets at fair value(1)	854.2
In-process research and development(2)	461.0
Allocation to unfavorable leases obligation	(2.6)
Increase deferred taxes liabilities	(288.3)
Goodwill	1,378.1
Estimated purchase price	$ 2,717.3

- (1) We estimate that substantially all of the acquired identifiable intangible assets will be attributable to the following categories:

	Estimated Fair Value	Estimated Useful Lives	Estimated Annual Amortization
	(In millions)		(In millions)
Core technology including patents	$ 615.5	8 to 17 years	$ 39.6
Brand names	137.9	20 years	6.9
Other (consists of customer relationship, distributor relationship, and non-compete agreements)	100.8	2 to 20 years	10.2
	$ 854.2		$ 56.7

We recognize that if the final valuation, which is expected to be completed within three to six months from the completion of the merger, derives different amounts from our estimate, we will adjust these expected identifiable intangible amounts to those amounts.

In accordance with the requirements of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets ( SFAS No. 142 ), the goodwill associated with the merger will not be amortized.

As required by Financial Accounting Standards Board Interpretation No. 4, Applicability of FASB Statement No. 2 to Business Combinations Accounted for by the Purchase Method ( FIN 4 ), the purchase price allocated to in-process research and development will be immediately expensed.

We do not have sufficient information at this time to provide specifics with regard to individual products, valuation methods and appraisal methods. Under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, and other relevant laws and regulations, there are significant limitations regarding the information that can be exchanged between the parties prior to closing the transaction. Medicis and Inamed have not been able to exchange information or engage in specific discussions regarding many of the in-process research and development projects and the range of possible outcomes for these projects.

A valuation performed using the guidance in Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 141, Business Combinations ( SFAS No. 141 ) and the AICPA Practice Aid Assets Acquired in a Business Combination to Be Used In Research and Development Activities: A Focus on

Software, Electronic Devices and Pharmaceutical Industries would recommend the fair value be determined using the income approach on a project by project basis utilizing the following information: a forecast of the estimated future net cash flows expected and then discounting these estimated future net cash flows to their present value using an appropriate discount rate that reflects the stage of completion (risk) of the project. This risk adjustment would reflect the probability of success of each project based upon the nature of the product, the scientific data associated with the technology, the current patent situation and the stage of completion of the project. The forecast of future cash flows would require the following assumptions to be made:

Revenue that is likely to result from both specific in-process research and development projects and research and development projects not yet commenced, including estimated number of units to be sold, estimated selling prices, estimated market penetration and estimated market share and year over year growth rates over the product life cycles;

Cost of sales related to the potential products using historical data, industry data or other sources of market data;

Sales and marketing expense using historical financial data of the acquired company, industry data or other market data;

As data that would be needed to conduct a valuation as described above of specific projects cannot be shared due to legal constraints, and as the process will take more than three months to complete, Medicis has not done a project-by-project valuation of Inamed's in-process research and development. Inamed has projects in various stages of clinical development. The more significant projects include the development of Responsive (for breast implant), Cohesive (for breast implant), Hydrafill (for facial contouring and wrinkle correction) and Reloxin (for correcting facial contours above eye level). Instead, Medicis determined the $461 million in-process research and development charge included as part of the Pro Forma Financial Data was a reasonable estimate based upon what it knows about the various products within the Inamed pipeline indicated above and the market for such potential products, Medicis' general understanding of Inamed's procedures, the amount of money spent on such projects to date and Medicis' own extensive experience with research and development activities.

Although we believe that Medicis' estimate of the in-process research and development charge arising from the merger transaction of the Inamed research portfolio is reasonable, no assurance can be given that a project-by-project valuation in accordance with SFAS No. 141 based upon the above cited factors will confirm Medicis' estimate. If the actual valuation, which is expected to be completed within three to six months from the completion of the merger, derives a different amount from the $461 million estimate, Medicis will adjust the expected write-off to that amount. The expected write-off and related disclosures will be included in the combined company's periodic filings with the SEC.

