SYMANTEC AND VERITAS ANNOUNCE INTEGRATION TEAM

The Companies Have Engaged PricewaterhouseCoopers and Bain & Company to Help Manage the Integration

CUPERTINO, Calif., and MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. Jan. 17, 2005 Symantec Corp. (Nasdaq:SYMC) and VERITAS Software Corp. (Nasdaq: VRTS) today announced the structure of the team responsible for managing the integration of the two companies. In addition, the companies have engaged PricewaterhouseCoopers to provide merger and acquisition services related to infrastructure planning and implementation and Bain & Company to help with the integration of customer facing functions.

Symantec and VERITAS are highly complementary in terms of product lines, account coverage structure, and go-to-market approaches, said John W. Thompson, Symantec chairman and chief executive officer. At the same time, we are taking an approach that is both pragmatic and realistic when it comes to the integration challenges that lie ahead. Our synergies, along with the commitment of both companies' employees and the integration teams, should help make the integration process more manageable.

Ed Gillis, VERITAS chief financial officer, will lead the overall integration planning and management efforts for both companies. Gillis is establishing the integration management office and forming joint teams to begin the planning.
