The following letter was first released by Newell Rubbermaid Inc. (the Company) to certain stockholders of the Company on April 18, 2007:

[Newell Rubbermaid Inc. Letterhead]

Dear _____:

It was a distinct pleasure discussing with you the election of Directors at our upcoming annual meeting of shareholders. I much appreciate the thoughtfulness that you are bringing to your decision making process. I hope our conversation was helpful to you.

As we discussed:

At the present juncture of our Company s efforts to restructure strategically, we believe that the decision to retain our classified Board is in the best interest of our shareholders;

This decision was made in the context of a Board which has eleven entirely independent Directors out of twelve, including an independent, non-executive chairman;

The Company s overall governance structure has earned the Company high ratings from ISS;

In October 2005, the Board replaced its CEO and has since elected a 30-year veteran of Procter & Gamble who has added great focus and leadership to the Company as evidenced by a shareholder return of over 25% in 2006; and

We continue to attract talented, independent individuals, such as the recently elected Michael Todman of Whirlpool, to our Board. In addition to Mr. Todman, we have added Tom Clarke of Nike, Ray Viault of General Mills, Mike Cowhig of Gillette, Steve Strobel of Motorola and Mark Ketchum of Procter & Gamble since 2002.

We would hope that you would see fit to vote for all of our Directors who are standing for election and not withhold your vote.

I very much appreciate your time and thank you for your consideration

With best regards,

William D. Marohn

Chairman of the Board