- (3) The non-cash inventory purchase accounting adjustment of $21.0 million will impact cost of goods sold during the approximate six months after closing of the acquisition, during which time the inventory on hand on the date of the merger transaction is sold.

Financing Considerations

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information included herein reflects management's best estimate of the amounts of financing at the time this unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information was prepared. The actual amounts of financing will not be determined until shortly before the closing date of the merger. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information presented herein assumes the following:

- (i) Medicis will issue approximately 51.6 million shares of Medicis Class A common stock and pay approximately $1,089.4 million cash to Inamed in the transaction. The number of shares to be issued and the additional cash consideration were computed based on the number of shares of Inamed common stock outstanding on June 30, 2005. For purposes of computing the purchase price, the price of the Medicis common stock to be issued is assumed to be $30.19 per common share, which represents the average closing price of Medicis common stock on the NYSE two days prior through two days after the public announcement of the proposed merger on March 21, 2005.

(ii) The cash portion of the purchase price will be funded by Medicis in part through:

a. The sale of short term investments with a carrying value of $299.9 million. The net investment income on such short term investment of $6 million for the year 2005 was computed based upon the average yield of 2% during 2005. The sale of short term investments and the elimination of the related annual investment income are reflected as pro forma adjustments in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet and unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income, respectively; and

b. The issuance of $650 million new senior notes at an interest rate of 7.5% using Medicis current anticipated borrowing rates for such type of loan. The estimated interest rate is based on current bank prime rate plus applicable margin. The loan is expected to have a seven year term which amortizes at 1% per year in the first six years and 94% in the last year. The estimated fee and other origination costs related to the issuance of the notes is $11.4 million and such cost is being amortized over seven years resulting in $1.6 million of expense per annum. The interest expense on such loan of $48.8 million for the year 2005 was computed based upon the current estimated interest rate. Interest expense and amortization of deferred financing cost have been reflected in the accompanying unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of income.

3. Pro Forma Adjustments

Adjustments included in the column under the heading Pro Forma Adjustments in both the unaudited pro forma combined balance sheet and statement of income correspond with the following:

Pro Forma Balance Sheet Adjustments

(a) The pro forma adjustment represents net proceeds from the issuance of senior debt of $638.6 million and sale of short term investments of $299.9 million and the remittance to Inamed of $1,089.4 million.

(b) The pro forma adjustment of $300 million is comprised of an adjustment of $0.1 million to write down short term investments to fair value and the sale of short term investments of $299.9 million as part of the financing arrangement.

(c) The pro forma adjustment of $21 million is to record inventory to fair value from the allocation of purchase price. The revalued inventory would not be expected to have a continuing impact on the combined results and, as such, has not been reflected in the accompanying unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income.

(d) The pro forma adjustment of $0.2 million is to record property and equipment to fair value from the allocation of purchase price. The revalued property and equipment will result in a higher depreciation expense of approximately $0.04 million per annum calculated on a straight line basis with estimated useful lives of three to five years. As the net increase in depreciation is immaterial, it has not been reflected in the accompanying unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income.

(e) The adjustment to net intangible assets account balances of $805.2 million represents the elimination of acquired historical Inamed intangible assets of $49 million and to record the estimated value of identifiable intangible assets from the purchase price allocation of $854.2 million.

(f) The pro forma adjustment represents the elimination of acquired historical Inamed goodwill balance of $136.4 million and to record goodwill from the purchase price allocation of $1,378.1 million.

(g) To record a $7.4 million current deferred income tax liability and a $280.9 million non-current deferred income tax liability for purchase price basis adjustments at an estimated combined statutory rate of 35% and to net the $18.3 million of Inamed historic non-current deferred income tax assets against the $280.9 million non-current deferred tax liability established for the purchase price basis adjustments.

(h) To record the issuance of $650 million senior debt and $11.4 million related financing cost, to finance the merger and the impact of this financing arrangement using Medicis' current anticipated borrowing rates for such types of loan. The current portion of the debts based on the current estimated repayment term is $6.5 million and $643.5 million is long-term.

