Item 2.06 Material Impairments

On February 17, 2009, the Company issued a press release reporting its preliminary results for the second quarter of fiscal 2009. In the release the Company stated that it expected to incur a non-cash goodwill impairment charge for the quarter. This charge results from an interim test for impairment prompted by a sustained reduction in the Company's market capitalization compared to the book value of shareholders' equity. The interim testing included a reassessment of a number of valuation assumptions, including customer spending in the current economic environment. The Company is in the process of completing its impairment analysis and the charge is expected to be between $85 and $105 million on a pre-tax basis. This range is based on management's best estimates at this time and the actual charge will be determined upon completion of its impairment analysis. This charge will not affect the Company's operating cash flow.
