Proxy Contest

History With Wynnefield Crown Crafts finds itself in the third conflict over the past four years with Wynnefield. From November 2005 through June 2007, Wynnefield participated in Company Board meetings as a non-voting observer. In 2007, Wynnefield launched a proxy fight for two Board seats; Wasserman was elected. In 2008, Wynnefield threatened another proxy fight; a settlement was reached by adding Joseph Kling, a Wynnefield designee. In 2010, Wynnefield again launches a proxy contest. 32

---

Strategic Review Has Been Completed & Unanimously Approved by Board Strategic Review Committee included Wasserman (a Wynnefield nominee in 2007), Chestnut and Kirschner (Chair); Nie was a non-voting observer to the Committee Committee retained independent industry expert to lead process Expert determined scope and timeline of process Expert's recommendations received unanimous Committee recommendation, and unanimous Board approval While we may, at times, discuss general points of this plan, it is not prudent from a competitive and proprietary standpoint, nor is it accepted corporate governance best practice, to publicize this detailed and confidential strategic planning document in its entirety. 33

Compensation Aligned With Industry and All Shareholders Compensation Committee consists solely of independent directors Committee includes two of Wynnefield s nominees Committee retained independent compensation consultant Consultant made recommendations regarding the compensation of Crown Crafts directors and executives, including salary, bonus and long-term incentive awards, such as restricted share/stock option grants Company used premium priced options with short life to properly incent Board and executive compensation is in line with peers 34

---

Succession Plan Crown Crafts has a detailed, written CEO succession plan in place. Most recent annual review was completed in February 2010. The Board has a long-held view that effective succession planning is pivotal to the successful governance and management of the Company. Board has been vigilant in planning and preparing for a seamless leadership transition both planned and unplanned to preserve stability and accountability, as well as to maintain the confidence and support of all of the Company's stakeholders and constituents. Like many other public companies, Crown Crafts does not release its succession plans for competitive reasons. To publicly designate a potential successor or group of successor candidates could lead to possible management departures, undermine recruitment or retention efforts or the public disclosure of long-term strategic objectives that are not otherwise disclosed, which could result in competitive harm to the Company from its current and future competitors.

Strong Corporate Governance Principles Underpin Company's Strategy & Practices Crown Crafts has an independent lead director. The Audit, Compensation, Nominating and Governance, and Capital Committees are comprised solely of independent directors. The Audit, Compensation and Capital committees have had representation from Wynnefield for the past three years. During their tenures, Mr. Wasserman has voted with the majority 50 out of 54 times with one abstention, and Mr. Kling has voted with the majority 35 out of 37 times with two abstentions. The Company has stock ownership guidelines for independent directors and senior executives.<sup>36</sup> The Company uses premium priced options.

Our Nominees E. Randall Chestnut joined Crown Crafts in January 1995 and has been President, Chief Executive Officer and Chairman of the Company since 2001. He has overseen the successful transformation and complete financial turnaround of the Company. Prior to joining Crown Crafts, Mr. Chestnut served as President of Beacon Manufacturing Company, a producer of adult and infant blankets, from December 1988 to January 1995 and as Vice Chairman of Wiscassett Mills Company, a yarn manufacturer, from 1990 to 1994. Richard L. Solar brings extensive industry, financial, M&A, public company and licensing experience to the Company, including serving as a director and as Chairman of the Audit Committee of Marvel Entertainment, Inc. until its sale to The Walt Disney Company in 2009 in a transaction valued at more than $4 billion. From 1996 to June 2002, Mr. Solar served as Senior Vice President, Director and Chief Financial Officer of Gerber Childrenswear, a publicly-traded infant and children's consumer products company. He also co-led the acquisition of the company prior to its going public and served the company as a consultant from June 2002 to February 2003. William T. Deyo, Jr. has served the Company as a director for nine years, since the successful reorganization of Crown Crafts in 2001. He has been a principal of Goddard Investment Group, LLC, a real estate investment firm, since 1999. From 1966 to 1999, he held various positions with Wachovia Bank in Atlanta, Georgia, serving last as Executive Vice President. Mr. Deyo's more than 30 years in the banking industry give him significant insight into issues faced by the Company that relate to lending and financing activities. Sidney Kirschner, who previously served as a director of the Company for almost nine years, brings a valuable understanding of its business and industry. During a successful and varied career, he has held top executive officer positions with a former Fortune 500 company and has served on the boards of other successful companies, including companies in the textile and manufacturing industries. 37

Concerns with Wynnefield Nominees Melvin Keating Mr. Keating's experience, in particular, causes concern. For example, Mr. Keating was President and Chief Executive Officer of Alliance Semiconductor Corporation from December 2005 until September 2008 when Alliance's Board decided to liquidate the company. This was after Alliance, under Mr. Keating's leadership, had sold virtually all of its operating assets and had invested $59.4 million of the cash proceeds in short-term, high-risk, high-yield securities that were later completely written off. Mr. Keating also has served on the boards of a number of troubled companies, including Plymouth Rubber Co., which delisted itself from the American Stock Exchange in 2004 following sustained operating losses, and Kitty Hawk, Inc., which filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy reorganization in 2007. Jon C. Biro Mr. Biro is a certified public accountant whose public company experience appears to be limited to approximately two years as a CFO with a printing company, about 13 years in various positions including director for a resin manufacturer, and about half a year as a director (with Mr. Keating) for Aspect Medical Systems, Inc. prior to its sale to United States Surgical Corporation. This lack of breadth and depth in relevant industry and public company expertise is not comparable to the highly qualified Company-nominated candidates who have been fully vetted by the Board. 38

For Additional Information Attendees and other viewers of the preceding presentation are advised to read all reports and other filings made by the Company with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Copies of these filings may be obtained, without charge, by directing a request to Halliburton Investor Relations, 14651 Dallas Parkway, Suite 800, Dallas, TX 75254, or at www.sec.gov. Use of Non-GAAP Financial Measures In addition to the Company's presentation of its results of operations in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ( GAAP ), the Company has also presented certain measures of its performance which are not determined in accordance with GAAP. These non-GAAP financial measures include the presentation of its debt on a net-of-cash basis, EBITDA and Adjusted EBITDA, which excludes a gain on debt restructuring in fiscal 2007, a goodwill impairment charge in fiscal 2009 and impairment charges associated with an asset held for sale in fiscal years 2009 and 2010. The Company uses Adjusted EBITDA internally to monitor the Company's operating results and cash flow and to evaluate the performance of its businesses. The Company believes that the presentation of Adjusted EBITDA provides useful information and is an important indicator of the Company's ability to generate cash sufficient to reduce debt, declare and pay dividends, make strategic investments, meet capital expenditures and working capital requirements and otherwise meet its obligations as they become due. The items excluded from Adjusted EBITDA are significant components in understanding and assessing the Company's financial performance. In addition, although the Company analyzes its debt position internally on a net-of-cash basis, GAAP permits such an offsetting presentation of these amounts only in limited circumstances. The non-GAAP measures are provided as supplemental information and should be considered in addition to, and not as a substitute for, such GAAP measures as the Company's debt balances, its net income or loss, cash flow provided by or used in operating, investing or financing activities, and other measures of financial performance and liquidity reported in accordance with GAAP. Because these non-GAAP financial measures are not calculated in accordance with GAAP, companies typically calculate them in varying ways. Therefore, the non-GAAP financial measures, as presented by the Company, may not be comparable to similarly titled measures of other companies 39