(i) The adjustment to other current liabilities account balances represents the accrual of the direct merger transaction costs of approximately $29.7 million and $0.3 million accrual for bonus payment to certain executives in lieu of the acceleration of their stock options and restricted stock granted prior to the merger. Medicis will incur approximately $29.7 million of direct merger transaction costs which are classified as liabilities and represent an estimate of the costs primarily consisting of investment banker fees and legal and professional fees and have been included in the purchase price. Actual costs may vary from such estimates.

(j) The adjustment to other long term liabilities account balances of $2.6 million represents the purchase price allocation to the unfavorable lease obligation acquired from Inamed.

(k) The adjustment to common stock of $0.7 million represents the estimate par value of the shares to be issued by Medicis to effect the combination. The adjustment to additional paid-in-capital represents the estimated fair value of the replacement stock options at $57.4 million issued by Medicis to Inamed's options holders and the stock merger consideration to Inamed estimated at $1,556.6 million net of the amounts allocated to the par values of the common stock.

(l) The pro forma adjustments represent the elimination of acquired historical Inamed stockholders' equity. The adjustment to retained earnings balance also includes the write off of the $16.5 million litigation dismissal fee, $0.3 million bonus payment (see Note i) and $461 million in-process research and development from the purchase price allocation as required by FIN 4. These adjustments would not be expected to have a continuing impact on the combined results and, as such, have not been reflected in the accompanying unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income.

Pro Forma Statement of Income Adjustments

(m) The pro forma adjustment represents $6.5 million Inamed royalty expense reclassified from selling, general and administration to conform to Medicis' presentation. Inamed records depreciation of property and equipment under the functional captions in its statement of income. No pro forma adjustment has been made to reclassify the historical depreciation expense of Inamed of approximately $4.5 million recorded under cost of product revenue. Such depreciation expense continues to be reflected under cost of product revenue of the statement of income on a pro forma basis.

(n) The pro forma adjustment represents $0.4 million offset to rental expense as a result of the amortization of the unfavorable lease obligation capitalized from the purchase price allocation, $5 million Inamed depreciation expense reclassified to depreciation and amortization and $6.5 million Inamed royalty expense reclassified to cost of product revenue to conform to Medicis' presentation.

(o) The adjustment to depreciation and amortization represents a $5 million reclassification from selling, general and administration, the elimination of amortization expense of $5.3 million related to the Inamed historical intangible assets and the additional amortization expense of $56.7 million for identified intangible assets from the allocation of purchase price. Included in the additional amortization expense is a net increase of $41.8 million in amortization of certain intangible assets related to acquired products, such as core technology and brand name, which is not included in the cost of product revenue. The combined company expects to amortize the estimated fair value of the identifiable intangible assets with finite lives of approximately $854.2 million on a straight-line basis over an estimated average useful life of 16 years. In addition, the combined company expects to amortize tangible assets over an estimated average useful life of five years for real property and three to five years for machinery and equipment, etc. Upon finalization of all asset valuations, specific useful lives will be assigned to the acquired assets, and depreciation and amortization will be adjusted accordingly.

(p) The adjustment represents the reduction in investment income of $6 million and considers the effect from the sale of short term investment.

(q) The adjustment represents interest expenses of \$48.8 million and amortization of deferred financing cost of \$1.6 million related to the new debts. The current estimated interest expenses would increase by \$0.8 million, \$0.5 million net of tax, if the bank prime rate is increased by  $\frac{1}{8}\%$ .

(r) Adjustment represents the income tax effect of all unaudited pro forma condensed consolidated statement of income adjustments using the enacted tax rate(s) that would apply in the applicable tax jurisdiction(s) where the adjustment is incurred. The estimated combined United States federal and state statutory rate applied to the adjustments when applicable is 40%. The estimated combined worldwide statutory rate applied when applicable is 35%.

The pro forma condensed combined financial statements do not reflect the expected realization of annual recurring cost savings of approximately $15 million to $20 million in the first full year of operations. These savings are expected to result from, among other things, the reduction of overhead expenses, changes in corporate infrastructure, elimination of business integration costs and duplicative facilities and the leveraging of the combined annual external purchases. Although management expects that cost savings will result from the merger, there can be no assurance these cost savings will be achieved.

