Public rejects hostile takeover of City Bank.

Hearing testimony was ten-to-one against the takeover attempt.

Last month, the State Division of Financial Institutions held an unprecedented two-day hearing to receive public opinion of the hostile takeover battle being waged against City Bank. Shareholders, customers, employees, businesses and labor organizations spoke out, saying they believed the forced merger would result in less competition, less choice and a decline in services in what is already one of the most under-banked states in the nation. Here is just a sample of testimony submitted at the hearing:

In speaking on behalf of our staff and owners, we strongly believe that a merger with Central Pacific Bank will be detrimental to the business climate, will promote an environment that is conducive for a monopoly, will increase prices and costs, and provide a reduction in services and customer service.

- Jon Miyabuchi, President and CEO, Sushi Go Inc.

There is no argument that a merger between City Bank and Central Pacific would result in reduced competition, branch closings, elimination of jobs, and have a negative impact on our somewhat fragile Hawaiian economy. The fact that it is a hostile takeover makes it even worse.

- Myrna Murdoch, Oahu resident

Local Hawaii shareholders over 80 percent of them voted to oppose the merger. I hope that the State will not take the position of helping a company force out another company under the guise of this so-called merger.

- Rose Cruz Churma, business customer

I want to add my name to the list of citizens who are against the efforts of CPB to acquire controlling interest of City Bank. I believe that life is more than about making a profit. It is about taking care of one another. For a bank that means creating a positive environment for its employees and serving the financial needs of its customers all of its customers, not just those who are the most wealthy.

- Herman Aizawa, PhD

Overall, more than 200 individuals testified in favor of City Bank. Only 20 most of them Central Pacific's own directors, managers and consultants were in support of the hostile takeover attempt.
