Bear Stearns Merger with JPMorgan Chase

Edgar Filing: BEAR STEARNS COMPANIES INC - Form 425

Frequently Asked Questions
May 8, 2008

Q: Why is my vote being solicited?

A: You are being asked to approve and adopt the merger agreement, dated as of March 16, 2008, by and between JPMorgan Chase and Bear Stearns, as amended on March 24, 2008, pursuant to which, if the merger contemplated by the merger agreement is completed, Bear Stearns will become a subsidiary of JPMorgan Chase. The special meeting to approve and adopt the merger agreement will be held on May 29, 2008. It is important that as many shares of Bear Stearns common stock as possible be represented at the special meeting by proxy or otherwise. The affirmative vote of a majority of all outstanding shares Bear Stearns common stock is required to approve and adopt the merger agreement. Failure to vote any shares that you hold (other than shares held in The Bear Stearns Companies Inc. Employee Stock Ownership Plan and The Bear Stearns Companies Inc. 2008 Trust) will have the same effect as voting against the merger. If the trustee for the ESOP does not receive voting instructions for any shares held in the ESOP, it shall determine how any uninstructed shares are voted. If the trustee for the Trust does not receive voting instructions for any shares held in the Trust, it will vote uninstructed shares held in the Trust in the same proportion as the voting instructions that it receives for shares held in the Trust.

Q: What will happen if the Bear Stearns stockholders approve and adopt the merger agreement?

A: If the Bear Stearns stockholders approve and adopt the merger agreement, upon the satisfaction or waiver of the other conditions to the merger, the merger will be completed, and among other things (1) Bear Stearns will become a subsidiary of JPMorgan Chase; (2) Bear Stearns common stockholders will receive shares of JPMorgan Chase common stock; (3) retained employees will become employees of JPMorgan Chase; and (4) transitioned employees will be entitled to receive severance and other benefits as set forth in the Retention Guidelines for Bear Stearns' employees, which are posted on our internal website.

Q: What will happen if the Bear Stearns stockholders do not approve and adopt the merger agreement?

A: If the Bear Stearns stockholders do not approve and adopt the merger agreement, JPMorgan Chase will have the right to terminate the merger agreement 120 days after the date of the special meeting.

JPMorgan Chase has provided an operating guaranty in respect of certain trading and other obligations of Bear Stearns and certain of its subsidiaries. In addition, JPMorgan Chase has provided the Fed guaranty to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York of Bear Stearns' borrowings from the New York Fed at the Prime Dealer Discount Window. The two guaranties have provided liquidity and the support necessary for the financial stability and viability of Bear Stearns. In the event the stockholders of Bear Stearns do not approve the merger, the operating guaranty would, by its terms, terminate 120 days following such a "no" vote. JPMorgan Chase would also terminate the Fed guaranty under those circumstances. Absent the operating guaranty, Bear Stearns could face the increased risk of rapid loss of clients, customers and counterparties, and absent the Fed guaranty, Bear Stearns could be unable to obtain necessary funding. The lack of liquidity and the loss of clients, customers and counterparties could seriously jeopardize Bear Stearns' financial viability, which would raise substantial doubt as to its ability to continue as a going concern. Accordingly, Bear Stearns could be forced to file for bankruptcy protection and to liquidate its assets, resulting in material adverse consequences for Bear Stearns' stockholders, creditors and employees.

The failure to complete the merger could have significant adverse effects on our employees, which may include the following:

- o Those employees with offers of employment from JPMorgan Chase would likely see them rescinded.
- o Employees would no longer be eligible to receive the compensation packages for retained employees and transition employees set forth in the Retention Guidelines for Bear Stearns' employees, which are posted on our internal website.
- o Employees would no longer be eligible to receive the severance set forth in the U.S. Severance Pay Schedule, which is posted on our internal website.
- o Bear Stearns could be required to layoff significant numbers of employees. Upon termination, Bear Stearns' employees are generally not entitled to any severance. Historically, Bear Stearns has made severance decisions on a case by case basis. Any decision to pay severance will be based in part on Bear Stearns' financial condition at the time of any such termination, which could be significantly impaired. In addition, if Bear Stearns is forced to file for bankruptcy protection any decision to pay severance to employees could be subject to the approval of the bankruptcy court.