5. Merger Related Costs

Medicis preliminary integration plan includes total merger related costs of approximately $25.9 million, $15.5 million net of income taxes. Through June 30, 2005, Medicis has recorded $5.3 million in business integration planning costs in its historical statement of income. Future costs are not included in the purchase price allocation but are period costs which will be charged to the statement of income as incurred over approximately a two year period subsequent to the closing of the merger transaction. As these costs are not a part of the normal operations of Medicis, they have not been reflected in the accompanying unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income. These costs include expenses related to retention bonuses for Inamed employees, employee-related restructuring and integration expenses, system migration, product integration and other infrastructure costs. Except as described above, the vesting of Medicis stock options will occur on the date of the merger for all other option holders as provided by the original terms of the option grants. As integration plans are finalized and implemented, such costs will be more precisely quantified. Actual costs may vary materially from these preliminary estimates.

Diluted net income per share is calculated by adjusting net income for tax-effected net interest and issue costs on the Old Notes and New Notes, divided by the weighted average number of common shares outstanding assuming conversion. For additional information regarding Medicis contingently convertible senior notes, refer to separate historical audited financial statements of Medicis as of and for the year ended June 30, 2005 included in Medicis Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended June 30, 2005, which is incorporated by reference into this document

The diluted net income per common share computation for the pro forma basis excludes 2.7 million shares of stock which represented outstanding stock options whose exercise prices were greater than the average market price of the common shares and were anti-dilutive.

Table of Contents*COMPARISON OF STOCKHOLDER RIGHTS AND CORPORATE GOVERNANCE MATTERS

Both Medicis and Inamed are incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware and, accordingly, the rights of the stockholders of each are currently governed by the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware, or the DGCL. Upon completion of the merger, stockholders of Inamed will have their shares of Inamed common stock converted into the right to receive Medicis common stock and cash. Accordingly, upon completion of the merger, the rights of Inamed stockholders who become stockholders of Medicis in the merger will be governed by the DGCL, the amended and restated certificate of incorporation of Medicis, as amended, the amended and restated bylaws of Medicis, and the Amended and Restated Rights Agreement, dated as of August 17, 2005, between Medicis and Wells Fargo Bank Minnesota, N.A., as rights agent, as amended.

The following is a summary of material differences between the current rights of Medicis stockholders and the current rights of Inamed stockholders. While we believe that this summary covers the material differences between the two, this summary may not contain all of the information that is important to you. This summary is not intended to be a complete discussion of the respective rights of Medicis and Inamed stockholders and it is qualified in its entirety by reference to the DGCL and the various documents of Medicis and Inamed to which we refer in this summary. In addition, the identification of some of the differences in the rights of these stockholders as material is not intended to indicate that other differences that are equally important do not exist. We urge you to read carefully this entire joint proxy statement/ prospectus, the relevant provisions of the DGCL and the other documents to which we refer in this joint proxy statement/ prospectus for a more complete understanding of the differences between being a stockholder of Medicis and being a stockholder of Inamed. Medicis and Inamed have filed with the SEC their respective documents referenced in this comparison of stockholder rights and will send copies of these documents to you, without charge, upon your request. Medicis shall indemnify any such person seeking indemnification in connection with a proceeding (or part thereof) initiated by such person only if such proceeding (or part thereof) was authorized by the board of directors.

request of Inamed as follows:

In the case of actions other than those by or in the right of Inamed, against expenses (including attorneys fees), judgments, fines and amounts paid in settlement actually and reasonably incurred by the person in connection with such action, if the person acted in good faith and in a manner the person reasonably believed to be in, or not opposed to, the best interests of Inamed, and with respect to any criminal action or proceeding, had no reasonable cause to believe his conduct was unlawful.

In the case of actions by or in the right of Inamed, against expenses (including attorneys fees) actually and reasonably incurred by the person in connection with the defense or settlement of such action or suit if the person acted in good faith and in a manner the person reasonably believed to be in, or not opposed to, the best interests of Inamed, except that no indemnification will be made in respect of any matter as to which such person shall have been adjudged to liable to Inamed by a court of competent jurisdiction, unless the court determines that, despite the adjudication of liability but in view of all the circumstances of the case, the person is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnity for expenses.

