FIRST UNION AND WACHOVIA ANNOUNCE COMMUNITY COMMITMENT

FOR THE NEW WACHOVIA

CHARLOTTE and WINSTON-SALEM, N.C., May 24, 2001 - First Union Corporation (NYSE:

Edgar Filing: WACHOVIA CORP/ NC - Form 425

FTU) and Wachovia Corporation (NYSE: WB) today announced a Community Commitment for the new Wachovia designed to serve the needs of its combined communities. First Union and Wachovia first announced a merger of equals on April 16, 2001. Both companies separately hold "Outstanding" Community Reinvestment Act ratings, the highest ranking possible, held by few banks in the country.

"Together our companies are better," said L.M. Baker Jr., chairman, president and chief executive officer of Wachovia. "Today's Community Commitment is one of the first tangible benefits from combining two companies with longstanding, proven records of community development and commitment. In fact, both of our companies put more than 400 lower-income families in homes each week - almost 22,000 last year alone - and provided more than 55,000 loans to small businesses in 2000. Together we will continue to build on this great record of success."

"We now will be able to offer a broader range of products and services designed to meet the needs of the low- and moderate-income individuals and small businesses," said G. Kennedy Thompson, chairman, president and chief executive officer of First Union. "For example, we now will enhance our mortgage products and expand our homebuyer counseling services, including the introduction of a $1 million down payment assistance program for low-income homeowners. In addition, we are committing $1 million to pre-purchase counseling programs through the Community Partnership Mortgage Program. Up to 4,000 potential homeowners will benefit from this education."

For Small Business Lending, the new Wachovia will maintain a leadership position in the Southeast. To support additional growth in small business, the companies will expand their Tier 2 procurement program, which encourages vendors to contract with women- and minority-owned suppliers to foster opportunities for those businesses.

The companies are committed to being leaders in fair and equitable lending practices. In keeping with this commitment, the new Wachovia upon completion of the merger integration will eliminate the sale of single premium credit life insurance policies for mortgage loans. The companies said that they will continue to be leaders in the fight to stop predatory lending practices and will launch a pilot counseling program for home equity customers who require assistance in working toward credit solutions in order to avoid foreclosure.

Both companies also will sponsor a wide variety of consumer education initiatives, including financial educational seminars, and continue the support of technology in education through the e-Communities First program, which brings technological access and skill sets to lower-income neighborhoods.

Each company has a well-recognized culture of volunteerism that encourages employees to become actively involved in community organizations. First Union's Education First program was recognized with the President's Service Award, the nation's highest honor for volunteerism, as well as a gold medal from ComputerWorld magazine for an e-Communities First initiative developed to "bridge the digital divide." Wachovia has received numerous awards related to community development, including the Federal Home Loan Bank of Atlanta 2000 Partnership Excellence Award and a special merit award for its activities in Atlanta and the Southeast.

The Community Commitment - for states where both companies reside, including Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia -will be a minimum of $35 billion, including $20 billion in small business lending, $9 billion in affordable mortgages, and $6 billion in community development lending and investments.