Inamed's bylaws provide that indemnification shall be authorized upon a determination that the person has satisfied the applicable standard of conduct by (i) a majority vote of such proceeding in advance of its final disposition; provided, however, that, if the DGCL requires, the payment of such expenses incurred by a director or officer in his or her capacity as a director or officer (and not in any other capacity in which service was, or is rendered by such person while a director or

Medicis bylaws also provide that if a claim is not paid in full by Medicis within 90 days after a written claim has been received by Medicis, the claimant may at any time thereafter bring suit against Medicis to recover the unpaid amount of the claim and, if successful in whole or in part, the claimant shall also be entitled to be paid the expenses of prosecuting such claim.

It shall be a defense to any such action (other than an action brought to enforce a claim for expenses incurred in defending any proceeding in advance of its final disposition where the required undertaking, if any is required, has been tendered to Medicis) that the claimant has not met the standards of conduct which make it permissible under the DGCL for Medicis to indemnify the claimant for the amount claimed, but the burden of proving such defense shall be on Medicis.

Neither the failure of Medicis (including its board of directors, independent legal counsel or stockholders) to have made a determination prior to the commencement of such action that been successful on the merits or otherwise, including dismissal without prejudice or settlement without admission of liability, the person will be indemnified against expenses. Any indemnification must be made within 90 days upon the written request of the agent, unless a determination is made that the agent is not entitled to indemnification.

Except as limited by the above, Inamed will advance expenses if the person undertakes to repay the advancement if it is ultimately determined that such person is not entitled to be indemnified. However, no advance will be made if a determination is made by (i) a majority vote of a quorum consisting of directors not party to the action, or (ii) if a quorum of disinterested directors is not obtainable or so directs, by independent legal counsel in a written opinion, that based upon the facts known to the board of directors or counsel at the time the determination is made, the person acted in bad faith and in a manner that the person did not believe to be in or not opposed to the best interest of Inamed, or with respect to a criminal proceeding, that the person believed or had reasonable cause to believe that the conduct was unlawful.

Inamed's bylaws provide that a person's right to indemnification is not exclusive of any other rights to which the person may be entitled under any bylaw, agreement, vote of stockholders or disinterested directors or otherwise.

indemnification of the claimant is proper in the circumstances because he or she has met the applicable standard of conduct set forth in the DGCL, nor an actual determination by Medicis (including its board of directors, independent legal counsel or Medicis' certificate of incorporation and bylaws also provide that the right to indemnification and the payment of expenses incurred in defending a proceeding in advance of its final disposition shall not be exclusive of any other right which any person may have or hereafter acquire under any statute, provision of certificate of incorporation, bylaw, agreement, vote of stockholders or disinterested directors or otherwise.

Medicis' certificate of incorporation and bylaws further provide that Medicis may maintain insurance at its expense to protect itself and any director, officer, employee or agent of Medicis or another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise against any expense, liability or loss, whether or not Medicis would have the power to indemnify such person against such expense, liability or loss under the DGCL.

For purposes of such deposit, Parent shall assume that there will not be any fractional shares of Parent Common Stock. Parent further agrees to provide to the Exchange Agent, from time to time as needed, immediately available funds sufficient to pay cash in lieu of fractional shares pursuant to Section 2.04(e) and any dividends and other distributions pursuant to Section 2.04(c). Any cash and certificates representing Parent Common Stock deposited with the Exchange Agent shall hereinafter be referred to as the Exchange Fund. No interest will be paid or will accrue on any cash payable pursuant to Section 2.01(a)(i), Section 2.04(c) or Section 2.04(e). In the event of a transfer of ownership of Company Common Stock which is not registered in the transfer records of the Company, the Merger Consideration may be issued and paid with respect to such Company Common Stock to such a transferee if the Certificate representing such shares of Company Common Stock is presented to the Exchange Agent in accordance with this Section 2.04(b), accompanied by all documents required to evidence and effect such transfer and evidence that any applicable stock transfer taxes have been paid.

(d) The Merger Consideration delivered upon surrender of the Certificates in accordance with the terms hereof (including any cash paid pursuant to Section 2.04(c) or Section 2.04(e)) shall be deemed to have been paid in full satisfaction of all rights pertaining to such share of Company Common Stock.

(e) No certificates or scrip representing fractional shares of Parent Common Stock, or book-entry credit of the same, shall be issued upon the surrender for exchange of Certificates, no dividend or distribution with respect to Parent Common Stock shall be payable on or with respect to any fractional share and such fractional share interests shall not entitle the owner thereof to any rights of a stockholder of Parent. For purposes of this Section 2.04(e), all fractional shares to which a single record holder would be entitled shall be aggregated and calculations shall be rounded to the fourth decimal point. In lieu of any such fractional share of Parent Common Stock, each holder of Company Common Stock otherwise entitled to a fraction of a share of Parent Common Stock will be entitled to receive from the Exchange Agent a cash payment in an amount equal to the product of (i) such fractional part of a share of Parent Common Stock multiplied by (ii) an amount equal to the average of the closing sale prices for Parent Common Stock on the NYSE, as reported in The Wall Street Journal, Northeastern edition, for each of the ten consecutive trading days ending with the second complete trading day prior to the Effective Time.

(f) Any portion of the Exchange Fund which remains undistributed to the holders of Company Common Stock for six months after the Effective Time shall be delivered to Parent, upon demand, and, from and after such delivery to Parent, any holders of Company Common Stock who have not theretofore complied with this Article II shall thereafter look only to Parent for the Merger Consideration payable in respect of such shares of Company Common Stock, any cash in lieu of fractional shares of Parent Common Stock to which they are entitled pursuant to Section 2.04(e) and any dividends or other distributions with respect to Parent Common Stock to which they are entitled pursuant to Section 2.04(c), in each case, without any interest thereon.

(h) If any Certificate shall have been lost, stolen or destroyed, upon the making of an affidavit of that fact by the Person claiming such Certificate to be lost, stolen or destroyed and, if required by Parent, the posting by such Person of a bond, in such reasonable amount as Parent may direct, as indemnity against any claim that may be made against it with respect to such Certificate, the Exchange Agent shall pay in exchange for such lost, stolen or destroyed Certificate the Merger Consideration payable in respect of the shares of Company Common Stock represented by such Certificate, any cash in lieu of fractional shares of Parent Common Stock to which the holders thereof are entitled pursuant to Section 2.04(e) and any dividends or other distributions to which the holders thereof are entitled pursuant to Section 2.04(c), in each case, without any interest thereon.

(i) Parent or the Exchange Agent shall be entitled to deduct and withhold from the consideration otherwise payable pursuant to this Agreement to any holder of Company Common Stock such amounts as Parent or the Exchange Agent are required to deduct and withhold under the Code, or any Tax Law, with respect to the making of such payment. (j) The Exchange Agent shall invest any cash included in the Exchange Fund, as directed by Parent, on a daily basis. Any interest and other income resulting from such investments shall be paid to Parent upon termination of the Exchange Fund pursuant to Section 2.04(f). Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 2.06(a), the conversion of any Company Stock Options (regardless of whether such options qualify as incentive stock options within the meaning of Section 422 of the Code) into options to purchase Parent Common Stock shall be made in such a manner as would not constitute a modification of such Company Stock Options within the meaning of Section 424 of the Code.

(b) At the Effective Time and without any action on the part of the parties hereto, each unexercised and unexpired stock option that is then outstanding under the 1999 Option Plan or the 2000 Option Plan, whether vested or unvested (the Conversion Options and together with the Exchange Options, the Company Stock Options ), shall be assumed by Parent in accordance with the terms (as in effect at the Effective Time) of the 1999 Option Plan or 2000 Option Plan, as applicable, and the stock option agreement by which such Conversion Option is evidenced (including any amendments thereto) and this Agreement and converted into an option to purchase a number of shares of Parent Common Stock and an amount of cash as determined in accordance with this Section 2.06(b).
